The unscrupulously enterprising Winnipeg journalist, who proposed sending out for United States consumption news derogatory of Canada, may well have got his idea from the Conservative members of Parliament, who systematically and as a policy slander Canada by asserting that the leading statesmen, whom Canada delights to honour, are separationists and disloyal to the Empire.

The London (Eng.) Standard, in referring to the passing of the Naval bill, at Ottawa, says: "It would be highly improper to criticise the domestic arrangements of a patriotic and self-governing state. The essential point for the present is the creation of a navy by the overseas states, and they have undertaken their new responsibilities none too soon." What would the good Tory Standard have said if Canada had taken the Conservative advice to still further delay the beginning of a navy, by submitting the proposal to the delay that would result from a plebiscite?

Brother Brown preaching the sermon. All the members of the above lodges and visiting brethren are asked to meet in the Oddfellows' Hall the same evening, at 6.15 o'clock.

'ROUND THE STORES

Richard Hall & Son have prepared an unusual bargain feast for Saturday shoppers al lover their big bright store. A careful reading of their newsy four-column advertisement in this evening's Examiner, should prove advantageous to ladies who pursue economy with good judgment. This bustling store was never so ready for big business. People who want good merchandise and want to buy it from a store that throws in all the good service and appreciation of the people's business it possibly can, will find these conditions fully maintained at Richard Hall & Son's. Mr. Ross, who devotes most particular attention to the carpets, rugs, curtains and draperies, states that the business has been running away ahead of all former records. The sale of large room rugs, especially, was never so large.

Advertising, like Allah, helps the man who helps himself. Mr. E. N. McWilliams, who claims a cinch on "the spot for good values," in hats and furs, is out with a special delivery of his own. It's a unique novelty in its way, and Mac emphasizes a fact when he says ..the only way to handle the goods you sell is to deliver it yourself, and not leave it to the mercy and mud of anybody's express rig. "Doll," the pretty little dapple bay Shetland pony may be seen on the streets most any day doing a big horse's duty in front of a closed conveyance of a smart new model, built on handsome lines and making one of the neatest-looking delivery outfits to be seen in a day's travels. Mr. McWilliams means that all hats or furs from his store will be sent home safely as well as promptly.

Do your feet hurt? When you shoes hurt your feet, do you "say things"? Well don't do it any more—there's a better way to get relief. The "Model" shoe, sold by the City Footwear Co., 174 Charlotte street, is one of those delightfully fitting shoes which makes you feel at peace with all men. They are made in comfortable lasts for ladies as well as for men.

The Golden Lion is also holding a second opening display of millinery novelties consisting of new summer styles and fore-runners of the advancing season.

Men have a chance to save money on their new sporting suit this week at H. LeBrun & Co.'s. While in Montreal last week, Mr. LeBrun secured a snap from a manufacturer, which enables the firm to offer a clear saving of two dollars on any of the suits mentioned.

"Good morning, Mr. Bradshaw: how's business?"

"Call me Harry, and I'll just whisper in your ear that business with me never was better!"

That's the kind of greeting you're likely to get from Harry Bradshaw, the busy grocer, fruit dealer and fishmonger, on the corner of Charlotte and Downie streets. Mr. Bradshaw has just been three years in business, and one can tell at a glance that he hasn't been losing money. He excels in the fruit line. In reply to an enquiry, he stated that he can easily retail thirty large boxes of California Navel oranges in a month. That's "going some" for a little corner grocery.

There seems to be no branch of business developing more steadily than that for meeting the increasing demand for dairy supplies. Alderman G. A. Gillespie must have seen the chance of a lifetime when he took advantage of the special opening, which presented itself in Peterborough, and decided to give up his interest in the grocery trade to open out dairy headquarters in the city. The past few weeks have proved the wisdom of his decision; for, since opening his new store on Simcoe street, he has met with success beyond his expectations.

To those people who think it false economy to pay out the hard cash when offered credit, the Canadian Furnishing Co. of this city hold out good inducements. They advertise easy weekly payments on men's and women's ready-to-wear clothing, house furnishings, rugs, and other goods. Your pocket book gets off easy every time, because you are only taxed a dollar or two each week for what you buy. If you are strapped for money, you can always pay on instalments at the Canadian Furnishing Co., Charlotte street.

When your house needs painting every day's delay costs you money. The sun, rain or snow and frost are getting in their work. Lumber costs too much to let it decay for want of a little paint. It costs less to use paint than to go without it. The Peterborough Hardware Co. will figure how much you need to cover any desired area. They guarantee first-class paint, made with pure white lead, and at moderate prices, considering the grade of material.

The Peterborough Music Co., 404 George street, are making needed improvements in their ware-rooms, in order to keep pace with their growing business. While the work is in progress, they offer some exceptionally fine bargains, in order to clear the floors. Upright pianos are advertised at from $50 to $237, and organs from $15 to $67, and on easy terms of payment. These prices and terms ought to clear the floors in double-quick order.

The announcement is made in to-day's Examiner that the firm of "Daylight" Clothiers, Messrs. Lang & Maher, have dissolved partnership. After an active business record, Mr. Joseph Maher has found it necessary to retire from the firm, for the benefit of his health. Mr. Maher has many friends, who will hope soon to see him restored to his old-time vigour. The new firm will be known as J. T. C. Lang & Co., with the label "The Daylight Store." Owing to the change in the firm, a dissolution sale begins to-morrow. The whole stock has been marked at sacrificing figures; and as the goods are this season's newest creations in clothing and furnishings, the advantages are apparent. Read the half-page advertisement in another column for particulars.

Play ball! And if you want to be well equipped for the game, visit the sporting goods section of Trebilcock Bros., successors to A. H. Stratton & Co. The Peterborough Bookstore is bound to keep up its old-time reputation for correct sporting goods. If any one has doubts on this score a glance at the north window of the store will suffice. The display of balls, bats, gloves, and other requisites should make any one feel like getting into the game. In their department for western decoration of homes, Trebilcock Bros. are showing some exclusive novelties in fine wall papers, much below regular prices: Also select designs in new baby cabs, and other juvenile rigs. Read their advt.

The store news from the Turnbull Co. has been decidedly interesting all this week. The steady, persistent efforts that this store maintains to keep its service second to none, and to keep its stocks up to a standard of completeness equal to large metropolitan establishments, is praiseworthy. Ladies looking around Turnbull's find it a means to a broad shopping education. It is also a means to a better realization of the splendid economies that can be effected by shopping here. April rains have not dampened the ardour of shoppers, who have been busy all week in the various departments of the store. A bumper day's business is expected on Saturday, as the firm have bought large quantities of seasonable goods, at prices which enable them to offer splendid inducements to purchasers.

Mr. J. D. Tully, druggist, is attracting public attention to a new line of toilet requisites. Such articles as tooth brushes are selling about one-half ordinary prices. The wear and durability of these special brushes are demonstrated in their show window, where heavy weights are suspended from the brushes to showthat they don't pull out. See advt.

Torontos Lose Opening Game Were Beaten 2-1 By Providence

Vaughn and Shaw Starred for the Leafs—Roch's Two-Bagger in the Fourth Won for the Grays.

McGINLEY PITCHED

Providence, R.I., April 21.—(Special.)—A crowd of over 14,000, which completely filled the local baseball grounds, turned out to-day to see the Greys open the season with Toronto. At the end of an exciting game, in which both teams had men on bases in almost every inning, the Grays pulled out ahead with a 2 to 1 victory. Rock's two-bagger in the fourth, which scored Elston and Collins, did the trick.

Cronin and McGinley, the two veterans, did the honours in the box, and both were a little wild, passing a number of men, but both showed strength in the pinches. Both twirlers had the bases filled or men on second and third and pulled through without a run. Cronin did slightly the better work, allowing but five hits, while the Grays garnered eight off the delivery of McGinley.

Vaughn and Shaw did the best work for the Leafs, getting three of the five hits and stealing three bases between them. Vaughn stole second in the first session and Shaw pinched second and third in succession in the second, displaying great speed on the sacks. Shaw copped off two hits, but neither counted in the scoring.

The Leafs slipped over their run in the second. Shaw walked and stole second and third. Deal popped up a high foul fly which Peterson got after a hard run. Cronin hit Mullin, Vandergrift hit to Collins, who tossed Miller out at second. Atz slammed the ball at Courtney in an attempt to make it a double, and the pill rolled in to the crowd, Shaw scoring. Collins then made a great stop and threw and threw our McGinley.

The Grays scored in the fourth inning. Elston was passed and Hoffman laid down a neat sacrifice. Collins also drew a pass. Courtney flied to left and Rock slammed a great double between Delehanty and Shaw, scoring Elston and Collins. Peterson grounded to Mullin.

The Leafs started off well in the fifth inning, when McDonald doubled down the third base line and Delehanty at second and threw to Courtney at first, getting Grimshaw. Shaw fanned.

A great play by Collins saved the day for the Grays in the eighth. After Delehanty had gone out, Grimshaw got a life when Hoffman dropped his high one. Shaw slammed one to centre for a base and Deal walked, filling the corners. With only one down and three on bases it looked good for the Leafs to at least tie the score. Mullin droped the ball in front of the plate and Grimshaw was forced at the plate. Vandergift then came up and sent a sizzler grounder past third. Collins made a leap for the ball, got it, jumped for the bag, fell and rolled over and touched it, just as Shaw reached there. Shaw was declared out on the play, but the decision was close.

A band furnished the music during the game, and Mayor Fletcher threw the first ball. The score:

BASEBALL

Archer and Kling will alternate behind the bat for Chicago. Johnny will find that the Toronto boy is a player who cannot very well decorate the bench.

Blackburn, the ex-shortstop of Providence, now with H. Duffy's White Sox, up to date has not shown any of his 1909 form.

Otis Johnson, the new Highlander, is showing some fine work with the stick.

George Brown has a bad leg and is not able to report to the Washington Club.

Jimmy Barrett, the ancient big leaguer, is prancing around the Milwaukee field like a colt.

The Philadelphia Americans and Nationals broke even in the inter-club series, each team winning three games.

The Philadelphia Nationals may change their training camp from Southern Pines to Asheville next spring.

Pete Lister has been sent to Chattanooga by Detroit. He played with the Williamsport, Pa., team last spring.

The Boston Americans have sent Chester Nourse, the old Brown University pitcher, to the Sacramento, Calif., club.

Manager Collins of the Province team, has released Claude Ritchie, the former Pittsburg-Boston second baseman.

Jack O'Connor's first four Brownie batters, Demmitt, Hoffman, Fisher and Hartzell, are all left-handed hitters.

Willie Delehanty, member of the famous baseball family, has been sold by the Wilkesbarre club to the Waterbury, Conn., club.

George Stone has signed his contrate with the St. Louis Browns, and will look after the left field for the O'Connor tribe again this season.

The Columbus O., club officials will not book the Chicago Cubs for exhibition games in the future. The Cubs have visited Columbus twice in recent years, and each time caused a riot by attacking an umpire. "Never again," says Christopher.

Choynski Only Man To Knock Out Jack Johnson

Joe Choynski, hero of a hundred battles in the squared ring, will be in charge of James J. Jeffries throughout the period of training on the next great battle for the heavyweight championship at Emeryville, Cal., July 4th.

Choynski will not take charge of the training camp — he will take charge of Jeffries. That is a distinction with a difference. The blond wonder, who in his day scored the only knockout recorded against Jack Johnson and fought a 20-round draw with Jeffries, will be as the real man behind the man behind the punch.

And it isn't stretching facts a bit to say that Jeffries couldn't have chosen more wisely. They don't make them any better than Choynski when it comes to conditioning a man for battle. He is in a class by himself, just as he was beating the best of them and giving away pounds of weight.

"I will be Jeff's sparring partner," Choynski says, "and I expect to have the last word concerning his training. Jeffries wants me because of my long experience, and as he says, 'because Choynski is always willing to stand up and fight.'"

Not many 165 pound men would be willing to stand up in front of 235-pound Jim Jeffries and swap punches. But that's what Joe Choynski is going to do. That's just what he did all the time he was in the ring—give away pounds to almost every man he met—and he met the biggest and the best of them.

"Of course," said Choynski (pronounce it "Co-inski please, not Choy-inski). "I don't intend to stand still and let Jeff whale me. I expect to take advantage of my skill as a boxer. But dont' forget that big Jim Jeff is some boxer. Anyone who thinks he is short on the scientific end of the game has another thought or two to take.

"However, I believe that by boxing daily with me, Jeffries will improve his present form, good as it is. I have always been regarded as a fast, scientific boxer nd naturally my ability will be of considerable help to the big fellow."

As a matter of fact Choynski will superintend Jeffries' training. He will say how much work shall be done each day. He will see that danger of Jeffries going stale is avoided, and that only work beneficial to the boiler maker is indulged in.

Summed up Choynski will be Jim Jeffries' mentor from the day he reaches Rowardennan until the fight is ended. He has been retained at a fancy price and he is worth every cent he gets, in the opinion of the fight fans who are following Jeffries' training closely.

Longboat May Help To Train Jim Jeffries

There is a chance that while Tom Flanagan is looking after Jack Johnson's road work, Jim Jeffries will be tearing off miles over the roads near his camp with Tom Longboat as pacemaker. When Jeffries was in Toronto last summer he became a warm friend of Longboat's, and at the time told Tom that he would like to have him in his camp when he started to train. To-day Sol Mintz received a letter from Sam Berger saying that he would like to have the Oonondaga at the camp, and he wants Sol to notify him as to whether Longboat would go or not. Sol is willing, providing Jeffries makes the right inducements, and it would not be surprising to see Sol and the Indian taking a train west within a very short time.

Sol has had several offers to take Longboat to the Pacific Coast to meet some of the big professional runners in a series of races, and if he joins Jeffries it is likely that he will have several important races out there. Mintz feels that if Longboat was with Jeffries' staff of trainers that he would settle down to hard training and that he would soon get back to his old form again. As things are now, the Indian will not train the way he should, and the only time he will get busy is when Sol is with him. Mintz has written to Berger stating his terms, and expects to know definitely within a week or two whether he will go or not.

TWEED JURY SAYS MASTERS' WAS SHOT BY UNKNOWN PERSON

Special to The Examiner.

Tweed, April 21.— The investigation into the circumstances surrounding the death of William Masters which occurred on the 8th instant, was continued here to-day. Increased public interest was manifested in the affair, and the great crowd that filled the Town Hall sat patiently throughout the proceedings. No evidence of a sensational character was brought out. The Crown officials patiently and persistently set themselves the task of weaving about the principal characters a network of evidence sufficiently strong to warrant a conviction. The evidence to a great extent was pretty much a repetition of what has already been given. The threats of one kind and another made by Parker apparently have been many, and evidently the Crown counts much upon these to help out their case. So far no witness has been produced who saw Parker carrying a gun that morning, and this point was noted by one of the jurymen. According to the story of the detectives Parker's house was a fair sized arsenal. There were said to be, besides the revolver and rifle that was previously produced, a shotgun, and Mrs. Parker exhibited to Detective Miller a six-shooter revolver, with all its chambers loaded, which she said she kept for her own protection. She said she was thinking of getting a newer and better one.

At the investigation to-day, Mr. Carnew of Belleville appeared in the interests of Parker. Mr. Parker's son John of the Northwest is also here. Parker has two other sons in the west, and all are said to be in excellent circumstances. John feels the situation keenly, but is satisfied his father has been unjustly accused, and no legitimate effort or expense will be spared in the defence.

Harry Coulter testified that he and his brother, Addison, were called down to where Masters' body lay about ten o'clock. He heard one shot that morning; it was a sharp report and happened between 9.30 and 10. It was about an hour before he was called to Masters' body.

Wesley Badgely heard one shot that morning about 10 o'clock. It sounded like a rifle shot. He was about half a mile southeast of Chapman's Corners. By the sound the shot appeared to be north of him. The shot seemed to have been fired in the direction of where the body was found.

Addison Coulter saw Masters' body about 9.30 that morning coming down the road. He was going to gather wood, and turned east on the side road. It was shortly before 9 that morning when he left home to go to the field. The barn and a grove of woods were between him and where the body was found. It was a sharp report, as of a rifle. He never saw Parker that day. It was close to 10 o'clock when he heard the shot. About 20 or 25 minutes to 11 Mr. Countryman called over, telling him that Masters was shot.

James Leonard, who lives in the township of Marmora, was driving towards Stoco on the day of the shooting. He had a gun that day when he was on Mayner's bridge. Two men, Eggleston and Emmerson, were with him. He fired one shot into the water. Had a 38-55 Marlin rifle. He fired another shot at Mr. Coulter's barn that morning at 8.30 and hit it. Heard no shots that morning but his. On Tuesday or Wednesday before the shooting he was talking to Robt. Parker. He was telling of a row he had with the Masterses, and said if he had had his gun along he would have shot the two of them.

Inspector Miller on Sunday, April 10, saw Parker and warned him about talking. He said he had no statement to make. He added: "These Masterses are bad people; they have been a trouble to me for a long time." He said he got up and had breakfast about 8 o'clock, leaving for the post-office, got his papers, and read these till he started for Tweed. He said he went direct to the post office and directly home by the road, and came directly by the road into Tweed. He said he had one firearm, a 44-55, and he had not used it that morning, and had not for some time. He saw the Coulter boys in the field and said hello to them on his way back from the post office. He said that it was at his brother-in-law's, Mr. Ferguson's, that he had heard of the shooting, and that was the first time he heard of a warrant ebing out for him. The officer found the revolver and rifle at his home. He did not think the revolver had been fired for some time; the rifle was in good condition. There are six grooves to the barrel of Parker's rifle; there are also six impressions on the bullet, corresponding to the grooves in his rifle. He examined the scene of the tragedy, saw the footprints and examined them. He took the shoes worn by Parker had fitted them into those tracks and they corresponded exactly. The heel especially, showed very distinctly. The tracks were pointed out by Constable Sedore. They were about half the length of the courtroom. The footprints were on the right side of the body, and at an angle a little south and east.

William Henderson heard Parker threaten Masters. This was on July 11 last, and occurred at the Bay of Quinte bridge over the west branch.

Mr. N. Birks, teller in the Bank of Montreal, said Parker was in the bank on Friday, April 8. He came in to draw his money. His money was there for about six years. He came about 11 o'clock. He drew out the whole of his account; it amounted to $100.90. He said he did not expect he would be back again.

The jury were not long in arriving at their decision, which was as follows: "That the said William Masters was found dead on the 8th day of April, 1910, and his death was caused, we believe, by a bullet which passed through his heart, and that the said wound was not self-inflicted, but the shot was fired by the hand of some person or persons unknown to us."

Parker will be brought here from Belleville jail on Thursday next and given his preliminary hearing.

DAILY MAIL SERVICE

Byersville, the community just outside the city limits, at the south-west boundary, has been granted daily mail service, the post master, Mr. W. J. Byers having received notice of that change. Hitherto the office has received mail only three times a week. Hon. Mr. Stratton has taken up the matter with the department with the result that a daily service will be inaugurated at once.

CONSTANTINOPLE.

Turkish Capital Is a Disappointment From Inside.

I suppose there is no more beautiful city from the outside and no more disheartening city from the inside than Constantinople. From the outside it is all fairyland and enchantment. From the inside it is all grime and wretchedness. Viewed from entrance of the Bosphorus, through the haze of morning, it is a vision.

Viewed from a carriage driven through the streets it becomes a nightmare. If one only might see it as we did—at sunrise, with the minarets and domes rising from the foliage, all aglow with the magic morning—and could be willing then to sail away from that dream spectacle, his hunger unsatisfied, he would hold at least one supreme illusion in his heart.

For that is wrat it is—just an illusion—the most superb fantasy in the whole world, writes Albert Bigelow Paine in Outing Magazine. We left anchorage soon after sunrise and moved over abreast of Galata, a little below the bridge that crosses the Golden Horn and connects this part of Constantinople with Stamboul. We are lying now full length against the street, abreast of it, where all day long a soiled, disordered life goes on. It is a perpetual show, but hardly a pleasing one. It is besmirched and raucous, it is wretched.

Hawkers, guides, beggars, porters, weave in and out and mingle vociferously. To leave the ship is to be assailed from every side. Across the street is a row of coffee houses where unholy music and singing keep up most of the time. Also, there are dogs, scores of them—a wolfish breed—and they are seldom silent. This is the reverse of the picture. As the outside is fairyland, so this is inferno.

We battled our way to our carriages and drove across the bridge to Stamboul. Perhaps it would be better there. But that was a mistake—it was worse. We entered some narrow, thronging streets—a sort of general market I should say—that fairly reeked with offal. We saw presently that nearly everybody wore rubbers, or stilted shoes—that is, wooden sandal things with two or three inches of heel and sole—and we understood why; it was to lift them out of the filth. I have had dreams where, whichever way I turned, lay ordure and corruption, with no way out on any side. A passenger of our party—a lady—said afterward about the scenes we witnessed:

"When we drove through those streets I felt as if I had died and gone to hell."

Yet, on the whole, I think hell would be cleaner. I am sure it would not smell so. I have no special preference for brimstone, but I would have welcomed it as we drove through those Constantinople streets. I know what they smell like; I can describe it exactly; they smell like a garbage can.

Not the average garbage can—fairly fresh and leading the busy life—but an old, opulent, tired garbage can—one that has been filled up and overlooked, in August. Now and then at home a can like that gets into the garbage wagon, and when that wagon comes along the street on a still summer morning it arrests attention. I have seen strong men turn pale and lovely women totter when that can went by.

It would have no distinction in Constantinople. The whole city is just one vast garbage can, and old—so old—why, for a thousand years or more they have been throwing stuff into the streets for the dogs to eat up, and the dogs can't eat some things, and so—

Never mind; enough is enough; but if I ever get home, and if ever I want to recall vividly this vision of the East, I shall close my eyes when that garbage wagon drives by, and once more the panorama—panorama, I mean—of these thronging streets will unfold; I shall be transported once more to the heart of this busy city; I shall see again all the outlandish dress, all the strange faces, all the mosques and minarets, all the magic of the Orient, and I shall say, "This is it—this is the spicy East—this is Constantinople—Allah is indeed good!"

It was at the entrance of the mosque of St. Sophia—a filthy entrance through a sort of an alley—that we heard our first cry of "Backsheesh!"—a plaintive cry from a pretty, pathetic little girl who clung to us and called it over and over like the cry of a soul being dragged to perdition—"Back-shee-e-sh! Back-she-e-esh!" a long, drawn-out wail.

Not one of us who would not have given her freely had we not known that to do so would be to touch off the cyclone—the cloud of vultures hovering in the outskirts. One's heart grows hard in the East; it has to.

Embarrassing.

Mrs. A.—What's the matter with Mrs. DeStyle? She looks the picture of embarrassment. Mrs. Z.—No wonder. Her little boy used all her old love letters to make the tail of his kite, and they came down in a neighbor's yard.

RETROSPECT SERVICE

Annual Sunday School Service at Murray Street Church on Sunday.

On Sunday morning next the annual Sunday school service of Murray St. church, will be held. This year one most attractive feature of the service will be the singing of the Sunday schoolh ymns of long ago. The school orchestra will be present and some former superintendents will take part in the srvice. The following are the hymns to be used. While these titles are familior to those who were in Sunday school a quarter of a century ago, they are quite new to the children of to-day:

"In the Christian's home in glory"
"Around the throne of God in heaven."
"There is a happy land."
"I'll away I'll away to the promised land."
"Here we suffer grief and pain."

There is no doubt but what the capacity of the building will be taxed to accommodate those who will be anxious to participate in this unique service. The subject of the day will be "The past and the present."

MOTION PICTURES MADE IN CANADA BY A CANADIAN

Toronto is going to have a moving picture film plant, and John Griffin, father of the moving picture industry in Canada, is the promoter. It is stated that Mr. Griffin, as soon as he can gather together the necessary staff of workmen will begin operations at once. It is his intention to install a permanent stock company, to produce the most popular plays for the purpose of being "filmed." These films will be used in his own houses in Toronto and other cities, and he will also supply most of the other towns in Canada. For the past month he has had an agent canvassing the larger towns closing contracts, and with so much success, that he considers the time is now ripe for moving picture men to cease paying duties to the Canadian Government. It is understood Mr. Griffin will also supply the out-of-town houses with their vaudeville acts, which will also mean a saving in railroad fares.

The Royal Theatre is supplied by the Griffin circuit, and patrons of the Royal are assured of first class vaudeville.

STEAMER WATER LILY FOR LAKES TO-MORROW

The steamer "Water Lily," Captain W. ENGLISH JOURNAL REFERS TO CANADIAN IMMIGRATION

(From the London Daily Mail.)

The rush to Canada grows greater each week, and the first three months of 1910 have left far behind similar periods of the former record years of 1907 and 1908. Many of the Transatlantic steamers are now filled up for weeks ahead, and some have a large proportion of their berths engaged into well on in the summer.

The emigration this year is markedly different from that of previous seasons. The high figures of 1907 were in part made up by the considerable numbers of unemployed despatched by boards of guardians and local committees. The experiment of sending these men out was not found satisfactory. More than one board of guardians cleared out its most hopeless and troublesome inmates, glad to get rid of them at a cost of £10 or so a head.

Numbers of unemployed town workmen suddenly transferred to the West found themselves wholly unadapted to the life there. The wastrels of 1907 gave British immigrants a bad name in many parts of the West, from which they have not yet wholly recovered. It is only fair to say in this connection that the assisted immigration by some leading philanthropic organizations, such as the Salvation Army, was not responsible for this. Care was taken by experienced agencies in selecting the men, which was not done by many public authorities.

The wholesale exodus of the unemployed was finally stopped by the Dominion Government. The tendency in Canada is now to make conditions more stringent each year for the arrival of semi-pauper labour. The new regulations that immigrants must have £5 a head for the father and £2 10s a head for other members of the family after the first is a sign of this.

The Wider Opportunity.

The emigrants this year are of another type. Numbers of them are travelling second class, and there is even a considerable sprinkling of first-class passengers going out to make homes in the West. Public school boys, business men with money, professional men, and others who have made a success in the Motherland, but who believe that the new West presents them with a wider field of trade—all these are strongly represented. In short the emigration from England to Canada is more resembling the kind that America is now pouring northward.

The large amount of correspondence that reaches The Daily Mail Canadian Page demonstrates in itself the kind of people who are going out. School teachers, young professional women, a doctor with a capital of £1,000, practical countrymen who believe that their capital would yield more in Alberta than in Dorset or Cheshire, keen young shopkeepers, make up a large proportion of the inquirers.

At the same time it cannot be too clearly stated that the main demand in Canada to-day is not for professional men, nor even for business men, but for manual workers willing to go on the land or able to undertake heavy constructional work. Mechanics are in great request, particularly mechanics who really understand their trades. The call for domestic servants is more acute than ever. But above all men are wanted on the land.

Labourers Wanted.

The demand for farm labour in the western provinces is greater than ever experienced before at this season of the year. The Commissioner of Immigration at Winnipeg states that the situation in the three western provinces can best be described as desperate. Men are required in all parts of the country by hundreds. Ten thousand experienced farm labourers would not supply the present demand. Others, who are in a position to know, say that from 15,000 to 18,000 good men could find employment at high wages. As spring advances this demand will increase in urgency, and extraordinary steps will be taken to procure farm labour.

Agents will, no doubt, be sent to Winnipeg to meet the incoming trains. The estimates given do not include the numbers required for railway or other work. The railway companies will require thousands of men for construction work during the year, and where they are to be found it is impossible to say. Officials of the C. P. R. recently conferred with government officials respecting the matter, and the situation is regarded as being actually a serious one.

From the West itself accounts continue to arrive of great prosperity. During the first two months of this year the land sales in Manitoba went up over 200 per cent. Big contractors are already refusing to take any more orders, for they have more on hand than they can attend to. The American immigration is still the most marked feature of the situation in the three western provinces. It is said that Americans are moving not merely individually but in entire communities—farmers, professional men, and storekeepers all going en masse and establishing new townships in the Dominion. In New England in particular, the popularity of Canada is growing daily.

furnishing and decorating must necessarily be in a crude state in many homes, such hints should be especially serviceable.

Decoration, like everything else in life, had been and is a matter of perpetual evolution, and its present condition of excellence was the outcome of the experiments and efforts of mankind in past centuries. The influence of the art of the Italian Renaissance and even of ancient Greece, was still noticeable in present day decorative art. An illustration of this was to be seen in the Greek key border design, an example of which was shown. Some authorities hold that this design is taken from a Greek painting representing two figures wrestling, and it was to be noticed that the locked hands of the wrestlers, formed a key.

The fact needed to be emphasized, continued the lecturer, that in order to obtain success in decoration "suitability" of design in the entire furnishings of a room must be attended to. The modern tendency was to surround oneself with all sorts of pretty things, which when crowded together might, and often did, present a most incongruous and unpleasing effect. A room, in fact, should be so decorated and arranged as to appear to lack nothing, and yet not be inconveniently crowded. Lack of originality was sadly noticeable in the outside decorating of many homes. For instance, the hundreds of houses along our main thoroughfares showed absolutely no artistic excellence and whilst they might be monuments to the sordid greed of the contractor or the house owner they were certainly no advertisement of possession of an eye for artistic effect.

The so-called mission style in furniture came in for a certain amount of quiet sarcasm, the lecturer stigmatizing some of the latest examples, as evidences "of a mind diseased." Turning for a minute to ornaments, "there is nothing," he said, "which gives a decorative scheme more strength and interest than hand-work. Hand-work, properly executed, has infinitely more character than machine work, and although we cannot all afford hand-made carpets and papers, we can at any rate, put some individuality into our homes." The common practice of buying wall papers, without considering the aspect of the rooms, the colouring of the furniture, or the carpet, came in also for animadversion. Also the custom of young ladies painting on china and dallying with other crafts, who have never learned the rudiments of drawing, whose dedly work is noticeably in many homes. The lecturer illustrated his ideas throughout with exhibitions of suitable papers and carpets for various rooms such as for a den, a dining room, and a drawing room, and thus enabled his hearers to obtain a very good grasp of the essentials of a refined and comfortable home.

Mr. Wadely and his assistants had evidently gone to considerable trouble to present the various styles and designs before the audience, as the framework was overlaid with layers of borders and papers arranged in such a way as to be removable at short notice.

The further points brought out by Mr. Wadely may be grouped together as follows:

1.—The great mistake of trying to match everything; for instance, rose carpets with rose wall papers, and furniture upholstered in rose, is not likely to be satisfactory.

2.—Ceilings should always be slightly tinted; never a dead white.

3.—A little bit of golden yellow in a green carpet brings sunlight into a room. An entirely green carpet has a tendency to darken it.

The suggestions offered by the lecturer for the various rooms were listened to with the greatest attention, and no doubt very valuable ideas were carried away by those present, which will fructuate in due time in many homese in the city.

Mr. Dumble made a most efficient chairman, and his words of commendation, as well as those of Mr. Mowat and Judge Huycke the mover and seconder of the vote of thanks to the lecturer and the performers, voiced in a thoroughly earnest and hearty manner the great pleasure that had been afforded to the hearers.

OBITUARY

In last evening's edition of this paper a mistake occurred in the time of the late G. I. Roszel's funeral. The funeral will take place at 2 o'clock instead of 2.30 from the family residence, McDonnel St., to the Little Lake cemetery for interment.

Lindsay Man Was Doped And Robbed In Hamilton

Special to The Examiner.

Hamilton, April 21.—Another case of being stranded in a strange city was reported, when F. J. Willis, a native of Lindsay, claimed that he had been set on and robbed of a watch and all he had in his possession—$30. The unfortunate man had the same old story to unfold of meeting a bunch of jolly fellows and being put to sleep, and then relieved of his belongings. It seems that shortly after his arrival in this city Willis started in to fill up the flowing bowl, and during his rounds he came into contact with just such a gang as is continually hanging about, and it did not take the members of it long to discover that Willis had a little loose change.

According to the story told by Willis his beverages were "doped", which caused him to take a trip to slumberland. When he was dreaming of the fine time that was ahead of him in the Ambitious city the thieves got in their fine work, and when he awoke he was minus his time-piece and money. The first thing the unfortunate man did was to find his way to police headquarters and tell his story. And though there are no clues to work on the police are making a thorough investigation.

The steamer "Otonabee" will leave the Wolf Street Wharf Saturday at 3.45 p.m. acting as an escort to the "Bessie Butler" which will convey his Excellency the Governor General on an inspection of the Lift Lock. His Excellency will be shown the steamer "Otonabee" and passengers working through the Litt Lock. Both boats will then proceed to Nassau and return. This will afford a pleasant outing for those who wish to avail themselves of the opportunity of seeing our Governor General.

"DECORATIVE ART" SUBJECT OF INTERESTING ADDRESS

Mr. Harold Wadely's Talk Before Women's Art Association Last Night Was Instructive and Thoroughly Appreciated.

A MUSICAL PROGRAMME

The Women's Art Association of Peterborough has done much already towards turning the thoughts of the citizens to higher ideals in home culture and a keener perception of the beautiful, and in obtaining the consent of Mr. Harold Wadely to lecture on Decorative Art in the Home, they provided a treat which will linger long in the memories of those who heard it. But the lecture was only one delightful part in a programme of unusual merit. Peterborough audiences having been present at many entertainments, good, bad, and indifferent, but rarely indeed has an audience had the good fortune to listen to such a galaxy of talent, as was embodied in the persons of Mrs. Wadely, Miss Choate and Miss Hallihan. We cannot call to mind, at any rate from recent years, having listened to an elocutionist, possessed of such undoubted ability as Mrs. Wadely. Recitations, grave or gay, presented no difficulties to her. She gave both with consummate ease and a sweetness of enunciation that captivated her hearers. It was Mrs. Wadely's first appearance before a Peterborough audience, and it is to be hoped that she may be often induced to render such a delightful service as she so ungrudgingly performed last night. Miss Choate and Miss Hallihan, are so well known to music lovers in Peterborough that little need be said in regard to their performance, save that they sustained their reputation nobly, and were repeatedly encored. Both ladies are prime favourites in a sphere that is ever widening, and it calls for no great stretch of imagination to predict that they are destined in a short space of time to bring great honour and renown to their native town.

It is impossible, with the small space at our command to do adequate justice to the lecture. It was instructive, humorous, and illuminating. Not every instructive lecture is illuminating, and that is why we have employed both adjectives.

Mr. Wadely asked the audience to take into consideration that in a subject embracing so wide a range it would be impossible to do more than furnish a few salient facts and hints for them to work on. In a new country, like Canada, where the art of

WAS ARRESTED

St. Catharines, April 23—Albert Robinson, 62 years old, a clerk in the Russell House, was charged in the police court this morning with having attempted to commit indecent assault upon the twelve-year-old daughter of the late A. S. Martin, former well-known newspaper man of Peterborough, Kingston, and Toronto. Robinson says he is innocent of the charge and was remanded until Monday. The alleged offence took place in a lane in the business section of the city.

Australian Critic Enthuses Over Singing Of Miss McCann

To all lovers of Irish and Scottish song a rare treat presents itself. It may be the opportunity of a lifetime. In Australia, England, Scotland, Canada and the United States, wherever Miss Margaret McCann has appeared, enthusiasm has run wild over her rendering of Irish and Scottish song. Listed to what the "Age," Melbourne, has to say of her:

"Miss Margaret McCann, who is about to leave Australia, is taking a bold step. Judging from the amount of support accorded her at her benefit concert in the Town Hall, on Tuesday evening, there are almost no limits in Melbourne to the degree of appreciation vouchsafed and vouchsafable to the skilful singer of Scottish ballads. Is she then going to a land where these things are better appreciated than they are here? For the idea seems simply impossible. That, however, is her own concern; ours is that in losing her, our local Scots are losing one who has always been successful in giving them the keenest of pleasure. So let us take off our hats to Miss Margaret McCann, and aver—as we do in good faith—that her arch delivery of 'Doun the Burn, Davie,' will take a lot of beating, in the States or elsewhere. On the whole the affair proved one of the most successful events of its kind that has ever been held in the town hall"

Miss McCann will sing at the opening of the new T. A. S. hall on Wednesday and Thursday, April 27th and 28th. All seats reserved. The plan for both evenings will open on Monday morning at Mr. Lynch's drug store. Tickets 50c. and $1.00.

HENS TRYING TO BREAK RECORD

Mr. H. Edmonson, 566 Weller St., is the possessor of a monstrosity that is arousing a great deal of interest. It is in the form of an exceedingly large hen's egg. The egg measures seven and a half by eight and a half inches. It certainly is some egg and the kind that one does not see these days selling at twenty-five cents a dozen.

INSTANTLY KILLED

Owen Sound, April 22.—Geo. Boyd, aged 35, brakesman, of the C. P. R., was instantly killed at Chatsworth, this morning, while coupling cars. He was a married man, and had moved to Owen Sound from Toronto, only a week ago.

PRACTICE TO-NIGHT

The West End Club of the Senior City Baseball League will practice to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Riverside Park and a full attendance of every member of the club is expected to be on hand sharp on time. The West Ends have been given permision to use the grounds between 2 and 4 o'clock, after which the Strathconas will practise.

All players who will be with the Strathconas this season are asked to turn out in uniform to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock at Riverside Park. The Commissioners will work out at the conclusion of the West Ends' through the kind permission of the park owners.

FEARED PARALYSIS

Mr. F. A. Kruts, Schwartz, Que., writes, "For one year I was a complete nervous wreck, could not rest or sleep, had indigestion and terrible headaches and constantly feared paralysis. Six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food made me well and strong. There is no treatment in the world so good as this for building up the nervous system."

A Short Story.

"Is this the counter where I come to open an account in this savings bank?"

"Yes, ma'am, it is. You want to open an account?"

"Yes, I do. I was reading the other day how much five dollars would amount to if put in a savings bank and kept there fifty years with all the interest that would accrue and it was a perfect revelation to me. One of my friends was telling me about fifty dollars her father put in the savings bank for her the day she was born, and I forgot how much it has come to now, but it's a lot. If I'd had any idea that money increased so fast in a savings bank I would have had an account long ago, for I could have added a dollar or two now and then just as well as not. I think that it is no doubt true that an account in a bank has a tendency to make one cultivate habits of thrift, but I don't know that I want to be as thrifty as some and get into the habit of hoarding money just for its own sake. My husband has an old aunt who fairly denies herself the necessities of life in order to put money in the bank, and not a chick or child to save for. I said to her the other day when she was at our home, 'Aunt Mary,' I said, 'why don't you—'"

"Do you want to open your account to-day?"

"Oh, yes; I have brought the money with me. I suppose that you receive money any day, or is it only on certain days that you receive deposits?"

"Every day."

"I didn't know. My husband has a bank account, but I never had one before and I don't know much about banking. I know that my husband is always talking about his bank account being 'overdrawn,' and now and then he sends out a check without signing his name to it. He says that is to 'gain time,' but it is all Greek to me. I might as well own up that I don't know a thing about banking and yet I have always thought that it must be awfully interesting. We had a speaker before a club I belong to tell us all about banking, but I don't believe that any of us were any wiser when he got through than when he began. We did. think he was very courteous for he laughed right out at some of the questions the ladies asked him. Seemed to think it awfully funny because one lady asked him if you couldn't draw checks just as long as you had any left in your check book. I don't see what good a check book is if—you give check books, don't you?"

"No, savings banks never do."

"They don't? Then how am I going to get my money out. I know that my husband just sits down and writes a check any time he wants to pay a bill. Sometimes he tells the person he is sending it to not to present it for payment until a week or so after he sends it. I suppose that is to give the bank plenty of time to raise the money. I don't know anything about it, but I supposed that all banks gave you a check book. I have to draw my money in person? I do? Supposing I was sick. I suppose that then I could send my servant girl or some one else with a note to you and it would be all right, wouldn't it? It wouldn't? I don't see why not."

"There are some questions you will have to answer before you can open an account at all. What was your father's name?"

"My father's name? What under the sun has that to do with me opening an account here? His name was Robert Randolph Winslow. He was descended from the Winslows who came over in the Mayflower and we have at home a chair that we feel almost sure came over in the Mayflower and one of my sisters has an old plate that we think was his. I think I could belong to the Society of Colonial Dames if I wanted to, but I have never cared very much for those things. Three of my ancestors were in the War of the Revolution, and we have an old gun that one of my ancestors carried at the Battle of Bunker Hill. My sister has joined the D. A. R., but I never cared to belong even to that. My father could remember hearing his great-great-uncle tell about—"

"What was your mother's name?"

"Do you have to know that, too? Well, if banking isn't funny business. My mother's name was Margaret Ellen Upperson, and her ancestors came over as early as 1650. They settled somewhere in Connecticut and one of them had thirteen children. You know what large families they had in those days. I think that a large family is nice if one has the means to take care of them and they are all well and all that, but all the conditions of life and society are so different now from what they were in the days of the Pilgrims and the Puritans that a family of two children now is about equal to a family of fifteen two hundred years ago. Housekeeping was not so complicated then and children did not expect to have so much done for them. I often think that—"

"Where were you born?"

"Does that have to go into my bank account? If that isn't funny! Why, I was born in Buffalo, N.Y. My mother's ancestors helped to settle Buffalo. I have heard my mother say that she had heard her grandfather tell how his father had to flee from Buffalo to escape being killed by the Indians. Just think of it! You would not think it to look at Buffalo, to-day, would you? Have you ever seen Niagara Falls? No! Oh, you must really see them sometime! I lived in Buffalo until I was twenty years old and we often visited the Falls. I never appreciated how grand they were then. I never went to see them without having that strange feeling that I wanted to throw myself over into them. Once a friend really took hold of me fearing that I would jump over and—what was that you said? You wish what? I didn't catch it quite, but if you were wishing that you could see the falls you might well do so. They are just magnificent. I remember that one day—"

"What year were you born?"

"You don't mean to say that has to be put into my account! Of all things! Do I have to give my exact age? Of coure the affairs of a bank are secret? Not that I care anything about it, but, well, I am thirty-five but it was only yesterday that a friend of mine guessed my age at twenty-eight. We don't show our age in our family. My mother could have passed for forty when she was sixty and—"

"How much money do you wish to deposit?"

"Well, of course, I— how much interest do you pay? Four per cent.? And when will my money begin to draw interest? Not until the tenth of next month? My goodness, what's the use of me having it here for you to use all of that time? I might as well have the use of it myself until it can draw interest. I was going to start in with a deposit of two dollars and— I would have to deposit five in order to open the account? Well, I haven't but two so I can't open the account to-day anyhow. I guess I'll wait until the tenth and perhaps I will have five then. My husband's business isn't as good as it was last year and so I don't have as much for myself as I usually have—not that my husband is—"

"Excuse me, ma'am, but that lady behind you is waiting to open an account."

Statistics prove indisputably that the increased use of such a pure and wholesome beverage as Regal Lager ensures a decrease in any community's record of intemperance. That alone suggests the truth that Regal is NOT an intoxicant.

USING PURGATIVES INJURES HEALTH

What You Need in Spring is a Blood Building Tonic.

A spring medicine is an actual necessity to most people. Nature demands it as an aid in carrying off the impurities that have accumulated in the blood during the indoor life of winter. But unfortunately thousands of people who do not recognize the necessity of a spring medicine do not know what is best to take and dose themselves with harsh, griping purgatives.

This is a serious mistake. Ask any doctor and he will tell you that the use of purgative medicine weakens the system but does not cure disease. In the spring the system needs building up. Purgatives cannot do this—they weaken you still more. The blood should be made rich, red, and pure, and only a tonic medicine can do this. The best blood building, nerve restoring tonic medical science has yet discovered is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Every dose of this medicine actually makes new, rich blood. This new blood strengthens every organ, every nerve and every part of the body. This is why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure headaches and backaches, rheumatism and neuralgia, banish pimples and eruptions, and give a glow of health to the most sallow skin. Men, women and growing boys and girls who take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills eat well, sleep well, and feel bright, active and strong. If you need a medicine this spring—and most likely you do—try this great reviving tonic, and see the new life, new health and new strength it will put into you.

Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON QUESTIONS

April 24, 1910.

Warning and Invitation. Matt. 11: 20-30.

Golden Text. Come unto me all ye that labour and are heavy laden and I will give you rest. Matt. 11-28.

Verses 20, 21.—Have all sinners the power to repent? Why or why not? What reason can you give for or against the view, that a sinner will immediately repent, on the presentation of the gospel, unless he resists his good impulses?

Why did not Chorazin and Bethsaida repent under the preaching of Jesus, when it was backed up with such mighty works?

What is the woe which Jesus pronounces upon the unrepentant?

Do sinners now, or will they in the future, suffer any punishment other than the natural results of sin in themselves?

Verses 22.—Will there be degrees in the punishment of the lost, and if so, by what method do you suppose it will be gauged?

HOW AND BY WHAT METHOD ARE THE JUST REWARDED IN THIS LIFE AND WILL THE SAME METHOD, PROBABLY, BE OPERATIVE IN THE FUTURE LIFE? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club).

How far will be the lowest man in heaven, be from the highest man in hell?

Verses 23, 24.—If Sodom would have repented under the influence which Capernaum rejected, does that, or not, imply that it is simply a matter of strength of the influence whether a sinner repents or not?

If a sinner rejects under one influence and repents under a stronger one, is it right to put the blame of a sinner rejecting the gospel upon the too weak influence brought to bear upon him?

Are there influences, which could be brought to bear, strong enough to cause the most hardened sinner to repent?

Verse 25.—Why or why not, are culture, education and scientific research, any necessary aid or hindrance to spiritual discernment?

Why have children, and those with a child like spirit, a keener spiritual vision, than others with more knowledge?

Are uneducated people, with the same kind of moral character, more liable to see and yield to spiritual truth, than those who are highly educated?

What are the eyes with which we see spiritual truth, are they of the human intellect, or of the immortal soul, and how do you explain the process?

Verse 26.—Why did God make spiritual perception not to depend upon the intellect?

Verse 27.—Explain how, and why it is that God has given Jesus the control of all things?

To whom do the Father and Jesus reveal themselves?

Verses 28-30.—To what kind of rest does Jesus invite those who will come unto him?

What is your view, as to whether Jesus is a hard, or an easy, master to please?

Can a sincere person of ordinary attainments, perfectly please God in all things, and then find that Jesus' "burden is light"?

Lesson for Sunday, May 1st, 1910. Two Sabbath Incidents, Matt. 12:1-14.

SORE SHOULDERS AND BACKS

From Farm and Dairy.

On all horses put to work in the spring seeding without previous exercise and more or less hard work the shoulders and neck will be tender and, as usual, the horse in every respect will be in preparation for his task of putting in the spring crop. His body is covered with a heavy winter coat, which causes him to perspire easily. The first farm work in the spring is the hardest of the year and at this time a horse is in the poorest condition to do the work without injury to himself. The shoulders, the neck, and the back become bruised and sore.

Too much care cannot be exercised in seeing that the collar is a perfect fit. A collar which is too large is more likely to injure the horse than one that is too small. The collar should be scraped each morning and carefully cleaned before it is again put on the horse. Before the spring work begins, it is well to oil the harness and have it soft and pliable. For the first few days of hard work on soft ground, the shoulders of the horse should be bathed in cold water every night after the harness is removed. The horse will be very sore and tired for a few days and should be given every kind of attention. Watch the hames to see that the draft is at right angles with the shoulders. If it is too low, the collar will be constantly "kicking up" at the top and if there are any calloused lumps on the horse's shoulder or back, they should have been removed during the winter when his services are not much needed. If the collar is put on over one of those "sit fasts," it will have the same result as a man trying to walk with a button in his shoe or a bunion on his foot.

JEWS REGAINING PALESTINE.

Zionist Movement Making Big Strides In Holy Land.

Despatches from Jerusalem tell of remarkable strides made during the last few years in the repeopling of Palestine with Jews. The proclamation of the constitution in Turkey threw open the doors of Palestine and led to an enormous influx of Jewish colonists, who are already settled on some of the best lands of the country.

In Jerusalem alone four-fifths of the population now belongs to the Jewish faith. Large tracts of land around Lake Tiberias have been bought up from poor natives and converted into prosperous farms. The Plain of Sharon, between Jaffa and Lydda, is one vast garden, owned and tended by Jewish skill and labor. The Hauran, one of the most fertile wheat districts in the world, is being sold to Jewish syndicates.

Almost the whole of the extensive Plain of Esdraelon has been bought up by Jews. Their prosperous colonies spread from Dan to Beersheba, and even further south to the outskirts of Egypt. Thousands are escaping from Persia to find shelter and protection in the Holy Land, while every ship from Odessa carries some of them.

The Jordan Valley, once the property of the ex-Sultan Abdul Hamid, is being eagerly sought after by Jewish capitalists. The Zionists, whose agents are distributed all over the land, are buying up the rich properties of the Mohammedan effendis, whose incomes since the revolution have lessened.

At Jaffa, Tiberias, Safed and Haifa (Mount Carmel) Jews are reckoned by tens of thousands. Towns like Ramoth-Gilead, Bethlehem, Nazareth and Gaza, where a few years ago no Jew dared show his face, have now their Jewish quarters and synagogues.

The whole city of Jerusalem is essentially a Jewish town. Banking as well as trade and commerce is monopolized by Jews. The Government has found it necessary to organize a company of Jewish gendarmes.

Hundreds of thousands of pounds are annually sent from Europe and America to enable the colonists to build homes, hospitals, schools and invalid homes. Over one hundred Jewish schools already exist in Jerusalem alone. Synagogues are rising up everywhere.

The value of the land has risen four-fold. The ignorant and poverty-stricken fellahen (peasants) are being ousted from their homes and villages by the European Jew settler, whose modern agricultural implements and methods have made the land produce harvests never dreamed of by the natives. The Anglo-Palestine Co., a Zionist banking and commercial enterprise, is pushing the cause of Israel with energy.

When Paper Was First Used.

The Chinese have an exasperating practice of claiming to have found out everything hundreds of years before western nations, and are said to have used paper as far back as two hundred years before the coming of Christ. This may or may not be true, but it was not known in the rest of the world until the beginning of the eighth century, when the Arabs learnt its use. As time went on paper factories were set up in various parts of Europe, and about the fourteenth century it became fairly common in England for writing on. The first paper mill in England is said to have been set up at Hertford by a man named Tate early in the sixteenth century. The first piece of paper used in England may be seen in the Record Office The writing on it relates to a shipload of salt.

Euclid was deep in mathematics.

"My dear," announced his wife, "I want to give Mary Smith a wedding present that will look like it cost more than the one she sent me, but really be less, and I don't know what she paid for it. How much should I spend?"

ANCIENT THIBETAN PHYSICIANS

Science of Healing In the Forbidden Land Anticipated Ours by Centuries.

The ancients, priests and savants of Tibet were skilful physicians when almost the whole of Europe was overrun by ignorant savages or semi-civilized barbarians. The Russian Government recently received a petition from the Siberian Buddhists requesting that medical schools should be established among them, in which the ancient Tibetan art of healing should be taught.

In consequence of this strange petition, the Medical Academy of St. Petersburg has been making investigations concerning the claims of the ancient Tibetan art of healing. Says The Pall Mall Gazette.

A Tibetan handbook of medicine, which was known and used about twelve hundred years ago, and even then was regarded as an "ancient" and venerated source of knowledge, was used as material for the investigation. The Russian academicians have thus made the astonishing discovery that this book describes drugs and cures which European physicians "discovered" many hundreds of years afterward.

Thus the doctors of Tibet, so many centuries ago, were not only acquainted with the secrets of the entire human anatomy—how many bones there are in the human body, etc., and the principal nerves, namely, ninety-nine—but knew that the skin contained eleven million pores.

According to this venerable book, "the heart is king of all the organs and the support of life." Sicknesses in general originate owing to the evil and ignorance of human beings, especially owing to their inability to overcome their passions, which disturbs the healthy nourishing of the human organs. All evil thoughts also have a hurtful influence on the heart and liver.

The physicians of Tibets fifteen hundred years ago employed the same means diagnosing the condition of a sick person as the physicians of the present day—they felt the patient's pulse and looked at his tongue, etc.

Among the "remedies" which they recommended were not only vegetarian diet, baths, compresses, but also massage and cupping. What is more remarkable is that physicians who did not keep their instruments quite clean were severely punished.

The ancient Tibetans were in this respect extremely modern. The old Tibetan medicine book prescribes that healthy persons should "lead an orderly, sensible manner of life, avoid all excesses and irregularities; also conscientiously cherish and keep clean both soul and body."

Profitable Oakum-Picking.

The statement recently made that a packer named Hinton, whose body was found in the Thames, had been given oakum-picking in a workhouse on being certified for "light work," has aroused more than a passing interest.

Although oakum-picking is rarely associated in the popular mind with anything but prison labor, a great deal of it is done by workhouse inmates. Tramps seeking shelter in the casual wards frequently pay for their shelter in this way, and the cunning hands among them can make surprising progress with the untwisting of the strands.

One London workhouse has a corps of oakum-pickers which is always between fifty and sixty strong; and these permanent guests of the ratepayers—for the most restless of them only leave the house at rare intervals for a brief glimpse at the outer world—pick on an average about a quarter of a hundredweight each per week. This means a total yearly output for the sixty men of thirty-nine tons of oakum, which is sold for 6d. per hundredweight more than the guardians pay for the rope from which it is made.

Oakum is principally used for caulking the seams between the planks, the space round rivets, bolts, etc., for the purpose of preventing water from penetrating. Tarred rope or "junk" becomes oakum; untarred, white oakum. The former is the favorite of the caulker, but not of the picker.

Still in the Family.

Jack—My grandfather had a very fine collection of silver, which he bequeathed to my father on the condition that it should always remain in the family. Ethel—Then you have it still? Jack—Well—er—my uncle has it.

The Solid Hoofed Hog.

There are some solid hoofed hogs in the world, but they are few and far between. Darwin has a great deal to say about such pigs in his "Origin of Species," as there were only three in England at the time he wrote this book. The solid hoofed hog is not a freak of nature, as many suppose, but a genuine case of reversion to a primitive or ancestral type. It seems that, unlike the prehistoric ancestor of the modern horse, which has four toes or hoofs, the old clotherium, from which animal all members of the swine family are descended, had a solid hoof, and in the course of ages, as the old parent form died out and the modern wild boar, domestic hog, peccary, etc., were evolved this solid hoof became through what Darwin calls "adaptation" and "natural selection" divided up into two parts, so that all modern hogs are cloven hoofed. Occasionally, however, a hog is born with the old original solid hoof of the primitive hog ancestor, thus demonstrating the tendency in all animals to revert now and then to the parent form.

Votes In Pawn.

In the delightful days of yore a vote frequently fetched hundreds of pounds Poor electors would not wait for an election, but would borrow from the candidate sums of money, for which they would give promissory notes And when the reform bill was spoken of to some electors in Stafford they expressed their pleasure at it and hoped that there would be introduced into the bill some plan for the better payment of poor voters! For the convenience of would be M. P.'s seats used to be procurable for £5,000 or £6,000 cash down, while toward the close of the eighteenth century the boroughs of Gatton and many others were actually publicly advertised for sale by auction. The sales were not for a single parliament, but the fee simple included the power of nominating the two representatives forever.—London Globe.

Chinese Names of Places.

Chinese names of places often define their character. Thus the terminal "yang" means fortress, Pingyang the "fortress of peace." "Cheng" means a walled city, as Fenghuangcheng the "Phenix walled city." "Shan" is a mountain, "hai" the sea, "kuan" a camp; thus Shankaikuan is the "mountain sea camp." A "ling" is a mountain pass; Motienling, near Mukden, is the "heaven scraping pass."

The suffixes "tao" and "to" indicate islands; "po" or "pho," a harbor; "wan," a bay; "kiang" and "ho," a river; "kow," a port; "fu," a first class city; "ju," a provincial capital. "Pei" is north, "nan" is south, "king" is capital. These suffixes help to explain such familiar names in these days as Sanshantao, Chemulpo, Tallenwan, Yangtsekiang, Hoangho, Yinkow, Chefu, Anju, Peking and Nanking.—New York Tribune.

ANNOUNCEMENT

TO-DAY, for the first time here, the new medicinal preparation—"ASAYA-NEURALL"—is offered for sale, and may be obtained from the undersigned.

"ASAYA-NEURALL" represents the latest conclusions of medical research in the effort to supply the nervous organization of the body with the elements required to restore normal nervous health in a form capable of being assimilated by the weakest digestive organs.

As is well known, every effort of the mind and every movement of a muscle uses up a part of the tissues of the nervous system, the waste products of which have been found by chemical examination of the excretions to consist largely of mineral phosphates.

In health, when the nervous forces are not over-exerted, certain foods, such as fish, eggs, milk, etc., supply sufficient of the phosphatic principle to restore this loss.

But when a person, young or old, through overwork, worry, intense excitement, grief, alcoholic or other excesses, over-exerts the nerve powers, accelerating the using up of nerve tissue and the consequent loss of the phosphatic principle past the power of recuperation by the ordinary channels of the food, the condition of nervous exhaustion results.

These facts have long been known, and physicians have for years endeavored to aid the system to regain its normal supply of the vital phosphatic element by the giving of phosphorus compounds of many kinds.

The preparation—"ASAYA-NEURALL"—may be described briefly, as the latest advance in the art of phosphatic medication, suitably prepared for general public use. In it phosphorus is supplied in practically the same form as it exists in the human system, thus enabling this nerve building element to be easily assimilated even by those whose digestive powers have been so weakened by disease as to make it impossible for them to retain and assimilate phosphorus preparations of any other kind. It is a safe, home remedy, immeasurably superior to any previous compouud for similar purposes, and should be taken by persons suffering from

NERVOUS EXHAUSTION NERVOUS PROSTRATION
NERVOUS DEBILITY HYSTERIA INSOMNIA

For the nervous despondency frequently experienced by women when recovering from childbirth and for all conditions of nervous derangement from the causes named above.

"ASAYA-NEURALL" checks the night sweats due to the extreme nervous debility, and, under the physician's direction, will be found of great service as a reconstructive tonic in the treatment of waisting and debilitating diseases, especially Consumption, where it is of prime importance to maintain the nervous strength, and during the convalescence from acute diseases, such as Pneumonia, La Grippe, etc.

FREE TRIAL SAMPLE OFFERED.—BENEFICIAL EFFECTS ALMOST IMMEDIATELY EVIDENT.

The first effect of this preparation is the lifting of the feeling of depression and the awakening to a more lively interest in things about us. Ability to sleep returns, the digestive powers are aroused, the appetite improves, and a general feeling of rejuvenation and renewal of energy is felt. The beneficial effects are evident almost at the first dose. Not due, however, to false stimulation, as in alcoholic preparations, but to real feeding of the under-nourished nerve tissues, while the time to stop taking this preparation is as evident as is the time to stop at meal time, that is, when the nerves have been fed until their normal condition returns and a buoyant feeling of nervous health replaces the depression previously experienced.

SPECIAL NOTICE. Any adult person may, within ten days from the date when this notice appears, obtain a liberal sized free sample bottle of "ASAYA-NEURALL", quite sufficient to definitely establish the value of this preparation in their case, by filling in the coupon below & presenting same to the undersigned.

"ASAYA-NEURALL" is regularly sold in large bottles at $1.50 each. One bottle, taken three times a day according to directions, affords treatment for about forty days, all that is usually required for ordinary derangements of the nervous system.

"ASAYA-NEURALL" is prepared solely by the DAVIS & LAWRENCE CO., Manufacturing Chemists' of New York, Montreal and Shanghai, and may be obtained locally from

MASTER WILFRID MORISON PROVES INDEED WONDERFUL BOY VOCALIST

Splendid Programme Given Under the Auspices of St. Andrew's Young Men's Guild Last Night —Miss Julia Choate, Mrs. C. S. McClelland and Mr. D. Oscar Waring Took Part in the Programme.

AFFAIR A GREAT SUCCESS

The Young Men's Guild of St. Andrew's church is to be congratulated upon the treat they provided for the music lovers of Peterborough last night in the splendid programme that was given under their auspices last night, which was featured by the presence of Master Wilfrid Morison, the celebrated boy soprano whose beautiful singing was a revelation to the audience. Assisted as he was by Miss Julia Choate and Mr. D. Oscar Waring, the programme was one of unusually high calibre and every number was thoroughly appreciated if enthusiastic applause can be accepted as a criterion.

Master Morison has an exquisite voice, faultless in his purity of taste and clearness in both high and low registers. There is nothing forced in his singing of the higher passages and his enunciation is invariably clear and distinct, a feature that makes his singing doubly enjoyable. It would be difficult to select his most enjoyable number but all were rendered in splendid voice and with remarkable technique. His first number was "Carmencita" by G. Lane, and his other selections were "A May Morning," by Denza, "Sing, Sweet Bird" by Ganz and H. Lane Wilson's "Carmena."

Miss Julia Choate, violiniste, was heard in two numbers, her first being "A Reverie," by Vieuxtempts, the number which she played in the Earl Grey Musical Competition in Toronto, and for the playing of which she was awarded the second prize medal. Miss Choate was in excellent form last night and has seldom been heard to better advantage, her playing of the "Reverie" and of her second number "Hejre Kati" by Hueby, left nothing to eb desired.

Mr D. Oscar Waring, whose work as an elocutionist, has frequently delighted Peterborough audiences added much to the enjoyment of the evening in his numbers. His first was Longfellow's "King Robert of Sicily" after which he gave "The Men That Don't Fit In," that rugged number of Robert W. Service, the Kipling of the Yukon. The stirring spirit of the north is embodied in these verses and the number lost none of its beauty and strength through Mr. Waring's splendid rendition. His last number was "Uncle Pete's Plea," a num that was effectively presented.

Mrs. C. S. McClelland was a most sympathetic accompanist, her support of the vocal and violin numbers being most effective. Following was the programme.:

1. Solo, "Carmencita .....G. Lane
Master Wilfrid Morison.
2. Reading, "King Robert of Sicily, by Longfellow

3. Violin Selection, "A Reverie" .. By Vieuxtempts

A WONDERFUL REMEDY

Orange Lily is daily curing the most obstinate cases of Female Disorders. Falling of the Womb, Leucorrhoea, Painful and Suppressed Menstruation, etc., etc., are all of them relieved from the start by its use, and a few weeks' or months' treatment accomplishes a complete cure. This remedy is a positive, scientific preparation, and is based on the discoveries of Pasteur and Lister. It is an applied treatment; that is, it is not taken internally, but is applied direct to the suffering parts, and it, therefore, acts with all the certainty of the known laws of chemical action. As it comes in direct contact with the diseased tissue, its antiseptic and germ-proof properties cannot help have a beneficent influence. I receive from 10 to 30 letters daily, speaking of the benefits and cures it is performing, and so sure am I that it will do what is claimed for it that I will send, absolutely free, a 25c box to every suffering woman who will write for it. Price, $1 per box, which is sufficient for one months' treatment. Address, MRS. FRANCES E. CURRAH, WINDSOR, ONT. 3

THINGS TO KNOW

When boiling fish, always water enough to cover it.

To lull one to slumber when tired, there is nothing like the odour of lavender flowers.

Linen stained by ink should be immediately dipped in buttermilk. Repeat this until the stain disappears.

A cupful of ripe olives added to a beef stew just before it is taken up will make an astonishing improvement.

Seeded raisins, cut into pieces, broken nut meats, and a small part of celery in thin bits make up a delicious salad.

Any brickwork rinsed off with ammonia and water, and then carefully brightened, will be wonderfully brightened by the process.

For aching feet, due to walking, change the shoes at least twice a day. This will give both feet and shoes a refreshing rest.

Bread will keep moist much longer if kept in a crack, wrapped in several thicknesses of cloth, than if kept in a tin box.

To soften the old paint brushes you used last year put them in a can of coal oil. When washed they can be washed in warm suds.

For a refreshing dinner salad toss white cherries, bits of orange and banana in French dressing, and serve on lettuce leaves.

A few drops of alcohol rubbed on the inside of lamp chimneys will remove all trace of greasy smoke when water alone is of no avail.

A little muriatic acid added to the rinsing water after a blue or white fire rug is scrubbed with soap and water will help restore the colour.

A perforated rubber mat is almost an essential when the drain board of the sink is of porcelain. It saves many an ugly chip on fine china.

Arrowroot is excellent for thickening sauces made of fruit juices, as it neither clouds the mixture nor destroys the flavour of the fruit.

The small jars in which candy sometimes comes should be saved for picnic use and lunches, as they are excellent for carrying salad and sauces.

For almond cake filling, blanch and pound a pound of almonds, add two eggs, a cupful of sugar, and a teaspoonful of vanilla and spread between layers.

Cooked beets, hollowed out and pickled in spiced vinegar, may be filled with minced celery and apple and served on lettuce leaves with oil and vinegar.

A delicious flavour is added to the maraschino for fruit or other salad by stuffing them with pecan nuts, chopped rather coarse.

A good plan is to place pieces of Canton flannel between plates when they are piled in the china closet. It reduces the danger of breakage and prevents rattling.

A clean cloth dipped in hot water, then in a saucer of bran, will speedily clean white paint without scratching it in the least. The soft bran acts like soap on the dirt.

For falling hair, try massaging the scalp nightly with a lotion made of three drachms of pure glycerine, four ounces of lime water and half an ounce of tincture of cantharides.

Cushion covers especially designed for piazza use come stencilled in most artistic designs, and may be had in a variety of colours. They are in denim, crash, burlap, men's cloth, and linen.

Boiled radishes are dainty. Cut them into rounds about half an inch thick, boil ten minutes in slightly salted water, and fry in butter until tender. They should be highly seasoned.

If the coloured candles used for guest tables and other festive occasions become soiled before they are used, they can be nicely washed with a soft brush, white soap, and warm water.

If fringed napkins look worn because the fringe is thin and uneven cut it off, draw a few threads, and hemstitch the napkins. They will make very attractive doilies and will last a long time.

SHE IS ALL BUT QUEEN

In all affairs of weight, whether of war, politics or business, beautiful women have always exerted a mighty influence. This subservience of the world to feminine loveliness is seldom admitted by the sterner sex, but it is there just the same and no one realizes it better than man, mere man. He is a daily worshipper at the shrine of Venus and a passively willing prisoner to her charms. Paying regular and magnificent tribute has become a habit with him.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

MAKES BEAUTIFUL HAIR

To be considered beautiful it is not essential that a woman have a pretty face. Let her possess a wealth of natural fluffy hair and no one will ever dispute her right to being called handsome. Good hair softens the lines of the face and gives it an attractiveness which cannot be denied. As a saver of woman's beauty Newbro's Herpicide stands alone as it makes snappy, glossy hair possible for all.

Dull, brittle, lack-lustre hair is mute evidence of the workings of the dandruff germ. Herpicide is the one remedy which may be depended upon to kill the germ that causes dandruff and to prevent the hair from falling out. Don't let anyone sell you something "just as good." You want Herpicide, the Original Remedy.

Kills the Dandruff Germ - - - Stops Falling Hair

The immediate effect of a regular use of this remarkable hair remedy is to cleanse the scalp, allay the itching and induce a condition of health in the follicles, not already atrophied, so that the hair may resume growing. Wonderful and satisfying indeed are the results which follow regular applications of Newbro's Herpicide.

DISSENSION IN THE RANKS OF CONSERVATIVES

The Long Talked of Convention Will Not be Held---There is a Serious Split in the Party---Many Evidences of the Dissension are Apparent.

No Conservative Convention.

With the decision of the Conservative party not to hold the long-talked-of convention, comes explicit confirmation of the statements given out with authority and extensively published and commented upon in the Conservative press, that there is a serious split in the party.

Conservative Dissension.

The feature of the case is that knowledge of differences within the party ranks, while quite obvious to an onlooker in the House, was first given to the world by the Conservative press.

One Conservative paper, the Toronto World, resents the attempts of another Conservative paper, the Toronto News, to make scapegoats of Foster, Haggart, Sproule and Geo. Taylor.

A caucus was held on Tuesday last, and the Ottawa Citizen, a Conservative paper, which had only a few days before alluded to the dissensions in the Conservative ranks, said of it that:

What People Are Told.

"At the conclusion a statement was issued that the reports that have lately appeared in newspapers concerning dissensions in the party were without real foundation."

This places the brand of unreliability upon the Conservative press, which has distinctly stated the contrary to be the case. The Toronto News says:

What Conservative Paper Says.

"There is a feeling also that too many men within the party assume functions of leadership, and take upon themselves responsibilities which they are incapable of discharging, or which they have no right to assume."

This statement is branded as untrue according to the published statement said to have been handed out after the caucus.

Evidence of Dissension.

Then, again, Mr. Monk, Conservative leader in Quebec, has been weighed in the balance by the Toronto News and found wanting. After attacking him in unmeasured terms, the News refers to his "impotent leadership," and concludes by saying that "the universal feeling now is that Mr. Monk cannot continue in any official or semi-official relation to the party.

In the face of this the caucus reports that there are no dissensions in the party.

What Mr. Monk says.

Mr. Monk has replied to the attacks of the News by saying, among other things, "that attacks and accusations coming from the fanatical organ you mention (The News), seem best treated with contempt." He admits that he has differed from his leader and a majority of the party on several important matters: "I am told the editor is an adept at betrayals and calumnies, but this does not justify him in attributing crooked methods to anyone else."

Mr. Monk evidently does not regard the newspaper reports of dissension in the Conservative ranks as being without foundation.

Attempt to Square Things.

Another strange feature of the case was presented on Wednesday last. From Montreal comes the telegraphic news that at a meeting of the Conservatives of the Montreal district a letter was read from Mr. Borden, denying in positive terms that Mr. Monk was intriguing for the leadership of the party, but admitting they differed on the naval bill. A resolution was moved assuring Mr. Monk that he possessed the undivided adhesion of his Quebec friends, and authorized the different clubs to prepare a demonstration in his honour.

This is the curious position then: Mr. Borden and Mr. Monk differ on the naval bill, and Mr. Monk retains the confidence of his Quebec friends. These Quebec friends differ with Mr. Borden on his naval policy because they support Mr. Monk.

Admission of Differences.

If, therefore, Mr. Borden, the leader of the Conservative party, differs from Mr. Monk, the leader of the Quebec wing of the party, and the Quebec wing supports Mr. Monk, there must be dissension in the party, which the Conservative caucus denied. The same despatch says that the meeting expressed the utmost confidence in both Mr. Borden and Mr. Monk, at the same time Mr. Monk declines to follow the leadership of Mr. Borden. This seems like "confusion worse confounded."

Doherty Takes Foster's Place.

Another of the statements made by the Conservative press throughout Canada was to the effect that ex-Judge Doherty, of Montreal, would take the place of Mr. Foster as deputy leader of the party in the House. This has been just as strenuously denied by another section of the Conservative press. In view of this, it was not a matter of surprise that on Wednesday, in the absence of Mr. Borden, Mr. Doherty assumed the leadership of the Opposition and secured the postponment of the naval bill, alleging that Mr. Borden was indisposed.

How They Fight Together.

No dissensions, say the Conservative papers? Such a statement is ridiculous. On Tuesday Mr. Henderson, Mr. Lancaster, Mr. Macdonnell, Col. Sam Hughes and Mr. Currie, all Conservatives, fought for two hours against each other, to the amusement of the Liberals. Demands were made upon the chairman for the enforcement of apologies—diametrically opposite views were expressed upon the bill before the House, and recriminations became general. In the face of this the caucus "authorizes the statement" that there are no dissensions.

As to the self-constituted leaders of the party, one has only to stop the first Conservative met within the corridors of the House, and find what is thought of this. The men on the front benches are regarded as in the wrong place by many who sit behind them, and the party press apparently holds the same view.

Should Blame Conservative Press.

The Toronto News has led the way in keeping to the front the cry of "race and prejudice." At the last election it printed on the front page every day, a false and misleading statement with regard to the Saskatchewan Valley Land Company. It knowingly suppressed the fact that the lands secured by the company were originally given by a Conservative government to a company of which Mr. E. B. Osler, Conservative member of Toronto, was the head. It has made charges against members of its own party, which have been branded by the party caucus as false, and now it makes the following statement which is an eminent example of gross ignorance or moral turpitude. In its issue of April 12, is an article dealing with the National Transcontinental, and among other things the News says:

Ignorance, or Worse.

"When ministers decline to investigate the facts set forth by Mr. Lumsden, the government shows either astounding incapacity or else utter corruption."

When one considers that an investigation has been in progress for two months at the instance of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, into charges made by Mr. Lumsden not against either the Government or the Commission, but against engineers appointed by himself, one is struck by the astounding audacity of the News.

When one reflects that Mr. Lumsden has already under oath expressed his sorrow for using the words "lost confidence," and stated that if he had to write the letter again he would not use such language, one is struck with the quality of nerve which would induce such an article as that printed in the News.

With such an admission on the part of Mr. Lumsden the whole case crumbles to the ground. If he had not lost confidence in his engineers there would have been no charges, consequently no investigation. Therefore, when he says he regrets the words, he practically exonerates the only men against whom he had any criticism to offer.

Why Did Lumsden Resign?

One is led to seek for a motive in the case of Mr. Lumsden, and it may be found in his own evidence. He was asked whether he had ever applied for an increase of salary and leave of absence for six months.

Mr. Lumsden would not give a direct reply. Upon important matters Mr. Lumsden's memory is defective. He remembered drafting a dozen letters to the commissioners which were not sent.

His Memory is Defective.

Mr. MacDonald brought him to the point by asking whether each one of them did not assign different reasons for resigning. The answer was "I may have put in other reasons, I can't say whether I did or not."

Mr. Lumsden could not say whether he received advice in writing his letters of resignation. He rather thought that was his own affair.

Reasonable Deduction.

Here we have it then—Mr. Lumsden admitting that he had applied for leave of absence and an increase of salary—that he had drafted a dozen letters, each giving a different reason for resigning—that he repented him of the reasons he ultimately gave, which constituted the charges now being enquired into—a clear exoneration of any wrongdoing on the part of anybody.

Is it any wonder that the Conservative members of the investigation committee thought it wiser to retire?

Power Transmission Line.

There has been a great to do about the St. Lawrence Power Transmission bill in the House. It has, from the first, been confounded with an attempt to dam the St. Lawrence. Conservatives would not be convinced that some connection did not exist between the two which would operate adversely to the public interest. This was their assumed position. It developed, however, that their objection to the bill was in the fact, that it would compete with the Hydro-Electric scheme of the Ontario Government. Sir Wilfrid himself discovered the "nigger in the wood pile."

The Ontario government claims that the Hydro-Electric competes and prevents monopoly in the supply of energy. The St. Lawrence Transmission Company would compete with the Hydro-Electric, therefore all the Conservatives in the House were opposed to it.

Hydro-Electric Monopoly.

The Ontario Government establishes a system ostensibly to prevent monopoly, but desires to conduct its system as a glaring monopoly, and resents any attempt to provide competition.

The Transmission bill will enable the company to supply points, such as Brockville and Prescott, with electrical energy, which they cannot now secure. The Hydro-Electric ignores the wants of Eastern Ontario, but would keep out every other company.

Will Provide Useful Competition.

Mr. Pardee, who was in charge of the bill, accepted several amendments which really did not affect the bill at all, but the Opposition thought they [illegible] throughout there has been a disposition to meet every reasonable demand of the Opposition. The fact that admissions were made that the line would compete with the Hydro-Electric upset the scheme of the opponents to the bill, and, they took it out in amendments which really had no bearing on the bill.

The public should know without any reservation that this Power Transmission line is nothing more or less than a transmission line. It has nothing to do with any attempt to dam the St. Lawrence, or any other place. The bill is just what it purports to be on its face. It will provide wholesome competition to the Hydro-Electric or any other energy supplying organization to the end that the people may enjoy what they are entitled to—to wit—cheap power.

Compare the Policies.

The policies of the Ontario Government and the Dominion Government may be contrasted in this way. The Ontario Government would create and maintain a monopoly of electrical power, and the Dominion Government would provide competition and lower prices.

Synopsis of Last Season's Crops.

A bulletin of the census and statistics office, just issued, shows that at the end of March the quantity of wheat in farmers' hands in the whole of Canada was about 18.28 per cent. of the crop of last year. This is 30,484,000 out of 166,744,000 bushels. Of oats there was 40.3 per cent. or 141,499,000 out of 353,466,000 bushels. Of barley there was 29.81 per cent. or 16,517,000 out of 55,398,000 bushels. Of buckwheat there was 1,835,000 out of 7,806,000 bushels, being 23.50 per cent. Of corn, which was nearly all produced in Ontario, there was on farms at the end of March 3,604,000 bushels out of a total crop of 19,257,000 bushels. Of potatoes there was 43,289,000 out of 99,087,200 bushels or 43.68 per cent. Of turnips and other roots there was 15.93 per cent., being 17,166,000 out of 107,724,600 bushels. Of hay and clover there was 23.51 per cent., being 2,793,000 out of 11,877,100 tons.

Early Spring Opening.

Correspondents report an early opening of spring in all parts of Canada and in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta as well as in the counties of Ontario along Lake Erie and Lake Ontario about one-half of the seeding was finished at the end of March. A very favourable account of the condition of fall wheat is given for Ontario at the same period, but in Alberta the crop suffered to some extent from drouth at the seeding season, and later from winter exposure.

Crops in Ontario.

In Ontario there was at the end of March 3,017,000 bushels of wheat as against 4,550,000 bushels last year, of oats 37,780,000 as against 44,715,000 bushels, of barley 4,920,000 as against 7,144,000 bushels, of potatoes 13,224,000 as against 10,026,000 bushels, of turnips and other roots, 11,658,000 as against 32,757,000 bushels in 1909.

Merchantable Crops.

The percentage of the products of the farm in 1910, which was of merchantable quality ranks high for all the crops in all the provinces, the only exception being potatoes in the Maritime provinces, where correspondents report heavy losses to this crop through rotting.

Crops of the Future.

If the 6,878,000 acres of land under crop in the Canadian West in 1909 produced 147,000,000 bushels, what will be the harvest when the 44,027,000 acres under homestead preemption and purchased homestead entry begin their yield? And even that will only be a beginning for the surveyed lands amount to 145,249,985 acres, while the total land area of the three provinces is 334,894,320 acres!

More New Land Discovered.

The building of the National Transcontinental railway will open up more virgin land than is under crop to-day in the western provinces. Long life to the Laurier Government that does things.

Has the easily cleaned white enamelled drip pans. Also the adjustable orifice.

A flickering, yellow flame means you are burning too much gas and not enough air. If this occurs on a McClary Gas Range you can remedy it instantly. Simply adjust the orifice with wrench until enough air is being mixed with the gas to produce the steady, green flame which denotes proper combustion. By adding air you can often save as much as 25 per cent. gas and at same time increase the heat by one-quarter.

Probably, you know from experience that it is really impossible to remove all the dirt and grease from ordinary drip pans. But you can wash and clean the smooth, white enamelled broiler and drip pans of McClary Gas Ranges just as thoroughly as you can an enamelled sauce pan. Are you not glad that you can now buy a strictly sanitary gas range?

From our eight different styles of McClary Gas Ranges you can select a range that will exactly meet your requirements. Each style can be supplied with or without two burner extension, oven thermometer, water heater, reservoir, high shelf, high closet and canopy top. Can be changed from artificial to natural gas in a few minutes.

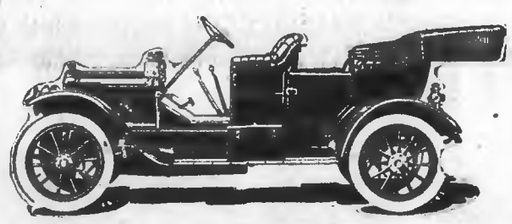
Specifications of the White Gasoline Car



CHAPTER IV.

As we have pointed out before, the more closely the White Gasoline Car is examined, the more apparent becomes its superiority over other makes, as regards both design and QUALITY. Note, for example, the specifications given below, and consider them in connection with other specifications of the White given in our previous Advertisements:

Ball-Bearing Crank Shaft

The crank-shaft of the White runs on ball bearings of unusually liberal dimensions. This is a great advance over the more usual and cheaper construction of carrying the crank-shaft on plain friction bearings.

Chrome-Nickel Steel Gears

The gears used in the White are of chrome-nickel steel, the toughest and strongest material for the purpose known to science. This material is not used in any car selling at anywhere near the White price. Another feature of the White gears worth noting is their unusually large size, as regards both width and diameter.

Brake Equipment

Both the foot-brake and the hand-brake act on drums on the rear wheels. The braking surfaces offered by these drums are of very large dimensions. The brakes operated by the foot-pedal are fibre-lined, external, contracting brakes. The brakes operated by the hand-lever are internal, expanding, metal-to-metal brakes.

Curled Hair in Upholstering

Only the finest grade of curled hair is used in upholstering the White car. This feature is well worth keeping in mind, because so many makers are using various kinds of cheap vegetable fibre, such as moss, excelsior, and shredded sea-weed.

In the White Gasoline Car there is not a single instance, even in a minor part, of the use of any material other than the best which money can buy. This cannot be said of any other car of moderate price. No other car, no matter what its price, can compare with the White as regards up-to-date design.

(Conclusion—Buy a White).

THE MISSING INGREDIENT.

An Inventor Left His Secret Guarded Well.

By EVELYN WITWOTH.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

"Oh, father, I'm afraid that some day you'll blow yourself up."

"Never fear, sweetheart! There is but one thing combustible about these ingredients, and that I never put in till the last. And it must have been mixed with the others an hour before there can be an explosion."

This dialogue occurred in old Severance's laboratory between him and his daughter Fanny. She was his only child, and he had no wife, so that, being all he had to love in the world, she was his idol.

"Father," she said, changing the subject abruptly, "Will has spoken." She threw her arms about his neck and hid her face in his bosom."

"Has he, chick? I'm glad—for your sake, dearie—but for me"— He finished with a deep sigh.

"Oh, father, I will never leave you! We will always be together."

"Daughter," said the old man, "I, too, have something of importance to tell you. I have discovered a fulminate powder that will revolutionize warfare. It will treble the range of a cannon or a rifle. I have been offered $100,000 by the government for my secret. Now that Will has spoken you may tell him that you will have a fortune for a dowry. He is a fine fellow and deserves it and you."

Peter Gower, a man of thirty-five, whom Severance used for an assistant, was eavesdropping outside the door and heard every word of the conversation. Although he had worked with Severance, he did not know that his principal had succeeded in his effort. Severance had made the crowning discovery while working alone at night and had guarded his secret carefully even from his assistant. Gower, like Severance, was a chemist, but was employed simply as an assistant and not entitled to any interest in his inventions.

SHE READ IT AND STAGGERED.

From this time forward Severance was conscious that Gower was watching him in order to get the secret. The assistant knew the main ingredients of the composition, but the one substance without which the union was incomplete he did not know. One day while Severance was at work making the compound he saw reflected in a mirror before him Gower's face intent upon him. Severance put in all the ingredients, substituting for the uniting substance another than the correct one. An expression of joy came over the face in the mirror.

After this Severance conceived a dread of his assistant. One day he gave his daughter a bit of paper with a single word written on it and told her to put it away in a little trinket box she had and to be extremely careful as to its preservation.

One day Fanny Severance was startled by the sound of an explosion in the laboratory. Every drop of blood left her face instantly. Rushing into the laboratory, her worst fears were realized. Her father's body was lying on the floor so disfigured that he was scarcely recognizable. Gower followed her. He was pale and trembling.

"I've been fearing this for a long while," he said.

But the girl did not hear him. She had swooned. He carried her into the house and ministered to her till she came back to consciousness. Then he left her.

Fanny Severance and William Clarke, her fiance, found themselves thus unexpectedly cut off from the dowry they had expected at their wedding. But the young man showed no disappointment to the girl he loved, and they were married soon after her father's death.

Gower put the laboratory in order, shut it up and gave Fanny the key. She saw no more of him till soon after her wedding. Then he called ostensibly to learn of her welfare, but really to see if he could get from her a bit of secret information. He had put together the chemicals necessary to the compound Severance had invented, had put in the uniting substance he had seen Severance use, but notwithstanding that he had tried every known percussion substance he had never been able to get an explosion. Recognizing that he had been foiled and that a fortune had slipped through his fingers, he was about to accept the situation when it occurred to him that Severance might have left his secret with his daughter. After making formal inquiries he told her that her father had given him all the elements of his compound but one. If he had left her the name of this uniting chemical she might yet be rich, for he (Gower), having all the rest, with this could manufacture the powder.

When her husband came home that evening Fanny told him of Gower's call and what he had said. Later on, going to her trinket box, she noticed the paper her father had given her. Taking it to her husband, she told him of the circumstance attending her receiving it and asked him if he knew what it meant. The young man looked at the word written on the paper. It was a curious mixture of letters, spelling an almost unpronounceable word. Then suddenly an idea occurred to him. He told his wife that it might be the crowning chemical used by her father for his compound.

"Then," said Fanny excitedly, "all we have to do is to give it to Mr. Gower and we will yet be rich."

But William Clarke believed in the adage "Make haste slowly." He slept but little that night, thinking why, if this was the required substance, Severance had left it without the other ingredients of the compound. He must have had a reason for doing so. Clarke thought for hours upon this reason. Was it that Gower knew the other ingredients and in the event of the inventor's death could go on with the manufacture of the powder in case Fanny would give it to him. If so it meant that Fanny was the real possessor of the secret. But why had not Severance told her that what he had given her was the key and what she was to do with it in case of his death?

"Fanny," said the young husband the next morning, giving her the daily parting kiss, "go into the laboratory today and see what you can find there."

Fanny took the key to the building and, with a shudder, going into the laboratory, began to hunt—what for she did not know. There was a tiny safe in the wall that interested her. Remembering that she had father's keys in the house, she went for them and, picking out an odd looking one, slipped it into the lock. It fitted exactly, and, turning it, she opened the small door and took out several papers. Selecting one, she read it and staggered as if stricken. It read:

Suspecting that my assistant, Peter Gower, will murder me (he thinks he possesses my secret) I leave this paper in case anything happens to me. I dare not give the secret to any one, even to my daughter, now, but trust this action will insure it to her without the risk that would occur if it left my keeping.

On another paper was a list of the ingredients except one, which the writer said he had given to his daughter.

A horrible thought entered the young wife's mind. Her father had probably been murdered.

"Bless him!" she exclaimed, kissing the record he had made. "Had it not been for his care a murderer would have robbed me of my rights."

The hours dragged slowly till her husband came home, and she told him of her discovery. He read the paper and, taking his wife in his arms, said:

"Sweetheart, it is our duty to avenge your father."

"How?"

"There are ways in which Gower could have contrived an explosion. He might have mixed substances that would require a few minutes or a few hours to unite chemically. He might have run a wire underground to the outside of the laboratory and ignited some substance within by an electric spark. He might have tossed a bomb at his victim's feet. Whatever his means, he doubtless removed all evidences of its character, for you left him to lock up the laboratory."

"So I did," she said wonderingly. "But could I have done otherwise? I wouldn't have gone there myself on any account."

The next day Clarke took steps to renew the negotiations with the government broken off by his father-in-law's death. The matter dragged, as all matters connected with governments are bound to drag. But Clarke, who had more business ability than the inventor, started negotiations with another country and before long had two nations bidding against each other. The result was that he finally received five times as much as was offered Severance.

When payment was handed to Clarke it was in one check on the national treasury. He took it home and waved it triumphantly over his wife's head, exclaiming:

"There's your dowry!"

But the wife's joy was subdued by the sad memory of her father's death. "Alas, poor father!" she said, with tears in her eyes.

The next day Clarke did the more melancholy duty of handing the police the paper incriminating Peter Gower. A warrant was issued for his arrest, and as soon as he was taken an investigation of the laboratory was made. A tiny hole was found under a workbench through which a wire might have been passed to the cellar. To lead it from there to the outside of the building no other hole was needed since it could have been passed through a window. This single hole was the only evidence against the accused, and it was not sufficient to convict him. He was acquitted of the murder by the jury, but not by the public. When freed he disappeared and has never since been heard from.

Not a Day's Schooling.

The father and mother of Mr. Will Thorne, who was returned for West Ham (South), were both brickmakers. He was only seven when his father was accidentally killed, and he never had a day's schooling, though he says that "hard work, self-reliance, listening to good speakers, and reading will give anyone a sort of education." These are the things, Mr. Thorne declares, which have pulled him through.

Indigestion Cured

This disease from which so many suffer gives the average physician a great deal of trouble. The best medical men have endorsed PSYCHINE, and recommended it in scores of the most obstinate cases. It has never failed in a single instance to give prompt relief. When directions have been followed, a few doses will remove that tightness and weight on the stomach. Taken regularly it positively cures General Distress, Flatulency, Nervousness, Coated Tongue, Heart Burn and Palpitation. If you have never used PSYCHINE, don't hesitate a moment longer. Try PSYCHINE to-day.

PROOF

Mr. Arthur Tennison, 60 London Street, Toronto, says: "For six or seven years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia. Too much acidity of the stomach the doctors said, originated the troubles. I tried scores of remedies without avail. Eventually I used PSYCHINE and this brought immediate relief and cure."

NO HOME SHOULD BE WITHOUT PSYCHINE

It prevents the children taking cold, wards off that terrible malady, La Grippe, and completely fortifies them against disease. It should always be used for colds, weariness, loss of appetite, bronchitis and weak lungs.

For sale by all druggists and dealers, 50 cents and $1.00.

ROBIN HOOD FLOUR IS DIFFERENT

Every housewife who uses flour must be interested in ROBIN HOOD "the flour that is different."

You hear it makes a bigger loaf, that the loaf is sweeter-flavored, more nutritious, more easily assimilated than bread made with other flours.

We can tell you why ROBIN HOOD Flour makes that kind of a loaf, but what ought to interest you more than "why it does" is that "it does."

You can prove what we say as true at no risk of loss to yourself.

It is largely a matter of making up your mind to use "Robin Hood."

NO MORE WRINKLES

BEAUTIFUL BUST

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR VANISHES LIKE MAGIC BY A NEW DISCOVERY

Let this woman send you free, full particulars, follow her instructions, then if you are pleased, recommend her wonderful methods to your friends.

SHE LOOKS LIKE A GIRL OF 18.

This clever woman has not a wrinkle upon her face; she has discovered a marvelous, simple method which brought a wonderful change in her face in a single night. For removing wrinkles and developing the bust, her method is truly wonderfully rapid.

She made herself the woman she is to-day and brought about the wonderful change in her appearance in a secret and pleasant manner. Her complexion is as clear and fair as that of a child. She turned her scrawny figure into a beautiful bust and well-developed form. She had thin, scrawny eye lashes and eyebrows, which could scarcely be seen, and she made them long, thick and beautiful by her own methods.

You can imagine her joy, when by her own simple discovery she removed every wrinkle from her face and developed her thin neck and form to beautiful proportions.

Nothing is taken into the stomach, no masks or common massage, no harmful plasters, no rollers, no worthless creams.

By her new process, she removes wrinkles and develops the whole figure, plump and fat.

It is simply astonishing the hundreds of women who write in regarding the wonderful results from this new beauty treatment, which is beautifying their face and form after beauty doctors and other methods failed.

Mary Merritt, of Wis., writes, her wrinkles have entirely disappeared. Miss Hanson writes, her bust is beautifully developed and wrinkles gone. Mrs. Markham writes, she has not a wrinkle left.

The valuable new beauty book, which Madame Cunningham is sending free to thousands of women is certainly a blessing to womankind, as it makes known her remarkable methods of beautifying the face and figure of unattractive women.

All our readers should write her at once and she will send you absolutely free, her various new beauty treatments and will show our readers:

How to quickly remove wrinkles;
How to develop the bust;
How to make long, thick eyelashes and eyebrows;
How to instantly remove superfluous hair;
How to remove blackheads, pimples and freckles;
How to remove dark circles under the eyes;
How to quickly remove double chin;
How to build up sunken cheeks and add flesh to the body;
How to darken gray hair and stop hair falling.

Simply address your letter to Evelyn Cunningham, Suite 288, 7 Randolph St., Chicago, Ill., and don't send any money, because particulars are free, as this charming woman is doing her utmost to benefit girls or women in need of secret information, which will add to their beauty and make life sweeter and lovelier in every way.

Now is the time to write and learn her beauty secrets, lest your beauty passes, even as the petals of a rose wither into the drift of yesterday's flower.

The world would be better off if there were a few more kind women like this in it.

GENERALLY SPEAKING

The local branch of the Royal Astronomical Society deserves well of the citizens of Peterborough. Such must have been the thought of every one who has had the pleasure of attending the lectures delivered under its auspices during the past winter.

Under the able leadership of Rev. Dr. Marsh, seconded by such enthusiastic lovers of science as Dr. Neal and Messrs. H. B. Collier, Hay and Fisk, the society, which has been barely three years in existence and now numbers about fifty members, contemplates making two or three steps forward during the coming year. One of these will be the purchase of a telescope and another the acquisition of lantern slides of photos taken by the largest instruments in the world. The telescope will cost $200 at least, and as there is no fund on which to draw for the acquisition of anything, save from the individual funds of the members it can readily be seen that their enthusiasm for science is earnest to the core.

The name under which the Society is working seems to deter many people from presenting themselves for membership. In reality the Society by no means confines itself to astronomy, as a glance at the subjoined list of lectures delivered during the past season will show.

1. The Frozen North, (Geographical and Scientific), Capt. Bernier.
2. A Trip to Bermuda, (Geographical and Descriptive), Rev. Dr. Marsh.
3. Earthquakes and Meteorites, Mr. H. B. Collier.
4. The Astronomy of Tennyson, (Poetical), J. A. Paterson, K.C.

Lectures were also given on astronomical subjects at different times by such well known men as Professors Chant and Stewart of Toronto University, Mr. J. Parry Jenkins, of Hamilton, (twice), and Messrs. F. L. Blake, R F. Stupart and Dr. King, Dominion astronomers, and officials o fthe Federal government.

Its main object, of course, is to teach the rudiments of astronomy to those anxious to learn. With this purpose in view, Dr. Marsh lectured during the winter months at Port Hope, Cobourg, Napanee, Brighton, Belleville, Bobcaygeon, Dunsford, Port Perry, and Hamilton, and has also been invited to lecture in Brantford.

In this way, the Astronomical Society through one of its leaders is helping to make Peterborough known abroad.

Being part and parcel of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, the members of the body are furnished with all the literature that emanates from headquarters in addition to the "Journal," a bi-monthly publication, the mouthpiece of the society. The membership fee is only $2 per annum, and the benefit to be derived from so small an expenditure is incalculable.

It is well to bear in mind that in Dr. Marsh, Peterborough claims one of the foremost astronomers in Canada, a gentleman whose name is known in scientific circles from one end of the Dominion to the other.

Before closing, mention should be made of the kindness of the School Board in permitting the free use of the Collegiate Institute Hall to the members of the Society. In doing this they have shown a thorough appreciation of the educational nature of the Society's work.

Mr. Wadely's Lecture.

As an interested listener to the lecture on Decorative Art, delivered by Mr. Wadely in the Y. W. C. A. gymnasium on Thursday night I was struck by the fact that his ideas, whilst they were admirably adapted for people who own their own homes, brought no comfort to the unfortunate being who is obliged to live in a rented house. If a few of those landlords of Peterborough, who have been content to paste any sort of paper on their walls, provided it was cheap and gaudy, had listened to the lecture, there might have been some stricken souls in the audience. Mr. Wadely, as a new-found apostle of "sweetness and light" is a distinct success, and, perhaps, he may be induced at some future time to dilate on the sorrows of those who, whilst possessed of artistic temperament, are at the mercy of men who perhaps not in the lump, but in the vast majority, seem to be living exemplars of the idea that "discords are harmonies not understood."

The Farm Problem.

Chancing to dip into a book containing selections from the older English poets, I came upon a passage in Gascoigne's "Steel Glass," which seems singularly applicable to the present day farm problem. Gascoigne was born in 1535, and was a noted man in his day. It would appear that even at that early period there was a tendency for persons to flock to the cities. The lines run as follows:

"The gentleman which might in countrie keep
A plenteous board, and feed the fatherlesse,
With pig and goose, with mutton, beef and veale,
Yea, now and then a capon and a chicke),
Wil breake up house, and dwel in market townes
A loyt'ring life—"

Those of us who are householders have had cause to feel that we were, indeed, fatherlesse, when it came to paying the high prices that have been current during the past few months, and all because the young gentle folk of the country have been attracted by the glitter and glare of the cities, and the consequent diminution in output has caused many staples of food to sell at a premium.

Favourite Quotations.

The following quotations from Charles Kingsley, and Will Carleton, respectively, are gems, and deserve a place in everyone's memory:

"Be good, sweet maid, and let who will be clever;
Do noble things, not dream them all day long;
And so make life, death and that vast forever
One grand, sweet song."

"Boys, flying kites, haul in their white-winged birds;
You can't do that way when you're flying words.
"Careful with fire," is good advice, we know,
"Careful with words,' 'in ten time's doubly so.
Thoughts, unexpressed, may sometimes fall back dead;
But God, Himself, can't kill them when they're said."

PLEASANT READING FOR THE FAT

What a simple and inexpensive solving of the fat woman's problem the Marmola Prescription Tablets provide. She takes one of these harmless, pleasant, little tablets after each meal and at bedtime and loses from 12 to 16 ounces of fat each day, and yet suffers no harm, creates no disturbances inwardly, and produces no wrinkles. This elegant preparation (made exactly in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription) has rendered exercising and dieting for the reduction of excess flesh as superfluous as a fifth wheel. A further recommendation is that it is the least expensive fat reducer on the market, a large case costing only 75 cents from any druggist or by mail from the Marmola Co., 833 Farmer Building, Detroit, Mich., containing a quantity of tablets large enough to give very decided results in most every case.

TO LAY OUT 10 ACRE FARM

From Farm and Dairy.

I would esteem it a favor if you would give me information concerning the best way to lay out a 10-acre farm. It was lying idle last year, just dogs and cows running over it. I rented the 10 acres with house, so I may have better accommodation for my poultry, but would like to lay out the rest of ground to best advantage. I have three boys beside myself, all able to help. The eldest boy and myself are working in the city; I thought that if I could work upon right lines may be able to purchase one large enough to keep us all going well, and still keep on my work. I have had about nine acres of ground plowed up, and they say that it is good soil.—H. E. R., Wentworth Co., Ont.

On such a farm as you describe and with the family mentioned I would suggest the keeping of milch cows as likely to prove the most profitable line of work. I take it you do not care on a rented land to go into orcharding or small fruits. Supposing however, that a certain part of the land is required for small fruits, poultry, swine, etc., I would suggest making out three fields of two and a half acres each and following thereon the following rotation of crops. The fields might be called A, B, and C.

FIELD A

1910—Corn and roots, 1911, oats seeded down; 10 lbs. red clover; 5 lbs. timothy; 1912, clover hay; 1913, corn and roots; 1914, same as 1911.

FIELD B

1910—Oats seeded down, 10 lbs. red clover; 5 lbs. timothy; 1911, clover hay; 1912, corn and roots; 1913, same as 1910; 1914, same as 1911.

FIELD C

1910—Peas an doats, 4 bus. per acre; cut for hay; 1911, corn and roots; 1912, oats, seeded down, 10 lbs. clover, 5 lbs. timothy; 1913, clover hay; 1914, same as 1911.

This system of farming would necessitate investing in a few dairy cows and having suitable buildings. On such a farm run properly you should be able to carry from four to 10 dairy cows, according to skill in handling the land. It would of course be necessary to feed cows inside all summer. In addition to the stable and small barn a silo would be necessary.—J.H.G.

SLEEP WAS IMPOSSIBLE

ALMOST DRIVEN TO DESPAIR UNTIL CURED WITH USE OF DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

No symptom of nervous prostration is more to be dreaded than the inability to sleep. Man can exist for considerable time without food, but without sleep, and the restoration which it brings, he soon becomes a mental and physical wreck.

When you cannot sleep and rest look to the nervous system and remember that lasting cure can only be obtained from such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which naturally and gradually restores the exhausted nerves to health and vigour.

Mr. Wm. Graham, Atwood, Ont., writes: "My wife had been ill for some time with nervous prostration and we had two of the best doctors we could get, but neither of them did her any good. She gradually became worse and worse, could not sleep and lost energy and interest in life. She was almost giving up in despair when a friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

"From the first box my wife used we noticed an improvement and after using six boxes she is completely cured and as well as she ever was, eats well, sleeps well and feels fully restored. I cannot say too much in praise of this valuable medicine for I believe my wife owes her life to its use."

Every dose of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food goes to the formation of so much rich, red blood and is therefore certain to do you good.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, all dealers; or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Write for free copy of Dr. Chase's Recipes.

Peterborough Extends A Hearty Welcome To His Excellency Earl Grey

LOCAL IMMIGRATION OFFICE BESIEGED WITH LETTERS FROM MEN WHO WANT TO LEARN FARMING

Many Old Country Young Men are Anxious to Come to Canada to Secure Employment on the Land —Some Splendid Fellows are Coming Out Here.

SENDING HER TWO BOYS

To those who think that the duties of the local Immigration Officer, Mr. G. H. Howson are not very strenuous, it is but necessary for one to visit him at his office and see the large amount of correspondence he handles, and the many places he fills where men are required. He daily receives letters from inquiring men in the old land, who are desirous of coming to this country to learn farming. Peterborough, as a farming and manufacturing community, is widely advertised in the British Isles, and the immigration officer here has much to do in supplying the information he is asked and in securing places for all those who seem bent on nothing else but to learn the art of farming. Mr. Howson has letters from a great many well educated men, who are enthused with the bright prospects that lie before those who are ready and willing to work hard in Canada. The best of them are beginning to realize the splendid opportunities that are offorded them in this country, and young men who have started on a professional career and others who had entered a business life have written Mr. Howson, with the idea of coming here to learn farming, and it is evident that fellows of the right calibre are wanting to come to Canada. The local immigration officer always informs them that there is plenty of work for men who are not afraid of it on the farm. The Examiner to-day publishes some letters, which are very interesting, and which have been received by Mr. Howson, accompanied by photographs of three young men, who are shortly to take up their residence in this part, and who are coming with the intention of learning farming.

A young medical student who is desirous of going on a farm near here.

A Young Medical Man.

The following letter is from Dr. E. J. Cooke, the father of a young medical student, who says his son is tired of the college and wants to come out here and learn farming. He writes to Mr. Howson from Sheffield, England, as follows:

"I have taken a second-class ticket to-day for my son, who is going to Canada. He is a strong, healthy lad, twenty-one years of age, and has been for some time a medical student here and in Edinburgh, but he dislikes the life so much and so longs for a country colonial life, that I have consented to let him follow his own inclination. He understands that he has to go to work as a farm hand, to do any work required of him, but is very willing. He makes friends quickly and is bright and cheerful. I want a good home more than wages. I know at first the wages will be small, but will increase as he gets more proficient. He sails April 30th on "Laurentic." I am a medical man, and my son has had no farm training, but he is such a good, all round athlete I think he ought to get along alright."

Employment on the Land.

Another father writing from Sheffield, in regard to his seventeen-year-old son, for whom he wants to secure employment on the land, says:

"I have been advised to write you with reference to my eldest boy, who is desirous of coming out to Canada, and obtaining employment on the land. Mr. Dawson, here, tells me you have taken interest in several fellows. I propose to send him on the "Laurentic," sailing April 30th. He has a good education and training, and is not afraid of work. We would like him to get with well-living people. My boy is seventeen. He has been educated at Wellington College, Salop. Since leaving school he has been with friends in Herefordshire, who are cattle breeders, to obtain as much information on this subject as possible until the spring of this year. You will, I feel sure, understand that his mother and I are anxious to get him into right hands to start with, until he can feel his feet in a new country."

Sending Her Boys.

Mrs. Rosie Freith, Oxford Place, London, England, is sending her two boys to this country and asks Mr. Howson to meet them and find them good places. She writes as follows:

"I am on the recommendation of the Canadian Government Office, Whitehall, London, sending my two sons out to your care. They are aged 16 and 13 years. They are strong, healthy boys, used to work and really useful and willing. The elder is very big for his age and real smart. They have plenty of pluck and can work. Their names are Wilfrid A. Sydes and Herbert T. Sydes. They are anxious to obtain work at once on a farm, where they can be together. I am told you will have no difficulty in placing them. It would be an awful thing if they were stranded, as they have not too much money. They sail on April 15th by the "Victorian," and come straight to you by the Colonist train. Won't you please meet them on arrival? They are good boys and want to learn farming in real earnest."

CLAIM WILL GO UNSETTLED

Mayor and Chairman of Board of Works Report no Action to be Taken in Regard to Mr. S. Edwards' Claim for Damages Done by Sewer.

MADE INVESTIGATION

The Board of Works of the City Council met last evening, there being present, Ald. Hicks, chairman; Mayor Morrow, Ald. Gillespie, Metheral, Phelan, Duncan, and Duffus. A letter from Mr. Allin, 541 Sherbrooke St., asking for a crossing for an entrance was referred to the City Engineer.

It was moved by Ald. Duncan, seconded by Ald. Gillespie, that G. H. Graham's request for an approach on Hunter street, be granted.—Carried.

The following quotations for cement in car lots f.o.b., Peterborough, were read: Canada Cement Co., $1.65 per bbl., and Alfred Rogers, $1.70 per bbl.

It was decided that as the successful tenderer for the street watering in the southern district would not accept the contract, the matter of arranging the watering of the district be left with the chairman and street commissioner to deal with.

The chairman reported that he and the Mayor had considered the claim of S. and H. Edwards, for damage to a house owned by them, while a sewer service was being cleared by water and considered that no action should be taken.

The matter of purchasing cement was left to the Chairman and the city engineer.

The Board then adjourned.

A BALD NEWSPAPER MAN.

Getting a New Crop of Hair, and Has No More Dandruff.

Everybody in the Northwest knows Col. Daniel Searles, the veteran journalist and publicist of Butte. Jan. 10, 1900, the Colonel writes: "I used a couple of bottles of Newbro's Herpiside with marvellous results. The dandruff disappeared; a new crop of hair has taken root, and the bald spot is rapidly being covered." Herpicide is the only hair preparation that kills the dandruff germ that digs up the scalp in scales as it burrows its way to the root of the hair, where it destroys the vitality of the hair, causing the hair to fall out. Kill the dandruff germ, with Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Sold by McDermid & Jury, druggists, also Payne's drug store. One Dollar bottles guaranteed.

SPECIAL ORANGE SALE

The special Sunkist Orange sale, which starts next week, offers the public an opportunity to buy the Sunkist quality California oranges, and everyone should take advantage of the offer.

A VERDICT OF GUILTY IN THE WOLTER CASE

Convicted of Murdering Young Stenographer—Slept Quietly in His Cell While Jurymen Were Deliberating His Fate.

SHOWED NO EMOTION

Special to The Examiner:

New York, April 22. — Albert Wolter must die in the electric chair for the murder of Ruth Wheeler, a fifteen year old stenographer. After one hour and fifteen minutes of deliberation a jury found him guilty of murder in the first degree at 10.20 o'clock to-night, mringing to a close a trial marked by its swift movement.

The boy's counsel said this afternoon that Wolter was too tenderhearted to hurm a cat, but twelve men decided to-night that he had strangled Ruth Wheeler, and thrust her, while yet alive, into his fireplace, where, soaked with oil, her body burned. With the same indifference that he had shown throughout the trial, Wolter evinced no emotion when the verdict was announced. He had been asleep in his cell — and sleeping soundly—while the jury was deliberating his fate.

Immediately after the announcement of the verdict Wallace D. Scott, counsel for Wolter, moved that the verdict be set aside, but Judge Wolster overruled him, and he left court after having obtained a stay of sentence until Wednesday.

HOLMES IS STILL AT LARGE IN THE WOODS

Diligent Search Has Been Made for Him Without Revealing Any Light as to His Whereabouts —Will Keep After Him.

THE CARDINAL MURDERER

Special to The Examiner:

Brockville, April 22.—The tragedy enacted near Cardinal yesterday, when Albert Holmes slew his neighbour, Nathan Bolton, with an axe, is an absorbing topic in the surrounding neighbourhood, where both were well and favourably known. After committing the murder Holmes at once made his escape to the nearest woods, passing a boy named George Perry in his flight. Perry, who at the time was not aware of the crime, says Holmes was visibly excited, and warned him not to come near him on pain of his life. He also added he intended taking his own life on reaching the woods. Holmes then continued on his way and was soon lost to view.

Thoug diligent search was made for the fugitive, no trace of him had been secured up to this evening. It is said that if he remains in hiding the matter of his capture will not be easily accomplished, as the section is densely wooded, making a search difficult. He is well acquainted with every foot of ground, and can easily cover up his tracks. It is the general belief, however, that Holmes will take his life before submitting to arrest.

ROYAL RECEPTION TENDERED GOVERNOR-GENERAL ON HIS ARRIVAL HERE AT NOON TO-DAY

David Rigley, a Sheffield grocer, wants employment on the land.

Greeted by Hundreds of Citizens Who Thronged C. P. R. Station Platform and Cheered His Excellency as He Passed—Met by Mayor Morrow, City Council and Hon. Mr. Stratton, M.P.

DROVE TO C. G. E. WORKS

His Excellency Earl Grey, the Governor-General of Canada, and the vice-regal party were tendered a royal welcome on their arrival here at noon today, the band playing the National Anthem and the citizens cheering lustily. His Excellency descended from the car, accompanied by the Earl of Lanesborough, his military secretary, and Capt. Fife, A.D.C. He was met by His Worship Mayor Morrow and Hon. J. R Stratton, M.P., and the members of the City Council, and Rev. Canon Davidson and Rev. Dr. Langfeldt. Passing along the platform escorted by Mayor Morrow, His Excellency was greeted on all sides by throngs of citizens. He was given a most loyal reception, which he graciously acknowledged as he walked along to the carriage in waiting for him. The party from the station drove to the Canadian General works where they were conducted through by the General Manager, Mr. Frederick Nicholls, who came down for the occasion and the Superintendent, Mr. E. G. Patterson. Following this visit they went to the Quaker Oats Co. mills, after which they went to the Oriental where luncheon was served.

A CHANCE TO SECURE DIAMOND RING BY SELECTING EFFECTIVE SLOGAN FOR CITY

International College of Ophthalmology Offers Prize for Best Motto With Which to Advertise Peterborough.

CONTEST IS OPEN NOW

The Examiner wants a slogan that will help to advertise Peterborough.

At least Mr. C. R. Elliott of the International College of Ophthalmology, of Toronto, offers a prize of a $25.00 diamond ring to the Peterborough person who, within the next week, sends in to this office the best motto or slogan that may be used as a catchword to place the advantages of this city before the public. Mr. Elliott offers the prize and has asked the Examiner to find the winner for him.

The conditions are simple. On page twelve of this issue will be found a coupon. All that a person who wishes to try for the prize has to do is to fill out the blank indicated with his or her choice of slogan and send in the coupon to "The Slogan Editor" of the Examiner. You may send one attempt, or you may send fifty, as long as they are written on coupons cut from the Examiner. Each issue of the Examiner for the next week will contain a coupon.

For the guidance of competitors it may be mentioned that what is most likely to win the prize is a short, catchy phrase that is bound to attract attention. To be effective it must necessarily be brief as, for example, "Buffalo for Business!" "Niagara for Power!" "Watch Welland Grow!" or "Montreal for Me!" Phrases which have been adopted with success in other places. The field is open to everybody. There are no conditions other than those already mentioned, and as has been said, there are no restrictions as to the number of tries one may make for the prize, as long as coupons from the Examiner are used.

A slogan, such as is desired, could be used with advantage in placing Peterborough before the world. The phrase could be worked into advertising in many different ways.

Here is a good chance for Examiner readers to demonstrate their ingenuity. The contest is open for a week, the result being announced in next Saturday's Examiner. A competent committee of prominent citizens will decide the result.

EVERYTHING IS READY FOR "GEISHA" PERFORMANCE TO-NIGHT

The Peterborough Amateur Operatic Company had a final rehearsal in the Grand Opera House last night and everything is now in readiness for the performance of "The Geisha" to-night at which the vice regal party will be present. Every member of the cast was present last evening, and the rehearsal went through without a hitch, auguring well for the success of to-night's event. There will be a grand audience this evening, and those who intend to be present are again reminded that they should be in their seats as soon after eight o'clock as possible, and to greet His Excellency by rising to their feet as he enters, while the orchestra plays a few strains of the national Anthem. The boxes at the Grand have been artistically draped for the occasion.

TORONTOS BEATEN AGAIN BY ONE RUN MARGIN

Providence, R.I., April 22.—The Leafs were again beaten by one run to-day in a free hitting and fast fielding game, which resulted in a score of 3 to2.

A full score of hits in all were garnered off the delivery of Rudolph and Lavender, the opposing twirlers, the Grays getting eleven and the Leafs nine, yet only five runs resulted from the hit feast. Three double plays and some snappy work by the infielders was responsible for the low scores. Fully half of the hits were of the scratchy order, which just missed the infielders, and four were on short bounds, which the batters beat out.

Rudolph pitched fairly well, although the Grays had great luck in getting away with hits a number of times when the ball did not go out of the infield. This was particularly noticeable in the third innings, when the Grays scored two runs, both on scratch hits, which were fielded, but which the infielders could not get to first in time to catch the runner. The winning run in the eighth came over on Collins' out, Rudolph to Deal.

The Leafs scored first in the second. After Grimshaw had grounded out Shaw drove out a great smash to left, but was thrown out trying to stretch it into a two-bagger. With two down it looked bad for a score, but Deal was passed and Mullen got a scratch hit. Vandergrift then singled to left and Deal trotted home. Mullen tried to score from second on the smash and was caught at the plate, ending the innings. Another came in the fourth, when Grimshaw fanned. Shaw got scratch single. Deal was thrown out by Collins, and Shaw scored on Mullen's hit to left. Mullen was forced at second by Vandergrift. Score:

DAVIS PROVES TROUBLESOME

Ottawa, April 23.—A lively debate is anticipated over the Miller anti-racetrack gambling bill in the Senate next Tuesday. This was indicated by the debate which occurred on the second reading yesterday.

It has been taken for granted that the Senate will kill the bill, but in view of the compromise which was reached by the advocates and opponents of the measure in the House, it is now conjectured that the bill will pass.

Senator Watson, on moving the second reading, said he thought explanations could best be given at the committee stage.

Senator Davis said he noticed that places of less than 5,000 population were not to be allowed the same privileges in connection with horse-racing given to places of 15,000 or more. Would the bill stop the annual races which were held in connection with the exhibition at Prince Albert?

The bill was reported to have already entailed an expenditure of over $40,000. That such an amount had to be expended to advance a bill to the compromise point was in itself a serious criticism of the character of the legislation. It was a sample of the bills becoming more numerous each year, which were strenuously promoted by a class of people who wanted to regulate the conduct of other people.

It was an excellent specimen of that class of legislation which was designed to send people to heaven by means of the criminal code. There were so many laws of this sort in existence now that a peaceful citizen could not walk abroad for three days, or three hours, without having made himself liable to be interfered with.

Senator McHugh said that in the committee stage he would like some explanation given of an apparent discrimination between running and trotting races.

The bill was read the second time, and Senator Watson moved that the bill be set down for consideration in committee o the whole for Tuesday next.

Senator Wilson declared that it was unreasonable for the promoter of such a serious bill to have refused the Senate full explanation before the second reading was given. Senator Lougheed said that the course followed indicated the assumption that the Senate was more moral than the Commons, where the measure had occupied the attention of the special committee for at least seven weeks.

The Senate was equally entitled to have evidence given before a special committee.

Senator Davis said that this was not the bill with which the Commons had been occupied for seven weeks, but was a substitute bill of an entirely different character. For that reason it should go before a special committee for all parties, and particularly the moral reformers, to have a chance of presenting evidence.

Senator Watson said that for the time being he represented the moral reformers, and he thought if they were satisfied with the compromised bill, the other side should be.

The motion for the committee stage on Tuesday was adopted.

IMPETUOUS IMMIGRATION.

The inflow of immigration into Canada is reaching the proportions of a tidal wave, the month of March breaking all former records. The total immigration for the month of March, according to figures given out at the Immigration Office, Ottawa, on Friday, amounted to 33,065, as against 18,464, the total of March, 1909. Of this year's total 17,310 came from the United States, and 15,755 arrived by ocean ports. For the first time in the twentieth century the in rush volume of immigration from the United States has exceeded that from all other countries, the arrivals from the United States for March being 56 per cent. of the total. During the fiscal year, 1909, ending March 31st last, the total immigration into Canada was 208,794, an increase of 42 per cent. Of these 103,798 came from the United States, and 104,996 by ocean ports. Of the 146,908 immigrants who arrived in Canada in the previous fiscal year 59,832 came from the United States, and 87,076 by ocean ports. It is satisfactory to add to the fact that Canadian immigration is growing in volume, the additional fact that it is improving in quality. At the present rate it will not be long till our population will have reached the ten million mark.

THE LAW AND ITS BREAKERS.

A rather nice point of legal ethics is raised by the recent fatal shooting at Shawville, P.Q. A gypsy, who was annoyed by a party of young men assailing him and his wife with opprobrious epithets, and his home with a fusilade of stones, used a shot gun with such fatal effect that two young men of the party were killed on the spot. The taking of a human life is a serious affair under any circumstances. Naturally a great deal of indignation is felt and expressed in the neighbourhood against the gypsy. He claims that the shooting was accidental, resulting in the struggle to disarm him. Even if this is not the case, and supposing he fired with intent to alarm or do bodily harm, the question of justification arises. It is admitted that he was assailed and his home attacked. This was not the first time that he and his wife had been made the victims of similar assaults. If he had reason to believe that he was in danger, was he, or was he not justified in taking action to protect himself and his home. If he fired in self defence, believing that his life was in danger, could he or could he not reasonably shelter himself under the plea of acting in self defence. His assailants were plainly breaking the peace—committing unlawful acts. It cannot, in justification of these acts be pleaded, as is done, that the gypsy and his wife were a nuisance to the neighbourhood. If that were the case the law could have been invoked. The party, of which two members were shot, were evidently taking the law into their own hands, instead of invoking the law, which, in Canada, is capable of protecting the public under every condition. They were plainly in the wrong, and by their breach of the peace and their threatening demonstrations, brought upon the two unfortunate young men the fate that befel them. There is no essential difference in principle between the action of the party that assaulted the gypsy and a mob which, in another country resorts to lynch law; and even less excuse for the former; for the mob can plead justification in the fact that the law, where it operates, is notoriously neglected in the matter of enforcement. But no such excuse avails in Canada, where there is law capable of effective administration, to meet every emergency.

There seems to be too much inclination, especially in remote rural districts, to practise hoodlumism and worse. The charivari, often of an aggressive and offensively violent character, is one of these forms, and another is demonstrations such as that at Shawville, where public indignation over residence in the community of alleged undesirable persons, a menace to morality or the safety of property found expression in what was really mob-law—taking the law—into the hands of the unauthorized avengers of society, threatening, and actually committing violence. These actions may be excused, but not justified by the intentions held. The law, in Canada, at least, must be held supreme and sufficient; and it does not seem unnatural that those who break the law, in a mistaken effort to attain results equivalent to its enforcement, should not be surprised if lawless force meets with violent resistance.

Such results are intensely regrettable, but they must be expected where unlawful enforcement of the law is attempted. It must be admitted, however, that there is often no little temptation to citizens to take the law into their own hands, for there are numerous circumstances, where, even in Canada and Peterborough, where the law in matters of apparently trivial, but extremely vexatious character fails of enforcement. A community suffers, say, from the ravages of dogs that are allowed by their owners to become nuisances; the law does not protect the sufferers, and thus is accounted for the numerous cases of dog-poisoning that occur. Hoodlum lads in troops and gangs annoy the residents of many streets by their pranks, always annoying and sometimes malicious; and in Peterborough there seems to be no protection. The police do not, as they might well do, patrol the outlying streets of the city to protect the property and rights to peaceful residence of citizens who pay their wages. This seems necessary, and at the same time superfluous; for when the young scamps are threatened with reporting them to the police, no unusual reply, especially to ladies, is impudent defiance, and the impertinent, or may be pertinent assertion, "O, we're not afraid; 'Davie' will let us off!" Whatever the meaning of this is it indicates that the law is no terror to these young evildoers, and that in minor matters, at least, justice is tempered with very exasperating mercy.

How often do we see, the weak, the poor, the feeble-minded, the peculiar, and the friendless made the objects of annoyance, without any successful effort on the part of the law, or its ministers, to protect those doubly entitled by their legitimate rights and their peculiarities—to its protection. Of the same class, but of more serious degree, was the mob descent upon the Shawville gypsy, that brought its own punishment, which, though deplorably severe and fatal to two of the party, was what may be expected wherever mob violence assumes to take the form of law, without warrant, in fact, or circumstance or condition, or unduly encroaches upon the right of citizens to peaceful enjoyment of their homes, or their social events.

POST CARD COLUMN.

I am indeed surprised at the action of the Fire, Water and Light committee last evening in deciding not to send the fire chief and Ald. Metheral to Syracuse next August. If the city expects the Fire Chief and other officials to keep up to date they must see the latest improvements in their special lines. We must keep the Fire Department up to date, and if the Council cannot afford to send at least the Chief of the Fire Department to this convention, I as a private citizen, will contribute ten dollars towards a fund for this purpose and will gladly hand same to the Examiner.

"The Queens"

Toronto, the Queen City of Canada, has much of the beautiful. It is found in many handsome churches, artistic public buildings, imposing offices, public drives, parks and gardens. Its Government Buildings are fine. Of hotels there are many; none, however, approaching the Queen's for perfect service, quiet comfort, and homelike surroundings and the peculiar excellence of its cuisine. Its fame is far-reaching, and many remember with pleasure the hours spent within its hospitable walls. The charges are based on the American and European plan, and are as follows:

Rooms without bath (American plan), $3 per day up; Rooms with bath (American plan), $3.50 per day up; Rooms (European plan), $1.00 per day up.

THE LIBERAL PARTY LIVES ITS LOYALTY

Hon. W. S. Fielding roused the Liberals to immense enthusiasm Wednesday afternoon, April 19th, when, in a speech upon the Naval Bill, he pilloried the Conservative party, arraigned it before the bar of public opinion as the party of inconsistency, and proved beyond doubt of contradiction that when the record of Canada's service to the Empire is read, the Conservative sheet is an absolute blank, while that of the Liberals is full of deeds accomplished. It also served to show the pointlessness of systematic Conservative attacks upon the loyalty of Liberal leaders and the party.

Continuing after luncheon he reiterated the point he had made in the morning that the Admiralty proposal involved the creation of a fleet unit on the Pacific alone and that such a proposition was unacceptable to Canada. He proved by the record that every step Canada had taken in the creation of its navy had been taken in co-operation with the British Admiralty, and that it had not only received their endorsement, but had been approved by so great an expert as Lord Charles Beresford.

Then the Finance Minister turned his attention to the inconsistencies of Mr. Borden, the Leader of the Opposition. On March 29 last he had declared for a navy of our own and had stated his opposition to the policy of cash contribution. Now he was opposing the creation of a Canadian navy and was advocating a contribution. Again, at Halifax in October last he had supported the naval policy of the Government because it would revive the ship building industry of Nova Scotia. How could the ship building industry of Nova Scotia be revided by the sending of $20,000,000 to England? asked Mr. Fielding amidst ringing cheers. He hoped that it would be found possible to build the ships of the navy in Canada. He believed they could be so built, but it was a question of cost and economy.

Mr. Fielding's next point was the value of personal interest in the navy. That would be one of its greatest sources of strength. The Canadian people must make it their own navy, and he illustrated the point by telling a story of a Scot who went on board a warship and asked to see the captain. When asked his name he replied, "Oh, just tell him it is one of the owners." That was the spirit which he desired to see manifested by Canadians in their navy which would be Canadian in time of peace and Imperial in time of war, a branch of the Royal navy in peace and a part of the Royal navy when the war alarm sounded.

The Government was doing just what Mr. Foster (whose absence he regretted) advised last year, digging deep down in the foundations of the nation to create national interest in the navy instead of hiring somebody else to do the work, which we should do ourselves. It was following the principle laid down by Rt. Hon. A. J. Balfour at the press conference last year when he declared that the ministry which pays must control.

Mr. Fielding thought that this transference of the naval question by the Conservatives into a political issue was a mistake and a misfortune. The resolution of March 29 last had been a message of immense value to the Empire and a warning to the enemies of the Empire. He was sorry that it had continued to be one of those questions which could be treated by men whose motto was "none for the party but all for the state."

Then he came to the double faced campaign of the Opposition. Mr. Borden asserted that the bill was a weakening of the Imperial tie but his colleague, Mr. Monk, said that it was playing the game of the active Imperialists. Which was right? Both could not be right. And then Mr. Fielding made the assertion, which he afterwards proved successfully, that the Conservatives had not had and have not a monopoly of loyalty.

Look over the record, he said and "I challenge any man to deny that every act for Imperial unity and of advancement in the Empire's interests has been the work of the Liberal party." (loud cheers.) After expressing the belief that it was Canada's duty to maintain freedom of speech and thought and paying a compliment to the earnestness of Goldwin Smith, though he did not share his views, Mr. Fielding went on to compare the records of the two parties towards the Empire. Much had been heard about the South African war, but that was not the only war in which the Empire had been engaged. In 1885 when the news came that the heroic Gordon had been martyred and Khartoum had fallen, a wave of indignation went through the Empire. Australia felt the impulse to action, but did Canada act? It was not a Liberal Government which was then in power; it was a Conservative government; but not a hand was stirred for the benefit of the Empire.

It was true that General Laurie, Colonel Williams and others in Canada offer to raise troops for service in the Soudan, but their offers were refused. He read a question put by Hon. Edward Blake asking what steps the Government had taken and Sir John Macdonald's reply that no offer had been made to send troops at the cost of Canada. The Conservatives did nothing though the heart of the Empire was stirred, as it was in the darkest days of the South African war (Conservative jeers.) This was not all, however. When Lord Derby cabled to Lord Lansdowne, asking what should be done with the offers of Laurie and Williams, the Governor-General cabled back that his ministers had no objection to their offers being accepted, but it must be understood that "the entire cost must fall on the Imperial exchequer" (great Liberal cheers). He (Mr. Fielding) would have liked T. W. Crothers to be present and have heard his opinion of this "miserable, narrow, picayune provincialism." What did he think of this doctrine of "not a penny out of the pockets of Canada?"

The record of Liberal activity in South African war would be compared with the inactivity of the "loyal Tories "when Khartoum fell, and with the enthusiastic manner in which Australia rose to the occasion then. The Australians did not say that all the cost must fall on the British exchequer, but said they would defray all the expenses connected with their offer, while the position of the Canadian Conservative government of the day was "Laurie, Williams and Melgund can have a shy at it, but not a penny will be paid out of Canada's pocket." (Liberal cheers) But there were other things, besides the army and the navy, in which aid could be given to the Empire. There was the question of trade. On that issue he was not afraid to challenge comparison. It was the good and loyal Conservative party which introduced the high tariff policy into this country and when somebody objected that it might injure the British connection the reply came from that organ of the party, the Toronto Mail, "So much the worse for British connection." When the Liberals came in the situation was changed. Within a few months it had introduced the British Preference. Thus while the other government had put up a tariff barrier to keep out British goods this government had lowered it for the advantage of both the Canadian consumer and the British producer. And ever since the Conservatives had practically opposed the policy of preference.

A Conservative member—No.

Mr. Fielding—Who says "No?"

Mr. Henderson—I said "Oh."

Mr. Fielding repeated his charge and was greeted with a pandemonium of cries from the Conservative benches in which "Ohs" and "Nos" were equally mingled. Thereupon, Mr Fielding replied that the Opposition seemed divided in opinion, but the fact remained that they had opposed the British preference and had, instead, demanded a mutual preference. They wanted to huckster and haggle with the Mother Country while the Liberals gave the preference as a free gift. Where was the loyalty there? (Liberal cheers). If the Conservative view had prevailed there would have been no British preference. That act was an epoch-marking step. Canada led the way for the rest of the Empire.

As another illustration of the Conservative opposition to the Preference Mr. Fielding quoted Mr. Rodolphe Forget's statement that if he had his way he would abolish the British preference and give $3,000,000 to the British navy and next referred to the statement of W.R. Brock, ex-M.P. of Toronto that the trade settlement with Germany was worth ten Dreadnoughts and asked: "If that be the case how many Dreadnoughts was the British Preference worth. (Loud Liberal cheers.)

The record showed that when it came to relations with the Empire the Liberal government did not lag behind. It certainly did not lag when it sent the troops to South Africa (cheers). And only those who know all the facts know how much the Empire owes to Sir Wilfrid Laurier. (Cheers.)

It was the Liberal Government which founded the Military College at Kingston. The Liberal Government would now establish a naval college in Canada and once more the record would show that when it comes to effective aid for the Empire it is the Liberals who act and do not lag behind.

Canada had not asked that the Imperial Government should pay the cost of the contingents to South Africa, as the Conservatives did in 1885. That war cost Canada two or three million dollars. They might have sent those millions over to be dumped in the Imperial exchequer, but if they had the glorious story of Paardeburg would never have been written. (Cheers.)

The Minister was rewarded with long continued cheers on closing.

UNCLE WALT---THE POET PHILOSOPHER

THE IMPORTANT MAN.

You know the man of kingly air? He seems to think his hat a crown: You run across him everywhere. he talks as though he handed down most all the wisdom that the seers have gathered in a thousand years. His dignity is most sublime; to joke about him is a crime, and when you meet him it is wise to lift your hat and close your eyes. and it would please him if you'd just lie down and grovel in the dust. That is the wiser course, I say, but I'm a feeble-minded jay, and when I meet the swelled-up man, I jolly him the best I can; I would to him the fact recall that he's but mortal, after all. He's naught but bones and legs and trunk, and lungs and lights, and kindred junk; he breathes the same old germy air that's breathed by hoboes everywhere. And when he dies, as die he must, he'll make as cheap a grade of dust as any Richard Roe in town; the monument that holds him down may tell his glories for a while, but folks will read it with a smile, and say: "That dead one must have thought that he was Johnnie on the spot, when he was on this earthly shore; I never heard of him before."

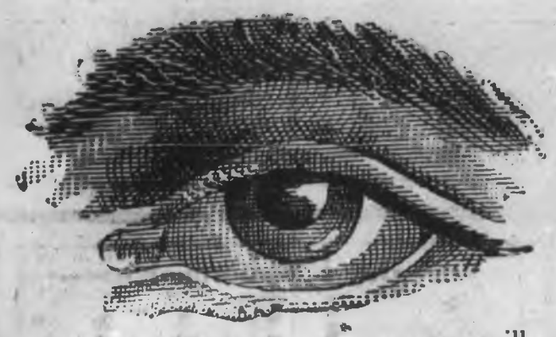
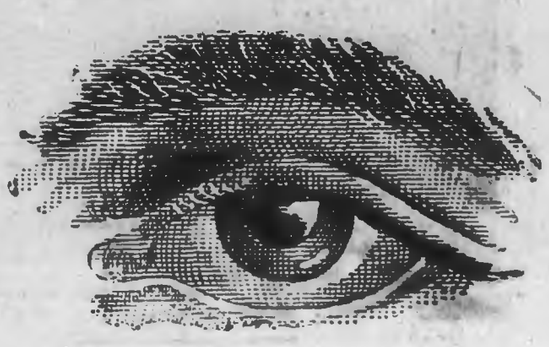
Great Optical Demonstration Sale



A Rare Opportunity For Skilled Optical Attention

From Tues., Apr. 26, to Sat., Apr. 30



we will sell our regular $3.50 to $5.00 Gold Filled Spectacles and Eyeglasses for—

ONE DOLLAR

Examinations in charge of the Directors of the International College of Ophthalmology to ensure perfect satisfaction.

Prescription Lenses at Lowest Prices.

Remember---Money Refunded During Sale if not Perfectly Satisfied

What You Get For Your Money

A Gold-Filled Frame perfectly fitted to your face with proper lenses by our experts, any style you desire--reading or distance glasses that will serve you for years ; protection and rest from tired, strained eyes ; freedom from headache and like pains that come from defective vision—the satisfaction that you have all this and save a nice sum of money.

In order to serve all promptly during this wonderful sale there will be three expert opticians in attendance, DIRECTORS OF THE INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE OF OPHTHALMOLOGY. Each and every customer will thus get a scientific examination of their eyes and the glasses properly adjusted.

The Reason We Do This

We wish to introduce ourselves to the spectacle-wearing public, and have secured two hundred (200) dozen pairs, all told, embracing all kinds of glasses, every style to fit all eyes and faces. These glasses are the same as are sold regularly for $3.50 and $5. Sale in charge of THE DIRECTORS OF THE INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE OF OPHTHALMOLOGY, who will be in attendance to insure you a first-class examination. They will use just as much care in fitting them to your eyes as though you were to pay regular price. When you come to inspect them, that's the kind you'll find them to be, and every pair will be replaced by the manufacturers should they not give entire satisfaction.

Canada's Three Most Skilled & Expert Rifle Shots What They Say :

Guelph, Ont., Feb. 25th., 1910.

International College of Ophthalmology:

This is to certify that I know the above college to be the best Optical people whom I have ever met. They have fitted me for both sporting and reading glasses for the past 10 years and I am perfectly satisfied they can fit the most difficult, cases of eye trouble, with through satisfaction.

I have had my eyes tested in England by Stewart and Gregory, (Opticians to the Royal Family) and in Paris, France, by the best optical authorities there, and the kind of glasses I have received from you have been superior to all others that I have had.

Yours respectfully,

John Ogg,
Bailiff

Lindsay, April 22nd, 1910

TO THE PEOPLE OF PETERBOROUGH :

I desire to make known that I have been fitted on several different occasions in the past ten years for reading and shooting glasses by the representatives of the International College of Ophthalmology, and they are in my judgment the best Optical people in Canada, and am sure are regarded as such by the military crack shots all through Canada. J. A. WILLIAMSON, Maj. 45th Rgt, Lindsay

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN :

On several occasions I have had my eyes tested for shooting glasses, which I use in my rifle shooting. I consider Mr. Cecil Elliott one of the best optical experts in the business and he is generally recognized as such by the crack rifle shots of the Dominion.

C. H. VANDERSLUYS, Capt., 44th Regt.

Lindsay, April 20th, 1910

To whom it may concern.

I desire to make it known that I have been fitted with shooting glasses by the representatives of the above mentioned college years ago and I know they are considered the most expert people in their line by all the skilled rifle shots of Canada, as they fit the finest shots both in Toronto and Ottawa during the rifle matches.

AT ROUTLEY'S

379 GEORGE STREET PETERBOROUGH — 282 QUEEN W. TORONTO

Opening Concerts Of New T. A. S. Hall, Wednesday and Thursday Evenings, April 27th and 28th.

There probably has not appeared in Peterborough in recent years an artist of the undoubted ability of Miss Margaret McCann, the Scottish Australian soprano, who is to appear as the principal at the Total Abstinence Society concerts on the above dates. Miss McCann's rendition of Irish and Scotch songs earns for her the wildest outbursts of enthusiasm wherever she appears.

The following flattering notices give an idea of her receptions:

Hallowe'en Concert, Montreal.

Miss McCann sang for us last night at our 52nd Annual Hallowe'en concert. Her true accent was adapted to the good old songs which were much appreciated, and both her voice and manner carried the large audience to a high pitch of enthusiasm. I can speak of her as a talented artist, who gave strength to our programme. Mr. J. Albert McLean, chairman of the concert committee, desires me to add that he heartily endorses these personal views in every particular.

Yours truly,

WM. McNAB,

President Caledonian Society, Montreal.

Canadian Commissioner.

Melbourne, July 30th, 1906.

During the three years I have made this city my headquarters, I have known Miss Maggie McCann in her professional capacity as the most popular and successful singer in Australia of Scottish songs.

It gives me pleasure to state that Miss McCann is deservedly held in the highest esteem in the principal cities throughout the Commonwealth, and most particularly by Scottish people, to whom she has endeared herself by her charm of manner and her delightful interpretation of the songs of old Caledonia.

Miss McCann purposes visiting Canada at an early date and I can, with confidence, recommend her to Scottish Societies, and others throughout the Dominion, as a talented singer, whose efforts will undoubtedly ensure the recognition they merit.

Yours faithfully,

D. H. ROSS,

Canadian Commercial Agent for Victoria, Tasmania, South & Western Australia.

Gaelic Concert at Carnegie Hall.

(New York Times)

The hit of the evening was made by Miss Margaret McCann, who has encored again and again. The gifted Australian actually brought Lover's Rory O'More and his Kathleen before the audience. Miss McCann possesses a splendid voice, which was heard to advantage last night.

Clan Macdonald Concert.

(The Eagle, Brooklyn)

The principal was Margaret McCann, a soprano soloist with a remarkably strong, sweet and sympathetic voice particularly adapted to Scottish melodies. She has a style which is all her own, with a charming personality which is sometimes pathetic, sometimes gay, and always pleasing.

Manitoba Free Press, Winnipeg.

The Australian Scottish singer, Margaret McCann, was well placed. She sang four songs most effectively, and had to respond to vociferous encores. If her acting was highly commendable her vocalism and accent were still more agreeable, for her well-trained soprano voice was used with much finish and refinement.

Saskatoon.

Miss M. McCann, the Australian nightingale, was beautiful. One fell in love with her bright smile and gentle ways, then having heard her magnificent voice, it was a case of being hopelessly in love.

The Telegraph, Brisbane.

Among the vocalists who appeared in the programme, the most conspicuous was Miss Margaret McCann, of Melbourne. Her first solo was the well-known ballad, "Doun the Burn, Davie, lad;" and in this she displayed the expressiveness which evidently has gained for her her reputation in Scottish song. Her voice is a mezzo-soprano, showing careful culture, and she sings with a careful and meritorious attention to the meaning of her song. She received loud and deserved recognition for her songs, to which she imparted a sympathy that proved irresistible to her hearers, and further recalls were the result.

Hobart Mercury, Tasmania.

At a Scottish concert held in the town hall, Hobart, Miss Margaret McCann was the principal vocalist; she sang "Duncan Gray," "Love was Once a Little Boy," "Doun the Burn," and "Caller Herrin'," in a way that has been rarely heard on any Australian platform. Miss McCann did not merely sing her songs, she interpreted and acted them in a really charming manner. Probably, no one who has only read Burns' "Duncan Gray" could have thought there were so much humour and melody in the song as Miss McCann showed it to possess.

London Morning Post.

Miss M. McCann's fine mezzo-soprano voice showed off to great advantage in her several songs, for which she was heartily encored.

Miss McCann will sing at the opening of the new T. A. S. hall on Wednesday and Thursday, April 27th and 28th. All seats reserved. The plan for both evenings will open on Monday morning at Mr. Lynch's drug store. Tickets 50c and $1.00.

WAS A MANIAC'S ACT.

Cardinal Murderer Not Responsible For Deed.

Cardinal, Ont., April 23.—An unbalanced mind led to the murder of Nathan C. Bilton by Albert Holmes at the farm of the latter near this village Thursday morning. The evidence at the inquest yesterday made this plain. The two men were on friendly terms. Bolton was assisting Holmes to cut up a pig, the latter not feeling well, and when seized with an uncontrollable impulse to kill, while insane, Holmes cut down Bolton with an axe.

Ethel Holmes, daughter of the murderer, a pretty miss of twenty-two, told her story in an unaffected manner. She was sitting in the kitchen when groans came from the adjoining shed, and she saw Bolton with his head split open. Her father had disappeared through a side door, going directly to the woods.

Though diligent search was made for the fugitive, no trace of him had been secured up to this morning. It is said that if he remains in hiding the matter of his capture will not be easily accomplished, as the section is densely wooded, making a search difficult. It is believed he will kill himself rather than submit to arrest.

Husband and wife had met in the barnyard, but it is not known whether they exchanged words, as Mrs. Holmes is too ill to attend the inquest.

Holmes had been greatly depressed since purchasing the farm from Bolton. He frequently said that he had made a mistake, that the farm was too big to work.

Holmes' mental worry had resulted in him attempting suicide one week ago by drinking poison. He worried over the disgrace of his foolish act, especially as he was an elder of the Presbyterian church.

Dr. Locke swore that Holmes, having suicidal tendencies, the sight of the blood, and the axe led him to murder in a moment of weakness.

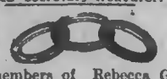
The first trace of Holmes was obtained yesterday from a tramp who says he passed him on the Grand Trunk track near Iroquois Thursday night going east.

THE PAINS OF THE AGED

Are usually due to the tendency of the kidneys to wear out as age advances, giving rise to the accumulation of poisons in the blood and causing backache, lumbago, aching limbs and rheumatism. Dr Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are particularly prized by aged people because they can be relied upon to invigorate the action of the liver, kidneys and bowels, and so remove the cause of pains and aches.

Will Meet at Boston.

New Orleans, April 23.—The International Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, has elected J. J. Carrigan of Memphis, president, and selected Boston as the place of meeting in 1912. R. E. Fulton, Kansas City, was elected secretary-treasurer.



The members of Rebecca Golden Link Lodge, will meet at 6.30 o'clock, in the schoolroom of St. James' church, on the evening of Sunday, April 24th, for the purpose of attending divine worship in conjunction with Peterborough and Otonabee lodges of Oddfellows.

The annual church service under the auspices of Peterborough and Otonabee lodges of Oddfellows, will be held in St. James' Methodist church on Sunday, April 24th, Rev. Brother Brown preaching the sermon. All the members of the above lodges and visiting brethren are asked to meet in the Oddfellows' Hall the same evening, at 6.15 o'clock.

COLLEGIATE HOCKEY CLUB "AT HOME"

Probably the most enjoyable social function of the season was the very delightful "At Home" given by the Collegiate Hockey Club in the Conservatory Music Hall last evening. There were about one hundred young couples in attendance, and all were loud in their praises of the hospitality of the club, extended in such a thoroughly delightful manner. The programme was a varied one and the music was the feature of the evening. It was provided by Mr. Bodley, of Toronto and he, at once made himself very popular with the dancers, by his exceeding liberality in responding to insistent encores. The spacious hall never looked more attractive than it did last night. Cosy corners were arranged here and there. The walls were gayly decorated and prominent among the decorations were pennants of many schools and colleges. At midnight a dainty luncheon was served, Hooper catering to the entire satisfaction of all.

The patronesses were Mesdames J. Crane, W. H. Hill, R. N. Merritt, J. E. Hodgson and J. F. Harvey. The honorary-secretary was Mr. Garnet Rankin and he and his able assistants, the members of the club, are to be congratulated on the success of the affair.

Chinese Still Rioting.

Hankow, China, April 23.—The situation in Hunan Province is reported as critical. Women and children are fleeing for their lives from Changsha, the capital. A number of villages near that city have been reduced to ashes by native mobs. The country is placarded with threats to kill all foreigners.

This disquieting news was brought by missionary refugees who arrived here from Changsha and near-by missionary stations yesterday forenoon. Many of them had traveled thirty miles on foot. Their houses had been burned and they had lost all of their personal effects.

The missionaries stated that gunboats in the river have their guns trained upon Changsha and near-by points, and have afforded a refuge for many foreigners. Three thousand Chinese imperial soldiers are occupying the stragetic points of the capital and detachments are being hurried to the outlying districts where rioting is reported.

Many Chinese have been killed. In one instance a technical school was set afire and thirty students were burned to death.

When vessels approached Changsha to rescue the imperilled ones the Chinese mob saturated junks with kerosene oil from the looted stations of the Standard Oil Co., and setting them afire allowed them to float down the stream in an attempt to fire the oncoming steamers.

Struck by Car.

Toronto, April 23.—D. Plews, aged 68, a cleaner at the general postoffice in East Adelaide street, was struck down by westbound car 1,046, at Queen and James streets, at 8.20 last night, and died in St. Michael's Hospital at 9.55 without having regained consciousness. The car was in charge of motorman 126 and conductor 449.

The old man was crossing the street from north to south, and apparently did not see or hear the approaching car, which was said by eye-witnesses to be going "pretty fast." He was struck on the side and thrown to the north of the tracks. The police ambulance removed him to the hospital, where it was found his skull was fractured.

Dropped Dead.

Whitby, April 23.—Robert Kelley, aged 50, employed by the Martin Manufacturing Co., buckle factory, dropped dead a few minutes before the whistle rang for six o'clock, last night. Dr. McGillivary pronounced the case one of heart failure. Deceased, who was an old soldier, married, and had one son.

Want Superannuation.

Ottawa, April 23.—At a meeting yesterday of the civil service federation, a resolution favoring a system of insurance among the members of the service, and the re-establishment of superannuation in the inside and its extension to the outside service was adopted.

LAY FOR WEEKS AT DEATH'S DOOR

But Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Mrs. Thompson's Dropsy.

It Started With Backache and Grew Worse Till the Doctor Said She Must Die.

Holt, Ont., April 23.—(Special).—All the countryside here is ringing with the wonderful cure of Mrs. Samuel Thompson, who lay at the point of death for weeks, swollen with Dropsy so that the doctor five different times decided to tap her but desisted because, as her husband said, "It might be better to let her die in peace." After the doctor had given her up Dodd's Kidney Pills cured her.

Mrs. Thompson's terrible trouble started with pain in the back. She grew worse and the doctor treated her for jaundice for eight weeks. Then her feet and legs began to swell, and it was realized that Dropsy was the trouble. For seven months she suffered. The doctor said there was no hope; she must die.

As a last resort Dodd's Kidney Pills were tried. The improvement was slow, but gradually her strength came back. To-day Mrs. Thompson is a well woman. She says, and the country knows, she owes her life to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

If the disease is of the Kidneys, or from the Kidneys, Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it.

WEDDING BELLS

McBAIN—CLUTE.

New Westminster, April 16.—A wedding in which great interest was taken was solemnized on Tuesday at Holy Trinity cathedral when Rev. C. D'Eeasum united in marriage Mr. Hubert Blake McBain, formerly of Peterborough, and Miss Doris Leslie Clute, youngest daughter of Mr. J. S. Clute, formerly inspector of customs for British Columbia. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a becoming gown of soft charmeuse mache en pdincesse over taffeta and the regulation veil and orange blossoms. She carried a sheaf of bridal roses with lilies-of-the-valley and maiden hair ferns, and wore as her only ornament a pearl necklace, the gift of the bridegroom. She was attended by her cousins, the Misses Eleanor and Gertrude Brown, as bridesmaids. They wore silk frocks, the former in pink and the latter in blue, with quaint poke bonnets to match, and carried shower bouquets of pink carnations. Master Lorning Lye of Victoria acted as page. He wore a pale blue suit of satin charmante, with lace collar and cuffs. The groom was supported by Mr. John Belyea and Mr. John Erskine, of Vancouver, formerly of Peterborough, and Mr. Norman Brown, of New Westminster, formerly of the Bank of Montreal, Peterborough, and Mr. Herbert Wood, of Victoria, son of Mr. R. E. Wood, Peterborough, were the ushers. Mr. Frank Major presided at the organ. During the ceremony the wedding party stood under a floral arch, the principal feature of the decorations, which had been placed in position by the girl friends of the bride. After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents only the immediate relatives and a few intimate friends being present. Mrs. Clute, mother of the bride, wore a princess gown of heliotrope silk with hat to match, and carried violets. Mrs. McBain of Peterborough, Ont., the groom's mother, looked very smart in mauve. Mr. and Mrs. McBain left on the afternoon train for Portland, where the honeymoon will be spent. On their return they will take up their residence in a cosy bungalow in Kitsalano, which has been built for them as a wedding gift. The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl necklace with pendant; to the bridesmaids and page, pearl brooches; to the groomsmen, pearl cuff links, and to the ushers, pearl stick pins.

New Bishop Arrives.

London, April 23.—Bishop Fallon, the new head of London diocese, arrived in London last evening. He was met by local clergy and taken to Mount St. Joseph, where he will remain in retirement until Monday, when the consecration takes place. When he stepped on to the London station platform last night it was his first visit to London.

A HINT TO YOUNG MOTHERS

Don't walk up and down the floor with a cross, restless child. Nothing can be more demoralizing to the little one and it is a serious tax upon the mother's strength and nerves. When a child is peevish and cross there is probably some little derangement of the stomach or bowels, and a dose of Baby's Own Tablets will remove the cause of the trouble and enable the little one to sleep soundly. Mrs. W. Bouffard, Piopolis, Que., says: "I have found Baby's Own Tablets superior to all other remedies for curing constipation and making teething easy. They also promote healthful sleep, and I recommend them to other mothers." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Mine Explosion In Ohio.

Steubenville, Ohio, April 23.—Nineteen miners are believed to be dead as the result of an explosion in one of the mines of the Youghiogheny and Ohio Coal Co., near New Amsterdam, yesterday.

Seven were taken from the shaft alive, but in an unconscious condition. Twelve are missing.

The shock of the explosion was felt for miles. The mine tipple was blown to bits.

RATEPAYERS ASK THAT NEW DIVISION BE FORMED

Otonabee Council Met and Transacted Considerable Amount of Business Yesterday.

WANT ROAD OPENED

Otonabee Council met on April 21st when the following business was transacted:

A petition was received from all the ratepayers on the 7th line South Keene road requesting to be detached from road division 22, and formed into a new road division. On motion the request was granted and a by-law passed making the change. It was decided to hold the Court of Revision on the 26th of May.

Mr. J. H. Taylor was present representing to the council that the deep ditch on the side of the road opposite D. P. McFarlane's lot which he excavated to drain his farm was dangerous to the travelling public. Mr. Anderson was appointed to interview the owner and occupant of the farm with a view to have it remedied by filling it up.

On motion the township rate was fixed at 22 mills, the same as it has been for a number of years.

A communication was received from Dumble & Johnston on behalf of Jas. Manley forbidding the Council to open the established road through his lot.

The following accounts were passed:

Wm. Dewart, gravel	$ 1.92
A. J. Cameron, laying out the road across 18 con 9	11.60
W. J. Porter, conveying Mina Pearson to House of Refuge	2.50
J. Whittington, draining tile	2.50

BIG MILLING RE-ORGANIZATION HAS BEEN CONSUMMATED

The Maple Leaf Milling Company, With a Capital of $5.000,000, Has Been Formed—Take Over Other Properties.

A STRONG ORGANIZATION

Negotiations for what is undoubtedly the largest milling consolidatation that has ever been effected in Ontario have just been completed in Toronto, and following them the official announcement is made of the organization of the Maple Leaf Milling Company, Limited, with a capital of $5,000,000.

The new Company has taken over the properties of the Hedley Shaw Milling Company Limited, and the Maple Leaf Flour Mills Company, Limited, and in addition secures from the new interests that have become identified with the Company $1,000,000, additional cash capital, which besides permitting of the erection of a modern 6,000 barrel mill and a million bushel elevator and storage warehouse at Port Colborne, will supply the new company with further working capital. It is understood that Mr. Cawthra Mulock, Toronto, is associated with Mr. Hedley Shaw, of the Hedley Shaw Milling Company Limited, and Mr. D. C. Cameron, President of the Maple Leaf Flour Mills Company Limited, in the organization of the new concern.

The share capital of the new Company will be $5,000,000, divided into $2,500,000 of 7 per cent. Cumulative Preferred Stock, and $2,500,000 of common stock. The Company has no bonds either issued or authorized.

The preferred stock will, therefore be in a particularly strong position as it is preferred both as to asset and dividends.

The ability of the Company to easily earn the 7 per cent. Cumulative Preferred dividend on $2,500,000 of preferred stock is indicated by the net earnings of the old Companies, as per certificate of Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Company, which shows that from September 25th, 1908, from which date the plans of the Maple Leaf Flour Mills Company, Limited were in operation, to August 20th 1909, these net earnings amounted to $218,843.00, and from August 21st 1909 to February 28th, 1910 the net earning of the Companies amounted to $166,793.00. This would be equal to over 13 per cent on the preferred stock, and the payment of the 7 per cent. dividend on that stock would leave slightly over 6 per cent for distribution on the common stock. The new Company's earning power will be very greatly increased once the new mill now under erection at Port Colborne is completed. The future of the Company is sure to be watched with the greatest interest by Ontario, inasmuch as the new Company will have a capacity fully equal to that of any other Canadian Milling concern, and, perhaps, more than any other Company has, and will be almost entirely an Ontario concern having all but one of its mills as well as its head office within the Province of Ontario.

The entire plant which the new Company will have at Port Colborne will be the most modern of its kind in Canada, the equipment of the new Mill being fully equal to that of any other mill in the world. Such a site it is believed by experts will make the Maple Leaf Milling Company, Limited, an important factor right from the moment the mill is in operation at that point, inasmuch as by its geographical position, it will enable the new Company to lay down its flour almost at any point in Canada, at all Atlantic sea ports, and in the British and Foreign Markets, considerably cheaper than can be done by any other milling concern.

During the past few years the farmers of Ontario have been getting further away from the cultivation of wheat and going more extensively into stock raising, and this should give the Port Colborne Mill a very ready market for its by-products.

All of the old officials who made the old companies so successful in the past will, in addition to retaining their financial positions in the new Company, retain their active interest in its management.

Mr. Hedley Shaw, who was the founder of the Hedley Shaw Milling Company, Limited, and the General Manager of the Maple Leaf Flour Mills Company, Limited will be Managing Director of the Maple Leaf Milling Company, Limited.

The firm of Cawthra Mulock & Co., members of the Toronto Stock Exchange, have made arrangements for a public offering of $2,000,000 of the 7 per cent. Cumulative Preferred Stock at $100.00 per share, the same to carry with it a bonus, equal to 25 per cent. of Common stock, that is for every four shares of the preferred stock subscribed for the applicant will receive as a bonus one share of common stock.

To a very large extent, the shareholders of the old companies have become shareholders of the new, indicating their continued confidence in the bright future the Company should have now that it will be able to do business on a larger scale, owing to the large amount of additional capital that has been placed in its Treasury.

It is expected that full details in connection with the public offering will be made public within a few days.

CITY BASEBALL LEAGUE ADOPTS STRONG CONSTITUTION

RIGID RESIDENCE RULE WILL BE PUT IN FORCE

Rules Drawn Up by Special Committee Appointed Were Adopted With a Few Minor Changes at Meeting in Y. M. C. A. Last Night—Schedule Opens May 21.

FOUR TEAMS IN THE RACE

An important meeting of the City Baseball League executive was held last evening at the Y.M.C.A., when the constitution drafted by the special committee appointed for that purpose was brought down and discussed, the rules being adopted with a few slight changes. The committee, which was composed of Messrs. R. M. Glover, C. G. Graham, E. N. McWilliams and Sec.-Treas. Curtis, met on Wednesday night and drew up the constitution on lines similar to the City Hockey League, which has weathered four or five seasons without a protest being brought in. There were present at last night's meeting President H. A. Yenney in the chair, Sec.-Treas. Curtis, Len Dobson, West Ends; Herb. Reid, Park St, A. C.; J. Doris, J. Hickey, T.A.S.; W. G. Metheral and F. D. Craig, Strathconas. The constitution adopted was as follows:

1.—This organization shall be known as the Peterborough City Amateur Baseball League.

2.—The annual meeting of the league shall be held not later than April 18.

3.—The active members of the league shall consist of the President, Vice-President, Sec-Treasurer, and a representative of each club.

4.—A majority of officers shall constitute a quorum and due notice of every meeting must be given to each representative two days before such meeting, the said meeting to be open for business at eight o'clock if a quorum is present.

5.—The entrance fee of $2 must accompany each application for admission to the league, same being returned if application be not accepted.

6.—No club can be represented at the annual meeting unless the admission fee of $2.00 be paid on or before date of meeting.

7.—No verbal proxies will be accepted at any meeting and all proxies must be signed by an officer of the club and witnessed.

8.—The amount of deposit required from each club to be $5.00, same to be paid into the secretary-treasurer before schedule is drawn up and to be returned at the end of the season, to finishing the season.

9.—Spalding rules to govern all games as far as actual play is concerned.

10.—All games must be played on advertised time. Any team delaying games will be fined $2 a team.

11.—All games must be played at Riverside Park unless otherwise directed by the league executive.

12.—All games must be played to a finish that is there must be no tie games.

13.—Umpires to be appointed by the league executive.

14.—Any club playing a man who violates any rules of this league must lose such game and is also liable to suspension.

15.—Any amateur player will be allowed to play in the league, but he must be a resident of the city at the time the schedule is drawn up.

16.—No club will be allowed to enter the league after May 1st.

17.—No permits or special privileges will be issued to any club under any consideration.

18.—Each player in the league must hold a certificate from the league to entitle him to play in such games.

19.—The number of certificates to be issued to each club will be twenty.

20.—The home team must supply three balls to the umpire before the game is called, the same must be satisfactory to the umpire.

21.—The sum of $3 must accompany a protest, same to be returned to the club protesting if such protest is proved. In the event of the protest being lost, the amount will go to the league.

22.—The first game shall start at 2.15 o'clock, and the second one ten minutes after its conclusion.

23.—In the consideration of a protest the representatives of the clubs interested will not be allowed to vote.

24.—A copy of the constitution must be sent to the secretary of each club.

25.—Certificates duly signed by the president and secretary of the league and club must be furnished to the umpire in case of dispute.

26.—Certificates to be handed out to the clubs on the night the schedule is adopted.

An agreement was read from the owners of Riverside Park for the use of the grounds for the season and was adopted with one change, which will be submitted to Messrs Howden and Wightman. The ladies will be cordially welcomed at City League Park this season and every Saturday will be ladies' day, inasmuch as there will be no charge for ladies either to the grounds or to the grand stand.

It was decided that a triple schedule should be played, the games to commence on Saturday, May 21st, and a committee composed of the president, secretary and F. D. Craig was appointed to draw up the schedule. The meeting decided that the certificate should be given out on the night upon which the schedule is adopted, and that the $2 entrance fee and $5 deposit should also be paid on or before that date.

It was decided that the admission fee should be 15c. with 5c. extra for the grand stand.

The question of whether the first game should be seven innings or nine in duration was left in abeyance with the next meeting.

AYLESWORTH MAKES RULING

Application to Have Hydro-Electric Schemes Declared Ultra Vires Is Refused by the Minister of Justice In Report Presented Yesterday —It Relates Solely to Municipal Affairs, Says. Minister.

Toronto, April 23.—The Hydro-Electric power legislation passed by the Ontario Legislature, for which disallowance was asked by certain financial interests in Toronto and Montreal, is not ultra vires of the Legislature, and the petition for disallowance is refused. This is the substance of the report made by Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, Minister of Justice, to the Governor-General in council, and received at the Parliament buildings yesterday. In this finding, the Minister of Justice says:

"The undersigned has carefully considered this legislation, and the various objections urged against it. The ground that the act is ultra vires of the Legislature, although taken by some of the petitions, and to some extent urged by counsel advocating the disallowance of the act, is, in the opinion of the undersigned, quite untenable. The act clearly relates solely to municipal institutions in the province, or matters merely of a local or private nature in the province, all of which are subjects declared by section 92 of the British North America Act, 1867, to be within the exclusive authority of the Provincial Legislature."

The act, for which a disallowance petition was drawn up, was passed last year by the Legislature "to validate certain contracts entered into with the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario . . ." In this act, the contracts with the various municipalities were confirmed, although actions were commnced in the courts to have them declared void. Then the electrical interests went to Ottawa.

In his preamble, the Minister of Justice reviews the legislation, the act provided that the contracts with the municipalities should be varied in certain particulars, that the names of some municipalities should be stricken out and that of Ingersoll added, and, in the recital, it is enumerated that in view of certain doubts as to the validity of the contracts in question, such doubts should be removed.

The strongest passage in the document, which consists of a dozen typewritten page , is taken from an opinion of Sir Barnes Peacock, read on behalf of the Privy Council in the case of Hodge v. The Queen, which says:

"When the British North America Act enacted that there should be a Legislature for Ontario, and that its legislative assembly should have exclusive to make laws for the province and for provincial purposes in relation to the matters enumerated in section 92, it conferred powers not in any sense to be exercised by delegation from or as agents of the Imperial Parliament, but authority as plenary and as ample within the limits prescribed by section 92 as the Imperial Parliament in the plentitude of its power possessed and could bestow. Within these limits of subject and area, the local Legislature is supreme, and has the same authority as the imperial Parliament, or the Parliament of the Dominion."

THE FUNERAL WILL BE QUIET

Henry Van Dyke Preaches the Sermon at the Service In New York This Afternoon, After Which the Remains Go to Elmira—Redding, Conn., Is to Have Memorial Library as Monument.

New York, April 23.—A simple funeral service over the body of Samuel L. Clemens, will be held in this city this afternoon. The body will then be taken to Elmira, N.Y., where it will be buried beside those of his wife and children. Later a public memorial service will be held in a large hall.

Dr. Henry Van Dyke of Princeton University will preach the funeral sermon to-day, which will be held at the Brick Presbyterian Church, 37th street and Fifth avenue, at 3 o'clock. The service will be attended by only relatives and close friends of the dead author. There will be no pall-bearers, and although final arrangements have not been made the service probably will consist of merely a short address by Dr. Van Dyke. There probably will be no music. The body will be brought to New York from Redding, Conn., on a special car.

At Elmira another simple service will be held. This service will probably be at the home of Gen. Langdon, a relative of Mr. Clemens' wife, and so far as now known will consist simply of a short address by Jos. Twitchell of Hartford, Conn., who was one of Mr. Clemens' oldest friends.

Memorial Library.

Redding, Conn., April 23.—The free public library which the literary colony here is building, will start as a permanent monument to the town's most distinguished citizen. The building is to be known as the "Mark Twain Memorial Library."

One of Mr. Clemens' last acts was to draw a check for $6,000 as his contribution towards the building fund. Mr. Clemens also gave a great part of his private library to the institution.

Greatest Humorist.

London, Eng., April 23.—The Daily Mail says that it is no exaggeration to say that Mark Twain was the greatest humorist the modern world had known.

"With the exception of Tolstoi," says The Morning Leader, "probably there is no writer whose death would touse more universal emotions of respect and regret."

"Huck Finn" Weeps.

Paris, Mo., April 23.—B. G. M. (Barney) Farthing said to be the original of "Huckleberry Finn," wept when he heard of Mark Twain's death. "The old days are passing," he said, "even the long sweep of the majestic Mississippi seems to have dwindled. The noise of its traffic and the music of its deep-throated whistles, are practically no more. The man who put into words for the delight of the world the pictures of the great river is dead."

All business places and city offices will be closed on the day of the funeral and memorial services will be held at the same hour as the services in the east.

A movement has been started to have Clemens' boyhood home purchased by the state, and State Senator McAllister said that a bill to this effect would be introduced in the next Legislature.

Nearly Eighty.

Salt Lake City, Utah, April 23.—"Mark Twain lacked only six months and nine days of four score years," said Judge C. C. Goodwin, a veteran editor, in commenting on the death of the humorist.

"I know he said that he was only 75," continued the judge, "but when we were in Virginia City, Nevada, Mark was older than I was, and I am 78. Here is the record of it." He opened a book of biographies by Amelia J. Carver, published in 1889. There it was: "Samuel L. Clemens, born Nov. 30, 1830."

Roosevelt's Visit to Paris.

Paris, April 23.—The only discordant note heard from the Paris press in its comment upon Mr. Roosevelt's visit comes from the ultra clerical papers like Gil Blas, which openly derides the American guest as a charlatan.

Frederick Masson, writing under the heading "Hail, Caesar," publishes a remarkable attack, in which he paints Mr. Roosevelt as a demagog who, with all the skill of a Barnum, is arranging for his reappearance upon the American stage.

After describing American democracy as marching between plutocracy and demagogy, the writer asks if it is possible that the former President intends to plunge again into the fight which had already provoked a crash of credit in the United States and in which anarchy under cover of demagogy may precipitate bloodshed, pillage and arson in industrial centres.

Death Claimed Whole Family.

Smith's Falls, April 23.—Within four weeks, an entire family at Easton's Corners, have died. They were, Charles Putnam, his sister, May Putnam, and their aunt, Mrs. Charles Wickware.

A LAPSE OF INDUSTRY

A Short Story.

"Are you not ready, Wanda?"

Herr Udo Weber's sleek pair of brown mares had been hitched to the hack, a sort of combination two-seated family carriage and light market waggon, for a full half-hour.

Herr Udo's square-toed boots, in that space of time, had made many impatient impressions on the sandy yard between his loam and his substantial three-roomed stone house, with its little loft room, led to by an outside ladder, and its stone-floored front porch.

The yard was bare of grass and surrounded by the rounded stones of the country. Everything in it, from the soap kettle and cedar churn under the elms in the back, to the little cedars and the thorny, yellow-flowering agareta bushes, with their holly-shaped gray-green leaves, in the front was aggressively clean.

Had not Wanda, the daughter and only child of the household, swept it clear of every night-fallen stray twig and leaf between the hours of 6 and 7 that morning, after she had shelled and placed in a covered box the ten bushels of corn Herr Peter Bach was coming for that morning?

Since the time, sixty years before, when a handful of settlers from the fatherland had come to southwest Texas to do battle with the Indians, the wolves and the "rattlers" of the "Texas Alps," until the county in which they had settled had become prosperous, to the verge of riches, the people had held to the habits of their forbears. The Wandas and Hildas worked as did the men, and life was similar to that of the parent country.

"Hold your impatience, Udo," Frau Mathilde's lean, smiling face beamed from the doorway. "We will presently be ready. If you were a girl going to the house of your betrothed lover, you, too, would take time to make yourself pretty."

Just then Wanda appeared on the outside ladder, bearing two enormous pasteboard boxes. Carefully turning up and pinning the full-gathered skirt of her stiffly-starched white dress, the tight-fitting basque of which was made with generous lace-trimmed ruffles at the wrists, Wanda climbed into the hack, sat on the back seat, settled the blue beads about her neck and carefully arranged the pink roses on her coarse black straw hat so they would not touch the roof of the hack.

Herr Udo had already taken his place in the vehicle and sat in stolid indifference, while his wife climbed to his side and deposited her box or gift candy beside Wanda's boxes.

Herr Udo and Frau Mathilde were in good spirits. They were prosperous themselves, but Tekla and Alfred Dietz were more prosperous still. In addition to the ranch on which they lived, they owned several adjoining ranches. Herr Weber had money loaned out, but Herr Dietz had five times as much loaned, and to inherit the property of the old ones there was no great household of children—only August and the two daughters, Frieda and Aurena.

Herr Udo and Frau Mathilde had right to good spirits, indeed. Was not the twenty miles' journey of the morning to take Wanda for the customary month's visit, before her marriage, to the home of her betrothed husband? And the betrothed was August Dietz, the son of Alfred and Tekla! And were not the parents of the young man and he himself as pleased as they?

As the brown mares jogged slowly through the deep sand in the long two miles of lane that led between wooded pastures of post oak and black jack timber the elders talked volubly of the virtues of August Dietz.

"They may love August," thought Wanda to herself as their conversation fell on her ears, "but, Gott, it is not me!"

August was quiet and mild; he was tall and light, and his high forehead ran so far back it gave him a slightly bald appearance. Wanda had no fancy for August. It was Hugo Klein—Hugo, the black-haired and brown-eyed—who held her heart.

But Hugo's attentions had not been to the liking of Udo and Mathilde. There were too many of the young Kleins—six boys younger than Hugo—to inherit the small estate of the mismanaging Felix Klein. Then, too, Hugo was both schlecht and lazy, else why should he be ordered away from home by his father—why should he stay and work by the month for Adolf Hellmick, when his parents had need of his services?

Wanda had spoken for Hugo then. What man would want to work when nothing was given for his labour but his bread and a few coarse clothes? Was he not near one and twenty? And did not every one know that Felix Klein gave him no more than if he were a child?

After the evening at the mall when Udo and Mathilde had forbidden Wanda to walk out to the midnight supper with Hugo he had gone to San Antonio.

"Wait for me heart's dearest," he had said to her on the morning when they had parted under the pecan trees, on the little trout stream, hidden from the stone house of Udo by the rocky hill, "I'll make enough for both after a while."

After that Wanda had not missed one day from the mail box across the river and a mile from her home, not even the days when the "northers" swept over the fields. It was this eagerness for the mail that had caused the engagement to August Dietz. She could not let her parents know her letters were from Hugo Klein, so had pretended they were from August—from August, who would have, indeed, been most happy to write them.

When Udo and Mathilde, delighted, had invited August to the house, Wanda was distressed, but perforce, had to treat him civilly. When he had asked her parents' consent to his marriage to their daughter, she had, through fear that they would know her letters were not from him, rashly consented to the marriage.

"Any other than Hugo would be jealous," Wanda had thought on the evening when August, in the presence of her parents, had presented to her a betrothal ring, "but Hugo will understand."

When August had gone, she took the ring off her finger and thrust it disdainfully down under some papers in an old iron-shaped chest brought over from Germany by her grandfather, and got out her writing material.

At noon the travellers crossed the Guadalupe with the mighty cypress trees on its banks and the water lily pads floating on its clear surface. Here they camped to feed the fodder fastened under the back to their horses, and to eat their own lunch.

While her father attended to the team and her mother dipped a pitcher of water from a watercress-bordered spring at the edge of the river, Wanda, with a heavy heart, spread their lunch of wienerwurst, doughnuts, bread and beer. Only three more miles and they would be at the Dietz home! Could she endure a month there—a month of August—and his insipid and tiresome attempts at love-making?

Her father and mother might be getting ready her wedding trousseau, but August Dietz should never buy the white silk wedding dress and the wax orange blossom bridal wreath (a privilege of the German bridegroom). No. They had worried her into saying she would marry him, but he should never be her husband.

Her plan of action was fully made before her father and mother had left the Dietz home that afternoon.

When Mathilde climbed out of the hack that evening she stumbled over a pair of reddened and stone-chafed leather shoes on the floor of the Vehicle. She held them up in dismay.

"See, Udo," she cried, "Wanda has left her working-shoes, and what she will wear on her feet, to help in the work, I cannot tell. The cloth-buttoned shoes she wore away from here will not last the week out for work, and Tekla told me they were going to burn cactus for the cows to-morrow."

Udo was tired and sleepy. "Never mind," he grunted, "Wanda'll show the Dietzes what they are going to have come into their family, with or without shoes."

It is customary for the prospective bride, visiting the family of her betrothed, to assist in all duties to render herself as attractive as possible by industry. But Wanda lived the life of the sluggard during the twenty days she ate the bread of Dietz.

When she was at home she communed with the cows at 4 o'clock; here she lay in bed till 7 o'clock, while Aurelia, Frieda and their mother milked.

Every day while Frau Dietz and her daughter sweated with Herr Dietz and August in the stock food preparation the burning of the spines from the prickly pear—Wanda, in a white dress with a ribbon at her waist and followed by the wistful eyes of August, sauntered down to the fishing place on the little creek near.

"Wanda Weber is not for you, son, not for you," the elder Dietz said to their son at the end of the first week. "Donner und blitzen! She does nothing but eat and sleep and eat! With her for a frau you would soon lack bread."

"But, father," protested the young man hopefully, "perhaps she will do better after we are married."

"You are the prince of Dumm-Kopfs, August, if you think that," answered the old man. "A wedding ring never yet changed laziness to industry."

The second week of Wanda's visit passed and the third began. Wanda still fished and wrote letters. Even August unwillingly acknowledged to himself that the sweet-natured girl, the best dancer, the most graceful waltzer he had ever seen, would not work.

At the end of the third week August took her home, and, to Udo's surprise, refused to get out of the hack before turning homeward.

"Did you have a good visit, daughter?" asked her mother. Wanda sat down in the kitchen doorway and buried her face in her white skirt.

"They don't want me, August does not want me," she said in muffled tones. "They say I am too lazy to make August a fit wife and they would rather see him dead than married to me."

Udo and Mathilde were dumbfounded. Why, in one day Wanda had been known to kill a thousand of the giant grasshoppers that eat the young cotton after it grows two leaves. She could shock hay all day in the fields and wash and cook half the night.

"Bah!" exclaimed Herr Udo, aroused to furious anger. "They expect too much of a woman! If you had another lover at hand, Wanda, you should marry him this week, if only to show the dull-witted Dietzes that Wanda Weber has not to beg for a husband!"

"Do you mean it, father?" faltered Wanda, trembling. "If you do, I can find a lover."

"Am I not a man of my word?" answered Udo.

"Who do you suppose is the lover Wanda has in mind?" asked Udo of his wife that evening, after Wanda had climbed the ladder to her loft room.

"It might be Paul Dannheim," hazarded Mathilde.

"Paul Dannheim!" Herr Udo rubbed his hands complacently. "The Dannheims are almost as rich as the Dietzes."

In four days from that time Hugo Klein rode up to Udo's house, a long dress box in hand.

Udo looked at him stupidly.

"Oh, father," cried Wanda, clutching her father's arm, "this is my lover, and, father, you will keep your word?"

A variety of emotions passed over Udo's fat face as he looked into Hugo's pale one. Udo was a man of his word, however.

"Come in, my son," he said finally, "and drink coffee with your mother and me." When his back was turned Hugo held out the box to Wanda.

"Look inside, my sweet," he said, "there is something for you to wear to-morrow!"

Wanda removed the lid and displayed a beautiful white satin robe and a wax orange-flower wreath.

"Oh, Hugo," she cried, laying her head on his shoulders, with a little laugh that was near to tears, "I'll never be lazy again."

NA-DRU-CO

Medicinal Preparations Are Not "Cure-Alls"

Neither are they intended to take the place of your physician

Reasonable Claims

To claim that any remedy will cure half a dozen, or even two or three, totally distinct diseases, is to at once discredit that remedy with every thinking man or woman.

To claim that any household remedy can take the place, when you are ill, of your physician's skilled diagnosis and prescription, is equally absurd.

We make no such claims for NA-DRU-CO remedies.

But we do claim that in emergencies when you cannot get the doctor quickly, and on the many other occasions when a reliable household remedy is needed, the right NA-DRU-CO preparation is the safest and best thing you can use.

If, for example, you feel an attack of sore throat or tonsilitis coming on, two or three applications of NA-DRU-CO Stainless Iodine Ointment will check it at once, just as NA-DRU-CO Wild Strawberry Extract will cure bowel complaint or NA-DRU-CO Toothache Gum stop a toothache.

NA-DRU-CO — TRADE MARK — ALWAYS LOOK FOR THIS TRADE MARK

Reliable Remedies

There are over fifty separate and distinct NA-DRU-CO Medicinal Preparations. Each one is compounded by expert chemists from the purest and best ingredients that money can buy. Each one has been tested for years, and has been proved worthy of confidence before being admitted to the NA-DRU-CO line.

Thus under the NA-DRU-CO Trade Mark you can get a thoroughly reliable household remedy for each of the common ills.

To put the reliability of the NA-DRU-CO Preparations beyond doubt or question, we are prepared to furnish to your physician or druggist, or to any other physician or druggist in Canada, on request, a full list of the ingredients in any NA-DRU-CO medicinal or toilet preparation.

Ask these men, who are fully qualified to judge, and in whom you place implicit confidence, all about the NA-DRU-CO line.

If any NA-DRU-CO preparation you try, whether medicinal or toilet, does not entirely satisfy you, the druggist from whom you bought it will willingly refund your money.

Your druggist can supply you with any NA-DRU-CO preparation, for even if he has not the particular article you ask for in stock, he can get it within two days from our nearest wholesale branch.

THE FAMILY HEARTH

How delightful it would be if the summer when all out-of-doors is so attractive could be lived through without the necessity of eating. Eating is at best a poor pleasure, seldom contributing real enjoyment, most endurable in cold and blustering days when the sun is obscured and it is not pleasant out of the house.

To sit in the sun and to hear a ruby-crowned kinglet singing in the larch which is just faintly suffused with green, to watch his gorgeous crown flash into sight—to ramble off under the spell of his music into memories of other days and other times you have heard this bird—and then to be brought with a thud to earth with the mundane question, "What will you have for lunch?" While you are considering which is least objectionable and soonest disposed of, an egg or a bowl of soup, the ruby crown flies off and you are left sunning yourself, but without the joy of his melody.

Every day a new note is added to the morning chorus, the chirping sparrow and the song, the purple finch, the robin and very seldom the meadowlark, making up the chief performers. Down at the bay the white-breasted swallows are turning and wheeling over the water, the sunlight gleaming on their rich coats and snowy breasts. Out by West Webster the vesper sparrows are fairly thick by the roadside and in the fields the white tail feathers marking them plainly as they flit before you.

SEASONABLE FARE.

Apple Salad.

Soak one-half cabbage one-half hour in cold salted water. Shred fine with a sharp knife, giving preference to the upper portion of the cabbage. Add four apples cut fine, a small cup of tarragon vinegar, about the same of olive oil, a dash of paprika and cayenne and a little sugar. Toss up and down with a fork and arrange on lettuce leaves.

Potato Salad.

One-half cup vinegar, one-half cup butter, two eggs well beaten, one-half cup milk, one tablespoonful mustard, two tablespoons sugar, a little salt, a little cayenne pepper. Scald vinegar and butter and while hot add the other ingredients well beaten together and cook over hot water till it thickens. When cold pour over two quarts cold boiled potatoes cut in dice and one small onion and tablespoon parsley chopped fine.

For salad the potatoes should always be boiled with their skins on and taken from the water at the point when just done. When the salad is quite ready, throw it back and forth from one bowl to another to evenly distribute the dressing. One fine cook tosses it back and forth a dozen times.

Grandma's Hard Gingerbread.

Three cups molasses, 1 cup butter, 2 teaspoons ginger, 3-4 cup sour milk, 1 heaping teaspoon soda, flour for a stiff dough.

Beat molasses, butter and sugar together for a few minutes and add milk, soda and flour. Mould, roll into cards, grease with a knife and bake in a quick oven. If this gingerbread is kept several weeks, or even months, it is nicer.

Sayings.

Women who have lost their faith are angels who have lost their wings. —Dr. Walter Smith.

Whatever be a man's rank or station he ought to be treated with mildness and civility.—Duke of Wellington.

When one is really young everything is possible; when one is old most things are conceivable.—E. F. Benson.

Give a man health and a course to steer, and he'll never stop to trouble about whether he's happy or not.—G. Bernard Shaw.

Never do anything that involves secrecy or the want of candour, or it may lead to dark methods of inquiry by your neighbour.—Judge Willis.

Adversity is sometimes hard upon a man; but for one man who can stand prosperity there are a hundred that will stand adversity.—Carlyle.

Domestic Hints.

Lamp chimneys will not break if placed in water, which must be very slowly brought to the boil.

Great care should be taken in cleaning velvet, as it loses its fine appearance if wrung or pressed when wet.

A pail of water standing in a room that has been newly painted will quickly absorb the disagreeable odour of the paint.

When moving into a new house, by putting pieces of cork to the back of pictures it will prevent damp from coming through.

Stop cracks in walls with plaster of Paris. Mix it with vinegar and not with water, as water sets too quickly, while vinegar renders it more pliable.

To clean white canvas gaiters a paste should be made of pipe clay mixed with soap and a dash of blue. Gum or starch should be dissolved in the water mixed with these ingredients.

Damp rooms and cupboards are often caused by the house not being provided with air bricks. A little unslacked lime kept in a room will keep it fairly dry. The lime loses its efficacy after a time, and then must be renewed.

A good woman knows the power she has of shaping the lives of her children, and she endeavours to use that power wisely and well. She teaches her boys and girls that they must be brave in doing their duty, truthful in speech and action, honest and honourable, kind, cheerful and unselfish. By her own example she enforces and illustrates what she teaches.

There are always small pieces of soap left in every household. Collect them, add half their weight in oatmeal, put the soap into a pan with a little water to dissolve. Stir till melted, then add the oatmeal, and when it is well mixed turn out on a piece of wood to cool. Divide it into small cakes with a sharp knife, and leave it there for four days to set before using.

Save your egg shells, and use them to clean bottles and cruets. Store them in a box, and when you wish to wash the bottles crush the shells up very finely, partly fill the bottles with them, pour hot soap suds over them, and then shake well. Rinse out in clear water, and your bottles will be bright and clean. This hint is magic for cleaning vinegar, wine, or any other bottles that are much stained.

Nutmegs should always be grated starting from the blossom end. They grate better that way.

The ribs of a discarded umbrella may be utilized for tying up tall and willowy palms in pots.

Most housekeepers are agreed that better work can be accomplished by using a heavy iron than a light one.

When boiling fresh potatoes try putting a sprig of mint in the water to give a delicious flavour to the vegetable.

If a turkey or chicken is rubbed inside and out with a lemon it will make the meat white, juicy and tender.

Cream to be whipped must be one day old. No sugar should be added either before or after it is beaten. The sweetening shoul be in the pudding or cake with which it is served.

When frying hot fat may be spilled on the floor. In that case pour cold water on it at once. The cold water will cause the fat to harden, when it can be taken off with a knife, instead of being allowed to sink into the wood or stone of the floor.

A busy housewife can save herself and her maids a great deal of labour by covering all the larder, cupboard and scullery shelves with oilcloth. This is easily kept clean. The kitchen table is also covered in the same manner, while a few odd floor tiles on which saucepans can be put are equally useful, as they are so easily wiped clean.

To remove stains from broadcloth take one ounce of pipe clay that has been ground fine and mix it with twelve drops of alcohol, and the same quantity of spirits of turpentine. Moisten a little of this mixture with more alcohol, and rub it on the spots. Let it remain until dry, then rub off with a woollen cloth and spots will disappear.

Parisian Sage, the Hair Grower, Is Now Sold in Canada on Money Back Plan.

It's a mighty good thing for the women of Canada that Parisian Sage can now be obtained in every town of consequence.

No preparation for the hair has done so much to stop falling hair and eradicate dandruff and make women's hair beautiful as Parisian Sage.

Parisian Sage is the only certain destroyer of the dandruff microbe which is the cause of 97 per cent. of hair troubles.

These pernicious, persistent and destructive little devils thrive on the ordinary hair tonics.

Parisian Sage is such an extraordinary and quick acting rejuvenator that Wm. Madill, who is the agent in Peterborough guarantees it to cure dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks or money back.

It is a magnificent dressing for women who desire luxuriant, lustrous hair that compels admiration.

And a large bottle of Parisian Sage costs only 50 cents at Wm. Madill's, and all over Canada.

THE PORT OF MISSING MEN

By MEREDITH NICHOLSON,

Author of "The House of a Thousand Candles"

COPYRIGHT, 1907, BY THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

"Prisoners, my dearest Jules; prisoners, do you understand? Will you please arrange with dear Armitage to let us go home and be good?"

Claiborne emptied the contents of Durand's pockets upon the ground and tossed a flask to Armitage.

"We will discuss matters at the bungalow. They always go to the nearest farmhouse to sign the treaty of peace. Let us do everything according to the best traditions."

A moment later Oscar ran in from the direction of the gap to find the work done and the party ready to leave.

"Where is the Servian?" demanded Armitage.

The soldier saluted, glanced from Chauvenet to Durand and from Claiborne to Armitage.

"He will not come back," said the sergeant quietly.

"That is bad," remarked Armitage. "Take my horse and ride down to Storm Springs and tell Baron von Marhof and Judge Claiborne that Captain Claiborne has found John Armitage and that he presents his compliments and wishes them to come to Mr. Armitage's house at once. Tell them that Captain Claiborne sent you and that he wants them to come back with you immediately."

"But Armitage — not Marhof — for God's sake, not Marhof." Chauvenet staggered to his feet, and his voice choked as he muttered his appeal. "Not Marhof!"

"We can fix this among ourselves—just wait a little till we can talk over our affairs. You have quite the wrong impression of us, I assure you, messieurs," protested Durand.

"That is your misfortune. Thanks for the brandy, M. Durand. I feel quite restored," said Armitage, rising. And the color swept into his face, and he spoke with quick decision.

"Oh, Claiborne, will you kindly give me the time?"

Claiborne laughed. It was a laugh of real relief at the change in Armitage's tone.

"It's a quarter of 7. This little scrap didn't take as much time as you thought it would."

Oscar had mounted Armitage's horse, and Claiborne stopped him as he rode past on his way to the road.

"After you deliver Mr. Armitage's message, get a doctor and tell him to be in a hurry about getting here."

"No!" began Armitage. "Good Lord, no! We are not going to advertise this mess. You will spoil it all. I don't propose to be arrested and put in jail, and a doctor would blab it all. I tell you, no!"

"Oscar, go to the hotel at the Springs and ask for Dr. Bledsoe. He's an army surgeon on leave. Tell him I want him to bring his tools and come to me at the bungalow. Now go!"

The conspirators' horses were brought up, and Claiborne put Armitage upon the best of them.

"Don't treat me as though I were a sick priest! I tell you, I feel bully! If the prisoners will kindly walk ahead of us we'll graciously ride behind. Or we might put them both on one horse. Forward!"

Chauvenet and Durand, as they marched ahead of their captors, divided their time between execrating each other and trying to make terms with Armitage. The thought of being hailed before Baron von Marhof gave them great concern.

"Wait a few hours, Armitage. Let us sit down and talk it all over. We're not as black as your imagination paints us!"

"Save your breath! You've had your fun so far, and now I'm going to have mine. You fellows are all right to sit in dark rooms and plot murder and treason, but you're not made for work in the open. Forward!"

They were a worn company that drew up at the empty bungalow, where the lamp and candles flickered eerily. On the table still lay the sword, the cloak, the silver box, the insignia of noble orders.

Chapter XXVI

"WHO ARE YOU, JOHN ARMITAGE?"

"THESE gentlemen doubtless wish to confer. Let them sequester themselves!" and Armitage waved his hand to the line of empty sleeping rooms. "I believe M. Durand already knows the way about. He may wish to explore my trunks again," and Armitage bowed to the two men, who, with their wrists tied behind them and a strap linking them together, looked the least bit absurd.

"Now, Claiborne, that foolish Oscar has a first aid kit of some sort that he used on me a couple of weeks ago. Dig it out of his simple cell back there, and we'll clear up this mess in my shoulder. Twice on the same side, but I believe they actually cracked a bone this time."

He lay down on a long bench, and Claiborne cut off his coat.

"I'd like to hold a little private execution for this," growled the officer. "A little lower and it would have caught you in the heart."

"Don't be spiteful! I'm as sound as wheat. We have them down, and the victory is ours. The great fun is to come when the good Baron von Marhof gets here. If I were dying I believe I could hold on for that."

"You're not going to die, thank God! Just a minute more until I pack this shoulder with cotton. I can't do anything for that smashed bone, but Bledsoe is the best surgeon in the army, and he'll fix you up in a jiffy."

"That will do now. I must have on a coat when our honored guests arrive, even if we omit one sleeve—yes, I guess we'll have to, though it does seem a bit affected. Dig out the brandy bottle from the cupboard there in the corner and then kindly brush my hair and straighten up the chairs a bit. You might even toss a stick on the fire. That potato sack you may care to keep as a souvenir."

"Be quiet now! Remember, you are my prisoner, Mr. Armitage."

"I am, I am! But I will wager ten courses at Sherry's the baron will be glad to let me off."

He laughed softly and began repeating:

"Why, hear you, my masters, was it for me to kill the heir apparent? Should I turn upon the true prince? Why, thou knowest I am as valiant as Hercules, but beware instinct; the lion will not touch the true prince. Instinct is a great matter. I was a coward on instinct. I shall think the better of myself and thee during my life: I for a valiant lion and thou for a true prince."

Claiborne forced him to lie down on the bench and threw a blanket over him and in a moment saw that he slept. In an inner room the voices of the prisoners occasionally rose shrilly as they debated their situation and prospects. Claiborne chewed a cigar and watched and waited. Armitage wakened suddenly, sat up and called to Claiborne, with a laugh:

"I had a perfectly bully dream, old man. I dreamed that I saw the ensign of Austria-Hungary flying from the flagstaff of this shanty; and, by Jove, I'll take the hint! We owe it to the distinguished ambassador who now approaches to fly his colors over the front door. We ought to have a trumpeter to herald his arrival, but the white and red ensign with the golden crown—it's in the leather covered trunk in my room—the one with the most steamer labels on it. Go bring it, Claiborne, and we'll throw it to the free airs of Virginia. And be quick—they ought to be here by this time!"

He stood in the door and watched Claiborne haul up the flag, and he made a mockery of saluting it as it snapped out in the fresh morning air.

Claiborne hauled up the flag.

"The Port of Missing Men! It was designed to be extra-territorial, and there's no treason in hauling up an alien flag." And his high spirits returned, and he stalked back to the fireplace, chaffing Claiborne and warning him against ever again fighting under an unknown banner.

"Here they are," called Claiborne and flung open the door as Shirley, her father and Baron von Marhof rode up under the billowing ensign. Dick stepped out to meet them and answer their questions.

"Mr. Armitage is here. He has been hurt, and we have sent for a doctor, but"— and he looked at Shirley.

"If you will do me the honor to enter —all of you!" And Armitage came out quickly and smiled upon them.

"We had started off to look for Dick when we met your man," said Shirley, standing on the steps, rein in hand.

"What has happened, and how was Armitage injured?" demanded Judge Claiborne.

"There was a battle," replied Dick, grinning, "and Mr. Armitage got in the way of a bullet."

Her ride through the keen morning air had flooded Shirley's cheek with color. She had been awake much of the night. On returning from the ball at the inn she found Dick still absent, and when at 6 o'clock he had not returned she called her father, and they had set off together for the hills, toward which, the stableman reported, Dick had ridden. They had met Oscar just outside the Springs and had returned to the hotel for Baron von Marhof. Having performed her office as guide and satisfied herself that Dick was safe, she felt her conscience eased and could see no reason why she should not ride home and leave the men to their council. Armitage saw her turn to her horse, whose nose was exploring her mackintosh pockets, and he stepped quickly toward her.

"You see, Miss Claiborne, your brother is quite safe, but I very much hope you will not run away. There are some things to be explained which it is only fair you should hear."

"Wait, Shirley, and we will all go down together," said Judge Claiborne reluctantly.

Baron von Marhof, very handsome and distinguished, but mud splashed, had tied his horse to a post in the driveway and stood on the veranda steps, his hat in his hand, staring, a look of bewilderment on his face. Armitage, bareheaded, still in his riding leggings, his trousers splashed with mud, his left arm sleeveless and supported by a handkerchief swung from his neck, shook hands with Judge Claiborne.

"Baron von Marhof, allow me to present Mr. Armitage," said Dick, and Armitage walked to the steps and bowed. The ambassador did not offer his hand.

"Won't you please come in?" said Armitage, smiling upon them, and when they were seated he took his stand by the fireplace, hesitated a moment, as though weighing his words, and began:

"Baron von Marhof, the events that have led to this meeting have been somewhat more than unusual—they are unique. And complications have arisen which require prompt and wise action. For this reason I am glad that we shall have the benefit of Judge Claiborne's advice."

"Judge Claiborne is the counsel of our embassy," said the ambassador. His gaze was fixed intently on Armitage's face, and he hitched himself forward in his chair impatiently, grasping his crop nervously across his knees.

"You were anxious to find me, baron, and I may have seemed hard to catch, but I believe we have been working at cross purposes to serve the same interests."

The baron nodded.

"Yes; I dare say," he remarked dryly.

"And some other gentlemen of not quite your own standing have at the same time been seeking me. It will give me great pleasure to present one of them—one, I believe, will be enough. Mr. Claiborne, will you kindly allow M. Jules Chauvenet to stand in the door for a moment? I want to ask him a question."

Shirley, sitting farthest from Armitage, folded her hands upon the long table and looked toward the door into which her brother vanished. Then Jules Chauvenet stood before them all, and as his eyes met hers for a second the color rose to his face, and he broke out angrily:

"This is infamous! This is an outrage! Baron von Marhof, as an Austrian subject I appeal to you for protection from this man!"

"Monsieur, you shall have all the protection Baron von Marhof cares to give you, but first I wish to ask you a question—just one. You followed me to America with the fixed purpose of killing me. You sent a Servian assassin after me—a fellow with a reputation for doing dirty work—and he tried to stick a knife into me on the deck of the King Edward. I shall not recite my subsequent experiences with him or with you and M. Durand. You announced at Captain Claiborne's table at the Army and Navy club in Washington that I was an impostor, and all the time, monsieur, you have really believed me to be some one—some one in particular."

Armitage's eyes glittered, and his voice faltered with intensity as he uttered these last words. Then he thrust his hand into his coat pocket, stepped back and concluded:

"Who am I, monsieur?"

Chauvenet shifted uneasily from one foot to the other under the gaze of the five people who waited for his answer; then he screamed shrilly:

"You are the devil—an impostor, a liar, a thief!"

Baron von Marhof leaped to his feet and roared at Chauvenet in English:

"Who is this man? Whom do you believe him to be?"

"Answer, and be quick about it!" snapped Claiborne.

"I tell you"— began Chauvenet fiercely.

"Who am I?" asked Armitage again.

"I don't know who you are"—

"You do not! You certainly do not!" laughed Armitage. "But whom have you believed me to be, monsieur?"

"I thought"—

"Yes, you thought"—

"I thought— there seemed reasons to believe"—

A WELL KNOWN MAGISTRATE SAVED AS BY A MIRACLE

REDUCED TO A SKELETON AND

Doctors Pronounced Case Incurable

SAYS HE OWES HIS LIFE TO "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Magistrate Speers' signed statement illustrates the unfailing curative and tonic properties of "Fruit-a-tives"—the marvellous fruit medicine that has brought health and strength to thousands in every part of the Dominion.

HENRY SPEERS, Esq., J.P.

MOOREFIELD, ONT., March 25th, 1909.

"I feel that my complete recovery from what seemed inevitable death, is practically a miracle. I suffered from severe indigestion for nearly two years, and became almost a skeleton. I could not work—could not even walk. Two experienced doctors pronounced my case incurable. They could do nothing for me as they said my heart was affected. I looked forward to death in a short time. I not only had the doctors but tried many remedies and treatments, but got no better.

"My son asked me to try "Fruit-a-tives", and from the outset of taking these wonderful tablets, I was better and gradually this medicine completely cured me, and I have gained over thirty pounds in weight. I am well, thanks to "Fruit-a-tives". I am so well that I have sold my farm and bought 200 acres more land. I make this statement voluntarily for the sake of humanity, as I believe my recovery is a miracle, and I am convinced that "Fruit-a-tives" is a wonderful cure for Stomach Trouble".

HENRY SPEERS, J.P.

"Fruit-a-tives" cured Mr. Speers because "Fruit-a-tives" is the most wonderful stomach, heart and nerve tonic in the world. "Fruit-a-tives" acts directly on the stomach, ingures sound digestion, regulates bowels and kidneys, purifies the blood, and relieves the distressing irritation of the heart.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine in the world that is made of fruit juices. By the marvellous discovery of a well known physician, fruit juices are combined with heart and nerve tonics in such a way that a new compound is formed. It is this new compound—one of the greatest discoveries of the age—that has saved thousands of lives. It is why "Fruit-a-tives" cures when all else fails—why "Fruit-a-tives" gives instant relief when even the doctors cannot relieve the trouble. We state it, without hesitation, that "Fruit-a-tives" will positively cure every case of Indigestion and Dyspepsia, if properly used.

Remember, there is nothing else "just as good" or "just the same" as "Fruit-a-tives". Insist on having "Fruit-a-tives" and see that you get the genuine. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50 or trial size, 25c. At dealers or sent post paid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

It should not be necessary to warn the public against imitations of O'Keefe's Special Extra Mild Ale. Most people think that there is only one Special Ale—and that O'Keefe makes it.

As a matter of fact—when it comes to quality and flavor—there is only one, and O'Keefe brews it.

But other brewers are now putting out what they call "Special Ale".

Naturally, as the imitators have partly copied the O'Keefe title, you may be offered these substitutes for the genuine O'Keefe brew.

ARTIFICIAL INCUBATION

Robert Smith, Lambton Co., Ont.

The most complex problem that has ever confronted the poultry business is that of artificial incubation. From time immemorial artificial methods of incubation have been practised. The ancient Egyptians and Chinese put their chicken and duck eggs in their ancient incubators. This machine consisted of a box covered with manure; certain writers tell us that the results were excellent owing to the steady and dry climate. But these incubators have long since faded into the past and "the wooden hen" is now a suitable piece of furniture for the henhouse. Artificial incubation is being practised successfully by a great many breeders in all parts of our broad Dominion. Men who raise chickens by the hundred and with only a small percentage of loss have proved that the system is a success if properly operated. But there are hundreds of farmers and small breeders who are meeting with sad failures, not because of unwillingness on their part, but because of inexperience. To those I would like to tell my experience, as I feel that it may contain some points that will enlighten some of our inexperienced fellow workers.

THE BREEDING STOCK.

The vigor of the egg germs is a strong factor in producing strong chicks. Weak germs will invariably result in delicate chicks, if chicks at all. "Begin right." The great men tell us that this must be heeded in this case at least; weak germs produce delicate constitutions that may follow the fowl throughout its life. Select well built hens or well developed pullets that are healthy and vigorous; mate to a well developed cockerel or a healthy cock, not one with his feet and comb frozen or having some other ailment. Give wholesome feed, have plenty of variety and furnish grit, etc. Guard against lice. Exercise is very important and is absolutely necessary at this period.

OPERATING THE INCUBATOR.

At the outset wash the incubator out thoroughly with a solution of zenoleum to disinfect. Then close the machine and light the lamp, using the best grade of wick and oil. A poor oil will result in a charred wick and blackened chimney. Let the machine run till the thermometer reaches 100 degrees; allow it to run for half a day till the wood is thoroughly heated. Set the incubator in a room where the temperature is as uniform as possible. Many make a fatal mistake by setting it in the kitchen; the sudden change at night will result in a lowering of the temperature in the machine, which often proves fatal. Set the machine about an inch from the wall to avoid jarring. Adjust the regulator and then don't meddle with it.

THE EGGS TO SET.

Select medium sized eggs; avoid small and off-shaped eggs. Place as many in the tray as possible. Little turning is necessary up to the fifth day. Test the white eggs carefully on the fifth day; it is better to leave brown eggs till the seventh day, testing a few out on the fifth to give the others more room. I would like to call the attention of Farm and Dairy readers to a new tester called the Magic egg tester, the price of which is two dollars. With this tester the eggs may be tested before being put into the machine and then only the strong germs need be selected. The strong germs are as a rule males, the weaker germs females. The tester will more than pay for itself in one year.

Moisture and ventilation are much talked of features. The operator must use his or her judgment on these points, since situations differ largely. A moist room, such as a cellar, would require different ventilating to a dry parlor or a bedroom. Watch the cells carefully. Moisture may be added by placing a pan of water or a damp flannel rag in the machine.

THE HATCH.

The operator must give the machine special attention at this critical period. A large number of chicks may be saved by a little extra attention and proper treatment. A very frequent complaint is that of chicks pipping and dying in the shell. This difficulty may be overcome to a large extent by assisting the chicks out of the shell. Experience proves that most of the chicks that are strong enough to break the shell are strong enough to live if given timely aid. After the egg has been pipped for some time and the chick seems unable to free itself, break the shell gently away from the beak and leave it alone for an hour or two. If it still seems incapable of freeing itself, take away the remainder of the shell, being very careful not to injure the chick on doing so, as they sometimes bleed to death when handled roughly.

One cause of weakness in brooder chickens is the sudden chilling caused by falling from the hot tray into the nursery, which is several degrees cooler. The chicks should never be admitted into the nursery until thoroughly dry. This may seem somewhat difficult to accomplish, but the following method proves entirely satisfactory: Tack screening or common mosquito netting along the end of tray where the chicks obtain access to the nursery, leaving a small hole at the corner next to the door large enough to admit a chicken. Hang a heavy cloth across the glass door, admitting as little light as possible. Very few chicks will find their way into the nursery when the cloth is across the door. After several chicks are dry remove a small portion of the curtain at the nursery entrance end of the machine. The chicks that are dried will be able to walk and will come immediately to the light and fall into the nursery. When they all get down close the curtain. If desired, a small space may be left uncovered at the opposite end of the incubator to draw the chicks away from the nursery entrance.

When the hatch seems to be nearly through, take any eggs that are left and place them under hens, if you have hens setting. These chicks are seldom strong enough to live if they do not pip till the rest are nearly all hatched, and are often crooked and weak legged. If they hatch under hens, be careful of lice when placing them with the rest of the chicks, as you will have enough to contend with without lice.

Remove the tray and leave the chicks in the incubator for 48 hours, keeping the temperature between 90 and 100 degrees. Do not feed anything during this time. After chickens have been removed, wash out the incubator thoroughly before the droppings become dried.

We have had both hot air and hot water incubators and could see little difference in results. The hot water machine has the advantage of being easier to regulate, as it will maintain the heat for several hours.

Palpitation of the Heart.

One of the first danger signals that announce something wrong with the heart is the irregular or violent throb. Often there is only a fluttering sensation, or an "all gone" sinking feeling; or, again, there may be a most violent beating, with flushings of the skin, and visible pulsations of the arteries.

There may also be experienced a smothering sensation, gasping for breath, and feeling as though about to die.

In all such cases the action of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills in quieting the heart and restoring it to its normal beat, is, beyond all question marvellous, as our thousands of testimonials will show.

Mrs. Martha Mason, Marlbank, Ont., writes:—"Just a few lines to let you know what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me. I have been troubled with weakness and palpitation of the heart, would have severe choking spells and could scarcely lie down at all. I tried many remedies but got none to answer my case like your pills did. I can recommend them highly to all with heart or nerve trouble."

OPERATION HER ONLY CHANCE

Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lindsay, Ont.—"I think it is no more than right for me to thank Mrs. Pinkham for what her kind advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. When I wrote to her some time ago I was a very sick woman, suffering from female troubles. I had inflammation of the female organs, and could not stand or walk any distance. At last I was confined to my bed, and the doctor said I would have to go through an operation, but this I refused to do. A friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now, after using three bottles of it, I feel like a new woman. I most heartily recommend this medicine to all women who suffer with female troubles. I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills and think they are fine."—Mrs. FRANK EMSLEY, Lindsay, Ontario.

We cannot understand why women will take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, without first trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration.

HOUSECLEANING TIME

From Farm and Dairy.

Plan your housekeeping campaign at least a week ahead. Have jotted down on paper, or at least firmly fixed in your mind, just what your plan of work is to be, so that things will move like clockwork. Also prepare most of your dinner the day before, so that you won't have to cook a large meal just when you are perhaps the busiest.

Old newspapers should be saved for a week or two ahead in anticipation of this day, for they are invaluable to housecleaning. Indeed, in the general daily work of the kitchen they are mighty good things to have at hand. The windows can be polished off with them, stoves rubbed up, and any floors that you are particularly anxious to keep the least spot off of may have a thick layer of old papers laid over them. They are also handy for table tops and other highly polished surfaces, and may be thrown away with a clear conscience when the battle against dirt is over with.

Dusting and floor cloths, windowrags and the like should be all clean and ready beforehand, and several yards of fresh cheesecloth be on hand for finishing off baseboards, paint and glassware.

It is a good idea to keep one room to work from, and the room containing the least furniture is best suited to this purpose. Pile the furniture carefully in a corner, cover it with old carpet or spreads; lay paper over the floor and window-sills, and up against the baseboards for protection from paint spatters. Here you may mix your paints and varnish with impunity, keep your floor oils and cleaning fluids, and not be always picking them up and carrying them from one place to the other. This work-room may be cleaned last.

In packing away clothes and other perishable goods a plan worth trying is as follows: If you have a closet to spare, first burn some sulphur in it; next with a small bellows blow insect powder into the cracks between the floor and baseboards, then line the closet with tar paper, being sure to place the folds of the paper well over one another, tacking closely. Have your furs and things ready aired, place them on hangers and hang up as usual, sewing bags of camphor balls, cedar chips or tar balls into them if you like. Keep this closet closed and locked, though if you are fortunate enough to live in a house with a yard it will be well to take the contents out once during the season and hang in the sunlight for a whole day. This is the way things are kept moth-free in the South. Blankets, rugs and curtains may be wrapped in tar paper or bags, sealed up and laid on the floor of this closet.

A good way to keep blankets fresh after they have been cleansed is to make a slip of cheesecloth to go over each blanket. This slip can be taken off and washed as often as necessary and will preserve your blankets from dust and light soil. It is an excellent idea.

If you are going to put linen covers on your sofa cushions do not simply slip them on over the others. Remove the heavier ones, clean, and pack away in the closet, or wherever you are placing your winter articles. Linen sofa-cushion covers should be made with buttons and buttonholes, so that they may be easily removed and laundered as often as ordinary pillow slips.

All painted floors of ordinary pine boards should be gone over with crude oil or a coating of paint, and rugs of home make—such beautiful ones are possible in this day—or matting should take the place of carpets and heavy rugs. Walls that are to be papered or kalsomined should be done, if possible, a day or so before the regular housecleaning begins.

If you have wooden bedsteads, they should be taken apart at least twice a year, placed out in the yard or on the roof, and left to the searchings of the sun's rays; also common gasoline should be simply flooded over them, keeping it away from all fire or flames or lamps. Then with a toothbrush go over the mattress wherever there is a seam or button, with white carbolic acid or solution made of the beaten whites of two eggs and a half-ounce of quicksilver.

Your summer draperies go up last, dotted swiss curtains hang before every window, table and tub covers have a new dress of enamel cloth, not omitting a generous portion of this last for a place back of your stove in order to save your newly kalsomined wall.

There are many devices and methods that aid the housekeeper at housecleaning time. The following suggestions will probably be of practical use:

The scraps of soap that have accumulated throughout the past months can now be used to advantage. Before the actual cleaning day a kerosene emulsion can be made by taking pieces of a good white soap about the size of half a cake or bar, shave these finely, and add them to a quart of warm water in which two tablespoonfuls of powdered borax has been thrown. Place this on the fire and let it simmer until soap is dissolved, after which add a coffee-cupful of kerosene, bottle at once, and cork tightly, and it will be ready for use at any time.

Another kerosene emulsion, which is also most serviceable and should be always kept on hand, is made from a bar of old white soap shaved fine. Dissolve this in two quarts of hot water, and stir until it makes thick suds. Then heat smooth and add a large tablespoonful of borax made wet with cold water. Following this add two tablespoonfuls of kerosene, stir for a minute before adding two tablespoonfuls of household ammonia; bottle and cork.

A pulverized soap can be made by dissolving in half a gallon of boiling water, five pounds of sal-soda; to this add ten pounds of shaved good laundry soap; melt this slowly, but do not boil; when nearly melted stir until it is a uniform thick mass, then place in tumblers or jars having the top wider than the bottom. When it is cool and solid, run a sharp knife around the edges and turn the cake on to a clean cloth. With a sharp knife divide each cake into thin strips, place on clean wrapping-paper and let them dry in a draft of air. If properly dried, the strips will be brittle and more easily rubbed into a coarse powder. If desired, the soap may be kept in bars as ordinary soap.

THE IMPERIAL GUARANTEE & ACCIDENT INSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA

Head Office: 46 King Street, West TORONTO

The Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of the Imperial Guarantee & Accident Insurance Company of Canada, was held at the Head Office, 46 King Street West, Toronto, on the 10th inst.

Mr. E. W. Cox, President of the Company, in reviewing the business of the year, made reference to the growing popularity of Accident Insurance, and its effect on the success of the business of the Company during the year. The amount of Insurance written was over $196,270,000.00, an increase of $1,940,000.00 over the business taken out in 1908. This is considered exceptionally satisfactory in view of the fact that the business of the Company is confined to Personal Accident and Guarantee Insurance.

The Gross Income for 1909 amounted to $210,741.76.

That being an increase over the year 1908 of $4,817.34.

The Assets now total $300,974.00, and, after allowing for Reserve for unearned premium calculated on the full Government standard, and all other liabilities, the surplus for the protection of policyholders has increased to $118,447.19.

The following Directors and Officers were elected:

Edward W. Cox, President	Hon. F. T. Frost.
Noel Marshall, Vice-President.	R. Bickerdike.

Insurance Companies Lose About $125,000.00 by the Wreck at Spanish River

Double Liability for About Twenty-five Persons

A loss of somewhere in the neighbourhood of $125,000 is what the Accident Insurance Companies estimate the wreck at Spanish River bridge means to them.

They figure that about 25 of those who met death carried Accident Insurance, and the average insurance, according to the tables, is $5,000. In case of death in a railway disaster there is a double liability, making the figure $8,000, or $5,000 to be more conservative.

Their loss may total more than that, for the commercial travellers, a number of whom were killed, usually carry very heavy insurance. In addition, some of the companies make the policies payable on the death of the wife while travelling, though the policy is taken out in the husband's name. In such cases they pay the husband the same amount as they would have paid the wife were the husband killed.

The above goes to show the necessity of carrying Accident Insurance, as similar disasters happen almost daily.

We issue the BEST Accident and Sickness policy offered to the public.

A Storekeeper Says:

"A lady came into my store lately and said:

"'I have been using a New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove all winter in my apartment. I want one now for my summer home. I think these oil stoves are wonderful. If only women knew what a comfort they are, they would all have one. I spoke about my stove to a lot of my friends, and they were astonished. They thought that there was smell and smoke from an oil stove, and that it heated a room just like any other stove. I told them of my experience, and one after another they got one, and now, not one of them would give hers up for five times its cost.'"

Cautionary Note: Be sure you get this stove—see that the name-plate reads "New Perfection."

The lady who said this had thought an oil stove was all right for quickly heating milk for a baby, or boiling a kettle of water, or to make coffee quickly in the morning, but she never dreamed of using it for difficult or heavy cooking. Now—she knows.

Do you really appreciate what a New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove means to you? No more coal to carry, no more coming to the dinner table so tired out that you can't eat. Just light a Perfection Stove and immediately the heat from an intense blue flame shoots up to the bottom of pot, kettle or oven. But the room isn't heated. There is no smoke, no smell, no outside heat, no drudgery in the kitchen where one of these stoves is used.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skilful. I wrote them and got THE NEW METHOD TREATMENT. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never loose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

CROPS FOR SHEEP

From Farm and Dairy.

The wise shepherd in planning his crops for the year has regard to the needs of his flock. He recognizes the great advantage of providing not only a variety of foods but a succession of succulent crops the season through. Bulletin No. 12, "Sheep Husbandry in Canada," published and issued free by the Live Stock Branch at Ottawa, takes up this subject in a practical and thorough manner. Under special crops for sheep it deals with clover, alfalfa, vetches, rape, cabbage, turnips, mangels, corn and the several classes of grain. Each is treated separately in regard to method of cultivation and manner of feeding. Dealing with vetches the bulletin says:

"Vetches, or tares, as they are also called, make excellent fodder for sheep, either as a soiling crop or as cured hay. This crop much resembles peas in habit of growth and requires about the same kind of cultivation. Its vines are more slender than pea vines and stand up better when grown with a stiff variety of oats. Vetches are grown extensively for sheep feed in Great Britain, and to some extent in Canada for the same purpose. The writer, while raising sheep, always grew a small area of tares with oats for soiling the show flock, and in case of a shortage of clover vetches were cured for hay. The crop being fine in vine and very leafy is much relished by sheep and constitutes a rich diet.

"Two varieties of vetches are grown for fodder. The common vetch is the chief sort cultivated, but the hairy variety is receiving some attention. The latter produces the heavier yield, but so far the seed having to be imported is very expensive and few care to bother with it.

"The soil for vetches should be clean, mellow and rich. The seed may be sown in drills or broadcast. A good seeding for either soiling or hay is about three pecks of vetches and four pecks of oats per acre. The vetches are ready to feed any time after the crop comes into blossom and before the seed commences to ripen. For soiling the crop may be hauled to racks, or be distributed on the sod of a pasture field as soon as cut, or it may be allowed to wilt in the swath for a few hours. Vetch hay is made in much the same manner as clover or timothy is handled. Vetches may be pastured by sheep, but this is a wasteful practice, as much of the crop is destroyed by tramping."

Sheep raisers who do not already possess a copy of this bulletin would do well to ask for one from the Live Stock Commissioner at Ottawa.

MORE ENTERPRISE NEEDED

From Farm and Dairy.

The Ontario Government is not doing enough to encourage British settlers to locate on farms in Ontario. It is true that efforts are being made in a tentative manner to secure settlers for New Ontario and that an attempt has been made to advertise in Great Britain, farms in older Ontario that are offered for sale. Still, no earnest effort has been made to push this matter in the aggressive manner that conditions require.

There are some 63,000 less farmers in Ontario to-day than there were 10 years ago. The situation is serious. This tide of emigration from our farms must be stopped or the farms thus vacated be settled fresh. The government must do it and now is the time.

Two hundred British settlers, having between $500,000 and $750,000 in hard cash, passed through Ontario recently on their way to settle on farms in the western provinces. For the most part these farmers had bought western farms and had them cultivated and sown before they left England to take control of them. Among these farmers were expert breeders of sheep, dairy cattle and horses. Most of them went west with the intention of continuing this line of work. Why should these men have passed Ontario. We have in Ontario land equally as good as the best in the west. We have better postal facilities, better schools, better roads, better markets. In spite of this there are a number of sections in the older parts of Ontario where [illegible] land may be purchased almost [illegible] cheaply as in the better portions [illegible] the western provinces. Ontario is [illegible] to see the west settled with a [illegible] class of immigrants. It would [illegible] to and should secure its share of [illegible] settlers. It never will obtain [illegible] to any large extent until our On[illegible] Government arouses from its let[illegible] and adopts an immigration policy [illegible] as is being followed by the we[illegible] provinces.

NEW COMPANY A GOING CONCERN.

Maple Leaf Milling Company, Limited, is a new company which has taken over the whole undertaking as a going concern of the Maple Leaf Flour Mills Company Limited, including therein that of the Hedley Shaw Milling Company Limited. The company has mills at Kenora, Thorold, St. Catharines, Welland, and Port Colborne (the last named in course of construction) in the Province of Ontario and at Brandon in the Province of Manitoba. When the construction at present under way at Port Colborne is completed the company will have a total milling capacity of 12,800 barrels per day. The company has at present thirty-five elevators situated throughout the Western Wheat Belt, and fifteen additional ones are being added at the present time. A million bushel elevator is being constructed next to the new mill at Port Colborne. The company has also warehouses and offices at Toronto, Winnipeg, Kingston, Ottawa, and Montreal.

MARKET FOR OUTPUT.

The rapid growth of the business of the two companies taken over has long made apparent the necessity of additional milling capacity. Further, the tremendous increase in the total output from the Western wheat belt makes it absolutely necessary to have more mills in Canada to handle it. Last year the output of the Western wheat belt amounted to about 225,000,000 bushels, and men who have made a close study of the development that the Western country is likely to see, estimate that by the end of the year 1920 Canada will be producing at the rate of by 500,000,000 bushels annually. As in the past, a great proportion of this large production will of necessity find its way into Canadian mills. Larger demands are bound to come as the population of the country increases, and the enquiry for the Canadian product, both from Great Britain and from the foreign markets of the world, will increase. The chain of mills that is now controlled by the new company will enable it to go ahead and secure its full share of the trade of every section of Canada, as well as to obtain even a very much larger portion of the export business to Great Britain and to foreign markets than it has up to the present time.

SECURITY AND EARNING POWER: The assets of the old Companies taken over as above stand in excess of all liabilities and without any allowance for good-will, trade marks, etc., at $3,770,524.11, this amount being ascertained on the basis of an appraisal by the Canadian-American Appraisal Company, Limited, as of March 17th, 1910, of the capital assets taken over, and the certificate of Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Company, as of February 28th, 1910, as to current assets and current liabilities, with a liberal allowance for all contingencies. There has also been placed in the Treasury $1,000,000 of additional cash, which, besides permitting of the completion of a 6,000 barrel mill and a million bushel elevator and storage warehouse at Port Colborne, and of fifteen additional elevators in the West, will provide the new Company with further working capital.

As per certificate of Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Company, of London, quoted below, the earnings of the old Company on the present plant amounted from September 25th, 1908, to August 20th, 1909, to $218,843.38
And from August 21st, 1909, to February 28th, 1910, to $166,793.29
being for the latter period at a rate equal to over 13 per cent. on the prefered stock of the Company.

The following is the certificate of Price, Waterhouse & Company:—

"Commercial Union Building,
"Montreal, April 4, 1910.

"Messrs. Cawthra Mulock & Company, Toronto,

"Gentlemen:—

"We have examined the books of the Maple Leaf Flour Mills Company, Limited, which include the transactions carried on under the name of The Hedley Shaw Milling Company, Limited, at Toronto and Branches, from September 25th, 1908 (prior to which date the Company's principal mills were not completed nor in operation) to February 28th, 1910, and we certify that the profits for the period after making provision for depreciation, but before charging interest on loans, were as follows:—

From September 25th, 1908, to August 20th, 1909 ..... $218,843.38
From August 21st, 1909, to February 28th, 1910 ..... $166,793.29

"Yours very truly,
"PRICE, WATERHOUSE & CO."

MANAGEMENT.

The properties of the old companies have been constructed and developed under the direction of Mr. Hedley Shaw, late General Manager of The Hedley-Shaw Milling Company, Limited, and of The Maple Leaf Flour Mills Company, Limited. Both these gentlemen will retain large interests in the new Company, besides being actively identified with it. Mr. Hedley Shaw will occupy the position of Managing Director of the new Company, thus giving to it the full benefit of his long practical experience.

FAVORABLE LOCATION OF NEW LARGE MILLS.

The location of the new large mill at Port Colborne is without exception the best there is in Canada. This mill when completed, in addition to having the large capacity mentioned, will have one of the most modern equipments in the world. The Company at times will be able to keep it well supplied with wheat. In addition to its own 1,000,000 bushel elevator, which will be situated just alongside of the mill, the Company will be able to make arrangements to have the last steamers, coming down from the West at the end of the season of navigation, tied up for the winter months at the elevator and in this way afford additional storage capacity without any necessity of any capital outlay for it. Should at any time the Company find it advisable to do so, it will also be able to draw from the Government elevator, which will be situated on the same pier as its Port Colborne mill.

The location of the Company's mills is such as to provide a ready market for the bye-products of each. The greater part of the milling capacity will be in Ontario, where, as Government statistics show, a smaller amount of wheat is being grown each year as the farmers go in more and more for stock-raising. This means a brisk demand for the bye-products of the mills for feed.

A complete report on the advantages of the Port Colborne site, prepared by Mr. Hedley Shaw, will be found in the prospectus.

Prospectuses and forms of application may be obtained at any branch of the Imperial Bank of Canada, The Royal Bank of Canada, from Guardian Trust Company, Limited, Toronto, and from Cawthra Mulock and Company, Toronto.

SUNKIST ORANGES

"Sunkist" Oranges

By-the-Peck Sale

Sale Begins Monday, APRIL 25TH

Of all times of the year this is fruit buying time. Of all fruits—oranges are cheapest and best right now—and of all brands of oranges the "Sunkist" Orange is King.

At this great sale "Sunkist" Oranges by-the-peck cost one-third less than table apples. Get a peck of choicest "Sunkist" Oranges, then inquire what a peck of choice table apples are worth—prove it yourself.

The unsurpassed lusciousness of "Sunkist" Oranges will make you want to go back to the store for another peck and another. Every table should have "Sunkist" Oranges at every meal.

"Sunkist" Oranges Are Seedless

They are firm, sweet, tree-ripened, delicious. Their exquisitely rich juiciness is found in none but "Sunkist" brand. Their deep tint vouches for matured full-flavor in the tender pulp.

They are picked by gloved hands and with the same extreme care that is taken in their scientific cultivation.

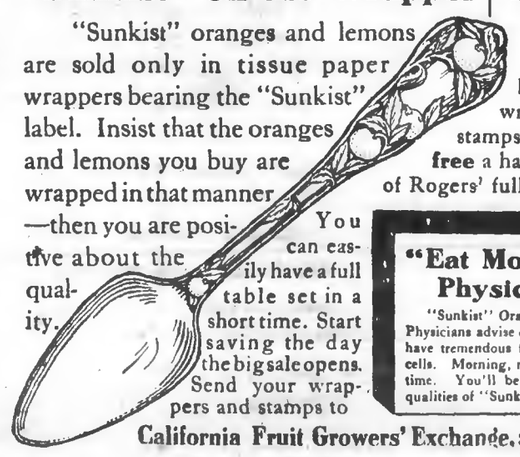
SUNKIST LEMONS

"Sunkist" Oranges are our choicest fruit from 5,000 groves.

"Sunkist" Lemons are firm, tree-ripened and contain an unusual amount of juice. You'll quickly see the difference between "Sunkist" and common lemons.

"Sunkist" on the Wrapper

"Sunkist" oranges and lemons are sold only in tissue paper wrappers bearing the "Sunkist" label. Insist that the oranges and lemons you buy are wrapped in that manner—then you are positive about the quality.



You can easily have a full table set in a short time. Start saving the day the big sale opens. Send your wrappers and stamps to

California Fruit Growers' Exchange, 32 Church St., Toronto

Free Orange Spoon

Send us 12 "Sunkist" lemon or orange wrappers and 6 two-cent stamps and we will send you free a handsome orange spoon of Rogers' full standard plate.

"Eat More Oranges"—Physicians' Advice

"Sunkist" Oranges are unsurpassed as a tonic. Physicians advise oranges as a digestive aid. They have tremendous food value for brain and nerve cells. Morning, noon and night is orange eating time. You'll be surprised at the health-giving qualities of "Sunkist" Oranges. (10)

SOCIAL MAP CHANGES

Once Tabooed District Now Houses Many Anglo-Americans and Brilliant Society Favorites.

[SPECIAL DESPATCH.]
LONDON, Saturday.

[illegible] does not appear now to be any [illegible] and fast rule, such as prevailed [illegible] few years ago, as to where in [illegible] one may or may not live without [illegible] to social prestige. Time was when to live on the north side of Hyde Park was to be out of the calling radius of aristocratic friends. But Mrs. George Cornwallis-West, who has a house in Great Cumberland place, has done much to make that and the surrounding squares popular with society, where even royalty frequently calls. But it was visitors from America who first discovered the charm of the old world streets at the back of Dean's Yard, Westminster, and gradually these are being reclaimed from slumland and transformed into the residential quarter for society people of artistic taste.

In the pretty little green and white houses, which not long ago were let out in tenements, people with handles to their names live alongside shining lights of stageland or the world of letters. One of the latest recruits to the neighborhood is Lady Ripon, who has taken one of the houses in North street and transformed it into an abode so charming as to win the admiration of her intimate friend Queen Alexandra, who visited her the other day and inspected the house from kitchen to attic. The Hon. Maurice Baring, one of society's cleverest writers, who has a new book just published, is a neighbor of Lady Ripon's.

Rents have, of course, gone up enormously in this old world backwater, within sound of Big Ben, and the property is proving more lucrative than some of the London County Council's properties in more populous parts of London.

AMERICAN TENANTS.

But, most remarkable of all, every available house in Grosvenor Square has been acquired by an American for the coming season. Lady Amard and Mrs. Frank Mackey have both secured residences there, and a new hostess will make her appearance in society at No. 41, taken from Lord Nunburnholme by Mrs. William Miller Graham, widow of a Californian millionnaire, who is no stranger to London and who was a prominent figure at Marienbad last season, when she was entertained by King Edward. Mrs. Miller Graham has remarkable talents as a hostess. She gives delightful fêtes and cotillions, and it is said that her figures in the next cotillon she is to give will create something of a sensation in London, where there is constant quest for novelty among hostesses.

At a recent dance Mrs. Miller Graham had an immense watermelon rolled into the ballroom. With ceremonious preliminary a gigantic knife was brought and the melon cut, to release a little pickaninny, who bounced out and flung flowers at the dancers. In another figure of the cotillon a Russian sleigh with all the paraphernalia of a snowy Northern clime was drawn into the room by six Cossacks. Two girls sat in the sleigh, and the eight figures joined in a Russian dance and subsequently distributed Russian gifts to the guests.

AMERICAN BRIDE'S MANSION.

Young Lord Maidstone, the future husband of Miss Margaretta Drexel, will, in the ordinary course of nature, own one day one of the most historic old ruins of England. Kirby Hall was at the beginning of last century, and for some years afterward, a very perfect specimen of an Elizabethan mansion. It lies on the slope of a shallow valley on the outskirts of the ancient forest of Rockingham. Some eighty years ago or so the Earl of Winchilsea of the day, coming to the end of his tether, stripped the lead, in which there was much silver, from the roof of Kirby and sold it to a contractor. The story goes that the contractor went bankrupt and Lord Winchilsea never got his money, a just punishment to such vandalism. Kirby Hall for many years stood roofless to the sky and was a sort of stone quarry for new farmhouses and cottages in the neighborhood. Then it was partly roofed in and an attempt made to check decay. A shepherd and his family live in the old drawing room. The rest of the mansion is at present uninhabitable. As it is very unlikely that the Winchilseas will ever restore Kirby Hall, it is suggested that perhaps some of Miss Drexel's wealthy relatives may make her such a wedding present as no bride ever received before. Kirby Hall rebuilt, the old home of the Hattons restored to all its ancient glory.

ROYAL BEAUTY TO VISIT ENGLAND

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, Saturday.

THE prettiest princess in Europe, it is now definitely settled, is to be among the royal visitors to England this summer. This is the Crown Princess of Roumania, one of the four beautiful daughters of the late Duke of Saxe-Coburg. The Princess and her husband will probably be here for Ascot, and other royalties expected in London about the same time are the King and Queen of the Belgians and the Crown Prince and Princess of Sweden. Nearly as beautiful as their mother are the children of the Crown Princess of Roumania. All the royal families of Europe are interested in their children, for they can boast descent from Queen Victoria, from Charles I., from Henry IV., of France, from the Empress Maria Theresa, from the Tsar Nicholas and Peter the Great, and also from the humble village innkeeper who was the father of the Stuarts.

Plans Made for International Events Between England, France and Germany.

FIRST WILL BE AT RYDE NEXT AUGUST

Next Year a French Course Has the Call, While Kiel Will Be the Scene in 1912.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, Saturday.

THE forthcoming yachting season in British waters promises to be a brilliant one, for international racing will play a prominent part in it. This latter is due to the Yacht Racing Association's agreement with France and Germany for a series of regattas.

Since the rules of the various countries in Europe that foster racing were consolidated into one code common to all there has been a steady growth in international racing, and with several countries competing with one another to attract the pick of the fleet there was considerable risk of the sport being marred by an undue clashing of interests. The Yacht Racing Association's agreement with Germany and France, however, for the promotion of a series of big international regattas saves the situation.

Arrangements have been made by which international regattas are to be held triennially in British, French and German waters. The first of these great festivals will be held at Ryde, commencing on August 8 and extending over a week. Next year France has the call, while in 1912 Kiel will be the venue.

THE OPPOSING YACHTS.

Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock and Mr. Myles B. Kennedy's White Heather, which had such a tussle for the big cutter championship last year, will be opposed this season by Sir James Pender's Brynhild. The last mentioned boat, which did not race in 1909, has had more lead added to her keel, which has been remodelled in a broader but shallower mould. This has had the effect of reducing her draught and girth measurement, leaving a margin in her rating for an additional 1,000 square feet of canvas.

The Shamrock has also been altered, her garboards have been padded in a similar manner to that which proved so effective in the case of the White Heather in 1909, and she will have the benefit of an enlarged sail plan. What with these alterations and the presence of a third yacht, the class presents an open appearance and the racing of the trio should be full of interest.

From a spectacular point of view, however, the first class cutters will be eclipsed by the great schooners that compete in the A class for yachts of mixed rig exceeding twenty-three metres rating. The schooner class this year will be purely international in character, as four countries will be represented in its ranks. Germany has two strings to her bow in the Meteor IV. and the Germania; Mr. Alexander S. Cochran's schooner, the Westward, will carry the fortunes of America, and France will rely on the Susanne, while Mr. Cecil Whitaker's eight-year-old Cicely is the hope of England.

Chief interest will naturally centre upon the American clipper, for the Westward is the first yacht designed by Herreshoff under the international rules. With only the Cicely to depend upon, England will hold but a weak hand in the coming contest, but the Fife schooner is such a good boat, particularly in moderate or light breezes, that she may yet hold her own against the invaders if she has weather to her liking.

HARD FIGHT FOR THE OSTARA.

International racing will also play a prominent part in the fifteen metre class during the latter part of the season. Two vessels now in course of construction on the Clyde, from the designs of Messrs. Fife and Mylne respectively, are designed to carry the German flag, and two others are being built at Kiel. This quartet, with the Spanish vessels the Hispania, the Tuiga and the Encarnita, will form a strong opposition for the English yachts to meet, and Mr. W. P. Burton's brilliant Ostara is likely to have a hard fight to retain the International Challenge Cup she won last year.

MEMORIAL TO VICTORIA READY

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, Saturday.

Another important stage has just been reached in connection with the national memorial to the late Queen Victoria opposite Buckingham Palace. Mr. Brock, R. A., the sculptor, has practically finished the statue of her late Majesty, which will occupy the central position of the massive pedestal. She is represented in a sitting posture, wearing the crown and robes of state. The unveiling ceremonial, which will be attended by monarchs or their representatives and state dignitaries, will, it is now hoped, take place early next January.

THE APACHE DANCE FAILS IN LONDON

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, Saturday.

The Apache variety of waltz, a quaint conceit modelled after the grewsome dance which the Palace Theatre, London, imported from Paris, is not catching on. It has struggled hard at sporadic moments during the winter to creep into favor, but it is dying the natural death. It was given a good chance at the Prince's Gardens the other night, but it didn't go.

The dance is certainly passing grotesque to look at. The couples hold each other closely, face to face, gaze straight into each other's eyes and wriggle round the room silent and serious, with a sawing movement of the arms. There is nothing graceful in it, and it certainly has none of the rhythmical movement one usually associates with dancing.

In fact, Mr. d'Albert, one of the foremost "professors" of dancing in Mayfair, said it never had a chance from the very beginning on account of its utter lack of grace. It was simply a bit of a fad taken up by certain hostesses eager to find something novel for the entertainment of their guests, and who got some of their young friends to learn it with the idea of inducing others to learn it too. Attempts are made every year to introduce some new dance to West End ballrooms, but the Apache waltz has proved very near the limit of absurdity.

Choice Cigarette Betrays Boy Outlaw

Police of English Village Capture Youthful Emulator of Robin Hood and Dick Turpin, Who Lived in Cave, Robbed Stores and Fared Well Until His Aristocratic Taste in "Smokers" Led to His Undoing.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, Saturday.

A bright youth up in the Peak country, whose aspirations led him to adopt the picturesque but dangerous career of a modern emulator of Robin Hood or Dick Turpin, had confined his tastes in cigarettes to those more in keeping with his outward semblance he might be still living his care free life in the outlaw's cave which he had constructed in the hills. As it is, his career ingloriously ended in the village police station.

One morning in the middle of March Mr. Aaron Frost Hancock, a grocer, of Hathersage, awoke to discover that his store had been broken into during the night and a quantity of goods carried off. They included 112 pounds of flour, bacon, a ham, several bottles of Bovril, a large quantity of cheese, sugar, all the best brands of cigarettes and quantities of the most choice candles.

Hathersage is a quiet, peaceable little village, where the inhabitants are noted for their honesty, and this case of housebreaking, an unheard of thing for them, created no end of excitement. The police got busy, but clearly no one in the village was the guilty party.

A CLEW AT LAST.

For a whole fortnight the police were baffled, until one day at a football match a dirty, unkempt boy smoking apparently a very fine brand of cigarettes attracted a local detective, and the boy was shadowed. Away up in the hills, right in the heart of the wood, which no one ever penetrated, the boy had dug himself a commodious cave, and there were found a considerable part of the stores which had been carried off from Mr. Hancock's grocery. He was a Sheffield boy, named William Fieldsend, seventeen years of age, who had been working on a farm in Derbyshire, but getting tired of that, had thrown up his job and gone into the outlaw business.

A local correspondent who visited the cave writes:—"It would be difficult to imagine a hiding place more ingeniously selected or more cleverly constructed than that in which Fieldsend has been living in seclusion for the last fortnight.

"The cave is a mile and a half away from the village, and can be gained only by mounting rough roads or steeper field paths. It is actually in the township of Outseats, on the Bole Hills, and in a recess of thick, gloomy wood of fir, pine and larch belonging to Colonel Shuttleworth.

"It is not a natural cave, Fieldsend made it for himself. He found a hollow place in the hillside and covered in one end so as to make a hut. The ingenuity which he displayed is surprising. The roof of the cave is composed of green sods, which he cut close by. The doorway to his abode is about a yard high by two feet wide and over it hang branches of larch and pine.

"On crawling into the cave one finds that it is of oval shape, measuring about seven feet one way by five the other. Upright timbers, cut from the trunks of young trees, rise from the floor and support other branches placed horizontally, which form the foundation for the roof. The place is very strongly put together.

"But the triumph of the cave is the fireplace. With a number of flat stones, carefully placed on each other, the young outlaw built up the two sides; and between them stretched several iron bars, and a quantity of wire netting, to hold the fire.

"Stretching out in front of the cave is the long line of rugged rocks fringing Stangage Moor. Among those rocks is a cave known as Robin Hood's cave, which, as the crow flies, is only about a mile from the hiding place of the youth who has shown something of the spirit of the old freebooter.

"But, although living with nature, Fieldsend did not altogether follow the simple life. He believed in enjoying himself as much as possible. When the police found him he was surrounded by good things, showing that he had kept an excellent table."

DIG NEW $5,600,000 TUNNEL UNDER THE THAMES RIVER

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, Saturday.

THERE are already seven tunnels under the Thames between Blackwell and Westminster, but work has just commenced upon a new one, this time between North and South Woolwich. At present the only means of communication between the two places is a free ferry service, which is apt to become rather irregular, owing to fogs and the density of the river traffic. The Blackwell tunnel is some distance up stream from Woolwich, so in case of any stoppage of the Woolwich ferry the loss of time is considerable. The new tunnel will be about five hundred yards long, the building operations will occupy about two years and the cost is estimated at $5,600,000. The preliminary work is nearly completed and the first shaft will shortly be sunk on the north bank.

The chief engineer of the London County Council has designed the tunnel, which will be carried under the river by means of the Greathead shield—a shield forced forward by hydraulic pressure and operated under compressed air—that was used so successfully in the boring of the Blackwall tunnel.

The oldest of the London tunnels is that at Wapping, which was considered one of the wonders of the world when it was built. The longest, and certainly the most imposing, is the Blackwall tunnel, which is claimed in London to be the greatest engineering work of its kind ever constructed, and which was opened by King Edward in May, 1897. It is nearly a mile and a quarter long and has a roadway wide enough for two omnibuses to pass each other, besides the separate shafts on each side for foot passengers.

To go through the tunnel on the top of a bus is one of the most curious experiences to be had. The roadway is stone paved, which makes the noise of passing vehicles sound simply terrific.

WANTS A RACE OF PLAYWRIGHTS

Mr. Henry W. Savage Says American Theatregoers Demand Plays Intrinsically Worthy, Besides New.

[SPECIAL DESPATCH.]
LONDON, Saturday.

"NOW that the grand opera madness has abated in America and general business conditions have resumed their normal state," said Mr. Henry W. Savage in the course of a conversation I had with him, "I look for a distinct boom in legitimate theatricals at home. The season just ending there has been generally satisfactory, if not quite up to the average. A wave of hysteria, stimulated by the frantic efforts of the rival grand opera companies, upset the equilibrium of a good many ordinarily sane persons, with the consequence that the theatre suffered in New York, Boston, Philadelphia and one or two other cities.

"However," continued Mr. Savage, "it was obvious from the start that grand opera in any language but English can never be other than an exotic in America. The public has now discovered that fact and also the equally important one that stars manufactured by megaphonic publicity methods have little enduring qualities. Hence business has quickly recovered its balance.

"The natural great demand for clean, good theatrical fare is again asserting itself. America is par excellence the play going country, but it is also becoming a clear sighted and discriminating one. The attractions must be intrinsically worthy as well as new.

"What we need chiefly is a race of capable playwrights. It doesn't matter whether they be native Americans or Europeans if there ever was any prejudice against the imported drama it has passed away completely.

"For my own part I am planning on a larger scale than ever for next year and years to come to include both American and European works. London will provide me with Moncton Hoffe's dainty comedy, "The Little Damosel," and from Berlin I shall get a remarkably promising new operetta, "Little Boy in Blue." This is soon to have its première at the Johann Strauss Theatre in Vienna. Paris will provide me with a sprightly little farce in "Theodore & Co.," which is one of the new real hits in that gay city.

"I also have a group of works by Americans which I regard very highly. The entire list thus far amounts to about twenty productions."

Mr. Savage tells me he is here for his annual holiday and not looking for plays, but that if anything good for the American market comes his way he will not dodge it.

QUEENSTOWN YET A PORT OF CALL

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, Saturday.

BOTH business men and tourists will be interested to know that Queenstown, Ireland, is not to be abandoned entirely as a port of call for mail steamers between the United States and England. Since the giant Cunarders first began calling at Fishguard and the report was circulated that Queenstown was doomed the cry was raised of "another injustice to Ireland," because such an eventuality concerned not Queenstown only. So an influential deputation, representative of Irish Members of Parliament, both unionist and nationalist, as well as of the Cork Corporation, the Cork Chamber of Commerce and the Cork Harbor Board, was appointed to wait upon the Postmaster General, the Rt. Hon. Herbert Samuel, to ask his assistance in having the incoming Cunard liners, especially the Mauretania and the Lusitania, call at Queenstown instead of proceeding to Fishguard.

The Postmaster General, remarking that Ireland was in many respects the "Cinderella of the Empire," said:—

"There is no intention of abandoning Queenstown as a port of call, but it is found that by calling at Fishguard the mails arrive in London on the average three and one-quarter hours earlier than formerly. That is a great difference, and it means the difference between catching the night mail out of London on Mondays and having to wait for the Tuesday morning mail. Ninety per cent of the mails carried by the Mauretania and Lusitania are for Great Britain.

"The intermediate ships of the Cunard and White Star lines carry a much larger Irish mail, about thirty-three per cent, and those ships do, and, so far as I am aware, certainly will in future continue to, call at Queenstown. As Postmaster General I must look primarily to the hour of the delivery of the mails from the point of view of the country as a whole.

"I shall, however, communicate with the shipping companies in respect to the delivery of the homeward mail at Queenstown."

MR. VANDERBILT'S COACHING PLANS

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, Saturday.

MR. ALFRED G. VANDERBILT has completed all his arrangements for another season of daily coaching runs between London and Brighton. He has changed the route somewhat, his intention being to go by Old Malden, Epsom, Dorking, Horsham, Cowfold, Henfield and Pyecombe, a longer but rather more interesting route than by the main Brighton road, though from London to Old Malden and from Pyecombe to Brighton the route must be as before.

OWES HER LIFE TO HER BIG HAT

English Girl, Thrown Through Window, Gives Practical Demonstration of Large Headgear's Utility.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, Saturday.

PARIS has informed the world of how the magnitude of a hat worn by one of its popular actresses during a promenade in the fashionable little town of St. Germain-en-Laye all but led to a duel. But London is prepared to contend that the justification of the mammoth hat—the "Merry Widow" kind—has been forthcoming.

Practical experience has been invoked to silence those querulous persons who complain that such feminine headgear blockades the rush of the public at railway stations and other places, gives women the appearance of huge animated umbrellas, disturbs the acoustic properties of churches and obstructs the view of tourists who hanker to get glimpses of Niagara Falls, the Pyramids, the Matterhorn and Westminster Abbey. Here is the evidence:—

"Miss —— met with a serious cycling accident yesterday," runs the thrilling recital that appears in an English provincial newspaper. "Her brake jammed when she was riding down Crosby street, a steep hill, and the machine dashed along at a great pace. Swerving into Wood street, it ran into the front of the Sun Inn, and the rider was thrown violently against and partly through a window consisting of plate glass three-quarters of an inch thick. The impact scattered and smashed the bottles displayed in the window and the girl was severely cut about the face and neck. But for the fact that she was wearing a large 'Merry Widow' hat, which partly protected her head and face, she might have lost her life."

It is now wakened by mere men that, in the face of this practical demonstration, the mammoth feminine hat will become strictly de rigueur for bicycling and automobiling. For no woman knows the day or hour when she may be thrown through three-quarters of an inch of plate glass.

MR. REVELLE ONE GRATEFUL ACTOR

[SPECIAL DESPATCH.]
LONDON, Saturday.

ONE of the most grateful English actors that ever played in America is Mr. Hamilton Revelle, who has just arrived in London on his annual visit to his home. His first American reputation was made as leading man with Miss Olga Nethersole in "Sapho." Later he was in Mr. Belasco's company, when he played the chief part in "The Rose of the Rancho." Recently he finished a tour under Mr. Frohman's management as the star in "The Fires of Fate."

"I have now been acting in America ten months in the year for the last nine years," said Mr. Revelle, "and I am beginning to consider myself a real American. Only a short time ago 'Jack' Mason referred to me as 'Our Hamilton Revelle.' I even have the accent.

"The old saying that a prophet is not without honor except in his own country applies to the theatrical profession more than to any other. An English actor might struggle unsuccessfully all his life to get a London hearing, but if he goes to New York he will have an engagement in a month. More than that, an English actor is treated so charmingly in America that he can never forget it or hope to repay it. In all the years I have been there I received nothing but courtesy and consideration from managers and public. Take Mr. Frohman, for instance. He may be a difficult man to approach, but he is the kindest of employers. Just think, he gave me the American rights to 'The Drums of Oud.' Why, that is just the same as giving me $15,000."

Mr. Revelle has a house in South Kensington which he has kept all these years, although he lives in it only a few weeks each year.

NOT OVERANXIOUS TO EAT WALLABIES

Attempt to Introduce Meat of Little Kangaroos in London Restaurants Proves Failure.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, Saturday

Whatever may be the prospective success of the Australian beef supply in England, the attempt to introduce wallabies in the London restaurants has not proved a success. It recalls how, a year or two ago, gastronomical experts were all put on the qui vive by an announcement that experimental shipments of penguins' eggs were about to arrive. The eggs came, but—! Well, no one wrote to the newspapers describing the joys of consumption, as a few enthusiasts did about the wallabies.

Presumably most purchasers thought the least said on the subject the better, and there may have been details they shrank from disclosing. The wallabies, of little kangaroos, have been braised, jugged, roasted, stewed, cut up in pieces, and put in pies, while their tails have gone to make wallaby soup. The brave Britons who have done this thing have not published the result, but there are rumors about town that wallaby is hardly likely to drive spring lamb and mint sauce, not even rabbit, from the restaurants, and that its duration as an English viand has just about as much chance of succeeding as had the penguin's egg.

HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL VISITS PETERBOROUGH FOR FIRST TIME

Earl Grey Given an Enthusiastic Reception on Saturday by Civic Authorities and the Citizens Generally ---Had a Busy Afternoon and Evening Here.

Smiling and bowing in acknowledgment of the reception tendered him by the civic authorities of Peterborough, and an enthusiastic gathering of citizens, His Excellency Earl Grey, Governor-General of Canada, stepped off the platform of his private car, "Cornwall," at the C. P. R. station at 11.45 Saturday morning, and started out on a programme that kept him busy until his departure on the midnight express. His reception at the station and throughout the day left no doubt in the mind of His Excellency as to the genuine heartiness of the people of the Electric City in having the opportunity of welcoming him for the first time, and the King's representative seemed to enjoy his visit and enter heartily into the arrangements that had been made for his entertainment.

Despite the disagreeable weather, with rain falling in copious quantities at frequent intervals during the day the programme scheduled was carried out in its entirety, and went through without a single untoward incident.

After his reception at the station His Excellency, accompanied by the Earl of Lanesborough, military secretary and Captain Fife, A.D.C., was driven to the plant of the Canadian General Electric Company. Here he was taken in charge by Mr. Frederick Nicholls, of Toronto, the General Manager, and Mr. E. G. Patterson, the local superintendent, and was shown through the immense works. His Excellency displayed a keen interest in every detail of what he saw and frequently stopped to converse with some of the workmen, and was most enthusiastic over the splendid system upon which everything is operated.

After inspecting the Canadian General the party was driven to the mammoth factory of the Quaker Oats Company, and escorted by Mr. W. H. Denham and Mr. T. H. G. Denné. His Excellency was taken through the different departments of the immense mills. Here, as at the Canadian General, Earl Grey displayed the same interest in the details of operation, and seemed greatly impressed with everything he saw.

After finishing the inspection here the party went to the Oriental Hotel, where they were entertained by the city at luncheon.

The Complimentary Luncheon.

The complimentary luncheon tendered by the city council to His Excellency was a very enjoyable and successful function. About sixty were in attendance, the invited guests including the members of the City Council, Board of Education, Separate School Board, Water Commissioners, City Trust Commissioner, and members of parliament.

His Worship, the Mayor, presided, and grace was said by ex-Mayor Rush.

The dining room was appropriately decorated in honour of the occasion, and the luncheon was served in admirable fashion.

At its conclusion His Worship, the Mayor, arose and proposed the health of the King. In doing so, Mayor Morrow said that on an occasion, like the present, he felt it to be a great honour to have the privilege and pleasure of presiding at the complimentary luncheon to His Excellency, Earl Grey, the much honoured representative of His Gracious Majesty, the King, in this fair Dominion. He was sure that the citizens of Peterborough were all proud of the city in which they dwelt, proud that they lived in Ontario, the banner province of the Dominion; proud, too, of the fact that they were citizens of the greatest of the overseas Dominions, and no less proud that they belonged to the great and glorious British Empire. In honouring the health of His Majesty, the King, they were honouring a monarch of a great empire, who was not only beloved by his own people, but was held in the highest esteem and regard by the whole civilized world, and who had justly earned the proud title of "Peacemaker." He asked all to join him in the toast "His Imperial Majesty, King Edward the Seventh."

After the singing of the National Anthem his Worship arose and called upon Hon. Mr. Stratton to propose the next toast—"Our Honoured Guest, His Excellency, the Governor-General."

Mr. Stratton said on rising to discharge his pleasant duty, that the gathering need not fear that he was going to inflict a speech. He said that just half a century ago, Peterborough was honoured with a visit from his Majesty King Edward the Seventh, then the boyish Prince of Wales. To-day they were honoured with a visit from His Excellency Earl Grey, the worthy representative of our great King. Since Canada has enjoyed the boon of self-government it had been blessed with the best sovereigns that ever sat on the throne of the British or other empires. While they had been fortunate in this regard, they had been no less fortunate in the vice-regal representatives whom they had been delighted to receive and honour, and of all these none has been more worthy of honour both from personal and official consideration than the present incumbent of the office of Governor-General. His Excellency Earl Grey, whom they delighted to honour and welcome to Peterborough. He said that it was safe to say that no representative of the King in Canada had been more widely known or held in higher esteem than His Excellency.

During the elapsed five years of his vice-regal regime which they all regretted was drawing to its constitutional close His Excellency had graciously and intelligently identified himself with the interests of Canada. He had taken an earnest interest in every phase of the national welfare, political, material, moral, social, and humanitarian. He had, Mr. Stratton ventured to say, a large faith in the boundless resources of Canada, and in the progressive and aspiring spirit of the Canadian people.

He had been a good friend of Canada, had spoken many a good and potent word for her and he would, the speaker was sure, do so again many a

CONSECRATION OF BISHOP FALLON AT LONDON

Notable Gathering of Church Dignitaries, Including His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, Attended Service at London To-day.

Special to The Examiner.

London, Ont., April 25.—With great solemnity and with three hundred ecclesiastics brilliantly costumed in attendance, Rev. Michael F. Fallon was to-day consecrated Bishop of London by Rev. Archbishop McEvay, assisted by Bishops Scollard, of the Soo, and McDonald, of Alexandria. Mgr. Shahan, Washington, and Rev. Nolan, were the speakers of the day. Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Fallon, Cornwall, and six of their sons occupied the first seat in the church, and an interesting incident was that the first ones the Bishop blessed when consecrated, were his aged parents, and then six brothers. Mgr. Meuner, Windsor, presented an address from the London clergy, after which they all knelt and kissed the episcopal ring on the Bishop's finger, a gift from M. P. Davis, Ottawa, as a sign of renewing their oath of obedience.

After service there was a banquet which the three hundred ecclesiastics attended, the twenty archbishops and bishops being seated on the platform.

At the consecration were people from every part of Canada and the United States, and the Cathedral was crowded to the doors. Outside guests included Archbishop Langevin, St. Boniface, Archbishop Bruchesi, Montreal, Archbishop Gauthier, Kingston, Archbishop McCarthy, Halifax; Archbishop Quigley, Chicago, Archbishop Dontenville, Superior General of the Oblate order and Archbishop McEvay of Toronto. Bishops Lorrain, Pembroke; Dowling, of Hamilton, O'Connor of Peterborough; Pinsent, Valleyfield, Archbishop of Sherbrooke, Scollard of the Soo, MacDonald of Alexandria, Coulten of Buffalo, Hickey of Rochester, Foley, of Detroit, and Maldoon, Chicago; Hon. Clas. Murphy, Secretary of State, Senator E. W. Scott, Mayor Scott, Ottawa, Hon. Sutherland Woodstock, Dr. H. Ryan and Rev. Fathers Hanley and McDonlad, Kingston.

The addresses included those from the Knights of Columbus, of Buffalo, Ottawa, London, and Perth.

The pontifical books were given by Rev. Father Murphy, acting for Ottawa University, while Buffalo former parishioners gave a purse of $3,000 and a set of episcopal robes, and there were many private presentations. There are several special features arranged for to-night.

CANADIAN CREDIT AND BRITISH GOLD.

We are frequently told that the alleged extravagance of the Liberal Government is depreciating the credit of Canada in the Mother Land. Some Conservative newspapers assert this but the Toronto News is compelled by the logic of facts to contradict this assertion. It says:

Canada's credit stands high in London and this country has become an attractive field for investment. It says this on the very best of evidence. The Monetary Times, after diligent research, has compiled a table of British investments in Canada, and the total is an astounding one, amounting to nearly 606¼ million dollars. The figures are given as follows: Bank stocks, $1,125,000; invested in Canadian loans and mortgages, $5,719,774; British Insurance Company investments, $9,737,742: municipal bonds, $10,000,000; industrial investments $22,500,000; lands, $19,000,000; mining $56,315,000; Canadian public flotations, $481,041,836—all making a total of $605,453,852. And the certainty is that Canada will continue to be a more attractive field for investment of British capital. The daily uncovering of new natural resources, the rapid increase of population, of soil production and industrial output, add to the security of capital and the productiveness of its employment. The foregoing figures indicate the immense monetary power of Great Britain, which seems to grow in strength from day to day and year to year. The summary prepared by the Times shows that in 1908 the British money sent to Canada for investment was equal to half the total of the preceding four years, and the first three months of the present year look as if this year's British investments in Canada would surpass any previous record. Canada is regarded as a splendid field of investment, and that is indeed gratifying, as capital and population are what Canada needs to secure the fullest realisation of its great and varied resources. The capital is coming in rapidly, and so is the population. Every dollar spent in development creates the power for the creation of other dollars. Every productive individual added to our population does similarly.

SOUTH AFRICA'S NATAL DAY.

The suggestion that May 31, the first natal day of United South Africa, be celebrated by the flying of flags on every school from coast to coast throughout the Dominion, is advanced by Mr. H. R. Poussette, Canadian Trade Commissioner at Durban. The department takes pleasure in presenting the idea so ably advocated by its representative. It opens the question of general recognition of the national holidays of sister holidays.

Mr. Poussette expresses himself as follows:

"In the Almanac of Empire, another day is about to be printed in red—that on which will be celebrated the formation of a new and self-governing nation within the British imperial dominions. On the 31st of May, South Africa will commemorate an event which cannot but be regarded as one of high and far-reaching importance. It marks the incorporation into the empire of a people who were only the other day our enemies, a sturdy and virile race, descendants of the Huguenots, and those Dutchmen who showed such magnificent heroism and patient fortitude in that eventually successful, but terribly wearing struggle, which freed Holland finally from the power of Spain. In the consummation of union, both Briton and Boer have much over which to rejoice, and whilst perhaps at the present this is more perceptible to one side, in the fulness of time the other will surely look back to this first national day as one in which they may feel a lofty pride.

The coming celebration would seem to afford a splendid opportunity to present to the minds of the school children of the Dominion an object lesson in the greatness of that empire to which they belong, and the magnitude of the events happening within its confines, at the same time demonstrating our kinship with its peoples and our hearty interest in all that concerns them. Whilst there are strong centripetal forces acting to hold us together, there are also forces centrifugal, working in opposition to these. Therefore it must be our endeavour to arrest the latter ere they have gathered a destroying momentum.

The school child, with his plastic mind, on which strong impressions are likely to prove enduring, would seem to be a particularly suitable subject for the inculcation of imperial ideas. And for this reason, it is suggested that on South Africa's first national day, flags should be flown on all Canadian schools, that the circumstances may be impressed upon the scholar's imagination through his own observation and the zealous co-operation of his teachers. Perhaps if this idea meets with favour, it may be possible to perpetuate it from year to year. Who knows but that Canada's example may be followed by other portions of the empire?

Allusion has only so far been made to school flags, but if the public generally were to mark the day by a display of the ensign, one can be sure that the courtesy would be appreciated in the union where Canada is admired and held in such warm esteem. Might one venture to hope that the various national days of the daughter nations shall yet be marked by the flying of flags throughout the King's Dominions? It would be a simple, yet most pleasing compliment to the brothers beyond the seas, and one calculated to call them to mind in a kindly way, and the noble traditions with which all are indissolubly connected.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Living in the Yukon seems to be high, but in reality it is not any higher than it is in Peterborough, nor as high relatively. Eggs, at 75 cents per dozen, butter, 50 cents; steak, 50, and pork, 40 cents, way up north. But in the Yukon a labourer's day's wage will buy ten dozens of eggs, while a labouring man's wages at $1.75 per day in Peterborough will, with eggs at 25 cents, buy only seven dozens of eggs. Skilled labour's one-day wage in the Yukon, at $10 per day, will buy fourteen dozen; in Peterborough skilled labourers' wages, per day, say $3, will only by 12 dozens of eggs, at 25 cents per dozen. But the Yukoner has the fun of handling and spending more money which, apart from its purchasing value, is about all anybody can get out of money.

HOW CANADA IS GROWING

(Ottawa Free Press)

The immigration figures for the past year and especially for the past month stagger the imagination. During the year we received no fewer than 208,794 persons.

Can you figure in your mind just what this means?

It means that between April 1st of last year and March 31 of the present year more people entered Canada than was contained within the limits of the city of Toronto when the census of Toronto was taken in 1901.

More than that, and perhaps more significant in view of the fact that more people entered Canada during the month of March just expired than in any previous month, is the statement that the immigration into Canada during the present month of March, 1910, represented more people than were allocated to Halifax and Hamilton in 1871, to Ottawa in 1881, and to London and Winnipeg in 1891.

If this be the result of one year and one month, how soon will we reach Lord Strathcona's prediction of twenty millions as the population of Canada?

Things are certainly "coming our way." And it is significant to note that each of the new settlers represents a valuable addition in cash to the assets of the country.

The twentieth century is Canada's century.

time, long after his official association with Canada had ended. Apart from his constitutional duties His Excellency had shown a wide and industrious philanthropic activity. He had given heart and impulse to great movements, whose good effects would endure long after the close of his vice-regal term. The present occasion suggested how greatly his influence and actions had promoted the interests of music and the drama and the higher forms of culture, and many thousands would bless his memory for the noble work done and fostered under his initiative and influence on behalf of those afflicted with our most dread disease.

They had loyally and enthusiastically honoured the toast of the King, and he was sure they would receive with no less warmth the toast he had the honour to propose. He then asked the gathering to join in the toast "Our Honoured Guest, Earl Grey, Governor-General of Canada."

The toast was received with enthusiasm amid cheer after cheer.

The health of Earl Grey was drunk with enthusiasm and the gathering sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

In responding Egrl Grey touched on Mr. Stratton's remark that Peterborough people did not know why he had visited Peterborough. "When passing from Toronto to Ottawa," said Earl Grey, "I could not miss the opportunity to see Peterborough, of which I have heard a great deal, and all of which was very complimentary to Peterborough. I see that in Peterborough everything is done on schedule time, and as the programme calls for me to be at Central Park at three o'clock, and it is now five past three, the great speech which I have prepared will have to remain with me. My expectations of Peterborough have been surpassed by what I find here on my visit. I was delighted with what I saw at the Canadian General Electric Company's works, and with the courtesy of Mr. Nicholls and Mr. Patterson, and with the Quaker Oats works, where I was given such kind treatment by Mr. Denham. At the Electric works I learned some things that were new to me, and one of them that interested me greatly was the "magnet clutch," a small block of metal which was held with amazing firmness to the plate on which it rested by the magnetic force. As I looked at that magnet clutch and thought of the great power that held it where it rested, I thought of the magnet clutch of sympathy which makes Britons the wide world over as one, and keeps all her many possessions in solid cohesion." (Cheers.)

"I thank you for the honour you have done me to-day," continued Earl Grey. "I have had a lovely time this morning, and I know the afternoon will be just as enjoyable. To-night I will see the "Geisha," which surprised and delighted everyone when it was presented in the competition at Toronto. Gentlemen, I thank you for your kindness to-day. It will never be forgotten." (Cheers).

The function closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

During the repast the Band, under the leadership of Sergt. Hughes, rendered an enjoyable programme outside, and hundreds of people gathered to wait for the appearance of His Excellency who was greeted with enthusiastic cheers, as he entered a carriage and preceded by the band, and followed by the other dinner guests in carriages, he was driven away to receive official greeting from the city.

Civic Reception.

Despite the fact that the weather was anything but pleasant, there being a steady downpour of rain, the citizens turned out en masse at the Armouries to take part in the civic reception to His Excellency. From the Oriental Hotel to the Armouries the street was lined with people, and the main floor of the building was thronged, as His Excellency entered. Going to the balcony at the east end of the hall, His Worship, Mayor Morrow read the civic address of welcome.

The Mayor's Address.

The illuminated address presented by Mayor Morrow to His Excellency, read as follows:

To His Excellency The Right Honorable Earl Grey,

Governor-General of Canada.

May it Please Your Excellency:—

The Council of the City of Peterborough desire to express to you on their own behalf and on behalf of the people of the city, the great pleasure it gives them to be honoured with a visit from your Excellency on this occasion. We are pleased because it is a gratification to receive one who has occupied prominent places in the councils and government of the Empire, has given eminent service to the King and Government, and has always shown an ardent desire for the welfare of the people and for the best interests of the Empire as a whole.

Most heartily we welcome you as the representative of our beloved Sovereign, for whose person and throne we, in common with all Canadian citizens, entertain the sincerest feelings of devotion and loyalty. You have filled the exalted position of Governor of His Majesty's most important possession beyond the seas, in a manner that has been most acceptable to the people of this Dominion, and that has assisted greatly in our country's development and progress, which, during your term of office has been so markedly rapid, and we are glad that we are to be afforded this opportunity to show you some of the evidences of the prosperity and advancement in this not unimportant part of Canada. We are not a little proud of our manufacturing industries, our mercantile houses, of our educational, benevolent and other public institutions, and of the transportation facilities with which our city is provided, and we regret that the limited time now at your disposal will permit you to see so little of them. We are, however, exceedingly pleased that you have shown such an appreciative interest in the city and its people, that you have made it convenient to devote even this small portion of your time to learn something of them by personal observation.

We feel sure that the deep interest you have manifested in the growth and welfare of the Dominion will not terminate with your departure from Canada, but that it will continue to bear fruit even when you may not be officially connected with our affairs, and we sincerely hope that Your Excellency and the Countess Grey will carry with you only pleasant recollections of your stay in Canada.

I have the honour to be, Your Excellency's obedient servant.

W. G. Morrow,
Mayor.

Peterborough, Canada, April 23, 1910.

Turning to the people, His Excellency in replying to the address of welcome, in part, said "I wish from the bottom of my heart to thank you for the beautiful address and the kind remarks expressed in it. I am glad to have the opportunity of visiting your city. I am sorry that it has been dampened by rain, but the rain is needed by our agricultural friends. I am glad to be with you for several reasons. I had the pleasure of making the acquaintance of a number of your young people a couple of weeks

THE UPPER ROOM AT JERUSALEM

"He Will Show You a Large Upper Room; There Make Ready For Us" (Mark xiv, 15).

Jerusalem, April 24.—My friends, we meet to-day for the worship of God in traditionally one of the most renowned meeting places in the whole earth. Tradition has it that this is the same "upper room" which was owned by one friendly to our Lord and his disciples and who granted it as their meeting place on several occasions most intimately associated with the inauguration of Christianity. Tradition also has it that this is the room mentioned by St. Mark in our text, where the disciples with the Lord partook of the last Jewish Passover Supper, after which Jesus instituted the Eucharist or Lord's Supper as an antitypical memorial, taking the place of the Passover to all who accept Jesus as the Passover Lamb—"The Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world" (John i, 29); "Christ our Passover is slain therefore let us keep the feast" (I. Corinthians v, 7,8).

Tradition assures us that this is the same room mentioned in the Book of Acts (i, 13) as the place where the Apostles resided and assembled for worship during the ten days following the Lord's ascension—the same "upper room," therefore, in which was manifested the acceptance of all the consecrated followers of Jesus into Covenant relationship with God as "members of the Body of Christ, which is the Church." Of course, our permission to use this room for a public service to-day was obtained only by prearrangement with those having it in charge. True, traditions are not always reliable. Surely, in almost every other part of the world it would be absurd to think of the preservation of the identity of a house like this for more than eighteen centuries. But here we have most peculiar conditions. The inhabitants of this land seem to have been content to leave things just as they found them from generation to generation, merely making such slight repairs as were from time to time found necessary. Here visitors come, look and depart, filled with a sacred awe, and have done so for centuries, and the inhabitants, each intent upon his own business, have ignored this in a manner hardly imaginable by Europeans. It is possible therefore that tradition in this case and in other instances thereabouts, has located correctly, just as in Rome the prison in which Paul was confined is indicated by tradition, with apparent accuracy.

We are favored not only in respect to the use of the room, but additionally in respect to the time of our visit and our use of it. This, according to Jewish reckoning, is the first day of Passover Week—it began last evening at 6 o'clock. The three hours preceding that marked the time of our Lord's death and the begging by Joseph of Arimathea for the privilege of burying his body in his new tomb and the hasty taking of our Lord from the cross and getting him partially embalmed and the tomb closed and sealed before 6 o'clock—this day beginning at 6 o'clock being amongst the Jews, as the Apostle declared, an "high day," a Sabbath day of special sacredness as the beginning of the Passover Feast-Week.

As we look back to that memorable occasion we can sympathize with the Apostles and early believers in the blighting of all of their hopes by the apparent failure of Jesus to make good his claim of Messiahship. We can imagine better than we can describe their dejection, their disappointment. On the next day, corresponding to to-morrow, the two with whom Jesus met on the way to Emmaus said sadly, "We had trusted that it had been he who should have redeemed Israel" (Luke xxiv, 21).

They had hoped that his miracles, corroborating his teachings, when he "spake as never man spake," were evidences that he was the Messiah. They had built their hopes, as Jews, that now finally God's promises to their nation would be fulfilled—that Israel should be exalted in the earth in name and fame and power and authority to bless and to instruct "all the families of the earth." They had hoped that Messiah would be the great King under whose beneficent reign, as the great Mediator between God and men, the long-promised blessing would come to the earth. They had hoped also for a personal share with him in the glories of his Kingdom, according to his own words—"Ye shall sit with me on twelve thrones, judging (ruling) the twelve tribes of Israel" (Matthew xix, 28). His death as a malefactor, as a blasphemer against God, seemed to cast a shadow over every hope and to leave them not only desolate in heart themselves, but despised by their neighbors as deceived fanatics. This is the anniversary, dear friends, of a day that was very sad to our brethren of 1,877 years ago.

How different is our attitude of mind that we are able to see, to praise God and to rejoice that Jesus died; that he suffered, "the Just for the unjust," that his death might constitute the Ransom-Price for Adam and all his race. This light upon the sufferings of Christ began to shine into the hearts of the Apostles on the day of our Lord's resurrection, corresponding to to-morrow. The oil for that light lay hidden in the words of Moses and all the Prophets of Israel. But it was necessary that our Lord, having risen from the dead to be the great antitypical High Priest, should trim the lamp of Divine Truth that the light might shine out to all of his people, all of the "members," all of the "Royal Priesthood," all who are in the consecrated condition of heart, symbolically represented by the "holy" of Israel's Tabernacle.

Mark how gently and how wisely the Lord permitted the light to shine in gradually upon his faithful few. The eyes of their understanding must not be blinded by an instantaneous flash. Gradually, as they were able to bear it, the good tidings of his resurrection from the dead to glory, honor and immortality on the divine plane must be made known to them. The first intimations were from the women of the company who had gone with spices, after the "high day," on the morning of the third day to complete the work of embalming the Lord. They reported first, that he was gone from the sepulchre, and secondly, that they had seen some angels who told them that he was risen from the dead. And later Mary had reported that she had seen the Lord and clasped him by the feet and that he had said to her, "I am not yet ascended to my Father; but go to my brethren and say unto them, I ascend unto my Father, and your Father; and to my God, and your God" (John xx, 17). Jesus said to tell the disciples that he would meet them in Galilee, as he had said to them before. These bewildering experiences were merely leading gradually on, preparing the disciples for the fuller knowledge of the facts.

It was the same day (corresponding to to-morrow afternoon) that the Lord overtook two of the sorrowing disciples as they walked into the country to spend the night. Here again he would not shock them and overpower them by a vision of his glorious presence such as smote down Saul of Tarsus on his way to Damascus, "shining above the brightness of the sun at noon-day"; on the contrary he assumed a body of flesh and traveler's clothing and talked sympathetically with the two sorrowing ones. After hearing their woes and sorrows he must have astonished them with his knowledge of the Scriptures, as well as by his sympathy, saying to them, "O foolish and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken!" (Luke xxiv, 25). They have been willing to believe something of what the Prophets had spoken — the glorious things, the happifying things pertaining to Messiah's Millennial glory. But they had been slow to believe the prophets' other testimonies to the effect that the Redeemer must be "led as a Lamb to the slaughter," must be the sin-offering, must be despised and rejected of men, must be lifted up on the cross as the antitype of the "brazen serpent," and must be raised from the dead by the power of the Father to the glory, honor and immortality of his great station as Prophet, Priest, Mediator, King, the antitype of Melchizedek, for the fulfilment to Israel and the world of all of God's great promises.

Then said Jesus, in view of these expositions, "Ought not Christ to have suffered these things and to enter into his glory?" What else should be expected? Did he not foretell his own death? And did he not foretell his own resurrection? And were you not too confused to understand his teachings to the full? Did not your minds run more to the coming glory than to what he said to you respecting the necessity that you should "watch and pray lest ye enter into temptation" and lose all your part and hope under these trying conditions? A little later, in the same day, he appeared in the "upper room," traditionally this very room—the doors being shut for fear of the Jews—barred, we may be sure, because the poor disciples felt that the envy and hatred which had led to the crucifixion of the Master might easily be transferred now to them because of their sympathy with him and their relationship to his work. Here Jesus materialized in their presence and spoke a few words. He told them that he was really present with them and that it was not merely a phantom which they saw. And then he ate with them, honeycomb and fish, as evidencing the fact that they were not being addressed by an illusion, but by a corporeal being. While they still wondered with astonishment, he proved to them that their risen Lord was no longer merely a man, but that he had experienced a change in his resurrection, so that now he was a spirit being and could go and come like the wind—appearing in a body of flesh when his purposes so commanded. He gave proof of this by vanishing out of their sight, dissolving the body of flesh and bones and the clothing as easily as he had created them and by the same Divine power.

The glorified, resurrected Jesus remained with the infant Church for forty days, watching over their interests. On four or five occasions he appeared to them again in different forms and for the further inculcation of the great lesson that he has risen and changed, henceforth a spirit being. Then he ascended up on high to appear in the presence of God on behalf of his faithful ones first, as later on he will appear in the interest of the world. The Father's recognition of the merit of his sacrifice, applied "on our behalf," was manifested by the impartation of the holy Spirit on Pentecost day. Traditionally this same wonderful "upper room" witnessed that outpouring of Divine blessing and favor, which came only upon consecrated believers and has come upon the same class, and upon none other, from that day unto this — begetting them individually by the holy Spirit to the divine nature, with its promises of glory, honor and immortality to the faithful, in association with the Lord Jesus in his Millennial Kingdom.

That blessing was a partial fulfillment of the Lord's word through the Prophet Joel, namely of that portion which says, "In those days will I pour out of my Spirit upon my servants and upon my handmaids" (Joel ii, 28). We are glad, dear friends, that what occurred at that first Pentecost and what has continued all through this Gospel Age, of Pentecostal blessing upon each individual member of the Body of Christ, is merely a foretaste of God's great favor towards Adam's race. As St. James declares (i, 18) the Church is merely "a kind of first-fruits unto God of his creatures." True, the first-fruits in this case is the very choicest—our Lord, the glorious Head and High Priest, and his saintly followers the antitypical under-priests of the Royal Priesthood. But a great blessing is yet to come, for there shall come a still greater outpouring of God's Spirit as mentioned in the same prophecy in the words, "After those days, saith the Lord, I will pour out my Spirit upon all flesh; and your sons and your daughters shall seek for me, and your young men shall see actually what your ancients dreamed of."

This will have its fulfillments during the Millennial Age, not that the world in general will be begotten of the holy Spirit to a spirit nature like unto the angels and like unto Christ, as in our case, but the Lord has promised to take away the stony heart and to give a heart of flesh to all the willing and obedient of mankind during that Millennial Day. In such, a right spirit shall be renewed as they become obedient to the gracious arrangements of Messiah's universal Empire and that right spirit in man, that right disposition, will be the holy Spirit—God's Spirit or disposition. It was given to man originally when he was created perfect, upright, in the image and likeness of God. It was lost by sin and displaced by a spirit of selfishness and sometimes by a spirit of devilishness. It will be the great work of that thousand years of Messiah's Kingdom to lift mankind out of sin and selfishness and death and to restore the willing and obedient to all that was lost in Adam and redeemed by the merit of the sacrifice at Calvary. With the close of the Millennial Kingdom, God shows us that all who will not have attained to the possession of his holy Spirit will be destroyed in the Second Death. Then there shall be no more sighing, nor crying, nor dying, no more sin, no more sorrow, for all the former things of sin and death shall have passed away. It will be Christ on the throne who will make all things new.

In closing we ask that in connection with what we have just said respecting this "Upper Room" and the blessing here conferred, you do not forget the special privilege which some twenty or thirty of us enjoyed in this same room on Friday evening last. We remind you afresh that that evening, after six o'clock, corresponded to the night in which our Lord with his disciples first celebrated the memorial of his own death with the loaf and with the cup, traditionally in this same "Upper Room." Incidentally we remark that the early Christian Church used this same Jewish reckoning in the annual celebration of our Lord's death and resurrection, but that, later on, the method of calculating the date was slightly modified so that this year Good Friday and Easter, according to the revised Episcopalian Calendar, occurred nearly a month ago—March 26-27. I feel sure that as long as I live I shall not forget the blessed experiences of Friday evening and its memorial celebration in this "Upper Room," of the great event which means so much to the Church, and to the world—which symbolizes the precious sacrifice of Christ and also, as the Apostle explains, symbolizes the participation of all the faithful members of Christ in his sacrifice—in the broken loaf and in the cup of which we partake antitypically. May we, dear friends, prove so faithful to our consecration Vows that we will be included by our glorious Lord amongst those who shall be counted worthy to share also his cup of joy and glory—participation in his Millennial Kingdom and his glorious work of blessing all the families of the earth!

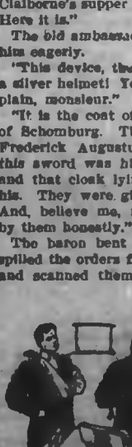
"—Yes, and you believe it.' Go on!"

Chauvenet's eyes blinked for a moment as he considered the difficulties of his situation. The presence of Baron von Marbof sobered him. America might not, after all, be so safe a place from which to conduct an old world conspiracy, and this incident must, if possible, be turned to his own account. He addressed the baron in German:



"This is infamous!"

"This man is a designing plotter. He is bent upon mischief and treason. He has contrived an attempt against the noble ruler of our nation. He is a menace to the throne"—

"Who is he?" demanded Marbof impatiently, and his eyes and the eyes of all fell upon Armitage.

"I tell you we found him lurking about in Europe, waiting his chance, and we drove him away—drove him here to watch him. See these things—that sword—those orders! They belonged to the Archduke Karl. Look at them and see that it is true! I tell you, we have rendered Austria a high service. One death, one death at Vienna, and this son of a madman would be king! He is Frederick Augustus, the son of the Archduke Karl!"

The room was very still as the last words rang out. The old ambassador's gaze clung to Armitage. He stepped nearer, the perspiration breaking out upon his brow, and his lips trembled as he faltered:

"He would be king! He would be king!"

Then Armitage spoke sharply to Claiborne.

"That will do. The gentleman may retire now."

As Claiborne thrust Chauvenet out of the room Armitage turned to the little company, smiling.

"I am not Frederick Augustus, the son of the Archduke Karl," he said quietly, "nor did I ever pretend that I was except to lead those men on in their conspiracy. The cigarette case that caused so much trouble at Mr Claiborne's supper party belongs to me. Here it is."

The old ambassador snatched it from him eagerly.

"This device, the falcon poised upon a silver helmet! You have much to explain, monsieur."

"It is the coat of arms of the house of Schomburg. The case belonged to Frederick Augustus, Karl's son, and this sword was his, and these orders and that cloak lying yonder—all were his. They were gifts from his father. And, believe me, my friends, I came by them honestly."

The baron bent over the table and spilled the orders from their silver box and scanned them eagerly. The colored ribbons, the glittering jewels, held the eyes of all. Many of them were the insignia of rare orders no longer conferred. There were the crown and pendant cross of the Invincible Knights of Zaringer; the white falcon upon a silver helmet swung from a ribbon of cloth of gold, the familiar device of the house of Schomburg, the gold Maltese cross of the Chevaliers of the Blessed Sacrament; the crossed swords above an iron crown of the Ancient Legion of Saint Michael and All Angels, and the full rigged ship pendant from triple anchors, the decoration of the rare Spanish order of the Star of the Seven Seas. Silence held the company as the ambassador's fine old hands touched one after another. It seemed to Shirley that these baubles again bound the new world, the familiar hills of home, the Virginia shores, to the wallowing caravels of Columbus.

The colored ribbons, the glittering jewels, held the eyes of all.

Enhance the charm of your physique

Madam, and be healthier with the new Renaissance Corset, "La Diva," rather than discount it and injure your health with ill fitting and old fashioned Corsets.

Madam, you cannot rival the "Chic" and "Svelte" appearance of French and American women unless you wear a corset, that shapes gracefully and fits comfortably.

Unless the corset is right,—no woman can expect to really look as well as she might.

We have gone to a tremendous expense and study to perfect our Renaissance Corset.

At Paris the fountain head of styles, in New York and London, also, our designer has sought most carefully before, after many experiments, we perfected on living models our wonderful new corset "La Diva" Renaissance Corset. The result is a corset giving all the "Chic" and "Svelte" appearance of the most fashionable French and American woman, and moreover, by holding the body in shape without compressing unduly at any point La Diva Renaissance is more healthful for you than any other Corset.

La Diva Corset

We're anxious to see how Canadian women will appreciate our endeavour to obtain for them a really wonderful corset. For that reason we have made the price of "La Diva" only $2.50—it's a $3.50 corset.

"DIVA" Corset

All we ask is that you see it, and judge its merits for yourself. Kindly show this advertisement to the sales person and ask to see La Diva Renaissance and decide for yourself.

Write today for our Corset Booklet. We send it FREE. This book will tell you just what style of corset is adapted to YOUR physique in order to retain health and give shapeliness.

ago in Toronto when they appeared in the musical competitions. I was delighted with the Madrigal Club but still more with the Geisha. It was presented with a go and snappiness that was charming and pleasing. Still greater was I pleased when I learned that both the ladies and gentlemen taking part were hard workers. As I went through the great works of the Canadian General Electric Co., while impressed with the work done, I was greatly interested in the men. In the personal interview I had with some of them, I learned that about one half of them came from Manchester, England and the other half belonged to Peterborough. Canada was growing, and with its rapid advancement, it was becoming the most influential of the colonies of the British Empire. So long as it kept its judiciary and its Federal, Provincial and Civic Government pure, it would hold that distinction. But its greatness did not lie in its potentialities and gigantic growth alone, but in the character of its people. I am filled with hope for the future as Canada begins her upward career. During my visit to the Electrical works today, I learned with pleasure, that on three occasions they had made records in electrical power. I congratulate your on your beautiful and progressive city. I am glad to have made your acquaintance and wish you a full measure of prosperity."

Three hearty cheers were then given for His Majesty,, King Edward, followed by three uproarious ones for His Excellency, the Governor-General. The party had a short drive around the city, proceeding then to the Wolfe street wharf, where the "Bessie Butler" was in waiting to take them over the Lift Lock.

Before going to the steamer His Excellency was driven northward as far as the Nicholls' Hospital and was shown that building, the Provincial Normal School, the Queen Alexandra School and the Barnardo Home. On hearing of the latter institution His Excellency expressed his desire to pay it a visit, and the drive around the city was, in consequence, shortened. He was received by Miss Elliott, the lady superintendent of the institution, but on account of the presence of a number of cases of scarlet fever cases, did not enter.

The band accompanied the party on the trip on the steamer and rendered a splendid programme as the boat crossed the lake and traversed the canal as far as the famous lock. The band was in excellent form and many favourable comments were heard upon their fine playing.

Fortunately for the pleasure of the party the downpour of rain abated during the trip and although cloudy it was not unpleasant during thee journey. The ascension over the lock was made without the slightest hitch and His Excellency seemed greatly impressed with the hugeness of the structure and the ease with which it was operated. After the lock had been thoroughly inspected the party were driven back to the city.

AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

At the conclusion of the trip over the Lift Lock, His Excellency Earl Grey and the vice-regal party visited St. John's Church, where he was extended a hearty welcome. The front of the beautiful edifice was gayly decorated in honour of the Governor-General. St. George's cross floated under the national flag, it being St. George's Day. His Excellency was received by the rector, Rev. Canon Davidson and the Church wardens. A large congregation was present. Prayers were offered by the rector for the King, the Governor-General and the country. Rev. Canon Davidson, in a few informal words expressed to His Excellency, the welcome of St. John's congregation, taking advantage of his visit to bring him into contact with the wider church in Peterborough by inviting the Protestant ministers to be present to assist in welcoming him. Canon Davidson referred to the strong personality of Earl Grey as brought out by his official career. It was a pleasure to Canadians to see that behind the high official there was clearly manifested the individuality of the man. They appreciated His Excellency's co-operation in the fight against tuberculosis and the stimulus he had given the cultivation of the refinements of life which were so advantageous to a young country still in the rough. Other Governor-Generals would come, Canon Davidson remarked, but Earl Grey's personality and influence would remain.

Earl Grey rose in his place in the Church on the invitation of the Rector to reply. His Excellency said that it was the first time that he had ever spoken in church, and he was overcome by the sanctity of the building which he feared to transgress. He appreciated the warmth of the welcome as voiced by two clergy and he congratulated them upon the unity of feeling which seemed to prevail. No doubt religion generally was, and especially from his standpoint as an Anglican, the Anglican church was a unifying force throughout the British Empire. The Governor-General said that he had heard of the project to place a chime of bells in the tower of St. John's church, which on acount of its commanding position was especially suitable. The music of church bells had always appealed to him strongly and he believed it had a certain restraining and uplifting influence upon multitudes, even those who never entered a church. It pathetically reminded Englishmen, he said, of the ivy clad village churches of the homeland. He wished the enterprise every success. The old hundredth was then sung, the singing being led by the organist, Mr. R. J. Devey, after which Earl Grey signed his name in the church register in the vestry where he was introduced to many of those present, including Rev. Messrs. Potter, Pogue, Trumpour, Langfeldt, and Riddiford.

The vice-regal party were then driven to Earl Grey's private car where His Excellency entertained at dinner, His Worship the Mayor, His Honour Judge Huycke and Hon. J. R. Stratton, M. P.

At 8:15 His Excellency's party drove to the Grand Opera House and entering by the Water street entrance, His Excellency was escorted to the central box on the south side. His appearance therein was the signal for the audience rising to its feet while the orchestra played a few strains of the National Anthem after which the performance of "The Geisha" was proceeded with. The private boxes were occupied by His Excellency and party Mr. R. R. Hall, ex-M. P., and party, His Honour Judge Huycke and family His Worship the Mayor and friends, and Hon. J. R. Stratton and party.

The officers of the Peterborough garrison appeared in military uniform and the ladies and gentlemen in the audience were in evening dress, and perhaps a smarter and more fashionable audience has never assembled in the Grand Opera House. His Excellency took occasion to remark that he had never been present in Canada at a prettier gathering.

At the conclusion of the delightful presentation to which reference is made in another column His Excellency was presented by Mr. Devey to those who took the leading parts and congratulated them upon the manner in which they had played their roles.

After the function at the Opera House Mayor Morrow accompanied Earl Grey to his car at the C. P. R. station, thus concluding a well arranged and closely connected afternoon and evening's engagements. His Excellency taking occasion in parting to thank His Worship and through him all who had facilitated in any way the pleasant afternoon and evening he had greatly enjoyed.

The vice-regal car was attached to the Ottawa express leaving at 12.06.

AVOID HARSH DRUGS

Many Cathartics Tend to Cause Injury to the Bowels.

If you are subject to constipation, you should avoid strong drugs and cathartics. They only give temporary relief and their reaction is harmful and sometimes more annoying than constipation. They in no way effect a cure and their tendency is to weaken the already weak organs with which they come in contact.

We honestly believe that we have the best constipation treatment ever devised. Our faith in it is so strong that we sell it on the positive guarantee that it shall not cost the user a cent if it does not give entire satisfaction and completely remedy constipation. This preparation is called Rexall Orderlies. These are prompt, soothing and most effective in action. They are made of a recent chemical discovery. Their principal ingredient is odourless, tasteless, and colourless. Combined with other well-known ingredients, long established for their usefulness in the treatment of constipation, it forms a tablet which is eaten just like candy. They may be taken at any time, either day or night without fear of their causing any inconvenience whatever. They do not gripe, purge nor cause nausea. They act without causing any pain or excessive looseness of the bowels. They are ideal for children, weak, delicate persons and aged people as well as for the most hearty person.

They come in two size packages, 12 tablets 10 cents, 36 tablets 25 cents. Remember you can obtain them only at our store.—The Rexall Store.—McDermid and Jury, corner George and Charlotte streets.

ODDFELLOWS ATTENDED DIVINE WORSHIP SUNDAY

Eloquent Sermon Given by Rev. J. O. Brown at the St. James' Methodist Church Last Evening.

LARGE ATTENDANCE

About two hundred and fifty Oddfellows attended St. James' Methodist church last evening and heard a most instructive sermon delivered by Rev. J. G. Brown, pastor of that church, also a brother of the order.

The reverend gentleman extended a hearty welcome to his brother members, and as a member he said that he highly esteemed the privilege of offering them a few words.

Mr. Brown took for his text: "Which now of these three, thinkest thou, was neighbour unto him that fell among the thieves? And he said, he that showed mercy on him. Then said Jesus unto him, go and do thou likewise." from 10th chapter, Gospel of St. Luke, 36-37 verses.

Once ,while Jesus was teaching, a lawyer came to him and asked what he must do to be saved. Jesus answered 'Love the Lord God with your whole heart and love your neighbour as yourself." When the lawyer heard of his neighbour, he thought he would entrap our Saviour, and asked: "Who is my neighbour?" In answer Jesus narrated the well-known parable of the good Samaritan. "A man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho. On the way he fell among robbers, who stripped him, and wounding him, left him half-dead. Shortly afterwards a priest came by the same way, and, though he saw the helpless condition of the wounded man, passed on. In like manner, a Levite also passed.

But a Samaritan, passing, saw the wounded man, and, coming, bound up his wounds and cared for him till he recovered. Jesus after this narration, asked the lawyer, "Who was the neighbour to the man that fell among robbers?" Prompted by self regard, the lawyer exclaimed, "The man who showed mercy." So it is my brother, duties involved in obtaining eternal life are double, the love of God and of your neighbour. In the early ages intense selfishness was practised among the people, and the word neighbour was just a long way of spelling Jew. In order to impress upon the mind of the lawyer the definition of the word neighbour, Christ takes him to an ordinary high way and there vividly pictures a true neighbour. The priest and Levite walked by without heeding the cry of the sufferer, but the Samaritan ministers to his wants to the extent of his ability. Here true fraternity is defined. The definition of the word neighbour should not be a matter of abstract phrases, made brilliant by glowing words or high-sounding generalities. These do not bring forth God's teaching. Between the Samaritan and the sufferer, there was national enmity, deep-seated prejudices of race and creed. In spite of all these prejudices, mercy triumphs, and he helps the sufferer. The proper neighbourly feeling is now to be seen where mercy controls the heart. My dear brothers, if love is a chief factor in your life you will never ask yourself "who is my neighbour." The commandment is summed up in the word love. Exercise the spirit of love and your life shall be elevated. True fraternity is manifested in deeds of actual service. The Oddfellows have a true sentiment of love existing in their order. It is not merely an organization for the relief of its members, but emphatically works for the good of outside persons. The fellowship of love manifested by the Oddfellows seeks to lay its hand on the inward part of man and leaves gentle influences of love in place of prejudices. In conclusion, as a minister of the Gospel, I wish to bring your minds to the source of eternal life that you may be enlightened by the Spirit of Jesus Christ.

Funeral Of The Late Chief Of Local Police

The remains of the late Chief of Police, Geo. I. Rossel, were interred in the Little Lake cemetery yesterday afternoon with Masonic honors. The funeral cortege was very large, including his Worship Mayor Morrow, the City Council, members of the two local Masonic lodges, and brethren of Court Chemong, I.O.F., and the Home Circle, together with a large number of citizens in general.

The pall bearers were Police Constables McGinty, Adams, Newhall, Meagher and Meharry. At the cemetery the Masonic pall bearers from the hearse to the grave were: Rt. Wor. Bro. H. Rush, V. Wor. Bros. H. C. Winch, G. H. Winch and Alex. Gibson, and Wor. Bros. T. F. Matthews and John Crane. The burial service was read by the Rev. Mr. Webb of Murray street Baptist church, while the beautiful and impressive Masonic funeral service was conducted by Rt. Wor. Bro. H. Rush, assisted by Wor. Bros. A. P. McLean, Morrow, Wilson and Hill, present master and past masters of Peterborough Lodge, respectively, of which the deceased was a faithful and esteemed member and past master.

No city official stood higher in the esteem and respect of this community than did the late Geo. I. Rossel, which was fully demonstrated by the large attendance at the last sad rites yesterday afternoon, notwithstanding the inclement weather.

Among the floral tributes received were:

Gates Ajar—From City Council and Police Commissioners.

Square and Compass—Peterboro Lodge.

Wreath—Corinthian Lodge

Wreath—Park St. School Teachers and scholars.

Wreath—Murray Street Baptist Church.

Cross—Mrs. and Miss Cookson.

Wreath—Police force.

Cross—Officials of City Hall.

Wreath—Fire Hall.

Sheaf—Mr. McPherson and Miss J. Rossel.

Rameses Temple—Lion's Paws—Mr. Stark of Toronto, representative of the police force.

Jews Of Peterborough Celebrate The Feast Of The Passover

Symbolic and Historical Ceremony in Homes Throughout Israelitish World—Local Jews Held Services at Home of Mr. B. Lastar on Saturday Night and Yesterday.

DELIVERANCE OF JEWS

At Sunset on Saturday, the Jews of Peterborough, in common with their compatriots throughout the world, began the celebration of the Feast of the Passover. The Jewish families in this city gathered on Saturday night at the home of Mr. B. Lastar, Simcoe street, for the celebration of the Passover, as the Passover is to the Hebrew what Thanksgiving Day and Christmas are to the Christian world, a great time of home-coming. The Feast of the Passover lasts for eight days, and service was held twice yesterday and this morning at the home of Mr. Lastar. The Jews will meet together daily until Sunday evening next.

On Saturday night the heads of the Jewish families summoned all the members to the table, and solemnly retold as has been told and retold for thousands of yers the marvellous story of the liberation of the children of Israel from Egyptian bondage. The father then applied the wonderful historical lesson to the members of his family by pointing out that it was but one of the many remarkable instances of the goodness of God to the Jewish race.

The Feast of the Passover was celebrated at the home of Mr. Lastar yesterday with much ceremony, and not only the most devout but also those Jews who are not as mindful of Jewish rites and ceremonies attended.

The observance of the Feast of the Passover has at different times given rise to terrible persecution and massacre of the Jews, but regardless of the peril involved it has been solemnly observed from its inception until the present year, 5670 in Jewish chronology.

Accordingly the Peterborough Jews Saturday night in their family gatherings intoned the seder service and ate their mattoth with bitter herbs.

First a little wine was served, then a liturgy chanted. Then came the formal washing of hands, and the breaking of the mattoth. The father then lifted a plate of the unleavened bread and pronounced the invitation to the Passover beginning, "This is the head of afflictions."

Some young person appointed to play the part is introduced as "the youngest son." The youth asks the father, "Why is this night distinguished from all other nights of the year? Why is it that on all other nights it is permitted to eat leavened bread, while on Passover night only unleavened bread is provided?"

The reply descriptive of the deliverance from Egypt is followed by a recitation of the miracles performed by Jehovah for the benefit of the Israelites.

THE PRESBYTERY

Rev. W. H. Breckedridge Will be Inducted at Port Hope.

The Presbytery of Peterborough will meet to-morrow night in Port Hope for the purpose of inducting the Rev. W. H. Brekonshire, M. A., into the pastorate of Mill street Presbyterian church of that town.

Mr. Brokonshire has been acting as stated supply for nearly two years. It is a high compliment paid to his fidelity and value to secure the unanimous and enthusiastic call to be settled as permanent minister.

The Rev. J. G. Potter of St. Andrew's Church was invited by the rector to speak on behalf of the clergy oof the city.

Mr. Potter, in responding stated that he felt it a great honour which he appreciated very much to speak for the clergy of the city in addressing His Excellency. He had not expected such an honour, yet enjoyed the privilege of expressing what he knew Canaon Davidson wished to be emphasized, that the clergy of Peterborough were united and harmonious in the great work of maintaining that standard of righteousness which had always marked the strength and glory of Britain's greatness.

He assured His Excellency that the loyalty and devotion of the people of Peterborough was always strong in maintaining the very best traditions of the Empire.

"THE GEISHA" WAS REPEATED IN BRILLIANT FASHION

Largest and Most Enthusiastic Audience of the Season Attended Gala Performance by the Peterborough Amateur Operatic Company on Saturday Night---His Excellency the Governor-General Was Present.

Graced by the presence of His Excellency the Governor-General, and before the most fashionable audience that has ever assembled in the Grand Opera House, the presentation of the "Geisha" by the members of the Peterborough Amateur Operatic Company on Saturday night was one of the most brilliant functions of the season. The house was crowded from

MR. R. J. DEVEY,

Organizer and Conductor of the Peterborough Amateur Operatic Company, to whose genius and untiring efforts the wonderful success of the "Geisha" performance is due.

dress circle to top gallery and the enthusiastic reception which the capable company received left no doubt as to the enjoyment of the gathering in the excellence of the production. Floral tributes presented to many of the cast and the large number of encores that were demanded were other evidences of the fact that the merit of the presentation was appreciated.

His Excellency the Governor-General occupied the central box on the south side of the house and the other boxes were filled with representative Peterborough citizens. The boxes were draped in flags and bunting and presented an attractive appearance.

Throughout the audience evening dress predominated and the pretty costumes of the ladies supplemented by the bright uniforms of the officers of the Peterborough garrison made up a very pretty picture. Neat souvenir programmes were distributed by the Opera House.

Space will not permit more than a passing reference to the work of the Operatic Company whose production of the Geisha has already on several occasions been referred to at lengtth in these columns. It would however, be impossible to refrain from commenting upon the excellence of Saturday evening's performance, which it might be said, surpassed either of the other two local presentations of the tuneful comic opera. Inspired by the presence of his excellency, and of such a large and brilliant audience the members of the cast seemed to be stimulated to even greater efforts and individuality and taken as an organization they have not appeared to better advantage even in the Toronto presentation in which they won such favour. The work of the principals was finished and artistic and the singing of the chorus showed a surprising volume and tone. The ensemble numbers were among the gems of the programme, especially The Lamentation chorus and the finale of the first act.

All the principals were given a most enthusiastic reception and Miss Hallihan in particular received an ovation.. Her singing was as usual, magnificent. She was in excellent form and her number, "A Geisha's Life" with its high C finale was undoubtedly the most brilliant individual work of the performance. She was forced to repeat the song and was once more called back to bow her acknowledgments of the applause which stormed through the house. Her other numbers "The Amorous Gold-Fish" and the supplementary number, "The Star of Asia" were enthusiastically received.

Mrs. R. J. Devey as Molly Seamore won fresh laurels for herself by her dainty and artistic portrayal of the role and by her dainty singing of the role and by her splendid singing, her songs "Chon Kina" "The Toy Monkey" "The Interfering Parrot" and her duet "The Toys" with Mr. Chandler being splendidly given and earned her hearty applause.

Mr. Chandler won favour in his vocal numbers and by his acting and Miss Dean's delightful characterization of Juliette evoked many most favourable comments. Of the other members of the cast it is sufficient praise to say that they surpassed their previous efforts.

During the evening beautiful floral tributes were presented amid much applause to Mrs. R. J. Devey, Mrs. J. E. Firth, Miss Hallihan and Miss Dean, including bouquets from His

MRS. R. J. DEVEY,

Whose work in the "Geisha" as Molly Seamore was most artistic and whose co-operation with her husband in training of the company is responsible in no small degree for the triumph scored Excellency and from His Worship Mayor Morrow.

Mr. R. J. Devey, conductor and leader of the production presented every member of the company including the orchestra with crimson rose sprays which they wore during the performance.

At the conclusion of the performanceHis Excellency was at his request presented to Mrs. R. J. Devey, Mrs. Firth, Miss Hallihan and Miss Dean and congratulated them upon their work. He took occasion also to congratulate Mrs. Devey upon the highly successful results of her co-operation with Mr. Devey in training the company.

The cast bade farewell to His Excellency with three rousing cheers.

OBITUARY.

MRS. ROBERT WEIR

The death occured in Toronto on Saturday morning at the residence of her son, Mr. S. B. Weir, of Mary Ann Brooks, relict of the late Robert Weir of Peterborough. The deceased who was eighty years of age was one of the oldest and most respected residents of Peterborough, and for fifty years had resided on McDonnel street. Since the death of her husband some years ago she had been alternately living in Toronto where her sons resided or in Peterborough, and her death took place while paying a visit to her family in Toronto. She was born in England but spent the greater part of her life in Canada. She had a host of friends in this city who will learn with regret of her death. She is survived by a family of six sons, Robert J. of Peterborough, Frederick W., Alfred C., Sidney B., Maxwell E., and Albert Edward of Toronto. Two sisters are also left to mourn her loss Mrs. Robt. Argue of Baltimore, Md. and Mrs. Luke Laphan of Montreal. The deceased was a member of the George street Methodist church. The funeral will take place on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the family residence, McDonnel street to Little Lake Cemetery.

SPECIAL MEETINGS

Salvation Army Band is Arranging a Series.

The meetings at the Salvation Army Temple the week end, promise to be interesting. The meetings on Saturday and Sunday next are to be conducted entirely by the Band.

The Band has been doing a good deal of practising of late, and special music will be rendered. There will be some vocal selections by the male choir, and the Band's quartette.

During the day the Boys' Brass Band, which has recently been started, will be commissioned, and other special items will help make the meetings interesting next week end. More annoucements later.

FITTING REFERENCE

Made to Death of Chief Reszel at St. John's Church.

Preceding his sermon at St. John's church last evening, Rev. Canon Davidson referred to the loss the city had sustained in the death of Chief Reszel. The late Chief of the police department, he said, had always preserved law and order, doing his duty well and consistently. He was universally esteemed and commanded the respect of everyone. Much sympathy was felt for the breaved wife and family in their severe affliction.

A BIT OF ADVICE

First—Don't Delay. Second—Don't Experiment.

If you suffer from backache; headaches or dizzy spells; if you rest poorly and are languid in the morning; if the kidney secretions are irregular and unnatural in appearance, do not delay. The kidneys are calling for help. Slight symptoms of kidney troubles are but forerunners of more serious complaints. They should be given attention before it is too late.

Booth's Kidney Pills cure kidney trouble. They are recommended by thousands. Can Peterborough residents desire more convincing proof than the statement of a Peterborough citizen. Mrs. W. Huycke, of 311 Louis St., Peterborough, Ont., says: "Mr. Huycke frequently suffered with backache. At times the pains in the small of the back would become so severe that he was unable to straighten himself up without much suffering. He could not stoop or lift anything of consequence and his general health had been run down for some time. He had tried a number of different remedies but didn't find relief until on advice of a friend, he procured Booth's Kidney Pills at McDermid & Jury's Pharmacy and commenced treatment He soon found relief. The pains left his back and he strengthened. He has had no return of the trouble since and speaks very highly of Booth's Kidney Pills."

A FINE MILL

Maple Leaf Milling Company Will Erect a Million Dollar Structure.

The incorporation of the Maple Leaf Milling Company and the addition of new capital is to be marked by the erection of a $1,000,000 flour mill and elevator at Port Colborne.

The plant will include an elevator capable of storing 1,000,000 bushels of wheat—milling machinery with a capacity of 6,000 barrels of flour a day—and storage capacity for 250,000 bags of flour.

The entire equipment will be the most modern of its kind in Canada, and fully equal to that of any other mill in the world. The site, experts say, will make the Maple Leaf Milling Company a most important factor in the country's flour trade from the moment the mills are in operation. Its geographical position is such that the new company will be able to lay down its flour at all Atlantic seaports and on the British and Foreign markets, considerably cheaper than can be done by any other milling company.

The completion of the Port Colborne mill will give the Maple Leaf Milling Company a total daily capacity from their six mills of 12,800 barrels of flour, and to supply the wheat they will have, by next fall, 50 elevators in operation in Western Canada.

We understand that a block of stock is to be placed on the market, and hope to be able to announce the basis of the flotation in next week's issue.

A PRESENTATION

Made to Mr. J. J. Thompson, the new Physical Director of the Y.M.C.A.

(Kingston Standard)

Saturday morning Physical Director J. J. Thompson, of the Y. M. C. A. was presented with a gold watch by the members of the Early Morning Swimming Club and the Happy Ten Club. The events took place at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium in the presence of about thirty-five members of the two clubs.

W. Bearance made the presentation with a few kindly words of appreciation of the good work done by Mr. Thompson, both in the gymnasium and in outdoor sports.

Mr. Thompson replied, thanking the members of the clubs for their kindness and expressing his appreciation of the good will of the athletes of the city, amongst whom he had made many warm friends.

The initials of Mr. Thompson are engraved on the outside case of the watch. Inside the case is the following inscription: "Presented by the Early Morning Swimming and the Happy Ten clubs, Kingston Y. M. C. A., April, 1910.

A SPLENDID SERVICE

Large Congregation at Murray Street Church Yesterday Morning.

In spite of the very unfavourable weather yesterday morning there was a large turnout of Sunday school scholars and teachers at the special retrospect service at the Murray street Baptist church. The service was a bright and inspiring one. The choir was composed of pupils of the school. The pastor was assisted by ex-superintendents, the morning lesson being read by Mr. Wm. Aldridge, and the congregation was led in prayer by Dr. W. D. Scott. Dr. Browett assisted in the conduct of the service and the closing prayer was led by Mr. Alexander Gillespie. The pastor, Rev. J. R. Webb preached a sermon on the text, "We have heard with our ears, our fathers have told us what Thou hast done in the days of old." He traced the history of the Sunday School from its commencement, and during the sermon read a very interesting message to the school from Col. E. B. Edwards of Edmonton, who was for four years a superintendent. A very handsome booklet containing the order of service for the day and photographs of the first superintendent, Mr. Jas. B. Edwards, and the present superintendent, Mr. W. J. Dunlop, were put in the hands of the congregation. The music was under the direction of Mr. F.Miller and it certainly did him credit. The congregation felt that the stormy morning was made one of the brightest in the history of the church.

Had Weak Kidney For Two Years.

Doctor Failed to Help. Doan's Kidney Pills Cured Him.

Mr. Edmund Assels, New Carlisle, Que., writes:—"I feel it my duty to let you know of the great cure I have obtained by using Doan's Kidney Pills. I was troubled with my kidneys for two years. I tried a doctor, but he failed to help me. I read in the B.B.B. Almanac about Doan's Kidney Pills, and began using them, and after the first box began to feel better. I only used four boxes and they completely cured me. I am very thankful to have found so speedy a cure, and would advise everyone suffering from kidney disease to try them."

Perhaps no other organs work harder than the kidneys to preserve the general health of the body and most people are troubled with some kind of Kidney Complaint, but do not suspect it. It may have been in the system for some time. There may have been backache, swelling of the feet and ankles, disturbances of the urinary organs, such as brick dust deposit in the urine, highly colored scanty or cloudy urine, bladder pains frequent or suppressed urination, burning sensation when urinating, etc.

Do not neglect any of these symptoms for, if neglected they will eventually lead to Bright's Disease, Dropsy and Diabetes.

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto.

HE GOES TO JAIL

Hagersville Indian Couldn't Pay His Fine This Morning.

Mitchell Chubb, an Indian from Hagersville, near Hamilton, pleaded guilty this morning at the police court to being drunk and disorderly on Saturday, and was given an option of five dollars' fine or fifteen days in jail. Mitchell responded to the fifteen days as his cash had run out.

It appears Chubb was giving a few signals on board the Rainbow, such as "Turn Windward," and at the same time he was about three sheets in the wind himself. The mate informed the police, and in a few minutes Chubb was anchored in No. 1 cell.

This morning he asked his Worship Magistrate Dumble to allow some time to pay the five dollars. "If you are partaking of the Government's revenue I must protect the Government," remarked his Worship.

HOLMES IS CAPTURED

Slayer of Nathan Bolton Ascribes His Crime to a Mad Impulse Which Overcame Him — Preliminary Hearing is Proceeded With at Brockville—Holmes is a Mental and Physical Wreck.

Brockville, April 25.—Contrary to general expectation, Albert Holmes, the slayer of Nathan Bolton, the Edwardsburg farmer, was taken alive on Saturday near the scene of the crime. His arrest was effected by G.T.R. section men who found the accused towards evening sitting on a pile of ties beside the track. Shortly before, the man came out of his hiding place, apparently relieved at being discovered and quietly submitted to arrest. He was delivered over to the authorities at Cardinal and arrangements promptly made for holding a preliminary trial.

The evidence adduced was along the line of that given at the inquest on Friday, the leading witness being Ethel Holmes, daughter of the prisoner, who first discovered the crime and gave the alarm. She was sitting alone in the kitchen adjoining the shed where Holmes and Bolton were cutting up a pig. There was no altercation as far as she could hear, but groans attracted her attention, and on opening the door looking into the shed she made the gruesome discovery of Bolton in the throes of death lying on the floor with his skull crushed in by two blows from an axe, which was covered with blood and hair. Her father was not to be seen, having passed out into the yard en route to the woods.

Magistrate Clark made out the committal for a charge of murder, and a constable brought Holmes to the Brockville County jail to await his trial.

Holmes is a mental and physical wreck. In fact he is so weak that he has been unable to leave his bed since coming to the jail and is under the care of a physician with a constant guard to avoid any attempt at suicide. Though very reticent he states that after entering the swamp, on the edge of which he conversed with a boy named Perry, he never came into the open again until Saturday. Constables and neighbors passed close to him on several occasions, but he had no difficulty hiding in the thick brush. His clothing was torn and watersoaked, and altogether the murderer presented a completely changed appearance from what had characterized his make-up a few days before.

Holmes attributes his act to the promptings of Satan, the evil one telling him to raise the axe and slay Bolton, which he did on the impulse of the moment. He realizes the enormity of the crime, which is preying on his mind to the extent of insane frenzy. He is in a very despondent mood, unable to sleep, and stubbornly refuses to eat even the most tempting dishes. He gives vent to his mental anguish by loud outcries and moaning, but apparently cannot weep. The prisoner passes on no conversation with his guard. He is a tall strapping man in easy circumstances, giving his age as 38.

The funeral of the murdered man was held yesterday afternoon. It was one of the largest seen in the Township of Edwardsburgh in many years.

Railways Join Battle.

Vancouver, April 25.—The announcement of the completion of the purchase of the Dunsmuir mines and lands on Vancouver Island by C.N.R. interests, is heralded as the first fight for the coast business with the C.P.R., and an era of development and consequent prosperity is looked for. For the past three weeks the C.P.R. has been energetically securing all available coal properties, the largest deals being for the Western Fuel Co.'s properties at Nanaimo for two and a-half million dollars and mines at Boat Harbor in which John Arbuthnot is interested.

Canadian Collieries, Ltd., with $20,000,000 capital has been incorporated to take over the Dunsmuir Mines. It is a C.N.R. enterprise.

Italian's Terrible Death.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., April 25.—Luigia Venglin, an Italian, was fatally injured at the blast furnace No. 2 of the Lake Superior Corporation yesterday morning, and died at six last night, after several hours agony. The deceased stood on a trestle in the way of the gas when blowing the furnace out, and received the full force of it. Besides being burned, he was badly injured by flying coke.

Pawned $1,500 Statue For 50c.

New York, April 25.—The figure of the Goddess Neith, of inestimable artistic value, which was stolen Wednesday from the Metropolitan Museum of Art, was recovered Saturday. It had been "hocked" in a Bowery pawnshop for 50 cents of the coin of the United States. The value of the Miss Neith is reckoned at $1,500.

NEARLY SLEW TWO ITALIANS

Veto Longo Calls Salvatore Gianola Over to Him and Shoots Him Three Times—Then He Goes to a Store Where Another Perhaps Fatal Affray Takes Place — Longo May Be Hurt, It is Said.

Sault Ste. Marie, April 25.—Salvatore Gianola lies at the point of death in the hospital, and Bengotti Salvatore is perhaps fatally wounded as the result of a quarrel among Italians at the steel plant late Saturday evening. The shooting was done by Veto Longo, still at large.

Longo, who was, with two friends, standing near the coal pile, called Gianola to him, immediately pulling a revolver and fired three shots. Longo threw the revolver away and Gianola picked it up, firing two shots after him. Gianola then went to his boarding-house and telephoned the police.

Entering Palumbo's store, he was met by Bengotti Salvatore, who was with Longo when the shooting was done. Benditto said: "What, are you not dead yet?" as the same time he pulled a revolver and a razor. Gianola wrested the razor from Benditto and cut him so badly that he is in a precarious condition.

Longo has several convictions against him here for using unlawful weapons. It was claimed by an Italian last night that Longo had been injured by the shots fired by Gianola and was hiding in the Italian quarter.

Ideals For Children.

Hamilton, April 25.—That John Ross Robertson of The Toronto Telegram, W. J. Gage and Rev. George McDougall were ideals for the Canadian children, and that they were all assured a place in heaven for their benevolence and good deeds, was the statement of Rev. Lewis H. Hill, B.A., of Burlington, in Charlton avenue church last night. Mr. Robertson would be rewarded because of his interest in the Sick Children's Hospital, and God would smile on him, while the angels would go to meet him. Mr. Gage would get credit for his work in connection with the Gravenhurst Sanitarium and Rev. Mr. McDougall for his work among the Indians.

Playing Against Time.

Winnipeg, April 25.—At the conclusion of the argument to rescind the order requiring the appearance of witnesses and production of documents before the royal commission of Alberta, which is enquiring into the Great Waterways Railway deal, Judge McDonald reserved judgment. He offered to give an off-hand decision to allow of immediate appeal, but counsel preferred to have a considered decision.

Delay is probably desired in the matter, the commission's time being limited.

Here Is a Strange Hen.

Chicago, Ill., April 25.—Guests and employes of a down-town hotel Saturday night were interested in a white hen that has a clearly-defined nose and lips in place of the beak of a chicken, and feet like knobs instead of claws.

"The chicken is nine months old," said Michael Singer, one of the hotel proprietors, who owns the fowl, "and has to eat from the hand, being unable to pick food, like other chickens. It cannot scratch, and does not cackle nor make other noises like a chicken. It has laid two eggs, both of which were flat on one side and of extraordinary size."

Grand Duchess Takes Veil.

Moscow, April 25.—The Grand Duchess Elizabeth, widow of Grand Duke Sergius, and a sister of Empress Alexandra, has taken the veil of a nun. She will devote herself to the Hospital of the Woman's Refuge, which was founded after the assassination of her husband, Feb. 17, 1905, by a bomb.

Evelyn Thaw Visits Husband.

Matteawan, N. Y., April 25.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw visited her husband, Harry K. Thaw, for an hour at the asylum here Saturday. This was her first visit since Thanksgiving Day. The purpose of their conference could not be learned.

Thirty-Four Buildings Burned.

Falls City, Neb., April 25.—Fire Saturday afternoon practically wiped out the business portion of Salene, 22 business houses and 12 dwellings burning. The estimated loss is two hundred thousand dollars.

Dr. Secord Dead.

Tara, April 25.—Dr. Solomon Secord of Kincardine died suddenly yesterday morning. He was one of the oldest practitioners in the province, and resided and practiced in Kincardine for about 45 years.

He was a surgeon-major on the southern side during the American civil war, attached to the 20th Georgia Regiment. He was held by the north as a hostage, being for some months at Fort McHenry at Baltimore.

He was a relative of Laura Secord, the heroine.

Miners Gain Increase.

Altoona, Pa., April 25.—After being in session until midnight Saturday, the coal operators and miners of the Central Pennsylvania bituminous district signed a wage scale agreement, to hold good for two years from April 1.

The miners gained their contention for an increase in wages, but relinquished some of their demands on less important questions.

O'K
Extra Mild, Remember
Many people would drink ale, in preference to all other malt beverages, if ale did not make them bilious.
This O'K brew is brewed especially for those people. It is extra mild and extra light, and lets you enjoy the creamy deliciousness of real old English ale without the heaviness and excessive bitterness. In easily—opened seal stoppered bottles. No broken cork or tinfoil in the glass.

THE IMPERIAL GUARANTEE & ACCIDENT INSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA

Head Office: 46 King Street, West TORONTO

The Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of the Imperial Guarantee & Accident Insurance Company of Canada, was held at the Head Office, 46 King Street West, Toronto, on the 10th inst.

Mr. E. W. Cox, President of the Company, in reviewing the business of the year, made reference to the growing popularity of Accident Insurance, and its effect on the success of the business of the Company during the year. The amount of Insurance written was over $30,970,000.00, an increase of $1,940,000.00 over the business taken out in 1908. This is considered exceptionally satisfactory in view of the fact that the business of the Company is confined to Personal Accident and Guarantee Insurance.

The Gross Income for 1909 amounted to $312,741.76.

That being an increase over the year 1908 of $46,817.24.

The Assets now total $300,074.60, and, after allowing for Reserve for unearned premium calculated on the full Government standard, and all other liabilities, the surplus for the protection of policyholders has increased to $218,427.19.

The following Directors and Officers were elected:

Edward W. Cox, President. Hon. F. T. Frost.
Noel Marshall, Vice-President. R. Bickerdike.
Hon. Geo. A. Cox. W. D Robb.
Elias Rogers. J. J. Kenny.
Dr. P. G. Goldsmith N. Barrows.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

TORONTOS TAKE TWO GAMES FROM THE GRAYS

Smith and Newton Were the Successful Pitchers---Grimshaw's Hitting Featured Both Games--The Leafs Seem to Have Struck Their Gait.

Providence, R. I., April 23.—The Leafs showed the Grays how the great game of baseball should be played here this afternoon, when they won a clean-cut victory by a 4 to 1 score. While one Smith, he of speedy delivery, held the Grays in check whenever they started to get frisky, the men behind him pounded the pill when the bingles meant runs, and were always ready to take advantage of the misplays of the locals.

The two runs were handed to the Leafs in the first session, when Hoffman dropped McDonald's high one, and threw over Collins' head in trying to get Vaughn going to third. The little shortstop scored, and McDonald counted afterwards on Grimshaw's clean drive to right.

Deal, the rangy first baseman, pulled off a nervy stunt in the sixth innings when he stole home, while Pitcher Files held the ball in his hand. The twirler did not know what was happening and although he threw to Peterson to get the man he missed him by a few inches.

The Leafs did not hit as well as the Grays, but their wallops were supplemented by some poor infielding by the locals, giving them their counters. McDonald and Mullen had errors charged against them, but neither was costly.

In the sixth innings Shaw was safe on Courtney's muff. Grimshaw was forced at second. Collins to Arndt. Delehanty fouled to Collins, and it loked bad for a tally, but Deal drove a clean single to centre, and Grimshaw, who had stolen second and gone to third on the previous put out, scored. Deal went to third on a wild pitch, and then came his sensational steal of home. Rock's great stop and throw of Mullen's grounder ended the session.

WON ON SUNDAY, TOO.

Providence, R.I., April 24.—"Doc." Newton had the Greys standing on their heads trying to hit him in this afternoon's game, the big twirler allowing but three hits, all in different innings. Only one Providence man got to third base, and very few reached second. The Greys never had a chance to win the game, for they were never dangerous, but were absolutely helpless before the masterly pitching of Newton.

Ed. Barry, usually considered invincible on Rocky Point grounds, was a soft mark for the heavy hitting Leafs who pounded his slants when the bingles meant runs. Every one of the four tallies slipped over by Toronto was the result of clean hitting. The Leafs started the trouble in the very first inning, when they slipped two counters across. Vaughn went out on a slow grounder, and McDonald drove a single to left. Shaw came to time with a smashing three-bagger to right and scored a moment later when Grimshaw drove one past Collins for a base. Grimshaw went out trying to steal and Delehanty flied to Rock.

The Leafs went without a run until the eighth inning, when bunched hits again resulted in runs. Newton died on a fly to Peterson and Vaughn drove a clean single to left. Collins' fumble of McDonald's drive made both runners safe. Shaw hit to Rock, who forced McDonald at second. Grimshaw then drove a "beaut" of a three-bagger into the crowd in centrefield, the wallop being one of the longest ever seen at Rocky Point. Had there not been a hill in centre to stop it Grimshaw would have had a home run. Delehanty lined one at Rock, ending the inning.

The only time the Greys threatened to score was in the fifth inning, when with one down, Rock doubled to left. He took third on Peterson's roller to Deal, but was left on the bag when Newton threw out Barry.

Mullin hurt his knee yesterday, and Fitzpatrick took his place at second, playing a good game. The Leafs got seven hits, Grimshaw leading with a three-bagger and a single, and drove in three runs. McDonald got two singles.

CHURCH SERVICES

ST. ANDREW'S MUSIC.

The services at St. Andrew's church yesterday were attended by large congregations, both morning and evening, at the evening service especially, numbers were turned away, and others, unable to secure seats, contentedly stood throughout the entire service. The singing of Wilfrid Morison, the wonderful boy soprano, of Toronto, was the outstanding feature at both services. At the morning service he sang "There is a Green Hill in the evening "There is a Green Hill Far Away," and "The Holy City." His rendering of "The Holy City" was exquisite, and its effect on the congregation was apparent by the audible hum of admiration that arose on its conclusion. A feature of the morning service, which must not be forgotten, was a duet, "Come Unto Me," beautifully sung by Miss Olive Howell and Mr. James Browne.

Peterborough music lovers will be interested to learn that they will soon have an opportunity of hearing Master Wilfrid Morrison again, as he is to take part in the anniversary services of St. Andrew's on Sunday and Monday, the 8th and 9th of May.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

Announcements for the week are as follows:

The Young People's Guild will meet on Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

The regular mid-week service will be held on Wednesday evening, at 8 o'clock. Teachers' meeting at the close.

In connection with St. Paul's seventy-fifth anniversary, Rev. Robert Johnson, of Montreal, well known to the people of Peterborough and regarded as among the first of pulpit orators of the Presbyterian church in Canada will occupy the pulpit at both services next Sabbath. He will also address the Sabbath School in the afternoon. Elaborate preparations are being made for the celebration of this anniversary. The sacred concert on Wednesday evening, May 4th, promises to be a great musical treat. A number of distinguished singers from outside of Peterborough are to be present to assist the choir.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH

The Girl's Auxiliary will meet tonight at eight o'clock.

The men of St. Luke's Church are invited to attend St. John's church to-night for the purpose of hearing Mr. Birmingham, representative of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, whose subject will be pertaining to Brotherhood work. The meeting is called for eight o'clock.

The weekly service on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock will be followed by a meeting of the Chancel Guild in the vestry.

On Friday evening the A. Y. P. A. will hold a musical evening when the programme will consist of vocal and instrumental selections. All the members and their friends are invited to be present.

THE HEART A GREAT WORKER

What a wonder is the heart! Day and night it works away pumping tons of blood through the body and never tires or wears out so long as it is supplied with rich, red blood, such as is formed by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. While sending supplies of nutrition to other parts of the body the heart renews and rebuilds its own wasted cells and so retains health and strength.

Don't forget the two concerts marking the opening of the new T. A. S. Hall on Simcoe Street, on the evenings of Wednesday and Thursday, April 27th and 28th. Miss Margaret McCann, Scottish Australian Vocalist. All seats reserved. Plan now open at Mr. Lynch's Drug Store. Tickets 50c & $1.00. id-93

BOWLING

At the Peterborough Bowling Alleys last week Mr. G. Cairns established a record which will remain for some time. In five successive games he scored as follows, 200, 213, 213, 212 and 264, which is the highest score recorded.

In "A" class G. Cairns captured an ivory handled umbrella by scoring 213, 212 and 264 in three successive games.

The highest single score registered in class "A" was 223, which won a silk tie for P. King.

In Class "B" J. C. Tyce won a silk shirt with the total score of 491, in three successive games.

The highest single score in class 'B' was made by S. Watson, who captured the pearl handled knife.

Skin Diseases.

Under this name such troubles as Salt Rheum, Eczema, Erysipelas, Tetter, Shingles, Psoriasis, Scurf, Itching Rashes, Eruptions, Boils, Pimples, etc., are included. Skin diseases, as a rule, are not dangerous, but are unsightly, irritating and often terribly annoying to the sufferer; they depend mainly on bad blood, from one cause or another, for if the blood is pure and the circulation good no skin disease can exist, except it arise from lack of proper cleanliness or from contagion.

To get rid of skin diseases it is necessary to observe strictly all the laws of health; maintain regular action of the bowels; avoid high living, eating only plain nourishing food. Cleanse and keep the blood pure by taking Burdock Blood Bitters, which unlocks all the secretions, and makes new rich blood by acting on the entire system.

Had Salt Rheum Six Years.

Mrs. E. M. Myers, East Jeddore, N.B., writes:—"I don't think there is anyone in this Dominion can recommend Burdock Blood Bitters more than I can. I suffered terribly with Salt Rheum for six years, and did everything for it without relief. For curiosity sake I bought six bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters, and it completely cured me. I would advise others to use it."

For sale by all dealers. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MUCH INTEREST IN CONTEST

The announcement made in Saturday's Examiner that Mr. C. R. Elliott of the International College of Ophthalmology has offered a valuable ring for the person sending in the best slogan to be used in advertising Peterborough, has been received with much interest by the readers of the Examiner, and, judging by the number of attempts already sent in the judges will have difficulty in making their award. Of course, as the envelopes will not be opened until the contest closes it is impossible to say anything about the quality of those received, but there is no doubt as to the quantity. The prize, a diamond ring, is well worth trying for, and will be set according to the sex of the winner. All that competitors have to do is to send in their efforts on the coupons published daily in the Examiner, addressed to the "Slogan Editor."

WILL SPEND ONE MILLION ON EXTENSIONS HERE

Canadian General Electric Company's Addition to Plant Will Cost Much More Than Was Originally Anticipated ---$500,000 Will be Spent at Once.

Mr. Frederick Nicholls of the Canadian General Electric Company imparted some information to His Worship Mayor Morrow on Saturday that will be received with much gratification by the citizens generally. Mr. Nicholls stated that he had had some estimates and plans prepared and had found that the company was going to have to spend a much larger sum than they had anticipated. They will make an immediate expenditure in connection with extensions to their plant of $500,0000 instead of $250,000 mentioned at first. Furthermore with in a very short time the extensions will amount to at least one million dollars.

The presentation was indeed merited, and Miss Hallihan's many friends, as well was the great mass of Peterborough citizens will be pleased to learn of this graceful act of recognition.

DEATH OF DR. E. G. STRATTON AT OAKLAND, CALIFORNIA

Mrs. James Stratton, Gilmour street received a telegram this morning from Mrs. E. G. Stratton, wife of Dr. Edwy G. Stratton, advising her of his sudden death, which took place on Sunday evening, the 23rd of April, at Oakland California.

Dr. Stratton was the youngest son of the late James Stratton and a brother of the Hon. J. R. Stratton, M. P., West Peterborough, A. H. Stratton, Mrs. T. F. Matthews, Mrs. Hunter and the Misses Roey and Mary Stratton.

Dr. Stratton upon receiving his degree, was offered and accepted the position of superintending physician of the Marine Hospital, Detroit, in which position he remained for several years. Subsequently he was offered and accepted the position of Medical Advisory to the Soldiers' Home, at Orting on the Pacific slope. In this position he remained for several years and resigned with a view to spending some time on the continent. He was absent in Europe four years and visited every country in the old world. While on the continent, he took advantage of walking the leading hospitals and was an acknowledged surgeon.

Dr. Stratton had been practising medicine in the Western States for the past twenty years, and his death was quite unexpected by the family, as no intimation of his sudden serious illness had been received, until the announcement of his death. The family are in communication with regard to the arrangements for his funeral, particulars of which will be announced later.

Dr. Stratton had many school mates and friends in Peterborough who will regret to learn of his sudden death, and the family will have the sincere sympathy of the community in their sad bereavement. He was a favourite in Peterborough in his early school days, and although absent from the city for many years, has still many warm friends who will exceedingly regret to learn of his sudden death.

Returning a few years ago, he visited his mother and family, since which time, he has not been in Peterborough. The deceased was in his 42nd year and leaves to mourn his loss his aged mother, two brothers and four sisters, besides his wife. At the time of his death he was residing at Oakland California.

Prorogation Early In May

End of Session Is Expected on Wednesday Following the State Ball, Which Is Announced For May 10 —Insurance Bill Is Also Moved Along — Report of Militia Council Regrets Economy.

Ottawa, April 26.—Hon. Mackenzie King's anti-combines bill passed the committee stage of the Commons yesterday, and stands for the third reading. The purpose of the measure is to protect the consumer and the producer from combines which seek to injure their interests. The method to be adopted is similar to the practice under the Industrial Disputes' Act. Each party concerned in a charge, the complainers and the complained against, may name representatives on a board of investigation and these two representatives may name the chairman, who must be a judge of any court of record. Of course, the formal appointments will be made by the Minister of Labor.

The extension of the legislation to protect the producer was the outcome of a discussion initiated by Major Currie of North Simcoe, and taken part in by several members, particularly J. D. Taylor of New Westminster and W. O. Sealey of Wentworth. The former laid stress on the case of the salmon fishermen of British Columbia, who found themselves seriously injured as the result of orders in council, which prevent the fishermen from exporting fish and refuse to allow any more licenses for canning to be issued.

As a result a combine of canners has cut the earnings of the fishermen in half. The other case was that of the farmers. Buyers in combine cut down the price paid for the products of the farm. In neither case has the public benefitted. This new legislation, therefore, will deal with such situations.

An important new clause was added to the bill to cover the case of trades unions. It reads: "This act shall not be construed to repeal, amend or in any way affect the trade unions act." It simply means that trade unions as such as entitled to combine for their own legitimate purposes. The question of trades unions interfering illegitimately with the operations of trade is provided for in the criminal code.

Mr. King said the bill had been revised by the Department of Justice.

It is announced at Government House that the state ball will take place on May 10. This means that Parliament will be formally prorogued on May 11.

Government business is now being rushed forward, and there will be a rapid clearance of the order paper in the next fortnight. Owing to the illness of Hon. L. P. Brodeur, the Marine and Fisheries' estimates are as yet untouched. They will be guided through committee of supply by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Advices from Mr. Brodeur, who is in South Carolina, are that he is not making such rapid progress towards recovery as was hoped.

The Premier has given notice of a motion to begin Saturday sittings.

In moving the second reading of the insurance bill, which was adopted with practically no discussion, Hon. W. S. Fielding explained the chief amendments which had been made by the bill in the Senate.

The "gain and loss" exhibited, he explained, which was to have been included in the annual statement, was not included in the bill as it came from the Upper House.

Other changes are: Bonuses to agents must be agreed upon in advance by the agent and the company; policyholders cannot vote by proxy; directors may be elected annually, biennially or triennially; fire insurance is allowed in foreign unlicensed companies without any tax, but foreign companies cannot send agents into Canada to solicit business.

The annual report of the Militia Council, presented to the House of Commons yesterday, shows that last year out of a total establishment of 43,742, 36,224 underwent annual training, of whom 12,100 were in the district camps, 7,489 at regimental camps, and 16,565 at local headquarters.

The report of Sir Percy Lake, the inspector-general, states that "the efficiency of the whole force suffered severely from the decrease in the votes upon which it depended for maintenance and drill." In the permanent force establishments had been reduced below the limit of efficiency and recruiting had been stopped.

He reports that the Toronto Squadron of Dragoons has spent too much time in "musical rides" for Toronto and other exhibitions and that in future permission for this be given sparingly.

Big Grocers In Conclave

Wholesale Dealers Discuss Trade Weaknesses and Draw Up Resolutions—They Will Send Deputations to See Manufacturers and Get a Square Deal—Honest Drummers Are Needed.

Toronto, April 26.—The Wholesale Grocers' Exchange, a provincial organization, yesterday opened an important convention at the King Edward Hotel, and will continue until Thursday. The new federal anti-combine bill is to be discussed to-day.

W. G. Craig of Kingston, the president, in his opening remarks referred to the court proceedings to dissolve the grocers' guild, which, beginning in February, 1906, were not terminated till last month, when the defendants were exonerated. In consequence, Mr. Craig predicted a new era and much success, progress and profitable advancement for the trade.

Referring to tariff changes, he said: "There seems to be a growing conviction that high customs duties encourages trusts and mergers, and this lends strength to the reciprocity propaganda. In the meantime, I think we Canadians can afford to let our friends over the border fight it out among themselves."

The keenest discussion of the day centered around an address by Hugh Blain of Toronto on "Declarations, Their Uses and Importances," dealing with the necessity of honesty in business. He discussed the addendum to the criminal code relating to the taking of gifts or rebates by agents, and said that every traveler should be required to take an obligation to faithfully carry out the terms of a business agreement before going out on the road. The fact that a man had taken an oath would have a deterring and an elevating influence, for the buyer would hesitate before suggesting or proposing anything which was contrary to the salesman's obligation, and the salesman in turn would be averse to proposing or giving what he and the buyer knew was contrary to the declaration he had taken.

He was confident that this declaration, if used in conjunction with the contract selling plan, would enforce a rigid and just observance of the manufacturers' prices by the wholesale distributors. With such a system established on a hard and fast basis, the standard of business ethics would be vastly improved. Everyone would continue to do their fair share of trade and competition would be promoted along healthy business lines. He condemned the custom of giving secret concessions, which involved the meanest kind of dishonesty, such practices arising from a desire to make more money, though he believed that those who followed them lost in the long run.

The following resolutions were passed:—

"That this meeting recognises the conditions of trade and agrees that sound justice should be done by all the trade to the manufacturer who is loyal to both wholesaler and retailer. It is also the opinion of this meeting that every effort should be put forth by the members of the trade to stop injurious and dishonest methods all too common in the sale of proprietary lines."

"That this convention heartily endorses the attitude taken that the wholesalers should take in dealing with manufacturers who will not reasonably share with the wholesalers a fair remuneration for the service rendered, and that immediate steps be taken at this convention to appoint committees to interview manufacturers whose goods the members of this exchange are selling on a margin too small to cover selling expenses with a view to a more reasonable working margin."

New Bishop Consecrated

Prominent Representatives of the Roman Catholic Clergy and Laity From All Over Canada Are Present at the Ceremony at London When Archbishop McEvay Makes Him Bishop.

London, April 26.—One of the most impressive ceremonies which have ever taken place in London was the service of consecration in St. Peter's Cathedral Sunday afternoon of Bishop Fallon. Hundreds were unable to gain admission.

The procession, which left St. Peter's Palace at 9.30, entered by the main door and passed up the main aisle. In the line were Archbishop McEvay of Toronto, the consecrator; all the clergy of the diocese, and hundreds of Knights of Columbus.

The parents and brothers of the new bishop occupied a front pew.

The bishop-elect was presented to the consecrator by Bishops Scollard of Sault Ste. Marie and McDonald of Alexandria. Many bishops and archbishops were present during the ceremony, including Archbishop Donnenwill, superior-general of Oblate Order; McCarthy, Halifax; Quigley, Chicago; Gauthier, Kingston; Bruchesi, Montreal, and Langevin, St. Boniface, and Bishops Hickey, Rochester, N.Y.; Cotton, Buffalo; Barry, Chatham, N.B.; Casey, St. John, N.B.; Larocque, Sherbrooke; Emard, Valleyfield; O'Connor, Peterboro; Foley, Detroit, and Downing of Hamilton.

The preacher at the consecration was Rev. Mgr. Chahan of Washington, a personal friend of Bishop Fallon. Rev. Father Nolan of Lowell, Mass., was the preacher at the Pontifical Vespers last night. Rev. James Fallon of Ottawa, brother of the bishop, was deacon at the mass, and Rev. J. P. McKeonn, London, sub-deacon. Father Downey of Windsor was master of ceremonies, and Right Rev. Mgr. Meunier, also of Windsor, officiated as high priest. Rev. Father Kerwin of Buffalo assisted Bishop Fallon. Mgr. Meunier read the address from the priests of the diocese and Senator Coffey of London that from the laymen.

The address of the clergy said: "We welcome you, elect of God, chosen by the Master of the Apostles, and by His bidding voice, re-echoed from the hill of the Vatican, sent with mission sealed with the seal of the fisherman of Galilee to rule pastors and people in the Diocese of London. You come to us at God's bidding, the most sublime eulogy of them all, and by the will of the Father of Christendom."

The address from the laity said: "As an educator Ottawa holds your memory in benediction. Your untiring zeal for the advancement of learning, your salutary influence over the young, and your personality, that disarmed hostility as well as opened hearts, are not forgotten."

The laymen present included Hon. Dr. Reaume, Hon. Charles Murphy, Hon. J. J. Foy, Judge McHugh, and D'Arcy Scott. Father Fallon's aged parents from Cornwall were present, and so were 400 of his former parishioners in Buffalo, who came in a special train. Hundreds of the members of the Knights of Columbus, Catholic Order of Foresters, Ancient Order of Hibernians, Catholic Mutual Benefit Society, and others, were present, and many handsome gifts and addresses were presented, including a diamond ring from M. P. Davis of Ottawa.

Bishop Fallon was born in Kingston, Ont., in 1867, and received his early education at the University of Ottawa. After being graduated from this institution of learning, Father Fallon went to Rome, there to pursue his theological studies. It was in that city that he was ordained to the priesthood.

Returning to Canada he accepted a professorship at the University of Ottawa, and four years later became pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Ottawa, where he remained three years. He then went to Buffalo as rector of the Church of the Holy Angels.

The erection of an imposing school building, the improvements in church buildings and the formation of a number of social and religious societies survive as part of his eight years' work there.

Bishop Fallon is a member of the Oblate Fathers and is provincial in that order. While stationed in Ottawa he took an active interest in athletics, and for years held the office of honorary president of the Ottawa College Rugby Football Club. He is a physical giant, standing 6 feet 4 inches.

Seven Charges Sustained.

New York, April 26.—Seven of the fourteen counts in the indictment found against A. Augustus Heinze last month in connection with his handling of the Mercantile National Bank's funds while he was its president were dismissed by Judge Hough in the U. S. Circuit Court here yesterday. Judge Hough sustained the remaining seven counts.

Interferes With Emigration.

London, April 26.—The Dominion Government's new regulation granting admission only to such immigrants as are suitable for agriculture will seriously interfere with the activities of the emigration societies and charitable organizations. In some quarters it is thought the Colonial Office should be asked to interfere.

Was Tecumseh Buried In Creek?

Chatham, April 26.—Considerable interest has been added to the discussion over the whereabouts of the grave of the late Indian chief, Tecumseh, by the story which comes from an old English soldier now living in England, to the effect that Tecumseh was buried in the bottom of McGregor's Creek, near this city. An effort is now being made to get in communication with him.

Woodstock Reduces Licenses.

Woodstock, April 26.—The North Oxford license commissioners yesterday cut down the number of hotel licenses in the city from nine to seven. The hotels whose licenses have been removed are the International and the Grand Trunk. Three other hotels were held over until the proprietors gave a guarantee that they would observe the strict letter of the Liquor Act.

Tug Burned.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., April 26.—The tug Kate of the Ganley Line was burned in the river yesterday morning just above the Canadian locks. The crew escaped in small boats. The cause of the fire and the amount of insurance are unknown.

THE PORT OF MISSING MEN

By MEREDITH NICHOLSON,
Author of "The House of a Thousand Candles"

The ambassador closed the silver box the better to examine the white falcon upon its lid. Then he swung about and confronted Armitage.

"Where is he, monsieur?" he asked, his voice sunk to a whisper, his eyes sweeping the doors and windows.

"The Archduke Karl is dead; his son, Frederick Augustus, whom these conspirators have imagined me to be—he, too, is dead."

"You are quite sure—you are quite sure, Mr. Armitage?"

"I am quite sure."

"That is not enough! We have a right to ask more than your word!"

"No, it is not enough," replied Armitage quietly. "Let me make my story brief. I need not recite the peculiarities of the archduke—his dislike of conventional society, his contempt for sham and pretense. After living a hermit life at one of the smallest and most obscure of the royal estates for several years he vanished utterly. That was fifteen years ago."

"Yes; he was mad, quite mad," blurted the baron.

"That was the common impression. He took his oldest son and went into exile. Conjectures as to his whereabouts have filled the newspapers sporadically ever since. He has been reported as appearing in the south sea islands, in India, in Australia, in various parts of this country. In truth, he came directly to America and established himself as a farmer in western Canada. His son was killed in an accident; the archduke died within the year."

Judge Claiborne bent forward in his chair as Armitage paused.

"What proof have you of this story, Mr. Armitage?"

"I am prepared for such a question, gentlemen. His identity I may establish by various documents which he gave me for the purpose. For greater security I locked them in a safety box of the Bronx Loan and Trust company in New York. To guard against accidents I named you jointly with myself as entitled to the contents of that box. Here is the key."

As he placed the slim bit of steel on the table and stepped back to his old position on the hearth they saw how white he was and that his hand shook, and Dick begged him to sit down.

"Yes; will you not be seated, monsieur?" said the baron kindly.

"No; I shall have finished in a moment. The archduke gave those documents to me and with them a paper that will explain much in the life of that unhappy gentleman. It contains a disclosure that might in certain emergencies be of very great value. I beg of you believe that he was not a fool and not a madman. He sought exile for reasons—for the reason that his son Francis, who has been plotting the murder of the new emperor-king, is not his son!"

Judge Claiborne

"What!" roared the baron.

"It is as I have said. The faithlessness of his wife and not madness drove him into exile. He intrusted that paper to me and swore me to carry it to Vienna if Francis ever got too near the throne. It is certified by half a dozen officials authorised to administer oaths in Canada, though they, of course, never knew the contents of the paper to which they swore him. He even carried it to New York and swore to it there before the consul general of Austria-Hungary in that city. There was a certain grim humor in him; he said he wished to have the affidavit bear the seal of his own country, and the consul general assumed that it was a document of mere commercial significance."

The baron looked at the key: he touched the silver box; his hand rested for a moment on the sword.

"It is a marvelous story—it is wonderful! Can it be true—can it be true?" murmured the ambassador.

"The documents will be the best evidence. We can settle the matter in twenty-four hours," said Judge Claiborne.

"You will pardon me for seeming incredulous, sir," said the baron, "but it is all so extraordinary. And these men, these prisoners"—

"They have pursued me under the impression that I am Frederick Augustus. Oddly enough, I, too, am Frederick Augustus," and Armitage smiled "I was within a few months of his age, and I had a little brush with Chauvenet and Durand in Genoa in which they captured my cigarette case—it had belonged to Frederick, and the archduke gave it to me—and my troubles began. The emperor-king was old and ill. The disorders in Hungary were to cloak the assassination of his successor. Then the Archduke Francis, Karl's reputed son, was to be installed upon the throne."

"Yes; there has been a conspiracy!"—

"And there have been conspirators. Two of them are safely behind that door, and, somewhat through my efforts, their chief, Winkelried, should now be under arrest in Vienna. I had reasons, besides my pledge to Archduke Karl, for taking an active part in these affairs. A year ago I gave Karl's repudiation of his second son to Count Ferdinand von Stroebel, the prime minister. The statement was stolen from him for the Winkelried conspirators by these men we now have locked up in this house."

The ambassador's eyes blazed with excitement as these statements fell one by one from Armitage's lips, but Armitage went on:

"I trust that my plan for handling these men will meet with your approval. They have chartered the George W. Custis, a fruit carrying steamer lying at Morgan's wharf in Baltimore, in which they expected to make off after they had finished with me. At one time they had some idea of kidnaping me, and it isn't my fault they failed at that game. But I leave it to you, gentlemen, to deal with them. I will suggest, however, that the presence just now in the West Indies of the cruiser Sophia Margaret, flying the flag of Austria-Hungary, may be suggestive."

He sank to the floor with a moan.

He smiled at the quick glance that passed between the ambassador and Judge Claiborne.

Then Baron von Marbof blurted out the question that was uppermost in the minds of all.

"Who are you, John Armitage?"

And Armitage answered, quite simply and in the quiet tone that he had used throughout:

"I am Frederick Augustus von Stroebel, the son of your sister and of the Count Ferdinand von Stroebel. The archduke's son and I were school fellows and playmates. You remember as well as I my father's place near the royal lands. The archduke talked much of democracy and the new world and used to joke about the divine right of kings. Let me make my story short. I found out their plan of flight and slipped away with them. It was believed that I had been carried away by gypsies."

"Yes, that is true; it is all true! And you never saw your father—you never went to him?"

"I was only thirteen when I ran away with Karl. When I appeared before my father in Paris last year he would have sent me away in anger if it had not been that I knew matters of importance to Austria—Austria, always Austria!"

"Yes; that was quite like him," said the ambassador. "He served his country with a passionate devotion. He hated America. He distrusted the whole democratic idea. It was that which pointed his anger against you—that you should have chosen to live here."

"Then when I saw him at Geneva—that last interview—he told me that Karl's statement had been stolen and he had his spies abroad looking for the thieves. He was very bitter against me. It was only a few hours before he was killed as a part of the Winkelried conspiracy. He had given his life for Austria. He told me never to see him again, never to claim my own name, until I had done something for Austria. And I went to Vienna and knelt in the crowd at the funeral, and no one knew me, and it hurt me, oh, it hurt me, to know that he had grieved for me; that he had wanted a son to carry on his work, while I had grown away from the whole idea of such labor as his. And now"—

He faltered, his hoarse voice broke with stress of feeling, and his pallor deepened.

"It was not my fault. It was really not my fault. I did the best I could, and, by God, I've got them in the room there where they can't do any harm! And, Dick Claiborne, you are the finest fellow in the world and the squarest and bravest, and I want to take your hand before I go to sleep, for I'm sick—sick, I'm sick—and sleepy, and you'd better haul down that flag over the door. It's treason, I tell you! And if you see Shirley, tell her I'm John Armitage; tell her I'm John Armitage, John Arm"—

The room and its figures rushed before his eyes, and as he tried to stand erect his knees crumpled under him, and before they could reach him he sank to the floor, with a moan. As they crowded about he stirred slightly, sighed deeply and lay perfectly still.

Chapter XXVI

CLAIBORNE called Oscar through the soft dusk of the April evening. The phalanx of stars marched augustly across the heavens. Claiborne lifted his face gratefully to the cool breeze, for he was worn with the stress and anxiety of the day, and there remained much to do. The bungalow had been speedily transformed into a hospital. One nurse, borrowed from a convalescent patient at the Springs, was to be re-enforced by another summoned by wire from Washington.

The ambassador's demand to be allowed to remove Armitage to his own house at the Springs had been promptly rejected by the surgeon. A fever had hold of John Armitage, who was ill enough without the wound in his shoulder, and the surgeon moved his traps to the bungalow and took charge of the case. Oscar had brought Claiborne's bag and all was now in readiness for the night.

Oscar's erect figure at salute and his respectful voice brought Claiborne down from the stars.

"We can get rid of the prisoners tonight—yes?"

"At midnight two secret service men will be here from Washington to travel with them to Baltimore to their boat. The baron and my father arranged it over the telephone from the Springs. The prisoners understand that they are in serious trouble and have agreed to go quietly. The government agents are discreet men. You brought up the buckboard?"

"But the men should be hanged, for they shot our captain, and he may die."

The little man spoke with sad cadence. A pathos in his erect, sturdy figure, his lowered tone as he referred to Armitage, touched Claiborne.

"He will get well, Oscar. Everything will seem brighter tomorrow. You had better sleep until it is time to drive to the train."

Oscar stepped nearer, and his voice sank to a whisper.

"I have not forgotten the tall man who died; it is not well for him to go unburied. You are not a Catholic—no?"

"You need not tell me how—or anything about it. But you are sure he is quite dead?"

"He is dead. He was a bad man and died very terribly," said Oscar, and he took off his hat and drew his sleeve across his forehead. "I will tell you just how it was. When my horse took the wall and got their bullets and tumbled down dead, the big man they called Zmal saw how it was, that we were all coming over after them, and ran. He kept running through the brambles and over the stones, and I thought he would soon turn and we might have a fight, but he did not stop, and I could not let him get away. It was our captain who said, 'We must take these prisoners,' was it not so?"

ANNOUNCEMENT

TO-DAY, for the first time here, the new medicinal preparation—"ASAYA-NEURALL"—is offered for sale, and may be obtained from the undersigned.

"ASAYA-NEURALL" represents the latest conclusions of medical research in the effort to supply the nervous organization of the body with the elements required to restore normal nervous health, in a form capable of being assimilated by the weakest digestive organs.

As is well known, every effort of the mind and every movement of a muscle uses up a part of the tissues of the nervous system, the waste products of which have been found by chemical examination of the excretions to consist largely of mineral phosphates.

In health, when the nervous forces are not over-exerted, certain foods, such as fish, eggs, milk, etc., supply sufficient of the phosphatic principle to restore this loss.

But when a person, young or old, through over-work, worry, intense excitement, grief, alcoholic or other excesses, over-exerts the nerve powers, accelerating the using up of nerve-tissue and the consequent loss of the phosphatic principle past the power of recuperation by the ordinary channels of the food, the condition of nervous exhaustion results.

These facts have long been known, and physicians have for years endeavored to aid the system to regain its normal supply of the vital phosphatic element by the giving of phosphorus compounds of many kinds.

The preparation—"ASAYA-NEURALL"—may be described briefly, as the latest advance in the art of phosphatic medication, suitably prepared for general public use. In it phosphorus is supplied in practically the same form as it exists in the human system, thus enabling this nerve building element to be easily assimilated even by those whose digestive powers have been so weakened by disease as to make it impossible for them to retain and assimilate phosphorus preparations of any other kind. It is a safe, home remedy, immeasurably superior to any previous compound for similar purposes, and should be taken by persons suffering from

NERVOUS EXHAUSTION
NERVOUS DEBILITY
NERVOUS PROSTRATION
HYSTERIA
INSOMNIA

For the nervous despondency frequently experienced by women when recovering from child-birth and for all conditions of nervous derangement resulting from the causes named above.

"ASAYA-NEURALL" checks the night sweats due to extreme nervous debility, and, under the physician's direction, will be found of great service as a reconstructive tonic in the treatment of wasting and debilitating diseases, especially Consumption, where it is of prime importance to maintain the nervous strength, and during the convalescence from acute diseases, such as Pneumonia, La Grippe, etc.

FREE TRIAL SAMPLE OFFERED.—BENEFICIAL EFFECTS ALMOST IMMEDIATELY EVIDENT.

The first effect of this preparation is the lifting of the feeling of depression and the awakening to a more lively interest in things about us. Ability to sleep returns, the digestive powers are roused, the appetite improves, and a general feeling of rejuvenation and renewal of energy is felt. The beneficial effects are evident almost at the first dose. Not due, however, to false stimulation, as in alcoholic preparations, but to real feeding of the under-nourished nerve tissues, while the time to stop taking this preparation is as evident as is the time to stop at meal time, that is, when the nerves have been fed until their normal condition returns and a buoyant feeling of nervous health replaces the depression previously experienced.

SPECIAL NOTICE. Any adult person may, within ten days from the date when this notice appears, obtain a liberal sized free sample bottle of "ASAYA-NEURALL," quite sufficient to definitely establish the value of this preparation in their case, by filling in the coupon below and presenting same to the undersigned.

"ASAYA-NEURALL" is regularly sold in large bottles at $1.50 each. One bottle, taken three times a day according to directions, affords treatment for about forty days, all that is usually required for ordinary derangements of the nervous system.

"ASAYA-NEURALL" is prepared solely by the DAVIS & LAWRENCE CO., Manufacturing Chemists, of New York, Montreal and Shanghai, and may be obtained locally from

McDERMID & JURY.

FROSTS IN WEST.

States Suffer Immense Injury to the Fruit Crops.

Chicago, April 25.—Total loss of the entire fruit crop of the central lake region, extending westward to the foothills of the Rock Mountains and southward into Kentucky and Tennessee, was adjudged a certainty Saturday night by Prof. Henry J. Cox, weather forecaster for the United States Government in Chicago.

After observing the progress of the wintry storm, with its biting frost, which projected itself against and obliterated the unseasonable warmth of the last few weeks, the forecaster said he could see no hope for peaches, pears, plums, cherries, strawberries, apples and other small fruit which usually are so plentiful and cheap in the summer months.

The monetary loss may reach nine of ten millions of dollars, and in view of the high cost of living, will have a far-reaching influence, inasmuch as it will increase the prices of canned goods, because there will be no 1910 crop of fruit to can.

The forecaster Saturday night said he could see no hope for better weather during the next few days. If any fruit has been left with the germ of life in it by the frosts that already have occurred, he says, coming frosts show every prospect of wiping out the last chances of a crop.

The states which experienced freezing weather and the temperatures that prevailed are as follows:

	Above zero.
North Dakota	18 to 24
South Dakota	24 to 28
Nebraska	26 to 30
Minnesota	18 to 24
Iowa	22 to 28
Missouri	26 to 34
Illinois	28 to 38
Michigan	24 to 40

Woman Found Dead.

Brockville, April 25.—Mrs. James Livingstone of Elizabethtown died suddenly Friday in a field, being found face downwards, lying across a stream about two feet wide.

CATARRH MUST GO

And Hawking, Spitting, Snuffles Must Go Too.

Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) will give the sufferer from catarrh joyful relief in five minutes.

It is such a remarkable cure, and so positive in its action, that Wm. Madill goes so far as to guarantee it to cure catarrh or money back.

A complete outfit, which consists of a hard rubber pocket inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei, and a unique dropper for filling the inhaler, only costs one dollar, and if an extra bottle is afterwards needed the price is only 50 cents.

Hyomei is a healing, antiseptic balsam, taken from the mighty eucalyptus trees in the health-giving forests of Australia, where diseases of the respiratory tract are unknown.

All the sufferer has to do is to inhale the antiseptic air of Hyomei over the inflamed parts where the germs are entrenched, three or four times a day.

It cures coughs, colds, asthma, hay fever and croup without stomach dosing.

MI-O-NA Cures Dyspepsia.

Your money back if it don't. Gives immediate relief from heartburn, sour stomach, stomach distress and sick headache. 50 cents a large box at Anti-Hat Pin Ordinance.

Indianapolis, April 25.—Members of the Police Department were notified at Saturday night's roll call that the hat-pin ordinance passed recently by the City Council became effective yesterday.

The ordinance provides that no hat-pin or hat ornament shall be worn that protrudes more than one half-inch from the band or crown of the hat unless the point of the pin or ornament is protected.

Protest From Vatican.

Rome, April 25.—The proposed visit of the Prince of Monaco to Rome has resulted in a new protest from the Vatican, where the prince's act is considered a personal affront to the Pope. It was officially announced a few days ago that the prince would arrive in Rome on April 24, and would be received by the King the following day. His lecture on oceanography is arranged for April 24.

Wants French Party.

Montreal, April 25.—A French-Canadian Conservative member of the House of Commons has advocated the formation of a French party in this province on the same grounds as the Irish members in the British House of Commons. This new declaration was made by M. Blondin, M.P. for Champlain, at a meeting held yesterday afternoon at Coteau Landing, which had been convoked by Dr. Lortie, M.P. for Soulanges. Besides the Federal member there were present Mantel, M.P. for Terrebonne, and Blondin, M.P. for Champlain.

All three gentlemen pronounced themselves as followers of Mr. F. D. Monk, M.P. While on the marine question Mr. Blondin made the surprising statement just given. He said that if a French-Canadian party were formed similar to the Irish party at Westminster, they would eventually hold the balance of power, just as John Redmond and his followers hold the balance of power in the British House of Commons.

Child Has Two Heads.

New York, April 25.—John O. Nelson of No. 4,114 Stuart avenue, Brooklyn Hills, Queen's Borough, has a daughter who has two well-developed heads. She is six years old, and is unable either to sit up or walk, but her general health is good and she possesses normal intelligence, according to her father.

When the child was born the doctors said she could not live, but Mr. Nelson, then possessed of comfortable means, engaged the best physicians and gave the little one the most careful attention, sparing no expense. Mr. Nelson said nearly his entire fortune of $35,000 had gone toward making the delicate infant a healthy child.

The Nelsons live on the ground floor, so that they can easily get their daughter out of doors without attracting attention, consequently few persons in the neighborhood have seen her. The child speaks English and German with equal fluency, using both mouths when she speaks, her father says.

Colored Leaders Arrested.

Havana, April 25.—The culmination of the recent agitation of the race question was reached Saturday night, when Gen. Evaristo Estenos, the leader of the independent party of color, and four of his associates were arrested. This was followed yesterday by the arrest of twenty-four more negroes in Havana, three in Oriente and two in Santa Clara.

The agitation is regarded as a seditious movement, calculated to develop revolutionary agitation against the Government.

Farewell to Sir Richard.

Ottawa, April 25.—The banquet which the members of the Senate will tender to Sir Richard Cartwright on Tuesday next is in the nature of a farewell. Sir Richard is at present leader of the Government in the Upper House, but his physical condition is such that he cannot longer undertake the duties of that office.

Hon. Sydney Fisher will succeed him, the opportunity to a vacancy having occurred through the death recently of Senator Baker.

Coffee Drinking Denounced.

As early as 1663 coffee was satirised in England, and on every hand the bitterest invectives were applied to it by the press and pulpit. In one instance a preacher hurled anathemas at the heads of those who used as a beverage "a sirup of soot and essence of old shoes!" Probably he had good grounds for this statement, having sampled some boiled coffee. Another divine denominated it "a poison which God made black that it might bear the devil's color!" The women also took up the cudgels against it.—London Mail.

The Whip Tree.

In the island of Jamaica grows a tree with the botanic name Daphne lagetto from the branches of which native workmen make peculiarly strong and excellent whips, which have the handle and lash all of a piece. The handle consists of a part of the stem retaining the bark. For the lash the stem is deprived of bark and then split into strips, which are woven together in a flexible cord six or seven feet in length. The proper taper is afforded by detaching more and more of the strips as the end of the lash is approached.

Long-Lived Jews.

It is remarkable that although Dublin contains a Jewish population of 2,500 souls, during last year there were only 15 deaths amongst this number. Four of these were still-born children and the other eleven deaths were due to natural causes. The Jewish colony attribute this more particularly to abstinence from the consumption of pork and a thorough examination of all meat which is, of course, especially killed for the Jews before cooking or use.

Royal E. Cabell, recently appointed United States commissioner of internal revenue, is a member of one of the oldest families of Virginia. He is in his thirty-fifth year.

Dr. Charles F. Stokes, the new surgeon general of the navy, has requested his subordinates to refrain from addressing him as "admiral." He declares that, although surgeon general with the relative rank of rear admiral, he is not in reality an admiral, but a doctor and prefers to be simply called Dr. Stokes.

Georg Schumann, whose oratorio "Ruth" was recently presented in America for the first time, was born at Koenigstein, on the Elbe, in 1866. Don't Believe In Text-Books.

Gen. Sir Thomas Kelly-Kenny, who has just recovered from a serious illness, believes more in the efficiency of actual experience and training than in all the military text-books ever written. Once it was hinted to Sir Thomas that his methods were not approved by the text-books. "By all the laws of the text-books," replied the bluff and hearty soldier, "Moore should never have escaped from Corunna, and Wellington should have been crushed at Waterloo; Roberts' march to Kandahar should have been impossible, and De Wet should have been finally defeated and captured in a month. Text-books are good in their way, but the man who is going to be led by them will never win campaigns."

Asking Too Much.

The mother of little six-year-old Mary had told her a number of times not to hitch her sled to passing sleighs, feeling that it was a dangerous practice. It was such a fascinating sport, however, that Mary could not resist it, and one day her mother saw her go skimming past the house behind a farmer's bob.

When she came in from play she was taken to task, her mother saying reproachfully: "Mary, haven't I told you that you must not hitch on to bobs? Besides, it is against the law."

Mary tossed her head. "Oh," she said, "don't talk to me about the law. It's all I can do to keep the Ten Commandments!"

Suicides After Bereavement.

St. John, N.B., April 26.—James Day committed suicide here late last night by drinking carbolic acid.

Day had become melancholy over the loss of his wife and three children, all since last fall.

His brother and mother saw him rush to the yard, and attempted to prevent him from drinking the acid. He threw his mother violently away, and the scuffle which followed with his brother, the latter was roughly handled and severely burned by the acid.

Day succeeded in drinking enough to kill himself in eight minutes.

True Bill For Murder.

Parry Sound, April 26.—A true bill has been returned by the grand jury against Louis Young, alias Peterson, which came up yesterday at the assizes. Young is charged with murdering Michael J. Davis at the Montgomery House, Parry Harbor, in February last.

Owing to the absence of one Donaldson, who is held to be a material witness, the case has been traversed to the fall assizes. A bench warrant has been issued for Donaldson's arrest.

Fatal Fire at Welland.

Welland, April 26.—Mrs. Sarah Haun, a widow in the employ of Alex. McAlpine, was burned to death in a fire early yesterday morning, which totally destroyed the residence.

Mrs. McAlpine, who is an invalid, was rescued with great difficulty.

Witnesses Testify Against Prodgers

London, April 26.—At the preliminary trial of Jack Prodgers, for the shooting with intent of Miss Elizabeth Frank, several witnesses testified to the identity of the prisoner.

Detectives Down and Egelton told of fitting Prodgers' shoes to the foot marks south of the Frank house and of finding a Christie hat there. There was also produced the hat found in the Carling Block, where Prodgers lived, and the one which Bremner has stated he gave him on the night of the shooting.

Sidney Clarke and William Campbell testified to having seen a hatless man going away from near the Frank place about four o'clock in the afternoon of the shooting, and Campbell positively identified Prodgers.

Robert Bremner also identified him as the man to whom he had given the hat.

The trial was adjourned for one week.

Want an Ice-Breaker.

Chatham, April 26.—A meeting of the municipal representatives of Chatham, Dover, Tilbury East and Raleigh was held in this city yesterday to meet Messrs. McCoig and Sullman, West Kent's two Parliamentary representatives, relative to the formation of plans to overcome the damage which is yearly created through river floods.

A committee was appointed to enquire into the possibility of chartering an ice-breaker to patrol the river every spring between Chatham and the lighthouse at Lake St. Clair. Both Governments will be appealed to for assistance.

A Quaint Ceremony.

A quaint and interesting ceremony took place at Wotten, near Dorking, Eng., one day recently, acting under provision of the will of William Glanville, who died over a hundred years ago. Assembled in the old parish cemetery, with their hands laid upon Glanville's grave, seven boys repeated by heart the Lord's Prayer, the Creed and the Ten Commandments, and afterwards in school they read a portion of the New Testament. For doing this they each received forty shillings and two rabbits.

The Magellanic Clouds.

The Magellanic clouds are two cloudy masses of light, oval in shape and unequal in size, seen at night in the heavens in the vicinity of the south pole. They are supposed to be nebulae, or dense aggregations of stars, so far distant as to give to the unassisted eye the impression of cloud-like masses. They cover areas of 42 and 10 square degrees respectively and are so named in honor of Ferdinand Magellan, the great Portuguese navigator, who first observed them in 1520 during his voyage around the globe.

For Their Own Calves.

A couple of young men were out fishing one day and on returning were going past a farm house and felt hungry. They yelled to the farmer's daughters, "Girls, have you any buttermilk?"

The reply was gently wafted back to their ears, "Yes, but we keep it for our own calves."

The boys calculated that they had business away, and they went.

Head Office: 46 King Street, West TORONTO

The Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of the Imperial Guarantee & Accident Insurance Company of Canada, was held at the Head Office, 46 King Street West, Toronto, on the 10th inst.

Mr. E. W. Cox, President of the Company, in reviewing the business of the year, made reference to the growing popularity of Accident Insurance, and its effect on the success of the business of the Company during the year. The amount of Insurance written was over $26,270,000.00, an increase of $1,940,000.00 over the business taken out in 1908. This is considered exceptionally satisfactory in view of the fact that the business of the Company is confined to Personal Accident and Guarantee Insurance.

The Gross Income for 1909 amounted to $210,741.76.

That being an increase over the year 1908 of $4,617.24.

The Assets now total $306,274.00, and, after allowing for Reserve for unearned premium calculated on the full Government standard, and all other liabilities, the surplus for the protection of policyholders has increased to $213,447.12.

The following Directors and Officers were elected:

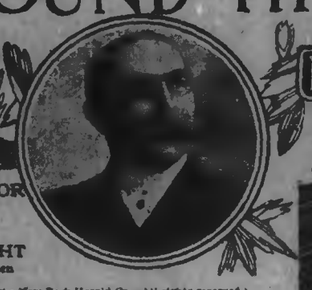
FOUND HISTORY of the FLOOD 4,000 YEARS OLD



PROFESSOR HERMAN V. HILPRECHT

PROFESSOR HERMAN V. HILPRECHT, Who Has Rescued Forty Kings from Oblivion, Has Translated Verification of the Bible Story from a Fragment of a Tablet Found in the Babylonian City of Nippur

(Copyright, 1910, by the New York Herald Co. All rights reserved.)

New York, Saturday.—

SIX hundred years before Moses, twenty-one hundred years before the birth of Christ, in the sacred Babylonian city of Nippur, a priestly scribe fashioned a little tablet of clay, and thereon with a reed wryte an account of the deluge as he had learned it in the service of Enlil, "the father of the gods."

Four thousand years have passed since that wise man of the East composed his work in strange, wedge shaped characters. And now a wise man of the West, Professor Herman V. Hilprecht, Assyriologist of the University of Pennsylvania, has discovered and translated a fragment of the cuneiform tablet. The result is the oldest and most startling verification of the Biblical story of the flood thus far known. Professor Hilprecht is engaged in what might be called without offence the jigsaw puzzle of the ages. The University of Pennsylvania owns, largely through his efforts, a collection of 50,000 broken specimens of cuneiform writing, unearthed at Nippur. So far only 18,000 have been deciphered and classified, for the task is monumental. At any moment while carrying on this great work Professor Hilprecht is likely to make an even more wonderful discovery than his latest triumph. Among the remaining 32,000 pieces he may find the missing parts of the flood story, or may fit together authentic accounts of nations and rulers of whose very existence the world is still in ignorance. He is playing the most fascinating game that science has to offer.

This has been Professor Hilprecht's life mission, to let in the light upon that dim and clouded vista where, to the backward sweeping eye, history vanishes in the mist. He has rescued forty kings from oblivion, has given to us their names, attributes, wars, civilizations and records. He has pushed away by hundreds of years the veil of mystery beyond which human knowledge does not reach. He has traced and reconstructed lordly cities that were dust when Esau sold his birthright. He has conjured up whole epochs when forgotten races strove and lived and loved.

In his piecing of clew to clew, fragment to fragment, Professor Hilprecht is like a great master detective concerned with the problem of happenings in early times. Here he unearths a fact, there another fact, and as he goes on he forms a story into which all his facts will fit. Out of buried ruins and some chips of clay he resurrects an empire, tells who its people were, what they did, what they achieved, what they were interested in. With his detective sense and his jigsaw scraps he builds pictures of ancient nations which but for him would remain nameless and unknown.

These clay scraps are the broken bits of Babylonian books. It is as if some one should enter the Astor Library and tear all the volumes into tiny slips, mix them together and bury them; then as if an investigator four thousand years from now should dig up a part of them and try to put them together. That is practically what happened at the spot where Professor Hilprecht excavated his scraps. An invading enemy sacked the city of Nippur and wilfully destroyed the clay tablets on which the priests had kept the literature of the country.

Making a Masterpiece.

When Professor Hilprecht sits down before a heap of his shattered jigsaw bits of clay and tries to patch them together anything is possible. A dozen fragments might give him a masterpiece that would delight and astonish the world. But he has just about as much chance of getting a complete tablet as the imaginary investigator on the site of the Astor Library would have of piecing a whole book out of paper scraps, and no more. Eleven of those fragments may be scattered among the thirty-two thousand. Or they may still be under the barren hills where Nippur stood, not yet brought to light.

And Professor Hilprecht has other difficulties to face. These jigsaw bits are not clean and clear with smooth sharp edges. They are worn and defaced, covered with sediment, caked with nitre crystals drawn out of the substance of the clay, injured by their four thousand years of burial. The greatest care has to be taken with them lest they crumble and become lost for all time. Then, too, they are written in different languages and in different hands.

Many times he comes upon one little fragment which will not fit with any others; the parts that go with it cannot be found. He translates the few incomplete lines on the fragment and finds, it may be, that he holds a tiny scrap out of a great work, a work that would be of the utmost interest to Christendom. It is tantalizing, this hint of a missing treasure. Perhaps the rest of it may be found some day, but at present he can go no further with this particular puzzle. Suppose that our imaginary investigator found a passage out of "Hamlet" among the ruins of the Astor Library and could not find the rest. He would be in the same position in which Professor Hilprecht is sometimes placed when going over his Babylonian fragments.

It was just such a thing as this that happened in the present case of the Babylonian deluge story. He came upon a piece of a large tablet on which a priest of Enlil had set down the whole national epic of Babylonia four thousand years ago. The account of the deluge was a chapter, so to speak, in this epic. Professor Hilprecht's fragment was just a paragraph out of the chapter, and far from complete at that. But the great point was that he could prove two facts—the paragraph dealt with the deluge according to Babylonian beliefs, and its writing antedated the writing of the Old Testament by one thousand years or thereabouts.

The significance of this find can hardly be overestimated, for the passage in the Babylonian tablet which he brought to light corroborates the corresponding passage in the Bible vividly in every essential, while some of the details are identical. Yet the priest of Enlil wrote under different traditions and inspirations, as the mouthpiece of a different and older religion. The language in which he composed his work has not been used in common speech for three thousand years.

Babylonians had an eye to future ages. They did not intend that their doings should perish from the mind of man. The priests and learned men were charged with writing historical, political, religious and commercial records. The clay tablets, or books, were stored in vast libraries and archives or in underground rooms of the temples and palaces. Important documents were inscribed with terrible curses upon the head of any one who should destroy the tablets.

"Tablet Hill," Site of the Older Temple Library of Nippur

Right Edge

Reverse Side of Tablet

Nearly half of the 50,000 fragments recovered during the four expeditions undertaken by the University of Pennsylvania came from a hill which the members of the first expedition called "Tablet Hill." Once on this eminence stood the great temple of Enlil, which made the city, in its prosperous days, the religious center of Babylonia. In connection with the temple were a large library and a school where thousands of tablets were made and kept. These tablets were found in three separate layers, or strata, corresponding with three periods in the history of Nippur. The strata were at varying depths, covered with deposits of dust and debris that stood for intervals when the city was neglected or ruined.

By far the richest stratum was the lowest, and hence, of course, the oldest. The tablets found here covered, roughly, the period between Sargon I of Akkad, the first Semitic conqueror of Babylonia and one of the greatest heroes of the ancient world, and the time of the sack of the city by an invading host, probably the Elamites; that is, from about 3,000 B. C. to about 2,000 B. C.

The invaders cared nothing for Babylonian culture and civilization as they found it. They overthrew the temples of Enlil and to show their contempt for the god they embarked upon a gratuitous course of destruction that investigators will ever deeply deplore. They went into the temple library and archives with hammers and shattered the precious tablets that formed the great heritage of Nippur. Possibly they were moved by a spirit of bravado to defy the dire curses inscribed upon the books. History does not say whether the maledictions upon the destroyers reached their mark, but certainly modern archaeologists have a lively grudge against the vandals.

As a result of the wanton destruction a perfect tablet of this period is almost never found and a hopeless jumble is all that is left of Nippur's golden age.

Professor Hilprecht came upon the precious fragment relating to the Babylonian deluge story last October while unpacking two boxes of the shattered tablets collected by the fourth expedition in 1900. For ten years he has been making his way through the vast mass of material, publishing several books on his discoveries. Fifteen years more will probably be required to complete the task. Each day has held and will hold the alluring promise of further triumphs.

Professor Hilprecht was running over the 483 specimens in the two boxes and separating the mass of them, written in Sumerian, the ancient sacred language of Babylonia, from a few written in Akkadian, the Semitic dialect of the country. Picking up one of the Akkadian fragments which was badly defaced and almost illegible, he noticed the word "a-bu-bi," meaning "deluge." Now as all the tablets in the lowest stratum, in which this was found, dated before 2,000 B. C., he was immediately led to hope that he held what theologists and Assyriologists have ever sought in vain, an authoritative indication of early Babylonian beliefs concerning the flood. The fragment was of unbaked clay, probably hardened in the sun, dark brown in color, two and three-quarter inches at its greatest width, two and three-eighths inches at its greatest length and seven-eighths of an inch at its greatest thickness. It was evidently the reverse of a complete tablet, the obverse having been broken off. The inscription was incrusted with a sediment of hardened clay and nitre crystals.

Vast Amount of Work.

"I tried at once to clean the tablet with a brush sufficiently to recognize what followed," says Professor Hilprecht, "but my efforts proved in vain, the crystals and dirt being too firmly attached to the inclosed characters. Next I turned my attention to the other contents of the boxes to see whether, perchance, I could find another fragment of the same tablet. Again I met with no success.

"Unable to restrain my curiosity and impatience any longer, I left, for the time being, all the unpacked fragments in the basement of the museum with the exception of the supposed 'deluge' story, which I took to my study. For three continuous weeks I personally spent from one to two hours every day upon this fragment, endeavoring to uncover one cuneiform character after another by removing the incrustations and other deposits of hardened dirt without damaging the writing below until I had completely deciphered every sign."

The inscription finally stood forth, disjointed and far from perfect, but teeming with significance. Professor Hilprecht placed the probable date of its composition as 2100 B. C.

Investigators have always sought a confirmation of the Biblical flood story in the literature or legends of races other than the Jews. Frequent traces of such a story have been discovered, but nothing that closely corresponds with the Old Testament account. Archaeologists have been particularly keen in rummaging through Assyrio-Babylonian remains for versions of the great deluge, since the neighbors of the Jews might be expected to have some beliefs in common with them.

Heretofore, apart from the tradition of a great flood handed down by the Babylonian priest Berosus (300 B. C.), fragments of three, distinct deluge stories have been found among cuneiform writings.

Drawings of Reverse and Obverse Sides of Tablet with Cuneiform Writing Brought Out Clearly

General View of the Excavations at Nippur

One, now in the possession of Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, was dated 1868 B. C. and could barely be identified as a version of the deluge. The others, found in the ruins of the library of King Asnurbanapal at Nineveh, were Assyrian copies of an undiscovered Babylonian original and were written about 650 B. C. Their resemblance to the Biblical version was interesting but vague and unconvincing.

But here, under Profesor Hilprecht's hand, was a Babylonian flood version which antedated the writing of the Biblical account of centuries, possibly being the very original from which the corrupt Nineveh versions were adopted. And the important, striking fact was that this ancient Babylonian version closely resembled its corresponding passage as given in the Old Testament, not only in general plan but in phraseology. Thus it was proved that the Babylonians, on the plain of Shinar, as far back as 2100 B. C., had worked into their religion of Enlil a flood story which the Jewish scribes later accepted and wrote into Genesis as an ancient Jewish belief. It was also shown that the Jewish account must have come from the undefiled Nippur source rather than from the distorted Nineveh editions. In this connection it is significant to remember that Abraham was living at Ur of the Chaldees not long after the Nippur tablet was written.

The Nippur fragment, being but a small section of a large tablet, can furnish no comprehensive summary of the original Babylonian deluge legend. For this the investigator turns to one of the Nineveh tablets which is practically complete and which serves to give an outline of the story and to show the general subject undoubtedly treated at length on the Nippur tablet as originally written.

The flood story forms a part of the great national epic poem and sacred book of the Babylonians which centres about the person of King Gilgamesh, a semi-mythical hero. Gilgamesh passes through a series of marvellous adventures in the course of his wandering about the earth. He is in search of the great gift which man has ever sought and which it needs no Gilgamesh come from the shadowy past to introduce as a motive—immortality. His question to all he meets is, "How shall I secure eternal life?" And the answer each time is, "The life which thou seekest thou wilt not find, for when the gods created man they prepared death for man and retained life in their hands."

Story of Noah.

Finally, after many adventures, Gilgamesh starts out to find his ancestor, Ut-napishtim, the Babylonian Noah, who had been made immortal after braving the deluge. The hero arrives at the Land of the Blessed, in the far west, beyond the Straits of Gibraltar, and there meets Ut-napishtim. Gilgamesh asks him eagerly how he attained the enviable state of immortality.

From here on it is the same story of the chosen servant of the gods, selected for his righteousness to survive the general catastrophe. Ut-napishtim, or Noah, tells of the Deluge in the form of a dramatic dialogue. He describes how he received warning and instructions from the god Ea in a dream; how the god spoke and commanded him to build a boat in which he and his family and the animals were to escape destruction.

Thus the corrupt version, which undoubtedly followed the original in all essentials. Professor Hilprecht's Nippur fragment deals with the part where the warning was given to Ut-napishtim, either directly by Enlil, as Professor Hilprecht thinks, or through the mouth of Ea. "It shall sweep away all men together" thunders this ancient god of the Babylonians with terrible majesty as he speaks of the flood he will bring, according to the precious fragment. It may well be that future examination of the 32,000 fragments still untouched may result in bringing other parts of the narrative to light. The translation of the Nippur specimen, dated about 2100 B. C., follows by lines:—

1. . . . . "thee,
2. . . .(the confines of heaven and earth) I will loosen,
3. . . .(a deluge I will make, and) it shall sweep away all men together;
4. . . .(but thou seek life before the deluge cometh forth;
5. . . .(For over all living things) as many as there are, I will bring overthrow, destruction, annihilation.
6. . . .Build a great ship and
7. . . .total height shall be its structure
8. . . .it shall be a house-boat carrying what has been saved of life.
9. . . .with a strong deck cover (it).
10. . . .(the ship) which thou shalt make,
11. . . .(into it bring) the beasts of the field, the birds of heaven,
12. . . .(and the creeping things, two of everything) instead of a number,
13. . . .and the family.
14. . . .and. . . ."

Professor Hilprecht supplied the phrases enclosed by parenthesis where such additions seemed to be logically indicated.

The Biblical story follows:—

Gen. vi., 7. And the Lord said, I will destroy man whom I have created from the face of the earth, and the creeping things, and the fowls of the air; for it repenteth me that I have made them.

VI., 13. And God said unto Noah, The end of all flesh is come before me, for the earth is filled with violence through them; and behold, I will destroy them with the earth.

14. Make thee an ark of gopher wood; rooms shalt thou make in the ark, and shalt pitch it within and without with pitch.

15. And this is the fashion which thou shalt make it of: The length of the ark shall be three hundred cubits, the breadth of it fifty cubits, and the height of it thirty cubits.

16. A window shalt thou make to the ark, and in a cubit shalt thou finish it above; and the door of the ark shalt thou set in the side thereof; with lower, second and third stories shalt thou make it.

17. And, behold, I, even I, do bring a flood of waters upon the earth to destroy all flesh, wherein is the breath of life, from under heaven; and everything that is in the earth shall die.

18. But with thee will I establish my covenant; and thou shalt come into the ark, thou, and thy sons, and thy wife, and thy sons' wives with thee.

19. And of every living thing of all flesh, two of every sort shalt thou bring into the ark, to keep them alive with thee; they shall be male and female.

20. Of fowls after their kind, and of cattle after their kind, of every creeping thing of the earth after their kind, two of every sort shall come unto thee, to keep them alive.

A comparison of the Nippur version with the Biblical version is here given:—

Line	NIPPUR VERSION.	BIBLICAL VERSION.
3—	. . . "it shall sweep away all men together."	Gen. vi., 7.—"I will destroy man whom I have created from the face of the earth" . . .
4—	. . . "life(?) before the deluge cometh forth."	18—"But with thee I will establish my covenant."

6—	. . . "build a great ship."	14.—"Make thee an ark" . . .
7—	. . . "total height shall be its structure."	15—. . . "and the height of it thirty cubits."
8—	. . . "it shall be a houseboat carrying what has been saved of life."	14.—. . . "rooms shalt thou make in the ark" . . . 16.—. . . "and the door of the ark shalt thou set in the side thereof; with lower, second and third stories shalt thou make it."

13—	. . . "and the family."	18—. . . "thou, and thy sons, and thy wife, and thy sons' wives with thee."

In addition to the striking general similarity between the Nippur and Biblical versions Professor Hilprecht, in his analysis of the Akkadian words, has uncovered certain analogical terms which aid in the understanding of the Biblical language. For instance, he shows that the translation of the Hebrew word which gave "window" in the English was faulty. It should have been "roof." In view of this change the Nippur tablet's phrase "cover with a strong deck," or roof, constitutes an important link.

Another remarkable connection lies behind the error by which Biblical translators adopted "kind" or "species" as the meaning of the Hebrew word. This Hebrew word was originally borrowed from the Babylonian and has hitherto been a puzzle to Old Testament students, since its meaning is "number," and in the text "for its number." When Professor Hilprecht discovered the Babylonian equivalent for this word in an identical connection, a flood story, he cleared up the obscure meaning. The Babylonian Noah is commanded to take from all living the only two, "instead of a number."

MOTHERS WHO HAVE DAUGHTERS

Find Help in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Winchester, Ind. — "Four doctors told me that they could never make me regular, and that I would eventually have dropsy. I would bloat, and suffer from bearing-down pains, cramps and chills, and I could not sleep nights. My mother wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice, and I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking one and one-half bottles of the Compound, I am all right again, and I recommend it to every suffering woman." — Miss. MAY DEAN, Winchester, Ind.

Hundreds of such letters from girls and mothers expressing their gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished for them have been received by The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass.

Girls who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences and be restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Thousands have been restored to health by its use.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

Trent Canal

ONTARIO-RICE LAKE DIVISION
SECTION NO. 4.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Trent Canal," will be received until 16 o'clock on Thursday, the 5th May, 1910, for the works connected with the construction of Section No. 4, Ontario-Rice Lake Division of the Canal.

Plans, specifications and the form of the contract to be entered into, can be seen on and after this date at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, and at the office of the Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterborough, Ont., at which places forms of tender may be obtained.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labour, which schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation and the place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $60,000.00 made payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Railways and Canals must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited, if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The cheque of the successful tenderer will be held as security or part security for the due fulfilment of the contract to be entered into.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

By order,
L. K. JONES,
Secretary.

THE PREMIER MAKES REPLY

Premier's Statement Has an Air of "I Told You So" Running Through It and Contains an Attack on Those Who Opposed the Power Legislation of Ontario Government in the Courts.

Toronto, April 25.—After a few days' consideration Sir James Whitney has issued his promised statement commenting upon the report of the Minister of Justice in answer to the petition for disallowance of the Hydro-Electric Act of 1909.

Sir James' comments are characteristic, and his sentences almost say, "I told you so." He says:

"The decision of the judicial committee of the Privy Council in the cases of the Florence Mining Co. and refusal of the Dominion Government to disallow the Ontario statute known as the Hydro-Electric legislation of 1909, together mark the beginning of a new era in constitutional development under the British North American Act.

"It is now certain that in the future there will be no further attempts—at any rate no successful attempts—to minimize, or destroy, the powers of a Provincial Legislature acting within the limits of its jurisdiction.

"The unfair and dishonest methods adopted against this legislation, which I can only touch upon in passing, prove clearly that when men's pockets govern their action they are not, as a rule, particular as to the nature of the means they are willing to adopt in order to succeed.

"From the beginning, the electric interests in Toronto and elsewhere were the bitter opponents of this legislation. All the stock gamblers were against it. An emissary was sent over to England, and the so-called financial journals there blossomed out with editorials made up very largely of misrepresentation, and 'frigid calculated falsehoods.' The result, however, has proved disastrous to the idea that these journals have any real power or influence. Every imaginable influence over there—social, political, private and public—was retained where possible, and all who realize the strength of such combined influences in London will at once appreciate what this means.

"Then, emissaries were sent out among the farmers owning land over which the transmission line was to pass, loaded up with all manner of falsehoods, by means of which to spread anxiety and alarm among the people. Last—and also least—the opposition of the Legislature, after proclaiming abroad the virtues of producer gas, the defects of electric power, and the general wickedness of the legislation, finally settled down alongside the electric interests, and has remained there ever since, doing all in its power to destroy the Hydro-Electric power scheme. Through all this time of stress and peril, the press of Ontario, in the main, stood squarely by the provincial position.

"To the applications for disallowance, an answer was put in by the Provincial Government. The same great pressure was again brought into play, and when, if ever, the secret history of this matter is made public, the people will, indeed, be amazed. Those who have looked through a red-covered pamphlet entitled, 'The Credit of Canada; How it is Affected by the Ontario Legislature,' will be able to form some idea of the efforts that were made, and to roughly estimate the amount of money which was expended.

"Well, the efforts of the men who would have taken away from the Provincial Legislature the right to legislate within its jurisdiction, except as and when permitted by the Dominion Government, have failed, and the question has been settled forever. This being so, it is unnecessary to speculate on which would have occurred had the statute been disallowed, beyond saying that the province would not have submitted, and would have lost no time in taking such steps as would have put an end to the situation."

SAVED HER FINGER.

Mrs. B. E. Bedwell, of 237 Provencher Ave., St. Boniface, Winnipeg, says:—"Some time ago my children took diphtheria, and while attending them the poison entered a small scratch on the second finger of my left hand. [illegible] children were quite well I was suffering from a shockingly bad finger. The scratch was caused originally by a pin, and in itself, was not at all serious. The consequences, however, of neglecting this scratch, were very serious to me.

"When the blood-poisoning set in I tried poultices and a salve I had in the house. These, however, did not have the desired effect. Quite on the contrary the finger became more and more swollen and discolored. It then began to fester, and I had to call in a doctor. He lanced the finger to let out the pus, and you can imagine how painful the finger was! Despite his care, however, it again festered and the ointments, liniments, and other preparations which the doctor gave me seemed absolutely unable to bring about any relief.

"The doctor thereupon advised me to go into the St. Boniface Hospital. I feared that if I went to the Hospital the finger would be amputated. We were told of a case similar to my own in which Zam-Buk had effected a cure when everything else had failed and the doctor had said that only amputation could save the person's hand.

"We, therefore, decided to give Zam-Buk a trial. A supply was procured, and we commenced the Zam-Buk treatment. It only needed a few days to show the wisdom of this step. The blood-poisoning and inflammation were reduced, the pain became less acute, and it was evident very shortly that the trouble was being reduced to a less and still less area. We persevered with the Zam-Buk and in the end the festering sore was thoroughly cleansed, then healed. In under three weeks from first commencing with Zam-Buk, the finger was entirely well; and had we applied Zam-Buk in the first place, instead of trying ordinary preparations, no doubt I should have saved myself hours and hours of acute agony."

All mothers should note this case. Zam-Buk is a sure cure for blood-poisoning, festering, cuts, scratches from barbed wire, bruises, eczema, rashes, tetter, salt rheum, face sores, ulcers, piles, bad leg, varicose veins, and all skin injuries and diseases. 50c a box, all druggists and stores or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Send 1c stamp for postage of free trial box. Refuse all imitations.

Peary Granted Leave.

New York, April 25.—An order from the Navy Department has been issued granting Commander R. E. Peary six months' leave with permission to depart from the United States.

This means that Commander Peary is now at liberty to make the trip to Europe which he has projected and deliver certain lectures that he has arranged for. He is also to receive medals and other testimonials from scientific societies.

Women Suffrage Duel.

Paris, April 25.—In consequence of a quarrel during the debate at the last campaign meeting of Mme. Durand, who is a candidate for the Chamber of Deputies, a duel was fought yesterday morning between M. Afrayasse, a barrister of the Court of Appeal and M. Laroche a sub-editor of the newspaper Nouvelles, of which Mme. Durand is editress.

Four shots were exchanged. Neither man was hit.

A Remarkable Sacrifice.

Dr. Diggle, the Bishop of Carlisle, Eng., who at the moment is being talked of as a successor to the late Bishop of Lincoln, is a strong believer in the dignity of labor. When he accepted the bishopric he told his congregation that he had been very fortunate at college as a young man in securing two lectureships and a good deal of coaching, which brought him in about £1,000 per annum. But he threw it all up for a curacy worth £110.

Cook in Comfort

You no longer need wear yourself out with the weakening heat of an intensely hot kitchen. You can cook in comfort.

Here is a stove that gives no outside heat. All its heat is concentrated at the burners. An intense blue flame (hotter than either white or red) is thrown upwards but not around. All the heat is utilized in cooking — none in outside heating.

New Perfection
WICK BLUE FLAME

entirely removes the discomfort of cooking. Apply a match and immediately the stove is ready. Instantly an intense heat is projected upwards against the pot, pan, kettle or boiler, and yet there is no surrounding heat — no smell — no smoke.

Why? Because The New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove is scientifically and practically perfect. You cannot use too much wick—it is automatically controlled. You get the maximum heat—no smoke. The burner is simple. One wipe with a cloth cleans it—consequently there is no smell.

The New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove is wonderful for year-round use, but especially in summer. Its heat operates upward to pan, pot, or kettle, but not beyond or around. It is useless for heating a room.

It has a Cabinet Top with shelf for keeping plates and food hot.

It has long turquoise-blue enamel chimneys. The nickel finish, with the bright blue of the chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Kaiser Wilhelm himself will be at the depot in Berlin to welcome Roosevelt.

Waterloo, N.D., council have ordained that barbers must not eat onions.

A citizens' league will be organized at Ottawa to clean up municipal politics.

Mrs. Isabella Wallace was found dead in her backyard at Port Hope, having passed away, it is thought, at least forty-eight hours before.

Mr. J. E. Herbert, ex-mayor, one of the leading Liberals, and an influential citizen of St. Johns, Que., died yesterday afternoon after a short illness.

Weston, the pedestrian, nearing the end of his across-the-continent walk, collapsed Saturday near Utica, N.Y., owing to eating clam chowder, but revived in four hours.

In the collections of the hospital tag day in Ottawa on Saturday, the sum of $11,300 was raised. Sir Wilfrid Laurier wore a tag all day, and Earl Grey sent a check.

King Albert formally opened the Belgian Exposition Saturday. Others of the royalty present at the ceremony were Queen Elizabeth, the Countess of Flanders and Princess Clementine.

Fire which brought out in the Hotel Thomas, Cincinnati, practically destroyed that structure. Three bodies have been recovered, and it is believed at least six more are in the ruins.

Two Thousand Homeless.

Lake St. Charles, La., April 25.—Fanned by a high wind, a fire which broke out here shortly after 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon swept over twenty or more blocks of the city. Two thousand persons have been rendered homeless.

Requests for aid were wired to Beaumont and Orange, Texas, and to Jennings, La. The Southern Pacific Railroad offered special trains.

Many houses in the path of the flames were dynamited, but showers of spark were swept beyond the gaps, igniting the buildings on the farther side. Within a short time the wind had driven the fire over a space two miles in length.

It was almost eight o'clock at night when the fire, which followed a northeasterly direction from the business section, finally reached the outskirts of the city, burning itself out.

Early estimates, which placed the damage at $3,000,000, are believed to be excessive. More conservative figures range from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000.

Next to the court house, the costliest buildings destroyed were those of the Holy Cross Convent, Catholic Church and rectory. Three hotels were burned.

It is estimated that the insurance will amount to less than one-third of the total loss.

Forced Resignation of Janssens.

Brussels, April 25.—The circumstances surrounding the retirement of Abbot Lawrence Janssens from the post of secretary of the congregation of religious affairs, are given as somewhat different color in reports received here, where much interest has been excited because of the fact that the abbot is a Belgian.

According to these reports from Rome, the secretary did not willingly resign his office, but was summoned by Cardinal Merry del Val, papal secretary of state, by whom he was threatened with dismissal if he did not resign at once.

The offence of the abbot is said to have been the call which he made upon Mr. Roosevelt, following the latter's decision not to visit the Pope.

Charged With Fraud.

Haileybury, April 25.—The preliminary trial of H. Blackburn and Edward Jones, for obtaining money under false pretences, was finished Saturday night.

These men caused the rush a short time ago which caused several hundred men to go to the Cariboo district to find only swamps and very little of any indications of mineral.

The accused received $800 for an interest in these claims, and J. Robertson & Son and Peabody & Co. paid them $500 to go to Cariboo again and stake other claims.

They brought back samples of ore that assayed $1,050 to the ton.

The case was adjourned till the June Assizes.

Has Three Wives.

Brampton, April 25.—Edward Herrington of Boston Mills, Peel County, is under arrest, charged with bigamy.

It is alleged that he has three wives living, and a numerous family, although he is only 35 years of age.

For the past two years he has lived in this county as a farm laborer, with a wife and two children.

Wife No. 1, it is said, lives in Lindsay, supporting herself and two children, and wife No. 2, who brings the charge, is in Bowmanville, with one child. Constable Jarvis of Bowmanville has held the warrant for two weeks, while searching for Herrington.

Amateur Editors at Falls.

Niagara Falls, Ont., April 25.—To allow Mayor Dorse, aldermen and others criticised by him to give their side of the story, proprietor J. E. P. Rothwell turned over the publication of The Record to a committee of citizens for next Wednesday. The entire news matter and editorials will be written by amateurs. The proceeds for advertising will be donated to the general hospital.

The U. S. Heating & Lighting Co., capitalised at seventeen millions, has located across the river. An effort will be made to secure the Canadian plant for this city. Canadians are financially interested in the concern.

Death of J. S. Larke.

Ottawa, April 25.—The Department of Trade and Commerce received yesterday a cable from Sydney, Australia, conveying information of the death of J. S. Larke, Canadian trade commissioner there. Mr. Larke was appointed by Sir Mackenzie Bowell in 1894, and was the first Canadian trade commissioner. Previously he was editor of the Oshawa Vindicator. He was a strong protectionist, and had considerable reputation as a public speaker. Two years ago he made a tour of Canada, addressing boards of trade. He was 70 years of age and a widower. He was a native of England, but came to Canada when a lad.

NEW COMPANY A GOING CONCERN.

Maple Leaf Milling Company, Limited, is a new Company which has taken over the whole undertaking as a going concern of the Maple Leaf Flour Mills Company Limited, including therein that of the Hedley Shaw Milling Company Limited. The company has mills at Keewra, Thorold, St. Catharines, Welland, and Port Colborne (the last named in course of construction) in the Province of Ontario and at Brandon in the Province of Manitoba. When the construction at present under way at Port Colborne is completed the company will have a total milling capacity of 12,300 barrels per day. The company has at present thirty-five elevators situated throughout the Western Wheat Belt, and fifteen additional ones are being added at the present time. A million bushel elevator is being constructed next to the new mill at Port Colborne. The company has also warehouses and offices at Toronto, Winnipeg, Kingston, Ottawa, and Montreal.

MARKET FOR OUTPUT.

The rapid growth of the business of the two companies taken over has long made apparent the necessity of additional milling capacity. Further, the tremendous increase in the total output from the Western Wheat Belt makes it absolutely necessary to have more mills in Canada to handle it. Last year this output amounted to about 135,000,000 bushels, and experienced men estimate that by the end of the year 1920 Canada will be producing fully 500,000,000 bushels annually. A great proportion of this will of necessity find its way into Canadian mills. Larger demands are bound to come as the population of the country increases, and the enquiry for the Canadian product, both from Great Britain and from the foreign markets of the world, will increase. The chain of mills now controlled by the new company will enable it to secure its full share of the trade of every section of Canada, as well as of Great Britain and foreign countries.

SECURITY AND EARNING POWER: The assets of the old Companies taken over as above stand in excess of all liabilities and without any allowance for good-will, trade marks, etc., at $3,776,524.11, this amount being ascertained on the basis of an appraisal by the Canadian-American Appraisal Company, Limited, as of March 17th, 1910, of the capital assets taken over, and the certificate of Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Company, as of February 28th, 1910, as to current assets and current liabilities, with a liberal allowance for all contingencies. There has also been placed in the Treasury $1,000,000 of additional cash, which, besides permitting of the completion of a 6,000 barrel mill and a million bushel elevator and storage warehouse at Port Colborne, and of fifteen additional elevators in the West, will provide the new Company with further working capital. As per certificate of Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Company, of London, quoted below, the earnings of the old Company on the present plant amounted from September 25th, 1908, to August 20th, 1909, to $218,843.28
being for the latter period at a rate equal to over 13 per cent. on the preferred stock of the Company.

LOCATION OF MILLS AND MANAGEMENT.

Mr. Hedley Shaw and Mr. D. C. Cameron, under whose direction the properties of the old companies have been developed, will retain large interests in and be actively identified with the new Company, Mr. Hedley Shaw as Managing Director.

The location of the new 6,000 barrel mill at Port Colborne is without exception the best in Canada.

A complete report on the advantages of the Port Colborne site, prepared by Mr. Hedley Shaw, will be found in the prospectus.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Wholesale election frauds have been discovered in Martinique.

The Kentucky tobacco stemmers' strike, involving 3,000 persons, has been settled.

Jas. A. Stevenson, millionaire, head of the Stevenson Construction Co., shot himself in New York yesterday.

The Canada conference of the Evangelical Association at Berlin on Sunday evening raised $8,500 for missions.

W. N. Mann, accountant of the Empire Brewing Co., was fatally injured in an automobile accident at Brandon.

A stationary engine used for wood sawing blew up in Harwich Township, and Archie Cameron, aged 10, had a miraculous escape.

The bodies will be removed from the Protestant and Roman Catholic cemeteries at Negaunee, Mich., to allow an ore deposit to be mined.

The residence of Jesse A. Quick, at Prairie City, Iowa, was demolished by dynamite Sunday evening. A disappointed sweetheart is under arrest.

Ven. Archdeacon Lloyd arrived on the Victorian at St. John, N.B., Sunday, with twenty-six Church of England catechists and deaconesses, for Saskatchewan missions.

Two unknown Chinamen crossed the St. Mary's River at the Soo in a small boat, but were captured immediately after landing on the Canadian side. They are now in jail at Sudbury and after trial will be deported to China.

N. Y. Central Car Shops Blaze.

Buffalo, April 26.—Several buildings of the New York Central car shops at Depew have been destroyed by fire and the flames are still spreading.

The Depew shops are the largest on the N.Y.C. system, the entire plant and contents being worth about half a million dollars. The storehouse has been destroyed, and the machine shop and several smaller buildings are ablaze.

Motion Pictures Without License.

Brantford, April 26.—Charles Chamberlain, agent of Herbert Booth, traveling lecturer, was fined $50 by Magistrate Patterson of Paris yesterday for conducting motion pictures in the Methodist Church without a license.

Two cases of smallpox among factory employes were discovered here yesterday on the outskirts of the city.

Will Improve Lighting Plant.

Brockville, April 26.—By a vote of 464 to 154 Brockville yesterday authorized the Town Council to issue debentures to the amount of $50,000, for improvement of the municipal-owned lighting plant. A new power house will be erected adjoining the waterworks pumping station, with which it will be amalgamated, to reduce the cost of operating expenses.

London, April 26.—An aerial Derby from London to Manchester is in prospect for Wednesday. Both Graham White and Louis Paulhan, the French aeronaut, are planning to start.

Zeppelin II. Smashed.

Limburg-an-Der-Lahn, Prussia, April 26.—The Zeppelin II., one of the three dirigible balloons of the German Government's fleet, ran away yesterday and was destroyed.

Does Not Apply to Octoroons.

New Orleans, April 26.—That a large part of the legislation in Louisiana, directed toward the separation of the races, does not apply to octoroons or quadroons, was the gist of a decision handed down yesterday by the State Supreme Court.

Object to Rondeau Park Plan.

Ridgetown, April 26.—The annual meeting of East Kent Liberal Association was held here yesterday. President Ferguson was in the chair. The newly-elected president was called to the chair and all matters relating to the welfare of the party were discussed with interest. A resolution was passed against the Government in regard to the contemplated plan regarding Rondeau Park, and a committee was appointed to co-operate with other committees being formed to protest against the cutting of any timber in the park.

Extraordinary Severity.

London, April 26.—England is much exercised over the extraordinary seven-year-old Charles Balbeck, who was sentenced to six lashes and six years in the reformatory for stealing a lump of coal. The father was also assessed $450 and 50 cents weekly towards his son's maintenance in prison.

Secretary Churchill was questioned concerning it in the House of Commons, and he is taking steps to have the sentence modified or a full pardon granted.

Sheep and Lambs.

About 1200 sheep and lambs sold as follows: Sheep, ewes, $5.50 to $5.85 per cwt.; rams, $5 to $6; yearlings, $7 to $8.50; spring lambs, $4 to $8 each.

Hogs.

Dealers were quoting $6.90 for selects, fed and watered, and $6.65 f.o.b. cars at country points.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, April 25.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market receipts last week were 8250 cattle, 225 sheep and lambs, 3250 hogs and 2200 calves. Offerings this morning were 650 cattle, 50 sheep and lambs, 1500 hogs and 600 calves. Cattle prices have scored another advance of 50c per cwt., bringing Ontario steers up to 7c per pound, live weight, probably the highest on record. The principal cause for the steady upward trend of prices during the past six weeks has been the keen competition on the part of the American exporters, and because the number of Ontario stall-fed cattle this year is much smaller than a year ago. Another strong factor in the steady advance in prices for Canadian cattle in Liverpool and London markets, sales on Saturday being made at as high as 15½c per pound.

Trade opened slow here this morning, but as the gathering of buyers was large trade became active and a clearance was made. Choice steers sold at 6¾c to 6¾c, good at 6½c to 6¾c, fairly good at 6¼c to 6½c, fair at 6c to 6¼c, and common at 5½c to 6c per pound. C. A. Dolan had a string of bulls of 20 head, which weighed 24,000 pounds, over 1200 pounds each, and he sold same at 5½c to 6c per pound.

Hog prices, as compared with a week ago, show a decline of 50c to 75c per cwt. Supplies are commencing to come in more freely, and offerings this morning were in excess of requirements. Selected lots were sold at $6.90 per cwt.

Demand for small meats was good and supplies were limited, best prices held high. Calves sold at from $3 to $10 each. Old sheep, ewes, etc., 4c to 5c per pound, and spring lambs sold at from 9c to 10c per pound.

VAN HORNE RETIRING.

He Will Give Up Chairmanship of C.P.R. Board.

Montreal, April 26.—Sir William C. Van Horne has resigned the chairmanship of the board of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., which he has held since Sir Thomas Shaughnessy came to the presidency, in 1898.

When asked if there was any foundation to the report, Sir William said: "Yes, it is my intention to withdraw from the chairmanship, my reason being that the office is only a nominal one. Sir Thomas Shaughnessy is and has been for a long time the real head of the C.P.R., and I need not tell you or anybody in Canada what a competent head the company has had in him, nor how abundantly able he is to manage its affairs without the help of anybody. I shall, of course, remain on the board of the C.P.R. as long as the shareholders see fit to elect me, for naturally the Canadian Pacific has a large place in my affections."

Sir William Van Horne came to the C.P.R. as general manager at the end of 1881, was made vice-president and general manager, in 1884, succeeding Lord Mount Stephen to the presidency in 1888. Sir William retired from the presidency in 1899 and was succeeded by Sir Thomas Shaughnessy.

Fight on a Schooner.

Detroit, April 26.—Compelling an eighteen-year-old girl cook on the schooner Asov to take the wheel, it is alleged, while three other members of the crew engaged in a fight on the deck, resulted in the beaching of the boat at the Maybury Cut, near Algonac, St. Clair River, Sunday.

PETERBOROUGH TUESDAY APRIL 26 1910

IMMIGRATION OFFICE WAS A BUSY PLACE FOR AWHILE THIS MORNING

Sixteen New Arrivals Landed at Peterborough—Came Over on the Victorian and Mongolian—Two Fine Robust Youths Among Them.

WERE QUICKLY PLACED

The local immigration officer's office on Water street was a busy place this morning when a reporter called. Several young Englishmen with numerous bags and boxes, were seated around the front part, awaiting instructions to go to the country. The steamship "Victorian" arrived in St. John's on Saturday night, and sixteen of its passengers arrived in Peterborough on the C.P.R. early this morning. The two young boys referred to in Saturday's paper, as being sent out here by their mother, are amongst the new arrivals. Their names are Wilfred Sydes, 16 years of age, and Herbert Sydes, aged thirteen. They came from London and are certainly two fine specimens of boys. They are strong, healthy looking lads and certainly ought to make good in this country. They are very intelligent, and considering their years are extremely robust. The younger one is going with Mr. Howson's brother in Otonabee and the elder one is also going on a farm with the latter's son-in-law. The two places are adjacent, a fact which is greatly appreciated by the boys. Asked as to how they thought they would like Canada, the elder one remarked, "I think it will be fine, ever so much nicer than England." They have letters of introduction with them. Both the boys are exceedingly well spoken of and have made splendid records at school.

Thos. Croly, his wife and five children arrived here this morning from Manchester. They came out on the "Mongolian." Croly is a first-class machinist and the local officer is endeavouring to secure him employment in some of the manufacturing concerns. He has a couple of strong healthy boys with him. They are altogether a fine looking family and they should make goood citizens. Three young men who came to Mr. Howson were placed on farms inside of half an hour after their arrival.

A young married couple want to come to Canada if they can secure employment. Both have had a great deal of experience in farm work and are ready and willing to work. Farmers in this district who are looking for such help will do well to communicate with Mr. Howson.

ST. JOHN'S CHIMES

Money for Them Has Practically all Been Subscribed.

At the evening service at St. John's church on Sunday evening, the Rector, Rev. Canon Davidson, announced that practically all the money required to place chimes in the tower of the church had been subscribed. It gave him great pleasure, he said, to know that the appeal which he had made, had met with such a hearty response. People, many of whom never entered the church, had given liberally. In fact Canon Davidson stated that certain sums of money had been offered towards the chimes by several persons whose seal for the cause excelled their pecuniary condition and that with all due gratitude to these persons, he had refused to accept their money. Canon Davidson hoped that every citizen of Peterborough would feel that he had a part in these chimes and he personally expressed a wish on the occasion of there being a marriage in any of the other churches, the parties concerned might feel the right to have the chimes rung in honour of the event.

HIS EXCELLENCY WAS PLEASED

His Worship Mayor Morrow has received the following letter from the Earl of Lanesborough, military secretary to His Excellency Earl Grey.

Government House, Ottawa,
April 25.

Dear Mr. Mayor,—I am desired by the Governor-General to write and tell you how much he enjoyed his visit to your city and to thank you for the excellent programme which you arranged. His Excellency also desires me to thank you for the excellent arrangements that you made, which enabled him to see so much in the short space of time he had at his disposal. Believe me,

Yours sincerely,
LANESBOROUGH.

EXTENSIVE IMPROVEMENTS

Will be Made to the Munro House Proprietor Has Acquired the Corner Store—Main Entrance to be at the Corner—A Larger Rotunda.

TO COMMENCE SOON

Extensive alterations and improvements are to be made to the Munro House. The proprietor, Mr. R. J. Munro, has acquired the store at present occupied by Doris and Godfrey, harness dealers. Mr. Munro stated to an Examiner reporter today that it was his intention to remove the partition at present separating the store and the hotel, thus making one fine, large rotunda. The main entrance would then be at the corner and the one on Hunter street now would be closed. The stairs will be turned around and small sitting rooms will be built along the east wall of the rotunda, also new lavatories. A modern system of heating will be placed throughout the building and all changes necessary to make it a thoroughly modern hotel will be made. Mr. Munro intends making these alterations just as soon as the workmen can get started.

COLD BROUGHT ON KIDNEY DISEASE

Brantford Lady Suffered Till Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. A. H. Thomson Had Heart Disease, Lumbago and Rheumatism. and Tells How She was Restored to Health.

Brantford, Ont., April 25.—(Special)—How Colds, La Grippe, and other minor ills settle on the Kidneys and develop Rheumatism, Heart Disease, Bright's Disease and other terribly dangerous ailments; and how any and all of them are cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills is fully shown in the case of Mrs. A. H. Thomson, whose home is at 48 Albion Street, this city.

Mrs. Thomson was, some years ago, taken with Cold and La Grippe and Straining, which affected her Kidneys, and the result was Backache, Lumbago, Rheumatism and Heart Disease, which caused both her and her friends grave anxiety.

She had suffered some years when she heard of cures effected by Dodd's Kidney Pills, and bought a box, which she used with such splendid results that she continued to take them till she was cured. Since then she has used Dodd's Kidney Pills in her own family and recommended them widely to her friends, all of whom have words of praise for the standard Canadian Kidney remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Heart Disease, Rheumatism, Lumbago and Bright's Disease are all Kidney Diseases or are caused by diseased Kidneys. You can't have any of them if your keep your Kidneys sound and your blood pure. Dodd's Kidney Pills make the Kidneys sound. Sound Kidneys strain all the impurities out of the blood.

A MUTINY IN A COLORADO PENITENTIARY TO-DAY RESULTED IN TWO OF THE CONVICTS BEING KILLED

Man Who Was to Have Been Pardoned To-day Smuggeld a Pistol Into His Cell and a Battle Followed---Sealing Steamer With 187 Persons on Board is Believed to Have Been Lost---Other Late News of the Day From all Parts of the World.

Special to The Examiner:

Canon City, Col., April 26.—As a result of a mutiny in the Colorado state penitentiary last night two convicts were shot dead, three others fatally injured and a number seriously hurt in the battle following the outbreak. The trouble was started by John Brophy, a trusty, sent up for seven to fourteen years for burglary. Brophy, who was to have been pardoned today, in some way smuggled a pistol into his cell and the fight followed the discovery of the fact.

Tie Up the Mines

Halifax, N. S., April 26.—The United Mine Workers Association threatens to tie up every coal mine in this province before May 15th, unless recognition of their union is granted.

Hon. George Murray Ill

Halifax, N. S., April 26.—Hon. Geo. H. Murray, Premier of Nova Scotia is seriously ill. He was removed this morning from his residence to the hospital where an operation will be performed. He has not been in attendance in the House for some weeks.

Public Buildings Closed

Cobalt, April 26.—Having become somewhat alarmed at the prevelance of smallpox here, the board of health has ordered all schools, churches and theatres closed for fourteen days, and to-day every mine in the district is quarantined, no one being allowed out or in. The order applies to all the Township of Coleman. While no serious epidemic prevails, the authorities are anxious to take all the precautions necessary.

Steamer Lost

St. Johns, Newfoundland, April 26.—The sealing steamer Aurora, missing since April 1st is reported to have been lost. She had 187 persons aboard The report was brought here to-day by the fishing steamer Boothie which had all the details. It is believed here the vessel struck an iceberg. The Aurora belonged to the Consolidated Steam Fishing and Ice Company of Grimsby, England.

THE SLOGAN CONTEST IS NOW ON IN THE EXAMINER

Great Interest is Being Taken in the Competition and Every Mail Brings a Big Budget of Attempts to Win Handsome Prize.

AN OPPORTUNE TIME

Maple Leaf Milling Company is Commencing in a Proper Season.

A statement issued by the Department of the Interior shows that out of a total area of 334,000,000 acres in the Candian West, the surveyed area is only 145,000,000 acres. The total are homesteaded is only 44,000,000 acres, and the total area under grain crop last year was less than 12,000,000 acres. Of this, less than 7,000,000 acres produced 147,000,000 bushels of wheat. The total area cultivated is only about 1-28 of the total land area. Yet, upon this small area 147,000,000 bushels of wheat were produced! When 28 times this amount of land is cultivated and producing wheat, the output almost staggers estimation. It certainly goes to show that the future of the grain-growing and milling industry will be the greatest of all our industries. The Maple Leaf Milling Company would seem to be starting their enlarged operations at a most opportune time.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

Plan to enjoy the Y. W. C. A. Gymnasium closing exhibition and concert to be given in the Collegiate Assembly Hall, Friday evening.

Eighteen choice numbers appear on the programme representing the work done during the past season by the different classes, covering club and dumbbell exercises, military drills, fancy marches, artistic drills in Swedish, Spanish, Japanese and other fancy costumes.

Swedish folk and classic dancing by the juniors will be a special feature.. There will also be vocal numbers.

The programme will appear in full in to-morrow's paper.

THE RING ON EXHIBITION

There is certainly going to be some trouble ahead of the judges who are to decide the slogan contest now being conducted by the Examiner for Mr. C. R. Elliott, of the International College of Ophthalmology. The citizens seem to have taken hold of the idea in the proper spirit and several have spoken to the Examiner in very complimentary terms about the matter. One gentleman pointed out that with so many working to select a proper slogan there should be no difficulty in deciding upon one that could be used to advantage in advertising the city. The idea is to get a phrase that is short, and catchy, with a swing to it that attracts attention. The shorter the better, as long as it points out advantages that Peterborough enjoys.

The ring that is offered as the prize has arrived and is on exhibition in the window of McDermid & Jury's store, where it has attracted much attention to-day. It is well worth winning. The contest will not close until 8 o'clock on Friday evening of this week and the result will be announced in Saturday's Examiner.

Pork and Beans

Apart altogether from their cheapness everybody likes Clark's Pork and Beans. CLARK'S BAKED BEANS are of course the finest made, the most appetizing and most satisfying. The most fastidious New Englander would endorse them as being "just as good as we can make them." Tnd they cost only a fraction of what meat would cost.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mr. Alfred Sheward Celebrated His Thirty-ninth Birthday.

On Saturday evening, the 23rd inst., at 108 Lansdowne street, Mr. Alfred Sheward invited his friends together to celebrate his 39th birthday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Giles, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Madely, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Farr, Mr. and Mrs. George Skelding, Mr. Sydney Yarrington, Mr. Thos. Carrol, Mr. Thomas Holyman, Mr. Stephen Curtis, Mr. Harry Bayes, Mr. Reuben Moriarty, Mr. Thomas Cook, Mr. Walter Farr, Mr. Harold Farr, Mr. Arthur Farr, including Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sheward, Miss Rose Sheward, Miss Carrie Sheward and Miss Dorothy Phillips. Mr. Alfred Giles presided, and opened the evening by wishing Mr. Sheward many happy returns of the day, which was heartily responded to, after which Mr. S. Yarrington, Mr. G. Skelding, Mr. A. Sheward, Mr. T. Carrol, Mrs. A. Giles, Mr. H. Bayes and others made the evening pleasant with song and music, which was enjoyed immensely by the company. The evening closed with Auld Lang Syne, God Save The King, and the Maple Leaf.

NO LICENSE

East Peterborough Commissioners Decide Not to Grant One to South Beach.

The License Commissioners for East Peterborough met on Saturday and considered the applications for renewal of licenses and for new licenses. The application of the South Beach resort for a license was considered, but the Commissioners decided that they would not grant the license. No change was made in the other licenses in the district.

NEW STONY LAKE BOAT HAS BEEN LAUNCHED

Islanda Replacing Old Majestic—Will be Ready for Service Shortly and Will be a Creditable Addition to Fleet.

NAVIGATION NOTES

The "Islanda" the new steamer of the Stony Lake Navigation Company's fleet, built to replace the popular "Majestic" was launched on Thursday last and will soon be ready for service. The new craft forms a notable addition to the company's line of steamers as she is commodious, fast and handsome in her lines and in her fittings. The "Islanda" will carry 225 passengers comfortably. She is finished in panel effect and will be very attractive in appearance. She will have a dining-room, a feature that was lacking in the "Majestic" and her stern cabin will be handsomely fitted out in panels and mirrors while her equipment includes two lavatories coveniently situated.

The crew of the "Majestic" with the exception of Mate Billy Copperthwaite will be in charge of the new boat. Capt. Pat Young will be in command with Fred Young as engineer, Pete Ayotte and a mate yet to be selected will complete the crew. The personnel of the other crews will be as follows: "Stoney Lake" Capt. W. Scollard, mate Sam Duval, engineer W. Gilman. "Empress" Capt. Billy Robinson, mate and purser, Fred Holland, engineer Ed. Condin.

The "Stoney Lake" will make a bid for the excursion trade from Peterborough and as the big steamer has been fitted up with a search-light and electric lights she will be in much better condition for the Otonabee river trip.

So far no change has been made in the schedule by which the boats will run and it is altogether likely that the "Islanda" will have the same route as the "Majestic."

DONATIONS FOR CHIMES

Rev. Canon Davidson has asked the Examiner to acknowledge the following subscriptions from people living outside of Peterborough for the Chimes Fund, which were received to-day:

Mrs. B. M. Dennistoun, Winnipeg, $25.00.
Mr. W. D. Parker, Montreal, $25.00.
Mr. A. A. Hollingshead, Toronto, $25.00.
Mr. Harry Rush, Jr., Montreal, $10.00.

This generosity on the part of former citizens no longer connected with Peterborough, is warmly appreciated by the committee.

FRASERVILLE NEWS

Interesting Budget of Personals and Other Items.

Examiner Special.

Fraserville, Ont., April 26.—Miss Addie Clayton, of Osaca, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cruikshank.

CURING CATARRH

Accept Our Advice and Try This Remedy at Our Risk.

Catarrh is a disease of the mucous membrane. The mucous membrane is, one may say, the interior lining of the body. Catarrh therefore may exist in any part of the system.

When the catarrhal poison attacks the mucous membrane, inflammation and congestion are produced and nature fails to throw off the accumulated poisons. The organ which has been afflicted ceases to perform its proper function as nature intended it should. The result is, complication upon complication, which may lead to other even more serious afflictions.

We honestly believe Rexall Mucu Tone will do wonders toward overcoming catarrh. It is made from the prescription of an eminent physician who made a long study of catarrh, and his great success with this remedy was an enviable one.

We want you if you are a sufferer from catarrh in any form, to give Rexall Mucu-Tone a thorough trial. Use it with regularity and persistency for a reasonable time, then if you are not satisfied, come back and tell us, and without question or formality we will hand back to you every cent you paid us. This is certainly the fairest offer that anyone could make and should attest our sincerity of purpose. It comes in two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain it only at our store.—The Rexall Store, McDermid & Jury, corner George and Charlotte streets.

TO CUT HIS THROAT

Frank Johnston, It is Said, Contemplated Suicide.

Frank Johnston, a Halifax young man, while under the influence of liquor, last night, wandered to the river at a point near the C. P. R. bridge, and, it is said, was preparing to commit suicide by cutting his throat with a razor he carried with him, when his actions were noticed, and the police notified. P. C. McGinty hurried down to the spot and arrested Johnston before he had made up his mind to slash himself. Only the intervention of the officer, it is said, prevented the man from at least seriously injuring himself. Johnston appeared before Magistrate Dumble at the police court this morning on a charge of being drunk and was allowed to go by his Worship with a caustic warning to turn over a new leaf.

Don't forget the two concerts marking the opening of the new T.A.S. Hall on Simcoe Street, on the evenings of Wednesday and Thursday, April 27th and 28th. Miss Margaret Mcinnis, Scottish Australian Vocalist. All seats reserved. Plan now open at Mr. Lynch's Drug Store. Tickets 50c and $1.00. 2d94

IMMIGRATION OFFICE WAS A BUSY PLACE FOR AWHILE THIS MORNING

Sixteen New Arrivals Landed at Peterborough—Came Over on the Victorian and Mongolian—Two Fine Robust Youths Among Them.

WERE QUICKLY PLACED

The local immigration officer's office on Water street was a busy place this morning when a reporter called. Several young Englishmen with numerous bags and boxes, were seated around the front part, awaiting instructions to go to the country. The steamship "Victorian" arrived in St. John's on Saturday night, and sixteen of its passengers arrived in Peterborough on the C.P.R. early this morning. The two young boys referred to in Saturday's paper, as being sent out here by their mother, are amongst the new arrivals. It certainly goes to show that the future of the grain-growing and milling industry will be the greatest of all our industries. The Maple Leaf Milling Company would seem to be starting their enlarged operations at a most opportune time.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

Plan to enjoy the Y. W. C. A. Gymnasium closing exhibition and concert to be given in the Collegiate Assembly Hall, Friday evening.

Eighteen choice numbers appear on the programme representing the work done during the past season by the different classes, covering club and dumbbell exercises, military drills, fancy marches, artistic drills in Swedish, Spanish, Japanese and other fancy costumes.

Swedish folk and classic dancing by the juniors will be a special feature. There will also be vocal numbers.

The programme will appear in full in to-morrow's paper.

Pork and Beans

Apart altogether from their cheapness everybody likes Clark's Pork and Beans. CLARK'S BAKED BEANS are of course the finest made, the most appetizing and most satisfying. The most fastidious New Englander would endorse them as being "just as good as we can make them." Tnd they cost only a traction of what meat would cost.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mr. Alfred Sheward Celebrated His Thirty-ninth Birthday.

On Saturday evening, the 23rd inst., at 108 Lansdowne street, Mr. Alfred Sheward invited his friends together to celebrate his 39th birthday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Giles, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Madely, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Farr, Mr. and Mrs. George Skelding, Mr. Sydney Yarrington, Mr. Thos. Carrol, Mr. Thomas Holyman, Mr. Stephen Curtis, Mr. Harry Bayes, Mr. Reuben Moriarty, Mr. Thomas Cook, Mr. Walter Farr, Mr. Harold Farr, Mr. Arthur Farr, including Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sheward, Miss Rose Sheward, Miss Carrie Sheward and Miss Dorothy Phillips. Mr. Alfred Giles presided, and opened the evening by wishing Mr. Sheward many happy returns of the day, which was heartily responded to, after which Mr. S. Yarrington, Mr. G. Skelding, Mr. A. Sheward, Mr. T. Carrol, Mrs. A. Giles, Mr. H. Bayes and others made the evening pleasant with song and music, which was enjoyed immensely by the company. The evening closed with Auld Lang Syne, God Save The King, and the Maple Leaf.

NO LICENSE

East Peterborough Commissioners Decide Not to Grant One to South Beach.

The License Commissioners for East Peterborough met on Saturday and considered the applications for renewal of licenses and for new licenses. The application of the South Beach resort for a license was considered. but the Commissioners decided that they would not grant the license. No change was made in the other licenses in the district.

NEW STONY LAKE BOAT HAS BEEN LAUNCHED

Islands Replacing Old Majestic—Will be Ready for Service Shortly and Will be a Creditable Addition to Fleet.

NAVIGATION NOTES

The "Islands" the new steamer of the Stony Lake Navigation Company's fleet, built to replace the popular "Majestic" was launched on Thursday last and will soon be ready for service. The new craft forms a notable addition to the company's line of steamers as she is commodious, fast and handsome in her lines and in her fittings. The "Islands" will carry 225 passengers comfortably. She is finished in panel effect and will be very attractive in appearance. She will have a dining-room, a feature that was lacking in the "Majestic" and her stern cabin will be handsomely fitted out in panels and mirrors while her equipment includes two lavatories conveniently situated.

The crew of the "Majestic" with the exception of Mate Billy Copperthwaite will be in charge of the new boat. Capt. Pat Young will be in command with Fred Young as engineer, Pete Ayotte and a mate yet to be selected will complete the crew. The personnel of the other crews will be as follows: "Stoney Lake" Capt. W. Scollard, mate Sam Duval, engineer W. Gilman. "Empress" Capt. Billy Robinson, mate and purser, Fred Holland, engineer Ed. Condin.

The "Stoney Lake" will make a bid for the excursion trade from Peterborough and as the big steamer has been fitted up with a search-light and electric lights she will be in much better condition for the Otonabee river trip.

So far no change has been made in the schedule by which the boats will run and it is altogether likely that the "Islands" will have the same route as the "Majestic."

DONATIONS FOR CHIMES

Rev. Canon Davidson has asked the Examiner to acknowledge the following subscriptions from people living outside of Peterborough for the Chimes Fund, which were received to-day:

Mrs. R. M. Dennistoun, Winnipeg, $25.00.
Mr. W. D. Parker, Montreal. $25.00.
Mr. A. A. Hollingshead, Toronto, $25.00.
Mr. Harry Rush, Jr., Montreal. $10.00.

This generosity on the part of former citizens no longer connected with Peterborough, is warmly appreciated by the committee.

CURING CATARRH

Accept Our Advice and Try This Remedy at Our Risk.

Catarrh is a disease of the mucous membrane. The mucous membrane is, one may say, the interior lining of the body. Catarrh therefore may exist in any part of the system.

When the catarrhal poison attacks the mucous membrane, inflammation and congestion are produced and nature fails to throw off the accumulated poisons. The organ which has been afflicted ceases to perform its proper function as nature intended it should. The result is, complication upon complication, which may lead to other even more serious afflictions.

We honestly believe Rexall Mucu Tone will do wonders toward overcoming catarrh. It is made from the prescription of an eminent physician who made a long study of catarrh, and his great success with this remedy was an enviable one.

We want you if you are a sufferer from catarrh in any form, to give Rexall Mucu-Tone a thorough trial. Use it with regularity and persistency for a reasonable time, then if you are not satisfied, come back and tell us, and without question or formality we will hand back to you every cent you paid us. This is certainly the fairest offer that anyone could make and should attest our sincerity of purpose. It comes in two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain it only at our store,—The Rexall Store, McDermid & Jury, corner George and Charlotte streets.

TO CUT HIS THROAT

Frank Johnston, It is Said, Contemplated Suicide.

Frank Johnston, a Halifax young man, while under the influence of liquor, last night, wandered to the river at a point near the C. P. R. bridge, and, it is said, was preparing to commit suicide by cutting his throat with a razor he carried with him, when his actions were noticed, and the police notified. P. C. McGinty hurried down to the spot and arrested Johnston before he had made up his mind to slash himself. Only the intervention of the officer, it is said, prevented the man from at least seriously injuring himself. Johnston appeared before Magistrate Dumble at the police court this morning on a charge of being drunk and was allowed to go by his Worship with a caustic warning to turn over a new leaf.

PROGRESS OF CANADIAN TRADE.

The expansion of Canadian trade continues to surpass all previous records. For the twelve months, ended. February 28th, 1910, the aggregate trade of Canada was $663,749,258. This total is $21,021,203, in advance of that of the year ending Feb. 28, 1908, when it was $642,728,055. The year 1908 is selected for comparison, because it was the greatest year in the history of Canadian trade. A still further analysis and comparison of trade figures will be interesting. It is to be noted that in the above, in the twelve months' period ended Feb. 28, 1900. the exports of merchandise showed an increase of $34,797,696, or from $260.-180,167 to $294,977,863; the increase in imports for the same period was $2,116,197, or from $350,170,830 to $360,287,027. It will also be noticed that the figures for the eleven months ended last February increased considerably over the same period in 1908. The total trade in merchandise increased from $567,064,221 in 1908, to $602,308,775 in 1910, being an increase of $35,224,554. Including coin and bullion it will be seen that the total trade of Canada during the eleven months' period mentioned, increased from $589,775,974 to $610,577,981. The exports during the same twelve months included those of the mine. $39,098,371, as against agricultural products $89,084,732, showing a fifty per cent. lead on the products of the farm, which is and will always remain our great mine of wealth.

CANADIAN RESOURCES AND ENTERPRISE.

There is no doubt of the extent and variety of the national resources of Canada and, no doubt of the enterprise of her people in some directions. We have some idea, but a faint one, of the extent and value of our agricultural resources. We have some idea but a still ineffective and slight knowledge of our mineral deposits. We have, however, great unexplored regions which are self evidently unsuited to any considerable extent of agricultural operations. The opening up of the northern portions of Quebec and Ontario by the Transcontinental has brought results in mineral discoveries which are promises of still greater deposits. We have an immense sweep to the north in the vicinity of Hudson Bay, which is a veritable terra incognita. Only a few days ago the Provincial Treasurer of Quebec, in the course of an address, said that from his intimate knowledge of and association with the Hudson Bay employees, he had learned that Ungava, which lies entirely north of the northern boundary of Quebec, was marvellously rich in minerals of all sorts. On one river alone there was a cataract capable of developing nine millions horse power, which will mean much in the electric smelting of iron ore which exists in mountains in the immediate neighbourhood, and not far away there is a mountain of practically pure mica. Ungava encloses Hudson Bay on the east, and is about a million square miles in area. It is unorganized and practically unexplored Canadian territory, evidently abounding in mineral wealth. It is a type of many other regions of Canada, still unexplored, which, judging from precedent, will be found full of wealth. There is, therefore, apparently no limit to the potentiality of Canada, and it depends upon Canadian enterprise to solve the problem of its most profitable economic realization.

Very practically associated with the possession and development of Canadian resources is the question of finding a market for them. In this direction we are reaching out bravely, but there is much to be accomplished, in this direction. There is immense opportunity for the development of trade within the Empire. Mr. W. R. Innes. freight traffic manager of the C. P. R., has just returned from the West Indies, and states that Great Britain is losing some of her trade with these islands and that Canada is making very little effort to secure trade that naturally belongs to the Dominion. These islands supply in abundance what we cannot produce and conversely we grow or produce a great deal that they cannot produce and badly need. It becomes incumbent upon Canadian business men to dispel and practically, too, the idea which Mr. Innes says, prevails among West India business men that Canadian business methods are unprogressive and unenterprising.

This may not be the fact; but Canadians have doubtless been too busy developing their internal resources to properly organize their export trade. And development of these will not progress far without the acquirement of markets. To secure these favourable tariffs and shipping subsidies are not all that is required. We must get the trade by other methods—by studying the needs of new markets and making systematic and intelligent methods to supply them.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

From an interior report of the Militia Counoil on the Training of the Militia, it is learned that during the year 1909, the number of the active militia receiving training was: Officers, 2,904; non-commissioned officers and men 33,320; a total of 36,224.

When we were told that last year over 150 millions of British capital was invested in Canada in various forms. we thought we were doing well, but we are getting greater actual and potential wealth through immigration. It is estimated that incoming immigrants this year will bring into Canada an aggregate capital of 150 millions. not to speak of the value of added citizenship, to the number of perhaps 300,000, or even 400,000, if the rate of March last, 33,065 is kept up.

CENSUS IN TWO COUNTRIES.

(Toronto Star)

The United States census officials are entering upon their duties and preliminary steps are being taken for the taking of the Canadian census of 1911. The population of the United States is now estimated at 92,000,000: the population of Canada in 1911 will be between 7,500,000 and 8,000,000, so that the two countries together are now nearing the hundred million mark. A century ago the combined population was under eight millions.

It has been said that the history of Canada in the twentieth century will be like that of the United States in the nineteenth, and statistics seem to support that view. The population of the United States in 1800 was 5,308,-483; the population of Canada in 1901 was 5,371,315. In the last ten years Canada has made more rapid growth than did the United States in the first ten years of the nineteenth century.

At this rate we might expect to exceed even Lord Strathcona's estimate of a population of eighty millions for Canada in the year 2,000. But there are elements here too delicate to be settled by arithmetic. We have not yet the material for judging whether Canada, mile for mile, will support as large a population as that of the United States. All we know is that history has been against the sceptics. Region after region of Canada, at one time pronounced barren or too cold for habitation, has been opened up to settlement.

No one, however, can predict the migrations and shiftings of population that may take place during the coming century, over two countries situated like Canada and the United States To migrate from one country to the other is not a very formidable undertaking. The migrant goes among people who speak his own language, and whose customs and institutions are not very different from those in which he has been trained. Until recent years there was a great exodus of Canadians to the United States. Within the last decade there has been a great movement of American farmers to the Canadian West. The Canadian and the American alike seem to have accepted the new conditions cheerfully.

There may be another migration southward some day, but for a long time the flow is likely to be from the more densely populated to the more sparsely populated country. While the United States in the nineteenth century had Europe to draw from, Canada draws not only from that source, but from the United States itself, and the Republic is beginning to feel some anxiety over the loss of so large a portion of its farming population.

CANADIAN PLAYS THE GOOD SAMARITAN

wants to cure his friends

Mr. Everett L. Holland, a well-known Canadian, moved to the United States some time ago. The change of climate brought on a serious and painful illness, which three physicians said was Stone in the Kidneys, but were unable to relieve his terrible sufferings.

In his agony Mr. Holland thought of an old and reliable remedy which had a great reputation in his Canadian home—the famous Gin Pills.

He wrote to a former neighbor and secured a supply. On March 20th, last, Mr. Holland in a letter to the National Drug & Chemical Co., Toronto, said: "I am well."

He is now anxious to have Gin Pills put on sale in the United States in order to cure his new friends of Kidney and Bladder Troubles.

If you have any Kidney or Bladder Trouble take Gin Pills and we guarantee the cure or your money refunded.

Gin Pills are sold by all dealers at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50. In order to show our faith in these pills, we will send you a free sample on request. National Drug & Chemical Co Dept. B. Toronto. 8

INTERESTING DEMONSTRATION OF THE VACUUM CLEANER

Crowds Watch the Operations by the Collier Electric Co. in the Peterborough Hardware Co's Store on Saturday Night.

On Saturday last The Collier Electric Co., Limited, gave a unique demonstration of the working of the electric Vacuum Cleaner in the window of the Peterborough Hardware Co., Toronto. The demonstration proved exceedingly interesting as a large crowd continually filled the front of the store and the sidewalk. while the machine was in operation.

Cleaning houses by the vacuum method is one of the most recent inventions, and to those who had never witnessed the operation, the sight was both interesting and instructive.

This machine was a large and very powerful one, operated by electricity. and the manner in which it seemed to "eat dirt" was quite marvellous. Rags, matches, nails, tacks, pins, etc.. flew in to the floor tool as though the monster had an insatiable appetite. and was not all particular as to the nature of its food. Flour and fine dirt was spread upon a velvet carpet. and ground into the meshes by trampling and rubbing. A broom simply could not recover such material, but the vacuum cleaner sucked all out in marvellous style.

60,000 cubic inches of air per minute goes through the "Invincible" as the machine is called. As this is drawn through the carpet, all the fine dirt which has found its way down through to the floor, is drawn back through the carpet again and at the same time the great volume of air rushing through the meshes not only cleanses but aerates.

In the window were displayed several piles of dust and dirt taken from various homes in the city, no names. of course, being mentioned. One pile of dirt weighed some eight pounds. and this was said to have been taken from 85 yards of carpet from one house. People never knew how dirty their carpets were until a vacuum cleaner brought out all the dirt to one heap.

Mr. Collier was asked if such a method was at all injurious to the carpet. The reply was an assurance that the vacuum principle was not only non-injurious, but proved far less harmful than the ordinary beating method. And, besides, cleansing the carpet, the vacuum method makes the nap or pile stand up properly, and thus freshens its appearance wonderfully.

The Collier Electric Co., Limited. not only sell these vacuum cleaners, but contract to clean carpets as they are on the floor in the home. As the rate is on the basis of the square yard the operation is done at a nominal price and should prove an economical matter in contrast to the present expensive method of tearing up the carpets and hiring men to beat them.

POST CARD COLUMN.

Editor Post Card Column.

Dear Sir,—In your issue of Feb. 27. 1909, you informed your readers that Mr. J. H. Larmonth had been to Chicago to see Mr. Stewart for the special purpose of considering the Street Railway extension. He reported that the Company intended raising $400,000 for that purpose, but they could not promise to commence the work before May 14th, 1909. The C. G. E. red line was to be extended south to Albert street, then west to the boundary. and south past St. Peter's cemetery. Will Mr. Larmonth kindly inform your readers how soon they may expect those promises to be fulfilled.

HOW TO GROW CANNAS.

Planning the Bed—Some Famous Types—To Secure Early Flowers.

On account of their free flowering habit and ease of culture the cannas are general favorites for summer bedding purposes. There are two types, the green leaved and the red leaved. The green leaved varieties are cultivated for their flowers, while the red leaved type is grown primarily for the broad, richly colored leaves. The canna is useful as a bedding plant rather than as a cut flower, as the flowers are fragile and soon perish when cut.

One type known as the orchid flowering produces unusually large blossoms. The Austria and Italia are good examples.

In color the cannas ranges from cardinal to yellow, including every stage of intergradation. In some varieties, as the Florence Vaughan, the body color of the petals is a deep red, scattered through which are bright orange dots.

The canna was developed and improved by a Frenchman of the name of Crosy. One of the most widely known varieties is the Mme. Crosy, introduced by him and named in honor of his wife. The cannas ranges from two to six feet in height. In arranging a bed care should be taken to have the taller kinds in the center, tapering down toward the border. Sam Trelease is one of the dwarfest forms and an excellent variety for the outside row. For a large bed a single plant of the red leaved caster bean may be used for the center. Next to this place the taller variety of cannas, next by a row of the red leaved canna, such as Black Beauty. Follow the last row of cannas with the scarlet sage, Salvia splendens, and for the border next to grass there is nothing superior to the candytuft or the variegated leaved geraniums, Mme. Sellerio. The size of the bed should be proportionate to the area of the lawn.

The canna requires a rich, moist, well drained soil. This may be secured by the application of well rotted manure or nitrate of soda.

The propagation of the canna is very simple. When the frosts come on the tops are cut back and the clumps lifted with as much soil as will conveniently adhere. These clumps are closely packed on shelves or in boxes and stored in the cellar at about the temperature required for the potato. The next spring the clumps are subdivided into pieces three-fourths of an inch long and having one or two strong eyes to each piece. To secure early flowers the eyes should be started in a hotbed or window box; otherwise they may be planted directly in the bed. Aside from cultivating and watering, the one point of importance is to keep the seed pods cut away. As with all flowering plants, the one purpose of the flower is that of reproduction. If the seed pods are cut away as soon as the flowers wither they continue this effort indefinitely; otherwise flowering ceases with the maturing of the first crop of seed. The new flower stalk appears at the last joint; hence in removing the old stalk the cut should be made above the joint.

Making Sparows Into Canaries.

Some strange ways of "raising the wind" are adopted, and the following case is certainly one of them. One day recently a detective noticed two men named Hall and Franklin, endeavoring to sell what appeared to be a fine gold finch in the street in King's Cross, London, asking half-a-crown for the songster. When he spoke to Hall the latter threw the bird into the air, but the bird killed itself by flying into a shop and was picked up by the officer.

"It was actually a greenfinch, worth 3d.," said the detective at the Police Court, when Hall and Franklin were remanded on a charge of loitering. "Hall's pockets were full of color used to convert sparrows into canaries, and he also had some ochre, which he used to bronze birds' heads like those of mule canaries."

Peterborough's Destiny

Is Peterborough destined to become a large city? Most intelligent people will answer yes, and as most of the large factories, with large churches and schools, have built and are building south, and as population is following rapidly in the same direction, I am safely within bounds when I say that my Lots afford the public for homes or investment the safest and by far the most profitable Savings Bank for a little of their money.

Buy land in the way of a growing city and you must make money, and the more you buy the more you will make. Wage earners can you save $1.25 per week? If yes you can buy from me. My terms $10 down, and $5 monthly. Call for particulars. Prices will soon be higher.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

The Maple Leafs Were Badly Beaten By Birds

Kelleyites Could Not Connect With Donnelly's Curves While McGinley Was Bumped When Hits Meant Runs.

Baltimore, Md., April 25.—It was a case of that lucky seventh inning to-day and the Orioles profited by it, while Manager Joe eKlly's bunch of Canucks from Toronto were the losers. Although the Orioles already had the game in hand with the five Birds that flitted across the dish in the seventh session, they sewed it up for keeps. The final score was 8 to 1, and while McGinley was not hit as hard as the total runs might indicate, Baltimore's hinglers with scarcely an exception, came at times when hits meant runs.

Toronto got right after Donnelly in the first inning but it was merely a fflash, for the husky Oriole twirler hung up the "nothing doing" sign after the initial session, and only two hits were made in the following eight innings. McDonald's single over second, Shaw's sacrifice and Grimshaw's three-bagger netted teh only run which the Leafs could get over the plate In the third McGinley got a life through Hooper's error and was sacrificed to the middle station, but the next two batters went out in order.

In the fourth and ninth innings Toronto had a man on first with none out, but could not work him around any farther than second. The Orioles got busy in the first inning. Slagle was passed and took second on Clancy's out. Hall smacked a hot one into centre which sent Slagle across with Baltimore's first score. After Catiz was out in the second Hooper was safe on a Texas Leaguer into right field, which both Grimshaw and Fitzpatrick went after. Hooper went to second on Byers' out and scored when Donnelly singled over second. The batfeast, however, came in the seventh, and the Birds took McGinley's measure. Byers made his first hit of the season when he singled safely towards third. Donnelly sacrificed and McGinley attempted to get Byers at second. Slagle dropped down a bunt and the sacks were filled. Clancy hit a nasty one at Fitzpatrick, who threw a little wild and Byers was safe at home. Hall skied to Vaughn. Walsh met one that travelled right on a dead line to left garden and Donnelly and Slagle romped home while Clancy went to third and eWish to second on the throw in.

After this McGinley was derricked and Gurney took up the burden of stopping the fusilade of bingles. Schmidt smacked a single to right and Clancy and Walsh ambled home. Catiz forced Schmidt at second and stole a moment later, but Hooper whiffed.

Tunis F. Dean, secretary of the Toronto team, arrived here to-day to take up his work. He came from New York, where Miss Blanche Bates closed her season Saturday night. He has been her manager for two seasons. The score:

ON THE ROAD IN 1751

HOW THE SEIGNIEURS TRAVELED IN NEW FRANCE.

When Marquis Duquesne Went From Quebec to Montreal a Century and a Half Ago the Old City Turned Out En Masse to Say Good-bye—Huge Cavalcade Needed to Take Him and Nine Attaches.

In some respects this age is simpler than were the times of the past, in other respects life is much more complex than it was a generation or two ago. The latter is true of what may be called the industrial side of life in which there is such a mingling of varied interests and such a diversity of services.

It is simpler, in one respect at least, in what may be called the externals, in the stage settings amidst which it is played, in the manner in which men go up and down the various paths of occupation, discharge their duties and perform their work.

There are still formal and sometimes elaborate ceremonies, but today they are not the picture but only the frame.

The picture consists in the doing the thing for which the office or position really exists.

A Prime Minister goes about his work like an ordinary private man of affairs, and even a governor-general moves here and there throughout the country over which he rules with the least possible display in keeping with his high office, and often with as much simplicity as would be shown by any citizen of independent means in his travels either for pleasure or business.

Perhaps this in part is due to the democratic spirit of the age, perhaps in part to the pace at which we live and the little time there is available for what may be called "fuss and feathers."

This becomes more conspicuous when the present is contrasted with conditions of the past, and thanks to the journals of a Breton military man, who lived in Canada a little more than a century and a half ago, a comparison may be made of the way in which things are done to-day with the way of the old regime when Canada, particularly east on the St. Lawrence valley and her entire population was scarcely equal to that of a present day city of the second class.

In 1751, when the Marquis Duquesne came out as governor, the clouds were lowering over Canada and New England, and only four years later they broke in that storm of war destined to make such great changes on the map of North America.

The coming storm was at that time foreseen and preparation was made to meet it. Among the military men whom at about this time France sent out to her American colonies was Col. Franquet, Chief Engineer of Fortifications.

He was first employed at Louisbourg, Cape Breton, where he planned and directed the construction of those fortifications which eight years later the British army under Amherst and Wolfe battered down after a long and trying siege. His work at Louisbourg finished, he crossed over to Isle St. Jean, now Prince Edward Island. Then he came on to Quebec and what he saw there and in other parts of Canada he set down with considerable literary merit and which throw sidelights upon an interesting chapter in Canadian history. Thanks to the Annuaire de l'Institute Canadian for the year 1889, the memoirs of Col. Franquet have been made accessible to the student of history, and in his charming sketches Sir James Lemoine of Spencer Grange has given to his English readers a number of Franquet's most interesting chapters.

One tells of a mid-winter journey formed by Marquis Duquesne and party from Quebec to Montreal, and from it one can learn how the governor of Canada traveled one hundred and fifty-three years ago.

"Each year," writes Franquet, "it is customary, nay necessary, that the general in the colony should go to Montreal in January, returning to Quebec in the following August." He then gives a summary of the business to be transacted at Montreal, selecting officers to command at the King's posts in the upper country, providing the posts with soldiers, arms and stores, to issue permits to traders, to receive the delegates from the Indian tribes and so forth.

In 1753 Duquesne fixed January 14th as the day for his departure from Quebec, and with him were to go nine officers as a military staff.

The setting out of the vice-regal expedition for Montreal was a great event in the Ancient Capital, participated in by the elite of Quebec society and witnessed by the greater part of the city's population.

In the official company assembled to see the governor off was the notorious but then powerful Intendant Bigot who, to use the popular term of to-day, was the great grafter of that administration. Bigot was to accompany the governor as far as Pointe-aux-Trembles, twenty miles above Quebec, and with him he was taking a party of ladies and gentlemen. All were to be Bigot's guests at dinner that day and at breakfast the following morning.

At ten o'clock in the forenoon of the day appointed for the departure of the governor a gay cavalcade of single sleighs and tandems assembled before the Chateau St. Louis, where the great marquis held his little court. Franquet relates that it was a bitterly cold morning, with howling wind and driving snow. So strong and boisterous was the gale that its roar almost drowned the salvo of guns fired from the fort as the governor and party drove through St. Louis Gate. The procession of sleighs filled with the high dignitaries of the colony and the leaders of Quebec's gay society, followed the Ste. Foy road until it reached the heights of Cap Rouge, where the road skirted the hill. Here there was danger of being upset and thrown into the valley below; and so the road was lined with trees to keep the sleighs from rolling down the hill.

At St. Augustine the party took the ice of the St. Lawrence for a time, and then returning to the land where they found the roads very heavy. Here in his narrative, Franquet diverges in order to tell what the habitants should do in order to make the winter roads passable.

Their front roads they should shovel out and mark with evergreen boughs to guide the traveler after storms.

It was the duty of the Grand Voyer to look after the country roads, and this office continued down to 1840, when municipal government was established and the roads passed to the jurisdiction of the parish authorities.

In due time the first stage of the journey, a drive of twenty-five miles, was completed by the arrival of the party at Pointe-aux-Trembles, where the night was spent. The vice-regal party drew up at the door of the Convent of the Nuns of the Congregation, founded there in 1713, and then in charge of two sisters. The governor made the convent his headquarters and his followers were lodged in the neighboring buildings. Col. Franquet was the guest of the cure, Rev. Messire Chartier de Lotbiniere, whose sister-in-law was one of the party. The governor also was given a bed at the presbytery, but his chef and staff were installed in the convent kitchen where they prepared supper which was served at ten o'clock, after which all retired.

The trained eye of the soldier Franquet did not fail to notice the guard of honor that through the long and bitterly cold January night stood guard around the presbytery in which the governor was lodged. This guard consisted of thirty of the local militia commanded by the parish captain. When the party entered the village the militia lined the street so far as their numbers would permit, then they did sentry duty during the night, and when the governor set out the following morning they were dismissed, glad to return to their fireides and breakfast. At every village in which the governor lodged on his journey to Montreal this would be repeated so that a winter visit from the great marquis was not an unalloyed pleasure to the local militia in the rural parishes.

At nine o'clock in the morning his excellency set out from Pointe-aux-Trembles, his staff consisting [illegible] guards; Mesnilles, his secretary, his body servants and two soldiers. Six carrioles loaded with baggage preceded the governor's sleigh to beat the road.

The governor gone, the Intendant Bigot became the head of the gay party from Quebec, that proceeded no farther than Pointe-aux-Trembles. Bigot's official duties were evidently not pressing, for at his suggestion the company decided to remain another day and night at the village before setting out for Quebec. He had made ample provision for the stay, his servants having brought with them large supplies of good things for the table. Much of the time was spent in gambling—"l'on y joua beaucoup," writes Franquet, and the whole entertainment was on the same elegant style as those for which Bigot's palace in Quebec was so famous.

On the following day the cavalcade returned to Quebec, the only stop that was made being at the ferryman's house at St. Augustine to enable the ladies to go in and warm themselves, as the weather was still very cold.

Quebec was reached at four o'clock in the afternoon, the party driving to Madame Peau's mansion in St. Louis street, where a sumptuous meal awaited them, the gathering breaking up at ten o'clock in the evening. Such was a winter "partie de plaisir" at Quebec in 1753, participated in by the governor of New France, several of his highest officials and the gayest set of the society of the capital.

Two years later the storm clouds burst and the colony was plunged into war, and as events proved, the last that France fought in this part of the world. It may be that seeing the coming storm and knowing how ill prepared the colony was to meet it, the Marquis Duquesne asked for his recall in 1754, the year following this journey to Montreal, so as to be relieved of the responsibility of facing the crisis.

Could Not Sleep.

DOCTOR SAID HEART AND NERVES WERE RESPONSIBLE.

There is many a man and woman tossing night after night upon a sleepless bed.

Their eyes do not close in the sweet and refreshing repose that comes to those whose heart and nerves are right. Some constitutional disturbance, worry or disease has so debilitated and irritated the nervous system, that it cannot be quieted and causes nightmare, bad dreams, starting in the sleep, twitching of the muscles, restlessness, etc.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are a specific for all people troubled in this way. They have a soothing and calming effect on the nervous system.

Mrs. Calvin Stark, Rosemore, Ont., writes:—"About two years ago I began to be troubled with a smothering sensation at night when I would lie down. I got so bad I could not sleep in the dark, and would have to sit up and rub my limbs, they would become so numb. My doctor said my heart and nerves were responsible. I saw Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills advertised and got a box to try them. I took three boxes and can now lie down and sleep without the light burning and can rest well. I can recommend them highly to all nervous and run down women."

Price, 50 cents per box or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Hullo!

One of the most remarkable of living inventors, Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, to whom we are indebted for the telephone, is sixty-three years old this month. What makes so rare the case of the man who added the telephone to our every-day utilities, who produced the device which above all others has made possible the annihilation of space, is the fact that the invention of the telephone was the result of sound reasoning and observation, and that soon after its inventor had made the epoch-opening contribution to the progress of the human race, Mr. Bell retired and left to others the opportunity which he had provided. The invention of the telephone was something more than a prodigy of skill. Bell himself says: "When I began my experiments upon the telephone I had no scientific knowledge of electricity. I knew practically nothing about it, and had it been otherwise I could never have made the discoveries which culminated in my success. I don't believe any electrician could have invented the telephone." Others preceded him in this line of research and experiment, but Bell succeeded where trained scientists had failed and this fact proves the soundness of his opinion.

Thousands of Women feel Just Like this.

When it seems as if you simply could not bear up any longer it is high time to look for the cause of the trouble—and the remedy. In an astonishingly large number of cases the real cause of woman's misery is found to be constipation, and the remedy that always cures is Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Neglect of the daily movement of the bowels, so necessary to health, soon poisons the whole system from the impurities retained in the body. Headaches, indigestion, biliousness and lassitude follow, and often more serious female disorders are brought on or aggravated.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills not only regulate the bowels, but they stimulate kidneys and skin as well to throw off waste matter and purify the blood. The result is quickly apparent in the disappearance of the headaches and biliousness, and the return of health and vigor. Thousands of women all over the world owe their present good health to Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Well Deserved Rebuke By Hon. Mr. Aylesworth

To Mr. Crothers, Conservative Member for West Elgin, for Having Made Attack Upon the Canadian Judiciary---Will Long be Remembered and a Feature of the House of Commons.

The well deserved rebuke administered by Hon. Mr. Aylesworth, minister of justice, to Mr. Crothers, Conservative member for West Elgin, for insulting the Canadian judiciary will long be remembered as a feature of this parliament.

Insult to Judges

Mr. Crothers was speaking on the subject of surrender of the St. Peter's Indian reserve in Manitoba, and realizing his inability to advance any argument in support of a criticism of the transaction, he took occasion in a most contemptible manner to brand the Chief Justices of Canada as being partisan and ignorant, unjust and dishonest.

The following are the exact words used by Mr. Crothers and they may be found in Hansard on page 7299, April 14:—

The Insult Verbatim

"But I have lived long enough to know that a chief justiceship bestowed by this administration carries no guarantee against partisanship and no guarantee for wisdom, humanity, or common every day honesty,."

Canada Proud of Judiciary

Canada has good cause to be proud of her judiciary. Both Governments appear to have selected men of the highest legal attainment and unquestioned integrity to occupy exalted positions on the bench. When a chief justiceship became vacant, a selection was made from the most eminent men on the bench or at the bar, with the result that the chief justices of Canada are at the acme of their profession and no men stand higher in public estimation.

Source of the Insult

It remains for a country lawyer representing a Conservative constituency to make allegations under privileged conditions upon the floor of the House reflecting upon the impartiality, learning, humanity and honesty of the chief justices of Canada, which would if uttered outside the House render him liable to the penalty which the late Dr. Kenealy paid for similar offence.

All the More Obnoxious

The insult comes with none the less force because it emanates from one as obscure in politics as at the bar, but the fact that it was delivered on the floor of Parliament, by a member of the Conservative party who purports to represent the people, imparts to it a complexion which it would not otherwise possess. It is worthy of note that members of Mr. Crothers' party allowed his observations to pass without comment, while the Liberals united in loud exclamations of "shame."

The incident might have been regarded as uttered in the heat of political passion, or palliated upon the hypothesis that Wm. Crothers in his practice had not enjoyed that intimate relation with occupants of the higher court benches which is the privilege of many eminent members of the bar.

The Offence Repeated

However, even this cannot be urged in extenuation on Mr. Crothers' behalf, because on Monday last he returned to the attack on a question of privilege and aggravated his offence by reiterating the insult.

Invited to Withdraw

Hon. Mr. Aylesworth, minister of justice invited Mr. Crothers to withdraw the obnoxious language and apologize to the House in these words:

..."I think my hon. friend, if he will reflect for a moment on the language he used, he will recognize the propriety, and the duty on his part, of not merely modifying it, but unequivocally withdrawing it and apologizing to the House for having used it."

To illustrate the enormity of the offence, Mr. Aylesworth reminded the House that the present chief justice of Ontario came within the category of those slightingly spoken of by Mr. Crothers.

Crothers Made Matters Worse

On Monday, speaking to a question of privilege, Mr. Crothers made an attempt to justify himself, but his explanation made matters worse than they were before. He took exception to the statement of the minister of justice that the chief justice of Ontario was one of the men he meant. Mr. Crothers concluded his remarks by acknowledging that he did mean to include the chief justice of Ontario, because he proceeded to repeat the original insult, in the original manner as related above, adding to it:

The Offence Aggravated

"I have a fairly accurate knowledge of the meaning of words. On that occasion I said just what I meant, and meant just what I said; nothing more, nothing less."

He therefore did mean to include the chief justice of Ontario with the other chief justices, appointed by this administration, because his words were:—

..."I have lived long enough to know that a chief justiceship bestowed by this administration carries no guarantee against partisanship, and no guarantee for wisdom, humanity, or common every day honesty."

The following is a list of chief justices appointed by the Liberal administration, including the chief justice of Ontario, to all of whom Mr. Crothers applies, according to his own statement, the insulting language quoted above:—

How Crothers Describes Them

THESE ARE THE CHIEF JUSTICES OF CANADA IN RESPECT OF WHOSE APPOINTMENT TO THE EXALTED POSITIONS THEY OCCUPY, MR. CROTHERS SAYS: "CARRIES WITH IT NO GUARANTEE AGAINST PARTISANSHIP AND NO GUARANTEE FOR WISDOM, HUMANITY, OR COMMON EVERY DAY HONESTY."

After reflection Mr. Crothers says he has a fairly accurate knowledge of the meaning of words, and that he said what he meant, and meant what he said, nothing more, nothing less.

Mr. Crothers has gratuitously insulted the illustrious men who adorn the most exalted positions in the Canadian judiciary. With respect to the gentlemen mentioned above, he has withdrawn his observations as to only one of them, as against the others, what he said stands.

What Crothers Must Do Now

If the chief justices of Canada whose names appear above, appointed by a Liberal Government since 1896 are partial, inhuman, ignorant and dishonest as Mr. Crothers says they are, they should be removed from their exalted positions, they are disqualified to preside over their respective courts.

This can only be done by impeachment, not by irresponsible statements made under privileged conditions by one whose membership of the bar should indicate that he appreciates, not only the alleged disability of these judges, but is familiar with, and competent to put in motion the only machinery which can remove them.

Mr. Crothers must follow one or other of two courses. Either remove the stigma by an absolute withdrawal of his charges, accompanied by a full and comprehensive apology, or he must follow the only logical course open to him; institute impeachment proceedings, and make good his words.

Pernicious Practice Growing

This pernicious practice of attacking the juages of the land and encouraging distrust of the judiciary should be dealt with in a manner that will effectually prevent any repetition of the offence.

It strikes a blow at the foundation of our social system.

..It tends to breed contempt of the courts.

It leads to loss of confidence in those responsible for the administration of law and maintenance of order.

Hides Behind Privilege.

While Mr. Crothers may shield himself behind the privileges of parliament and thus be immune from action for defamation, he is not beyond the jurisdiction of the Law Society. The judges who have been aspersed may even decide to regard the incident with contempt, but a discriminating public will resent such reprehensible conduct.

Mr. Crothers was one of the three Conservative members appointed on the Lumsden investigating committee all of whom retired when they realized there was nothing in the charges.

His Strange Professional Ethics.

HE IS THE SAME GENTLEMAN WHO LAID DOWN THE STRANGE PROFESSIONAL ETHICS THAT IT WAS THE DUTY OF A COUNSEL TO SUPPRESS EVIDENCE IN THE INTERESTS OF CLIENTS.—See page 89 of the evidence re Lumsden charges. A sentiment with which the Liberal lawyers on the committee were not in accord.

Mr. Crothers name has been mentioned as leader of the Conservative party. Is it strange that the government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier gains in strength and public esteem?

Scandal Which Exploded

Another Conservative, Mr. Bradbury of Selkirk, Manitoba, attempted by consuming five hours of time reading government files and placing them upon Hansard, to prove a scandal in the opening up of the St. Peter's Indian Reserve in Manitoba. It was time wasted. The Indian reserve was opened up at the request of leading citizens of Selkirk and vicinity. Among them very prominent Conservatives, including the Conservative member in the local House. The reserve covered 46,000 acres, and in 32 years' residence the Indians cultivated 250 acres of it.

Conservatives Bought the Land.

These men were obnoxious to the residents of Selkirk, and their removal was desirable. After a surrender, which was negotiated by Chief Justice Howell of Manitoba, the lands were put up for public auction and sold to the highest bidder, after extensive advertising. The land brought from $5 to $25 per acre, and the purchasers were principally members of the Conservative party. The whole transaction was carried through upon a perfectly proper and businesslike basis.

The Minister of the Interior disposed of every question raised and demonstrated that the policy of the department as put in operation in this particular case, had resulted in the best interests of the Indians and the residents of the district where the reserve was located.

Of course it was attempted to prove a scandal, but the attempt failed utterly and the net result was delay in the transaction of public business for which the Conservatives were alone to blame.

CRIPPLED WITH LAME BACK

THIS RESULT OF LONG STANDING KIDNEY DISEASE WAS OVERCOME BY

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

This letter gives you some idea of the definite and certain results you obtain by using Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills for kidney disease.

This medicine is very prompt in action and very direct in effecting cure. You do not need to keep up the treatment long before you find most marked improvements.

Mrs. Richard Patterson, Haldimand, Gaspe Co., Que., writes: "I want to tell you that I was cured of kidney disease of long standing by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. I used to suffer a great deal, not knowing just what was the cause of the trouble and got so bad that I was almost crippled with lame, sore back.

"Before I had used two boxes of these pills I found my back better and less than three boxes made the cure complete. I have never had a sore back since and believe the cure to be lasting."

Backache, headache, bodily pains, scanty, painful urination, deposits in urine after standing, fickle appetite, indigestion and irregularity of the bowels are among the symptoms which warn you of serious trouble from kidney disease.

You can be practically certain that Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills will help you and help you quickly. Make the test for yourself to-day. One pill a dose, 25 cts. a box, all dealers; or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Write for free copy of Dr. Chase's Recipes.

YOUNG'S POINT NEWS

Examiner Special.

Young's Point, April 25.—The Stoney Lake Navigation Company launched their new steamer the "Islands" on Thursday, the 21st inst. Quite a number were present for the occasion from Peterborough, Lakefield, and the village here. The steamer "Stoney Lake" was present at the launching, and blew a long continual whistle, while the new boat glided into the water.

The death occurred in Smith of Mrs. Richard Spencer at her son's, Mr. Thos. Spencer, last Tuesday, the 19th. The late Mrs. Spencer was a very respected resident of Burleigh, for a number of years and was at the ripe old age of ninety-one.

The funeral took place on Thursday and was largely attended to the Catholic cemetery here at the Point.

A number of the farmers have almost completed their spring work. This is the earliest for a number of years.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mace of Chandos, have moved to the Point, and purchased the property formerly owned by Mr. George Cummings.

Mr. Andy Wilson, proprietor of the cheese factory, has been putting things in order the past three weeks, and expects to start the factory on Monday, the 24th.

Mr. Jas. Read has started a butcher shop on the Douro side of the village. Mr. Read was in Toronto recently and purchased a refrigerator, etc., so has everything in first-class shape, which will be a great convenience for the village here, as we will have fresh meat whenever we wish it.

TO HAVE A BEAUTIFUL SKIN

About one sixth of all the waste matter discharged from the human body passes through the pores of the skin. If the skin is to be kept beautiful the pores must be kept in healthful condition by bathing and by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, which overcomes all chafing and irritation of the skin and cures pimples, eruptions, and the many forms of eczema.

ANOTHER STATION

Mr. Roy Powell Fits up One in East City

Mr. Roy Powell who has equipped a system of wireless telegraphy in a room at his home, has with the assistance of his friends fitted up another station. This one has been built at the rear of the home of Mr. Ernie Oak, Engleburne Ave., East City. The station resembles a large windmill. Mr. Powell and Mr. Oak can now talk to each other. The system has been tried and found to have worked satisfactorily. This is the second station other than the one at Mr. Powell's home.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

The amusement loving patrons of the Grand Opera House, who missed seeing the splendid performance of St. Elmo, when presented here will have an opportunity of witnessing same on Saturday, April 30. Through a change in route of the Company, Manager Turner has succeeded in securing them for return date. The Company is a splendid one and gave universal satisfaction to those who had the pleasure of seeing them on their previous engagement, and no doubt the house will be well filled on their return. Mr. Laffette McKee, who plays the part of St. Elmo, is a finished actor and was well received in the part. Miss Dorothy Fairfax, who plays the part of Edna Earl is a dainty little woman and is a very capable actress. Special prices for this return engagement have been arranged for and no doubt those who missed seeing the play before will take advantage of this opportunity of seeing a high-class drama at popular prices. The seat sale will open Thursday.

THE SOUL KISS.

"The Soul Kiss," minus, of course, Mlle Genee and the original cast, visited Peterborough last night, and entertained a fairly large audience at the Grand. As seen here "The Soul Kiss" was a series of specialties intermingled with a considerable amount of burlesque, the latter not always in the best taste and it was far from being the premier musical comedy offering of the season. The music all through is tuneful, but the vocalists did not get all the merit of the score over the footlights. The decidedly clever work of Mr. Ben Grinnell as Lucifer Mephisto, was the outstanding feature of the entertainment. In his three recitative numbers "I Wonder Where They'll Go". "There were Actors then," and "Very Well, Then," he scored a big hit and his song, "That Wasn't All" was received with approval. Mlle Pertina was called upon to perform the dances in which Genee took the continent by storm, and the latter need not fear that she will be crowded out of popularity by the aspirant who was seen here last night. A medley of Harry Lauder songs, including "I Love a Lassie," "She's My Daisy," "The Sauest Way of the Family," and "We Parted on the Shore," by seven of the chorus, was one of the most popular numbers of the programme.

THE ORCHARD

From Farm and Dairy.

T. B. James, Middlesex Co., Ont.

No greater mistake can be made than that of allowing orchards, especially in this part of Ontario, to remain in sod year after year. Nor should we expect two crops a year from the soil when the orchard has reached full bearing age. We often look upon an apple tree as being a deep feeder and hence leaving the surface soil quite fertile and valuable for other crops. The fallacy of such a belief soon becomes evident when we start to plow up the old orchard. A perfect network of rootlets will be discovered right to the very surface of the ground.

When plowing up an old orchard, we should not overlook this fact of so many rootlets being near the surface. Deep plowing might not prove an advantage. It is better to plow as shallow as possible and in this way save the roots from destruction as much as possible.

After the seeding has been taken care of, before that, if possible, it will be a good idea to get into your orchard with a plow; and count on having it cultivated every year. Cover crops of clover, or rape, or other crops to suit the purpose, may be sown later on in the summer when it is desired to check the growth of the tree and ripen the crop and mature the wood for winter.

In early fall, pigs or sheep may be turned into the orchard and allowed to pasture on this crop and to take care of wormy apples and windfalls that might otherwise go to waste and in the case of the former be a nuisance in propagating their kind for another year.

HAVELOCK NEWS OF LATEST DOINGS

Examiner Special.

Havelock, April 25—The "At Home" given by the Young Ladies of town on Thursday evening last in the town hall, in honour of Dr. Crawford, who is leaving town, was in every way a most enjoyable success. A very large number were present from town, including many from Peterborough, Campbellford Norwood, Marmora. The hall was very artistically decorated for the occasion with flags and bunting, and the many pretty gowns worn were elaborate and attractive. Dancing commenced at 8.30 o'clock. Mr. Bodley, pianist, of Toronto, supplied the music, which was very highly appreciated by the guests. At eleven o'clock Dr. Crawford was escorted to the platform and a presentation of a beautiful leather club bag, accompanied by a very suitable and complimentary address, was presented to him by Messrs. Thos. Bennett and P. J. Wright, on behalf of the young men of town. The Doctor, though taken greatly by surprise, replied in his usual pleasant way. Mr. Thompson, M.P.P., of town, made a short speech, also Messrs. Jack Linton, of Campbellford, and Mr. Davidson, of Peterborough, after which the guests joined hands and sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." A dainty lunch was then partaken of, and the remainder of the evening was indulged in dancing.

The I. O. O. F. and Rebecca Lodges marched in a body to St. John's church on Sunday afternoon last, where special services were held at 3 o'clock, although the day was very disagreeable, still a very large number were present to take part in the great annual service held once every year. Special music was rendered by the choir, and the Rector, Rev. Mr. Holdsworth, delivered a most helpful and interesting sermon, which was greatly appreciated by all present.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Barrett leave on Tuesday for their future home in the West, Fertile Valley, Sask. During their stay in this little town they have won for themselves many friends who feel the greatest of regret at their departure from town, but hope wherever they may chose to settle in the West, they may be happy and prosperous. Great Optical Demonstration Sale Commenced To-day

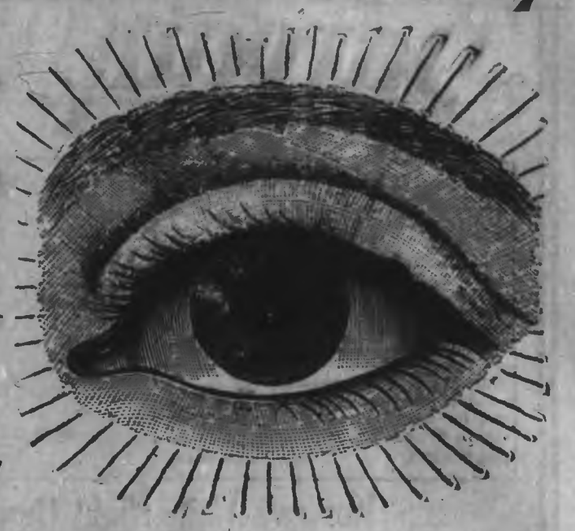
A Rare Opportunity for Skilled Optical Attention.

Commencing To-day and continuing to Saturday, April 30th

we will sell our regular $3.50 to $5.00 Gold Filled Spectacles and Eyeglasses for

ONE DOLLAR



Examinations in charge of the Directors of the International College of Ophthalmology to ensure perfect satisfaction.

Prescription Lenses at Lowest Prices.

Remember----Money Refunded During Sale if not Perfectly Satisfied

What You Get For Your Money

A Gold-Filled Frame perfectly fitted to your face with proper lenses by our experts, any style you desire--reading or distance glasses that will serve you for years ; protection and rest from tired, strained eyes ; freedom from headache and like pains that come from defective vision—the satisfaction that you have all this and save a nice sum of money.

In order to serve all promptly during this wonderful sale there will be three expert opticians in attendance, DIRECTORS OF THE INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE OF OPHTHALMOLOGY. Each and every customer will thus get a scientific examination of their eyes and the glasses properly adjusted.

The Reason We Do This

We wish to introduce ourselves to the spectacle-wearing public, and have secured two hundred (200) dozen pairs, all told, embracing all kinds of glasses, every style to fit all eyes and faces. These glasses are the same as are sold regularly for $3.50 and $5. Sale in charge of THE DIRECTORS OF THE INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE OF OPHTHALMOLOGY, who will be in attendance to insure you a first-class examination. They will use just as much care in fitting them to your eyes as though you were to pay regular price. When you come to inspect them, that's the kind you'll find them to be, and every pair will be replaced by the manufacturers should they not give entire satisfaction.

Canada's Three Most Expert and Skilled Rifle Shots. What They Say :

Guelph, Ont., Feb. 25th., 1910.

International College of Ophthalmology:

This is to certify that I know the above college to be the best Optical people whom I have ever met. They have fitted me for both sporting and reading glasses for the past 10 years and I am perfectly satisfied they can fit the most difficult, cases of eye trouble, with through satisfaction.

I have had my eyes tested in England by Stewart and Gregory, (Opticians to the Royal Family) and in Paris, France, by the best optical authorities there, and the kind of glasses I have received from you have been superior to all others that I have had.

Yours respectfully, John Ogg, Bailiff

Lindsay, April 22nd, 1910

To the People of Peterborough :

I desire to make known that I have been fitted on several different occasions in the past ten years for reading and shooting glasses by the representatives of the International College of Ophthalmology, and they are in my judgment the best Optical people in Canada, and am sure are regarded as such by the military crack shots all through Canada. J. A WILLIAMSON, Maj. 45th Rgt, Lindsay

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN :

On several occasions I have had my eyes tested for shooting glasses, which I use in my rifle shooting. I consider Mr. Cecil Elliott one of the best optical experts in the business and he is generally recognized as such by the crack rifle shots of the Dominion.

C. H. VANDERSLUYS, Capt., 44th Regt.

Lindsay, April 20th, 1910

To whom it may concern.

I desire to make it known that I have been fitted with shooting glasses by the representatives of the above mentioned college years ago and I know they are considered the most expert people in their line by all the skilled rifle shots of Canada, as they fit the finest shots both in Toronto and Ottawa during the rifle matches.

I. H. OLIVER, Photographer (45th Batt.)

NOTICE—These Frames are absolutely Gold Filled, not Gold Plated. They occupy the same place in the optical trade as Rogers Bros.' "1847" does in the Silverware line, or Elgin or Waltham do in the watch line.

Remember, this Sale commenced To-day and will last only Five Days. In the meantime see our Window Display.

Lowest Prices for Compound Lenses ground especially to order. Come early and get choice selection, Tuesday, April 26th, to Saturday, April 30th, for the factory to face prices.

THE SOW THISTLE

From Farm and Dairy.

J. Lockie Wilson, Supt. of Fairs.

The alarming rate at which the perennial sow thistle is spreading over the Province calls for strenuous work on the part of farmers in combatting this subtle weed foe. Almost unknown a very few years ago, it is now found in more or less large patches in many sections of Ontario, both east and west, and unless steps are taken at once to check it, in a very short time it will be found everywhere.

The best plan of destroying it is by smothering. Pasture the land closely with cattle and sheep till about the middle or end of June, according to the season; then plow down, cultivate well and sow the plot with rape, buckwheat or millet. Rape in drills is especially good, as its rapid growth smothers the thistle faster than any other crop, and this process is helped by frequent cultivation. If the thistle is not destroyed the first season, repeat the smothering process the following year. Success has also been obtained by allowing the thistles to commence blooming, when the weed is devoting all its strength to producing seed; then plow carefully, making certain that all the thistle growth is turned down, cultivate thoroughly, manure the land and sow to one of the three crops mentioned above.

Stringent means should be promptly adopted by Municipal Councils to prevent the spread of this most noxious weed. A group of farmers in a locality may take every precaution in an endeavor to keep their farms free from this troublesome pest, but their efforts will be in vain if one farmer in the district allows this perennial sow thistle to go to seed, for every wind that blows scatters its seed over the land for miles.

Besides the perennial sow thistle, the judges in the Standing Field Crop Competitions found the following weeds: Ragweed, wild oats, mustard, couch grass, dock, Canada thistle, annual sow thistle, wild buckwheat, lamb's quarters, bladder campion, wild chicory, cockle, catchfly, bindweed, foxtail, camomile, wild tares, ox-eye daisy, pigweed, golden rod, mullein, yarrow, shepherd's purse, false flax, wild carrot, blue vervain, and numerous smaller and less noxious weeds.

GARDEN SEEDS

From Farm and Dairy.

How long do the various kinds of garden seeds retain their germinating power? I have some house gathered seeds that have been on hand for some years and am curious to know how long they may be kept, and will retain their vitality.—A. V. S., Peel Co., Ont.

The different kinds of seed vary greatly in the time they retain their vitality, and much depends on the condition in which they are gathered and stored. Properly ripened and [illegible] preserved under average [illegible] conditions, will retain their vitality as follows:

	Years.		Years.
Anise	3	Kohl Rabi	5
Artichoke	6	Lavender	5
Asparagus	5	Leek	3
Balm	4	Lettuce	5
Basil	8	Martinia	3
Bean	6	Melon	5
Beet	6	Mustard	4
Borage	3	Nasturtium	5
Broccoli	5	Okra	5
Brussels Sprouts	5	Onion	2
Cabbage	5	Parsley	3
Caraway	3	Parsnip	1 to 2
Cardoon	7	Peas	1
Carrot	4	Peanut	1
Cauliflower	5	Pepper	4
Celery	8	Radish	5
Chervil	2	Rhubarb	3
Chicory	5	Rosemary	4
Coreander	6	Rue	2
Corn	2	Sage	3
Cresses	5	Salsify	2
Cucumbers	10	Summer Savory	3
Dandelion	3	Sea Kale	1
Dill	3	Spinach	5
Egg plant	6	Squash	4
Endive	10	Thyme	3
Fennel	4	Tomato	4

Some of these seeds, like pumpkin, melon, etc., often grow readily even after having passed the stated limit of years. Such seeds as onion, parsnips, egg-plant, etc., should be regarded with suspicion except when strictly fresh.

CRICKET

The Examiner has received a letter from Mr. A. B. Curtis, Secretary of the Warkworth Cricket Club, suggesting that a game be arranged with the Peterborough Club here on May 24th. Mr. Curtis would like to hear from the Peterborough Club as soon as possible.

NECESSARY FOR THE FAMILY

If health is to be maintained there must be at hand in every household a medicine which can be positively relied upon to regulate the liver, kidneys and bowels. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have proven their right to first place in this regard, and already hold a secure position in the great majority of homes.

The Work Of Crooks

New York American Prints a Story to the Effect That the Reports of Great Havoc Resulting From Storm and Frost Have Been Grossly Exaggeraied by Dealers to Keep Up Prices.

New York, April 27.—The American yesterday said:

In an effort to obtain accurate information and not exaggeration of the damage done by the storms in the south and west within the last two days, The American instructed its correspondents in the states affected to furnish statements of conditions as they really exist, with these results:

First, the reports sent of the damage originally sent out were gross exaggerations.

Second, most of the misinformation was apparently inspired by interests desiring higher prices for food.

Third, the hand of the beef trust is to be found in these wild exaggerations.

Fourth, there has been some damage to fruits and vegetables, but comparatively little to wheat and corn.

Fifth, cotton has met with reverses, but the extent is problematical.

Sixth, the planters and farmers of the states affected by these erroneous reports of disaster are indignant because of the gross misrepresentations that have been sent out.

Dedicated Temple of Republics.

Washington, April 27.—The magnificent new marble palace of the International Union of American Republics—within a stone's throw of the White House—was dedicated in the name of universal peace yesterday. President Taft joined with Andrew Carnegie, Secretary of State Knox, Senator Root and Senor de la Barra, the Mexican Ambassador, in prophesies of peace among the twenty-one American republics, and pledged themselves always to strive to bring about that happy state. Mr. Carnegie went so far as to express the hope that some day Canada, with the consent of Great Britain, would join the family of peaceful American republics.

Canada Received Trade Advantages.

Washington, April 27.—Copies of all papers in reference to the granting of the minimum tariff rate to various foreign countries are called for from the President by a resolution favorably acted upon yesterday by the House committee on ways and means. It was introduced by Representative Underwood (Democrat) of Alabama.

Mr. Underwood contends that these papers will show that Canada and other countries have been given large trade advantages under the minimum rate, without the United States having received proportionate concessions in return.

Dam Washed Away.

Bowmanville, April 27.—Lightning, thunder and a tremendous heavy downfall of rain attended an unusually violent storm that passed over this section Monday night and early yesterday morning, flooding flats, drains, cellars and streets, and causing numerous washouts on the roads.

The dam on the west side of this town was washed away. Mr. Vanstone's loss will be considerable.

Handsome Gift Given Fielding

In Order That Watchdog of the National Treasury Will Not Have to Worry About His Future, His Friends and Supporters Have Raised a Sum That Will Provide For His Old Age.

Ottawa, April 27.—Liberal members of the House of Commons and Senate gathered at a late hour last night for the purpose of presenting to Hon. W. S. Fielding a testimonial in the form of a handsome gift of money, which the Minister of Finance was asked to accept as an evidence of public favor and appreciation from his personal political friends.

For a good many months past there has been talk of giving a present to Hon. W. S. Fielding. The reason of it all is that self-interest has never been a consideration with him. Like the late Sir John Macdoald and Sir John Thompson, he served the public faithfully, but did nothing for himself. His handling of public funds has never been questioned and has commanded admiration of both sides.

The suggestion was acted upon and a committee of Senators, members of the Commons and some influential gentlemen outside was formed for the purpose of receiving subscriptions for a testimonial in recognition of his services as member of Parliament and Minister of Finance.

HON. W. S. FIELDING.

Although the subscription lists are not yet closed, the committee felt that as the House is likely to be prorogued at an early date, they would ask Mr. Fielding to accept the testimonial.

No announcement has been made as to the amount of the testimonial, but it is said to be about $120,000, which, safely invested, will make ample provision for Mr. Fielding and will relieve him of any worry as to how he is to provide for himself and family in the days when, owing to advancing years or a change in political fortunes, it becomes incumbent upon him to relinquish the post of Minister of Finance.

Mr. Fielding's friends feel that relief from doubts as to the future will leave him free to devote all his time and energies to the service of the party.

At the presentation, which took place in the Commons last night, Sir Wilfrid Laurier expressed his delight at the honor extended to the Minister of Finance, and Mr. Fielding in warm terms thanked the donors for the honor done him.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was presented with a residence by his frends, and Lord Strathcona presented him with a touring car. Senator Ross is reported to have received a purse of $30,000 from Ontario Liberals. Presentations were made in the old days to Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir Hector Langevin. It is understood that the Premier, in accepting his house, insisted on protecting his personal independence by placing a mortgage upon it which provided a method of liquidating the obligation.

Cobalt Alarmed at Last.

Cobalt, April 27.—Owing to the prevalence of smallpox, the mine managers have agreed to a voluntary quarantine.

All schools, churches and theatres will be closed for fourteen days from Wednesday. The separate school is already closed, a case having developed Monday among the pupils.

There are about twenty cases at the Isolation Hospital and there does not appear to be danger of an epidemic.

A vaccination proclamation has been issued.

Mangled by a Bear.

New York, April 27.—With his body badly mangled by teeth and claws, and his left arm almost torn from its socket, Richard Spicer, a keeper at the Bronx Park Zoo, was rescued unconscious yesterday from the bear pit after a desperate struggle with an angry bear. He was removed to a hospital in a serious condition. Elwyn Sanborn, a photographer, escaped from the pit with minor hurts after a hard fight with the animal.

Synod of Hamilton and London.

Stratford, April 27.—The Presbyterian Synod of Hamilton and London is in session here. Rev. L. W. Fisher, B.A., of West Flamboro, was elected moderator for the ensuing year, and Woodstock chosen for the next place of meeting.

Montreal to Have Aviation Meet.

Montreal, April 27.—E. M. Wilcox of Toronto has completed arrangements for an aviation meet for the first week in July, to be held in the vicinity of Montreal, aeroplanes and balloons to be secured from all countries.

Bill Passes Third Reading

A. H. Clarke Puts In a Plea For the Canadians Who, He Says, Will Suffer by New Regulations—Notice of Amendments to Anti-Racing Bill Given by Senator Cloran —Dr. Sproule's Objections.

Ottawa, April 27.—Hon. Mackenzie King's anti-combines bill was given the third reading in the Commons yesterday. W. F. Maclean (South York) commended it for the introduction of publicity in these matters.

Dr. Sproule expressed the opinion that the measure was a gold brick for those who expect relief from the combines. In the event of a verdict being given against members of a combine in the courts, an appeal could be carried right through to the Privy Council.

George Bradbury referred to the increase in the prices of cement in the west as compared with last year, quoting to show that the price had gone up from $1.80 to $2.40 per barrel. He asked if it was the intention of the Minister to deal with this merger.

Replying to Dr. Sproule, the Minister said that on the finding of the board final action might be taken. Prosecution would be easier after investigation, and punishment would be more likely.

Referring to the cement merger, Mr. King remarked that many men connected with it complained that they had been placed before the country in a false light. The result of an enquiry, if nothing wrong was found, it would have the effect of satisfying the public mind. One of the purposes of the bill was to enquire into overcapitalization.

R. L. Borden agreed that the bill should be passed without objection. He warned Mr. King, however, that enquiries would be more limited than the Minister imagined.

Notices of three questions to be put on the Commons' order paper by Hon. Geo. E. Foster yesterday, have given rise to a rumor in the lobbies that Mr. Foster will be back in his place in the House this week. However, it is learned that it is very unlikely that he will be able to be in the House this session. He was out of doors a couple of days ago, and came up to the buildings, but he was apparently in exceedingly poor health.

The fishermen on the Detroit River formed the plea which A. H. Clarke of South Essex put forward in the Commons last night, when he argued that before the new fishery regulations should come into effect the fishermen should be heard by a committee of the House. Men who had been fishing for a lifetime, he said, and whose capital was invested in their equipment, would by the regulations have their business entirely cut away from them.

Hon. William Templeman, who was in charge of the bill, said the treaty would make a vast improvement. In some cases the state regulations had never been enforced. There would be danger involved in the fishing industry if this treaty did not go into effect. The U. S. Government had undertaken to carry out the regulations and the fish must be conserved. If the same conditions as at present obtained on the Fraser River were continued, there would be no fish in ten years.

George Bradbury (Selkirk) said the trouble would be to get the American officials to carry out their part of the bargain. Canadian inland fisheries had been exploited for many years by American companies. He suggested that the export of sturgeon should be prohibited for four years, and that no whitefish under two pounds should be taken out of treaty waters.

The debate on Senator Belcourt's bill to prohibit the operations of American labor organizers in Canada was resumed in the Senate yesterday and again adjourned.

Senator Power said there was a good example in the Nova Scotia mine strike of the damage which an outside organization could do a Canadian industry.

There were certain organizations, such as the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, which naturally extended across the boundary, and should not be interefered with.

The proposed bill, he said, would destroy trade unions in Canada. In the opinion of the labor organizations themselves, the presence of one or two non-British subjects in a trade union of Canada would make it a criminal institution.

Senator Belcourt denied that this was the effect of the bill, but Senator Cloran insisted that it was, and would prevent immigrants joining Canadian unions until they had been in the country the three years needed to naturalize.

Senator Choquette said that he was opposed to the bill, believing it a bad one. Senator Belcourt replied that he had introduced it with the object of having the question discussed, so that a remedy could be provided next session.

In the Senate yesterday Senator Cloran gave notice of the amendments to the race track gambling bill. They propose to cut out the clause limiting the length of time that meets may be held, and declare that the bill shall not affect articles 1,927 and 1,928 of the civil code of Quebec. The first of these articles states that there is no right of action for the recovery of money under a gaming contract, and the second declares that the denial of this right of action is subject to exception in favor of exercises for promoting skill in the use of arms and of horse and foot races and other lawful games which require bodily activity and address.

The second reading of the naval service bill was moved by Sir Richard Cartwright, who stated that the question involved had been so extensively discussed elsewhere that he did not feel the need of making an elaborate speech in support of his motion.

He was aware that there were opponents to the bill, some of whom thought it did not go far enough in the direction of creating a navy, and some of whom thought that it went too far. However, these were gentlemen who would be inclined to condemn anything brought in by the Government, and that fact should be kept in mind when their views were expressed.

THE PORT OF MISSING MEN

By MEREDITH NICHOLSON,
Author of "The House of a Thousand Candles"

COPYRIGHT, 1907, BY THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

"Yes; that was Mr. Armitage's wish."

"Then I saw that we were going toward the bridge, the one they do not use there at the deep ravine. I had crossed it once and knew that it was weak and shaky, and I slacked up and watched him. He kept on, and just before he came to it, when I was very close to him, for he was a slow runner—yes?—being so big and clumsy, he turned and shot at me with his revolver, but he was in a hurry and missed, but he ran on. His feet struck the planks of the bridge with a great jar and creaking, but he kept running and stumbled and fell once with a mad clatter of the planks. He was a coward with a heart of water and would not stop when I called and come back for a little fight. The wires of the bridge hummed, and the bridge swung and creaked. When he was almost midway of the bridge the big wires that held it began to shriek out of the old posts that held them, though I had not touched them, and it seemed many years that passed while the whole of it dangled in the air like a bird nest in a storm, and the creek down below laughed at that big coward. I still heard his hoofs thumping the planks until the bridge dropped from under him and left him for a long second with his arms and legs flying in the air. Yes; it was very horrible to see. And then his great body went down, down. God, it was a very dreadful way for a wicked man to die!"

And Oscar brushed his hat with his sleeve and looked away at the purple and gray ridges and their burden of stars.

"Yes; it must have been terrible," said Claiborne.

"But now he cannot be left to lie down there on the rocks, though he was so wicked and died like a beast I am a bad Catholic, but when I was a boy I used to serve mass, and it is not well for a man to lie in a wild place where the buzzards will find him."

"But you cannot bring a priest. Great harm would be done if news of this affair were to get abroad. You understand that what has passed here must never be known by the outside world My father and Baron von Marhof have counseled that, and you may be sure there are reasons why these things must be kept quiet or they would seek the law's aid at once."

"Yes; I have been a soldier, but after this little war I shall bury the dead. In an hour I shall be back to drive the buckboard to Lamar station."

Claiborne looked at his watch.

"I will go with you," he said.

They started through the wood toward the Port of Missing Men, and together they found rough niches in the side of the gap, down which they made their way toilsomely to the bowlder lined stream that laughed and tumbled foamily at the bottom of the defile. When their work was done Oscar took off his hat and knelt down by the side of the strange grave and bowed his head in silence for a moment Then they climbed the steep side of the gap and turned toward the bungalow. Oscar trudged silently at Claiborne's side, and neither spoke. Both were worn to the point of exhaustion by the events of the long day The stubborn patience and fidelity of the little man touched a chord in Claiborne. Almost unconsciously he threw his arm across Oscar's shoulders and walked thus beside him as they traversed the battlefield of the morning.

"You knew Mr. Armitage when he was a boy?" asked Claiborne.

"Yes; in the Austrian forest, on his father's place—the Count Ferdinand von Stroebel. The young captain's mother died when he was a child. His father was the great statesman and did much for the Schomburgs and Austria, but it did not aid his disposition—no?"

The secret service men had come by way of the Springs and were waiting at the bungalow to report to Claiborne. They handed him a sealed packet of instructions from the secretary of war. The deportation of Chauvenet and Durand was to be effected at once under Claiborne's direction, and he sent Oscar to the stables for the buckboard and sat down on the veranda to discuss the trip to Baltimore with the two secret agents. They were to gather up the personal effects of the conspirators at the tavern on the drive to Lamar. The rooms occupied by Chauvenet at Washington had already been ransacked and correspondence and memoranda of a startling character seized. Chauvenet was known to be a professional blackmailer and plotter of political mischief, and the embassy of Austria-Hungary had identified Durand as an ex-convict who had only lately been implicated in the launching of a dangerous issue of forged bonds in Paris. Claiborne had been carefully coached by his father, and he answered the questions of the officers readily:

"If these men give you any trouble, put them under arrest in the nearest jail. We can bring them back here for attempted murder, if nothing worse, and these mountain juries will see that they're put away for a long time. You will accompany them on board the George W. Custis and stay with them until you reach Cape Charles. A lighthouse tender will follow the steamer down Chesapeake bay and take you off. If these gentlemen do not give the proper orders to the captain of the steamer, you will put them all under arrest and signal the tender."

Chauvenet and Durand had been brought out and placed in the buckboard, and these orders were intended for their ears.

"We will waive our right to a writ of habeas corpus," remarked Durand cheerfully, as Claiborne flashed a lantern over them. "Dearest Jules, we shall not forget M. Claiborne's courteous treatment of us."

"Shut up!" snapped Chauvenet.

"You will both of you do well to hold your tongues," remarked Claiborne dryly. "One of these officers understands French, and I assure you they cannot be bought or frightened. If you try to bolt, they will certainly shoot you. If you make a row about going on board your boat at Baltimore, remember they are government agents, with ample authority for any emergency and that Baron von Marhof has the American state department at his back."

"You are wonderful, Captain Claiborne," drawled Durand.

"There is no trap in this? You give us the freedom of the sea?" demanded Chauvenet.

"I gave you the option of a Virginia prison for conspiracy to murder or a run for your life in your own boat beyond the capes. You have chosen the second alternative. If you care to change your decision"—

Oscar gathered up the reins and waited for the word. Claiborne held his watch to the lantern.

"We must not miss our train, my dear Jules!" said Durand.

"Bah, Claiborne, this is ungenerous of you You know well enough this is an unlawful proceeding—kidnaping us this way—without opportunity for counsel."

"And without benefit of clergy," laughed Claiborne. "Is it a dash for the sea or the nearest county jail? If you want to tackle the American courts we have nothing to venture. The Winkelried crowd are safe behind the bars in Vienna and publicity can do us no harm."

"Drive on!" ejaculated Chauvenet.

As the buckboard started Baron von Marhof and Judge Claiborne rode up and watched the departure from their saddles.

"That's the end of one chapter," remarked Judge Claiborne.

"They're glad enough to go," said Dick. "What's the latest word from Vienna?"

"The conspirators were taken quietly. About a hundred arrests have been made in all, and the Hungarian uprising has played out utterly, thanks to Mr. John Armitage," and the baron sighed and turned toward the bungalow.

When the two diplomats rode home half an hour later it was with the assurance that Armitage's condition was satisfactory.

"He is a hardy plant," said the surgeon, "and will pull through."

Chapter XXVIII

JOHN ARMITAGE.

JUNE roses overflowed the veranda rail of Baron von Marhof's cottage at Storm Springs. The ambassador and his friend and counsel, Judge Hilton Claiborne, sat in a cool corner with a wicker table between them. The representative of Austria-Hungary shook his glass with an impatience that tinkled the ice cheerily.

"He's as obstinate as a mule!"

Judge Claiborne laughed at the baron's vehemence.

"He comes by it honestly. I can imagine his father doing the same thing under similar circumstances."

"What! This rot about democracy! this light tossing away of an honest title, a respectable fortune! My dear sir, there is such a thing as carrying democracy too far!"

"I suppose there is, but he's of age He's a grown man. I don't see what you're going to do about it."

"Neither do I! But think what he's putting aside. The boy's clever; he has courage and brains, as we know; he could have position; the home government is under immense obligations to him. A word from me to Vienna and his services to the crown would be acknowledged in the most generous fashion. And with his father's memory and reputation behind him"—

"But the idea of reward doesn't appeal to him. We canvassed that last night."

"There's one thing I haven't dared to ask him—to take his own name, to become Frederick Augustus von Stroebel, even if he doesn't want his father's money or the title. Quite likely he will refuse that too."

"It is possible. Most things seem possible with Armitage."

"It's simply providential that he hasn't become a citizen of your republic. That would have been the last straw!"

They rose as Armitage called to them from a French window near by.

"Good afternoon, gentlemen!"

"Good afternoon, gentlemen! When two diplomats get their heads together on a summer afternoon the universe is in danger."

He came toward them, hatless, but trailing a stick that had been the prop of his later convalescence. His blue serge coat, a negligee shirt and duck trousers had been drawn a few days before from the trunks brought by Oscar from the bungalow. He was clean shaven for the first time since his illness, and the two men looked at him with a new interest. His deepened temples and lean cheeks and hands told their story, but his step was regaining its old assurance, and his eyes were clear and bright. He thrust the little stick under his arm and stood erect, gazing at the near gardens and then at the hills. The wind tumbled his brown, newly trimmed hair and caught the loose ends of his scarf and whipped them free.

"Sit down. We were just talking of you. You are getting so much stronger every day that we can't be sure of you long," said the baron.

"You have spoiled me. I am not at all anxious to venture back into the world. These Virginia gardens are a dream world where nothing is really quite true."

"Something must be done about your father's estate soon. It is yours, waiting and ready."

The baron bent toward the young man anxiously.

Armitage shook his head slowly and clasped the stick with both hands and held it across his knees.

"No—no! Please let us not talk of that any more. I could not feel comfortable about it. I have kept my pledge to do something for his country—something that we may hope pleases him if he knows."

"I love you, Shirley."

The three were silent for a moment. A breeze, sweet with pine scent of the hills, swept the valley, taking tribute of the gardens as it passed. The baron was afraid to venture his last request.

"But the name—the honored name of the greatest statesman Austria has known—a name that will endure with the greatest names of Europe—surely you can at least accept that."

The ambassador's tone was as gravely importunate as though he were begging the cession of a city from a harsh conqueror. Armitage rose and walked the length of the veranda. He had not seen Shirley since that morning when the earth had slipped from under his feet at the bungalow. The Claibornes had been back and forth often between Washington and Storm Springs. The judge had just been appointed a member of the Brazilian boundary commission which was to meet shortly in Berlin, and Mrs. Claiborne and Shirley were to go with him. In the Claiborne garden, beyond and below, he saw a flash of white here and there among the dark green hedges. He paused, leaned against a pillar and waited until Shirley crossed one of the walks and passed slowly on, intent upon the rose trees, and he saw—or thought he saw—the sun searching out the gold in her brown hair. She was hatless. Her white gown emphasized the straight line of her figure. She paused to ponder some new arrangement of a line of hydrangeas, and he caught a glimpse of her against a pillar of crimson ramblers. Then he went back to the baron.

"How much of our row in the hills got into the newspapers?" he asked, sitting down.

"Nothing—absolutely nothing. The presence of the Sophia Marguret off the capes caused inquiries to be made at the embassy, and several correspondents came down here to interview me. Then the revenue officers made some raids in the hills opportunely and created a local diversion. You were hurt while cleaning your gun—please do not forget that—and you are a friend of my family, a very eccentric character, who has chosen to live in the wilderness."

The judge and Armitage laughed at these explanations, though there was a little constraint upon them all. The baron's question was still unanswered.

"You ceased to be of particular interest some time ago. While you were sick the fraudulent Von Kissel was arrested in Australia, and I believe some of the newspapers apologized to you handsomely."

"That was very generous of them," and Armitage shifted his position slightly. A white skirt had flashed again in the Claiborne garden, and he was trying to follow it. At the same time there were questions he wished to ask and have answered. The Baroness von Marhof had already gone to Newport; the baron lingered merely out of good feeling toward Armitage, for it was as Armitage that he was still known to the people of Storm Springs, to the doctor and nurses who tended him.

"The news from Vienna seems tranquil enough," remarked Armitage. He had not yet answered the baron's question, and the old gentleman grew restless at the delay. "I read in the Neue Freie Presse awhile ago that Charles Louis is showing an unexpected capacity for affairs. It is reported, too, that an heir is in prospect. The Winkelried conspiracy is only a bad dream, and we may safely turn to other affairs."

"Yes, but the margin by which we escaped is too narrow to contemplate."

"We have a saying that a miss is as good as a mile," remarked Judge Claiborne. "We have never told Mr. Armitage that we found the papers in the safety box at New York to be as he described them."

"They are dangerous. We have hesitated as to whether there was more risk in destroying them than in preserving them," said the baron.

Armitage shrugged his shoulders and laughed.

"They are out of my hands. I positively decline to accept their further custody."

A messenger appeared with a telegram, which the baron opened and read.

STOMACH LIVER LUNGS

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the Chain of Life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of stomach, liver or lungs, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of weakness or disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases and weaknesses of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the weak or diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

The strong man has a strong stomach. Take the above recommended "Discovery" and you may have a strong stomach and a strong body.

GIVEN AWAY.—Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, new revised Edition, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

OF CANADA

Head Office: 46 King Street, West TORONTO

The Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of the Imperial Guarantee & Accident Insurance Company of Canada, was held at the Head Office, 46 King Street West, Toronto, on the 19th inst.

Mr. E. W. Cox, President of the Company, in reviewing the business of the year, made reference to the growing popularity of Accident Insurance, and its effect on the success of the business of the Company during the year. The amount of Insurance written was over $36,270,000.00 an increase of $1,940,000.00 over the business taken out in 1908. This is considered exceptionally satisfactory in view of the fact that the business of the Company is confined to Personal Accident and Guarantee Insurance.

The Gross Income for 1909 amounted to $319,741.76,

That being an increase over the year 1908 of $1,817.24.

The Assets now total $306,976.00, and, after allowing for Reserve for unearned premium calculated on the full Government standard, and all other liabilities, the surplus for the protection of policyholders has increased to $213,447.32.

The following Directors and Officers were elected:

Edward W. Cox, President. Hon. F. T. Frost.
Noel Marshall, Vice-President. R. Bickerdike.
Hon. Geo. A. Cox. W. D. Robb.

ARMY NICK-NAMES.

British Regiments Take Pride In Their Soubriquets.

The British army, with its long and varied history, is a great stronghold of "esprit de corps." Every soldier who worthily represents it is swayed by this powerful influence in one or another of its many forms. Time-honored customs and revered traditions inspire him to the day of his death with a fixed and immovable faith in the superiority of his own corps, and with a proud sense that some portion of its honor is entrusted to his keeping.

Probably the most quaint and curious expression of this feeling is to be found in the regimental nicknames of the army. Although when the linked battalion system was adopted many old regiments lost their individuality, nevertheless the old nicknames, enshrining the memory of gallant deeds, and often enough the caustic wit of our forefathers, are still cherished wheresoever soldiers meet together.

The most startling of these nicknames is that which is borne by the 1st Foot, otherwise known as the Royal Scots. It owns to the soubriquet of "Pontius Pilate's Body Guard." It came by it as far back as 1637, when enlisted in the French service under the name of the "Regiment de Douglas," or the "Douglas Ecossais." A French corps, the Picardy Regiment, was boasting loudly of its superior antiquity, which was quite as energetically disputed by the Scotsmen. The men of Picardy asserted that they had been on duty on the night after the Crucifixion. Whereto the Scots retorted caustically, "Had we been on duty at that time we should not have slept at our post." The 1st Foot are the oldest regular corps in the British army, and the curious nickname is an appropriate tribute to their venerable origin.

But the most glorious of all nicknames in the British land forces is that of the "Die Hards," which every man and officer of the old 57th, now the 1st Battalion of the Middlesex Regiment, cherishes with especial pride. It was won on the bloody heights of Albuera, and commemorate the heroic exhortation of the gallant Inglis, who, until he fell, kept shouting to his unfaltering but gradually thinning ranks. "Die hard, men, die hard!" Never will it be forgotten, and on many a battlefield since then the cry of "Die hards, remember Albuera," has proved an unfailing inspiration at a moment of crisis and stern trial.

Perhaps the best known nickname in the army is that of "The Dirty Half Hundred." This is owned by the 50th, now the 1st Battalion of the Queen's Own. To the uninitiated it may not have a specially pleasant sound, but it is a gallant title for all that. For it tells of an old and hard-fought fight when so desperately hot was the weather that the men of the 50th kept wiping the perspiration from their faces with the black facing of their cuffs. There were no fast colors in those days, and the 50th came out of action looking like niggers.

Two other seemingly uncomplimentary nicknames possess similarly gallant derivations. The 13th Hussars are known as "The Ragged Brigade," and the Royal Munster Fusiliers as "The Dirty Shirts." But the former were so named from the tattered condition of their uniforms after more than thirty severe actions in the Peninsular war, and the soubriquet of the latter tells of that desperate assault on Delhi in the Mutiny, when the regiment flung aside their tunics in order that they might fight the harder.

Every one of these old titles embodies some cherished memory if one had time to dilate upon it. Thus by "Nanny Goats" is meant the Royal Welsh Fusiliers, by the "Sweeps" the Rifle Brigade, by the "Cauliflowers" the 47th, and by the "Old Braggs" the Gloucesters, who got their name from Colonel Philip Braggs, their commander in 1750.

He was what is known as a character and an old fire-eater, who refused to allow either his regiment or himself to be put upon. One day, it is recorded, he found himself on parade with a number of other regiments to the right and left of him, all boasting royal titles. The repeated sound of these in the ears of the old colonel as they preceded the words of command were too much for him, and when it came to his turn he invented a sounding title, which he poured forth in a satirical torrent of language, which has long been preserved as a tradition. This ran as follows:

"Neither kings, nor queens, nor royal marines, but 28th Old Braggs, brass before and brass behind, never feared a foe of any kind, shoulder arms!" It reveals with strange vividness, after all these hundred and fifty years, a gallant old personality.

Suspended by Leg.

A terrible experience was that of a miner named Marnard in a colliery near Mexborough, Eng., the other day. For three hours he hung head downwards from the cage in the pit shaft, held only by the leg, which was entangled between the cage and the winding ropes. His horrified mates were unable for a long time to render assistance, as it was impossible to move the cage for fear of sending Marnard to the bottom of the shaft. Hovering between life and death he was eventually rescued, but his leg had to be wrenched out, and will probably be amputated.

His Suspicions Aroused.

Sinking Spells Every Few Days

"At the time I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy I was having sinking spells every few days. My hands and feet would get cold; I could scarcely breathe, and could feel myself gradually sinking away until I would be unconscious. Those about me could not tell there was life in me. After these spells I would be very weak and nervous, sleepless and without appetite; had neuralgia in my head and heart. After taking the remedy a short time all this disappeared and in a few weeks all the heart trouble was gone."

The Castle of Despond.

One of the finest French renaissance buildings in France is the Castle of Despond, famous in the legendary lore of the Toulousain country in which it stands. Over the window of one of the inner courtyards is sculptured in the stone a head above the motto, "Plus d'Espoir." These were the last words of Rose de Martial, whose story has been sung by the poets of Toulouse. She was the daughter of the house of Martial, to whom the castle belonged, and she was courted by the lord of Castelnat, whose manor she could see from her window. But, although she was beautiful and tender hearted, the lord jilted her, and she fell into a melancholy. She sat every day by the window, whence she could see the fickle lord of Castelnat's manor. One morning he passed by in the valley below. She sang to him, but he never looked up. "Plus d'Espoir!" she cried and threw herself out of the window on to the flags below, where she was killed. The manor of Martial was known thenceforward as the Castle of Despond. The fine building was falling to ruins when M. Fenaille bought it, and he had it completely and skillfully restored before making a gift of it to the nation.

His First Taste of Discipline.

Admiral Jouett, probably one of the jolliest seadogs our navy ever knew, once told an amusing story of his early days as a cadet.

"I was a sociable youngster," he says, "and when I went to my first assignment, the Independence, and saw the stars and stripes floating over it I remembered my mother had taught me that my first duty was to the flag, so I attempted some conversation on this line with the executive officer who had received me when I came on board and who was one of the strictest disciplinarians in the navy of that day.

"'Silence, sir!' he roared at my first question, his face red with anger. 'Silence, sir! Who gave you permission to speak? Let me hear only six words from you, sir, while you are on this ship—"port," "starboard," "yes, sir," and "no, sir."'

"And this was my first discipline in the navy."

A Ludicrous Word Twister.

Professor William Archibald Spooner of Oxford university became famous as a ludicrous word twister. Once at a special service, seeing some women standing at the back of the church waiting to be seated, he rushed down the aisle and addressed the ushers as follows: "Gentlemen, gentlemen, sew these ladies into their sheets." Being asked at dinner what fruit he would have, he promptly replied, "Figs, fleas." This is the way in which Dr. Spooner proposed to his wife: Being one afternoon at the home of her father, Bishop Harvey Goodwin of Carlisle, Mrs. Goodwin said, "Mr. Spooner, will you please go out into the garden and ask Miss Goodwin if she will come in and make tea?" The professor on finding the young lady said, "Miss Goodwin, your mother told me to ask you if you would come in and take me."

Method.

Method is the very hinge of business, and there is no method without punctuality. Punctuality is important because it subserves the peace and good temper of a family. Calmness of mind, which it produces, is another advantage of punctuality. A disorderly man is always in a hurry. He has no time to speak to you because he is going elsewhere, and when he gets there he is too late for his business or he must hurry away before he can finish it.

Siamese Tobacco.

The best tobacco in Siam is grown at Petchabun. It is planted in open fields near the town after the floods in September or October, and the first crop, or tips, which is considered the best quality, is gathered about February and the last about the beginning of May. The very best quality cannot be purchased, as it is reserved for the special use of the king and sent down to Bangkok, where it is smoked in the palace and distributed to the chief officers of state.

GARDEN OF WILD FLOWERS.

This May Be Made Attractive Feature of the Home Garden.

A very attractive feature of the house garden is the so called wild garden, in which are planted the various species of local wild flowers that will grow in captivity, such as the maiden-hair fern, the tiger lily, Solomon's seal, jack in the pulpit, dog's tooth violet, hepaticas, columbine, pink and yellow lady slippers and others too numerous to mention. This garden may occupy a partly shady place along one side of the house or it may be merely a strip two feet wide, extending from the front walk half the depth of the lot and serving as a very beautiful and unconventional fence line between the home and the adjoining property. When the long strip scheme is utilised the wild flowers may be re-enforced with cultivated flowers, such as poppies, cosmos, zinnias and asters, with an occasional rosebush to break the monotony. To the possessor of such a wild garden one of the joys of spring is to watch for the first hepaticas and later see the dog's tooth violet and the jack in the pulpit appear. An occasional trip to the woods will replenish the wild garden in case some of the transplanted plants succumb to their new environment.

HOW TO GROW DAHLIAS.

Plant in Full Exposure to the Sun in Enriched Soil.

There are so many new and rare dahlias in addition to the old varieties that no home garden is complete without these beautiful flowers. They should be planted in full exposure to the sun. The soil should be thoroughly and deeply worked and should be well enriched. The bulbs should be planted from six to eight inches deep and from two to three feet apart. During a very dry period it may be beneficial to give the plants water, but many authorities believe artificial watering of dahlias and other plants to be more harmful than helpful, for the reason that as a general proposition it is insufficiently done. Dahlias should be thoroughly watered or not at all. When the first shoots make their appearance cut off all but the strongest one and pinch off the top of that. This will cause the dahlia to branch at the surface of the ground, will concentrate the strength of the root in this shoot and remove all of the first imperfect flowers which are so common to some varieties.

Things Theatrical.

It is probable that next year Lew Fields will star Christie Macdonald in a new musical comedy.

Maxine Elliott, who ought to know, says that beauty is a detriment to an aspiring actress. She says the successful actresses are not, as a rule, the pretty ones. Pretty girls go into the chorus.

Miss Gertrude Elliott, who in private life is Mrs. Forbes-Robertson, has been selected by the Liebler company as the successor of Miss Eleanor Robson in the role of Glad in "The Dawn of a Tomorrow."

Gertrude Coghlan, leading woman of "The Traveling Salesman" company, has a mushroom farm in the basement of her house at Rensselaerst, N. Y. She has been very successful, supplying a number of New York hotels with the fresh product of her raising.

Tales of Cities.

London in monetary value is worth two and a half times as much as Paris.

During business hours the southernmost square mile of Manhattan Island has a population of 200,000.

The city of Wallsee, on the Danube, in Lower Austria, once famous and wealthy because of its millstone industry, has just seen its glory completely fade away through the closing of its last millstone concern.

Rochester, N. Y., has the largest thermometer, enameled tank, paper box machinery and wood box factories, largest custom fur tanning establishment, largest lubricating oil, coach and hearse, office filing devices and button plants in the United States.

Queer State of Affairs.

We are told that love is blind,
Yet we know 'tis true
That love can see upon one chair
Sufficient room for two.

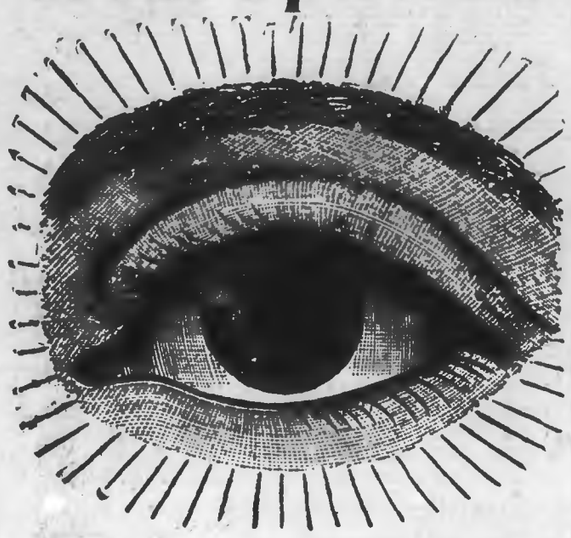
Great Optical Demonstration Sale Attracts Large Crowds



A Rare Opportunity for Skilled Optical Attention.

ALL THIS WEEK

we will sell our regular $3.50 to $5.00 Gold Filled Spectacles and Eyeglasses for

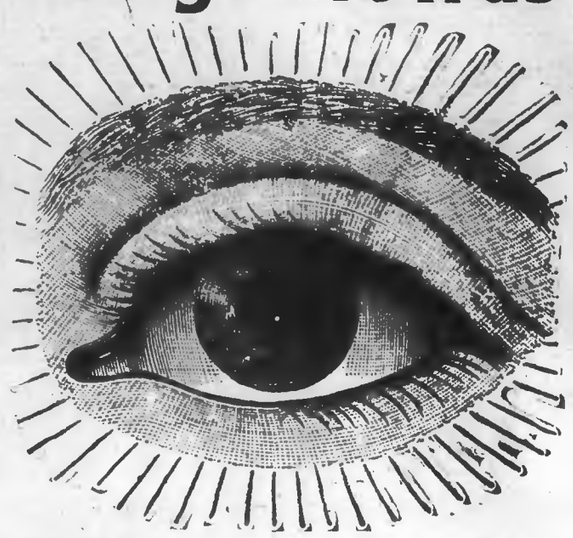
ONE DOLLAR



Examinations in charge of the Directors of the International College of Ophthalmology to ensure perfect satisfaction.

Prescription Lenses at Lowest Prices.

Remember----Money Refunded During Sale if not Perfectly Satisfied

What You Get For Your Money

A Gold-Filled Frame perfectly fitted to your face with proper lenses by our experts, any style you desire--reading or distance glasses that will serve you for years ; protection and rest from tired, strained eyes ; freedom from headache and like pains that come from defective vision—the satisfaction that you have all this and save a nice sum of money.

In order to serve all promptly during this wonderful sale there will be three expert opticians in attendance, DIRECTORS OF THE INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE OF OPHTHALMOLOGY. Each and every customer will thus get a scientific examination of their eyes and the glasses properly adjusted.

The Reason We Do This

We wish to introduce ourselves to the spectacle-wearing public, and have secured two hundred (200) dozen pairs, all told, embracing all kinds of glasses, every style to fit all eyes and faces. These glasses are the same as are sold regularly for $3.50 and $5. Sale in charge of THE DIRECTORS OF THE INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE OF OPHTHALMOLOGY, who will be in attendance to insure you a first-class examination. They will use just as much care in fitting them to your eyes as though you were to pay regular price. When you come to inspect them, that's the kind you'll find them to be, and every pair will be replaced by the manufacturers should they not give entire satisfaction.

Canada's Three Most Expert and Skilled Rifle Shots. What They Say :

Peterborough, April 27th., 1910.

The International College of Opthalmology,

Gentlemen,—

I desire to state that your method of examination which your Firm has conducted with the Crack Rifle Shots of Canada, has been so satisfactory that I can honestly state that you are certainly the best Optical people in Canada in my mind, and thoroughly reliable.

George Fitzgerald,
Peterborough Carriage Factory.

Lindsay, April 22nd, 1910

TO THE PEOPLE OF PETERBOROUGH :

I desire to make known that I have been fitted on several different occasions in the past ten years for reading and shooting glasses by the representatives of the International College of Ophthalmology, and they are in my judgment the best Optical people in Canada, and am sure are regarded as such by the military crack shots all through Canada. J. A WILLIAMSON, Maj. 45th Rgt, Lindsay

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN :

On several occasions I have had my eyes tested for shooting glasses, which I use in my rifle shooting. I consider Mr. Cecil Elliott one of the best optical experts in the business and he is generally recognized as such by the crack rifle shots of the Dominion.

C. H. VANDERSLUYS, Capt., 44th Regt.

April 27th, 1910

To the People of Peterborough :

This is to certify that I know the International College of Opthalmology to be very skilled optical people. They have supplied me with shooting lenses for my Military Shooting for the past number of years, and I am satisfied they can fit the most difficult cases of eye trouble.

Dr. J. B. Pentland, Dentist

NOTICE—These Frames are absolutely Gold Filled, not Gold Plated. They occupy the same place in the optical trade as Rogers Bros.' "1847" does in the Silverware line, or Elgin or Waltham do in the watch line.

Bancroft Man Thinks This Fruit Medicine Will Work Miracles.

It is the old chronic case, the stubborn case, the case that will not yield to the ordinary remedies of the physician, that "Fruit-a-tives" never fails to cure. Many of the cures made by "Fruit-a-tives" are the wonder and admiration of the doctors who cannot understand how "Fruit-a-tives" can do what they cannot.

Bancroft, Ont., October 17th.

"I have been troubled for years with Indigestion—have tried every kind of medicine, and found only temporary relief. Then I used "Fruit-a-tives" and now I am no longer troubled with Indigestion. I think it is a splendid remedy."

DEPARTMENT OF RAILWAYS AND CANALS, CANADA.

Trent Canal

ONTARIO-RICE LAKE DIVISION
SECTION NO. 4.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Trent Canal," will be received until 16 o'clock on Thursday, the 5th May, 1910, for the works connected with the construction of Section No. 4, Ontario-Rice Lake Division of the Canal.

Plans, specifications and the form of the contract to be entered into, can be seen on and after this date at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, and at the office of the Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterborough, Ont., at which places forms of tender may be obtained.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labour, which schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation and the place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $20,000.00 made payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Railways and Canals must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited, if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The cheque of the successful tenderer will be held as security or part security for the due fulfilment of the contract to be entered into.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

By order,

L. K. JONES,
Secretary.

Department of Railways and Canals,
Ottawa, 7th April, 1910.

Milady's Mirror

There are women who are born to retain looks suggestive of youth up to a considerable age. Others achieve this summer time sweetness with considerable pains, and all those between look as old as they are, or older, which is a great sin in these enlightened times.

The road to beauty place must be worked on every day in quarter mile sections to get anything like good results in the way of breaking ground for permanent prettiness. Woman cannot let the sun set upon her idleness. She must practice young eyes, whip the forehead line that wants to trespass, chastise the lobes of her ears and teach her eyebrows the way they should go.

It seems a funny thing to say, but it is the neglected eyebrow which gives the first hint of the flight of time. Neglected eyebrows always look ragged, and when the period arrives for further misbehavior they develop into a long hair here and there, grow thin and sometimes fall out entirely. What must be done? Why, they must be brushed night and morning with a tiny soft brush kept entirely for the purpose. They must be greased religiously every night with a feeding oil and at no time, day or night, must they be rubbed the wrong way.

The oil renews the coloring matter which advancing years diminish, and the brushing promotes a silky quality and snips off the end of the too long hair or pulls it out entirely. The right grooming of the brows—from the center of the forehead to the temples—is a matter of good sense, for the hairs grow this way, and to brush them contrariwise is to encourage roughness.

Learn the Secret of Relaxation.

The household cat is an excellent model for the average woman to keep before her eyes. Let women learn her secret of relaxation, and they may keep the flexibility and grace of youth almost indefinitely. They can also keep their faces unlined for years after the woman who is always in a state of tension has begun to mourn over crow's feet. Pussy has muscles of iron and terrible claws, which she can use to excellent effect when she wants to, but when she doesn't want to use them the muscles are in a state of absolute relaxation and the claws are sheathed in softest velvet. The average woman never relaxes either her mind or her body, and even in sleep she is all tied up in mental and physical knots. She becomes so accustomed to weariness that she does not recognize it as such, and as long as she is able to stand it does not occur to her that she is tired. Society, which has heaped so many petty cares on her shoulders, is more to blame for this characteristic than she is herself, but it isn't always necessary to carry the cares about all the time nor to continue the tension habit after the reason for it is gone.

Care of the Eyes.

Keep a shade on your lamp or gas burner.

Avoid all sudden changes between light and darkness.

Never read by twilight, moonlight or on cloudy days.

Never read or sew directly in front of the light of window or door.

It is best to let the light fall from above obliquely over the left shoulder.

Do not use the eyesight by light so scant that it requires an effort to discriminate.

Never sleep so that on first awakening the eyes shall open on the light of a window.

Never begin to read, write or sew for several minutes after coming from darkness to light.

The moment you are instinctively prompted to rub your eyes that moment stop using them.

If the eyelids are glued together on waking up do not forcibly open them, but apply saliva with the finger. It is the speediest diluent in the world then wash the eyes and face in warm water.

Oranges as Beautifiers.

As oranges act upon the liver they will do much to keep the complexion clear and fair. A famous beauty who lived to be nearly a hundred and kept her apple blossom complexion to the end attributed the remarkable preservation of her charms to her habit of eating oranges in large quantities. Ordinarily she consumed about three dozen a day, and when she left off oranges it was only to turn to other fruits. She drank only water and plenty of it and permitted herself no meat but chicken. This woman also kept her thirty-two teeth unimpaired to the end of her life.

A Camphorated Bath.

A camphorated bath is refreshing after a day's work and is not expensive. After your regular tub bath take a basin of cold water, drop enough of the mixture in the water to make it look milky and then sponge the body. It takes only a few moments, and you will feel repaid for the trouble. For camphorated bath: Tincture of camphor, one ounce; tincture of benzoin, one-half ounce; cologne, two ounces.

A Popular Toy.

One of the newest and most popular toys of the year is the performing manikin. Into a loose garment are fitted all kinds of quaint heads. The hand of the person using the toy is slipped under this garment. Extremely comical effects are gained by the working of the hand and fingers.

The Truth.

It often requires a considerable amount of mental effort to tell the truth. On no account must a child be allowed to shirk this, and the slightest lapse must at once and on the spot be drastically eradicated by punishment.

One form of untruthfulness arises from inaccuracy of observation. Later come exaggeration and romancing, especially if the first signs are thought to be amusing and are rather encouraged than eradicated. Above all, these children must be taught to observe accurately and to use their senses in the proper manner.

Have Your Sons Taught Dancing.

"I would advise every mother to have her sons taught to dance," says a woman of wide social experience. "Once properly learned it is a thing they do not forget and is such a help to them when they begin to go out. The best thing one can do for a boy growing up is to surround him with nice friends and encourage his both giving and going to parties. A boy also ought to be encouraged to take just a little interest in his clothes. Good clothes help to make good manners, and a well cut garment imparts an astonishing amount of courage."

Won His Opponent.

In 1747 Mr. John Brown was invited to become the pastor of a church at Hingham. There was but one opponent to his settlement, a man whom Mr. Brown won over by a stroke of good humor. He asked for the grounds of his opposition. "I like your person and your manner," was the reply, "but your preaching, sir, I disapprove." "Then," said Mr. Brown, "we are agreed. I do not like my preaching very well myself, but how great a folly it is for you and me to set up our opinion against that of the whole parish." The force of this reasoning appealed to the man, and he at once withdrew his objections.—London Saturday Review.

Expressed Differently.

"Madam, you ought to go to a warmer climate."

"For once, doctor, you and my husband are agreed, but he expresses the idea in more emphatic language."—New York Press.

Points For Mothers

Here are ten don'ts that mothers would do well to observe:

Don't yell "shall" and "shan't" and "must" at the little ones or they may wish they had been born before their parents.

Don't tell your children how sweet and good you were as a child, for they may not believe you, judging from their acquaintance of you in later years.

Don't tell the little ones about the early bird and the worm. It's a wormy old chestnut anyway, and, besides, sleep is worth more than worms any day.

Don't hold up some other little girl or boy to your children for them to imitate. They probably know the child better than you do.

Don't send your little ones supperless to bed. If you were hollow you would toss all night.

"Don't whip your children. It is barbarous. If you must do something in that line, kick yourself.

Don't lie to your children and then scold them for lying. Remember who was the father of lies.

Don't try to break their wills. Better break their necks.

Don't act as if superintending a gang of Italians when speaking to your children. You may prevent them from admiring you.

Don't fail to consider that a child has feelings of its own which in contrast to your own best are still as unsullied as snow and as fair as heaven. This may make a better man or woman of you.

Baby's Morning Bath.

Some mothers will bathe baby's body regularly, yet not always wash its head. The baby's head should be washed every day, and it is better to do this at first. While the baby is still in your lap, undressed, but covered with a baby's blanket, wash its face and dry it; wash out its mouth with clean warm water or a weak solution of boric acid; wash each eye separately, then soap its head thoroughly, then soap its body, and then, with a firm hold, as follows:

With the palm of your left hand under the baby's back and with two fingers around its arm, with your right hand firmly hold him by the legs; then place him in his bathtub, still supporting his head with your left hand, and with your right hand wash carefully. Do not get the soap in his eyes.

The baby will enjoy this hugely, and even a young baby will splash and think it great fun.

The baby should be dressed quickly, but not hurriedly.

Have each piece of clothing warm, so that the baby will have a warm, cozy feeling after it is dressed.

When giving baby his bath be sure to have everything you can possibly need ready at hand.

Cure For Nail Biting.

Nail biting is a very common habit among children and is often the result of an extremely nervous temperament.

It is a good plan to take such a child to a doctor, who will probably give him a good tonic to brace up the nervous system.

The child should also have pointed out to him how ugly his nails and fingers are getting. Show him how to keep his nails clean and well trimmed and try to induce him to take a pride in them.

A good plan is to interest him in kindergarten work of some kind that will keep both his hands and brain employed. If this is done the chances are that very soon the habit will disappear.

Value of Olive Oil.

For a delicate child give nightly a warm bath, followed by a gentle, thorough rubbing with warm olive oil all over the body and limbs. This simple safe, home treatment works wonders if given a fair trial.

Women

Cannot be Strong and Healthy Unless the Kidneys are Well.

Weak, lame or aching backs are the first sign of Kidney Trouble.

Under ordinary conditions they ought to be strong and ready to bear the burdens of life.

It is hard to do housework with a weak and aching back. Backaches come from sick kidneys, and what a lot of trouble sick kidneys cause.

But they can't help it. If more work is put on them than they can stand it is not to be wondered that they get out of order.

Weak back is simply a warning from the kidneys and should be attended to immediately so as to avoid years of terrible suffering from kidney troubles.

Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you in the same way as they have cured thousands of others.

Miss Alberta B. Clarke, Stoney Creek, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with kidney trouble for several years; my back was weak, I had such terrible headaches, and was so restless I could not sleep at night and tried everything without any benefit. Meantime a friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, so I got four boxes and they completely cured me. I now feel as well as I ever did and would advise everyone suffering from Kidney Disease to try them."

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

In ordering specify "Doan's."

More bread and Better bread

——And the Reason for it

A STRONG FLOUR can only be made from strong wheat. Manitoba hard wheat is acknowledged the strongest in the world—and that is the kind used for Purity Flour.

But that's not all. Every grain of this wheat contains both high-grade and low-grade properties In separating the high grade parts from the low-grade the Western Canada Flour Mills put the hard wheat through a process so exacting that not a single low-grade part has the remotest chance of getting in with the high-grade.

Of course this special process is more expensive to operate but it means a lot to Purity flour users—that's why we use it.

It means that Purity Flour is made entirely of the highest-grade flour parts of the strongest wheat in the world.

It means a high class, strong flour and therefore yields "more bread and better bread."

Purity may cost a little more than some flours, but results prove it the cheapest and most economical after all.

Held For Manslaughter.

Montreal, April 27.—That Louis A. Dionne and John Louis Keiffer are both criminally responsible for the death of Miss Bessie Smith, the domestic who was run down and instantly killed by an automobile on the Victoria bridge, was the verdict brought in by a coroner's jury yesterday afternoon, at the inquest held on the body by Coroner McMahon.

Dionne, who keeps a saloon, is the owner of the automobile that killed the young woman. It was driven by Keiffer, an unlicensed driver, and from the testimony adduced at the inquest, at an excessive speed. Both men will have to face a charge of manslaughter.

Property for G.T.P.

Montreal, April 27.—The property known in Montreal as the Seminary Block, opposite the general postoffice, embracing 17,000 square feet, has been leased for 99 years on the basis of $50 a square foot. The structure, a ten-storey one, which will be built in 1911, is said to be for the Grand Trunk Pacific. This is the first lease of valuable property here for half a century. When the Canadian Pacific Railway bought the St. Lawrence Hall site for a round half million, the Seminary Block apposite could have been purchased outright for $40,000, whereas the lease price is now about $800,000.

Americans Get Valuable Lands.

St. John's, Nfld., April 27.—Labrador timber lands, covering an area of 13,580 square miles, have been transferred by three St. John's men for a quarter of a million dollars and 49 per cent. of the proceeds of future development, to a syndicate of Americans.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Unchanged—Hogs Up at Chicago, But Lower at Buffalo.

LONDON, April 26.—London and Liverpool cables quoted live cattle (American) firm, at 14c to 15c, dressed weight; refrigerator beef steady, at 11c to 11½c per pound.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, April 26.—The railways reported 105 carloads of live stock at the City Market, consisting of 1743 cattle, 891 hogs, 315 sheep, 598 calves and 22 horses.

Exporters.

There were a few cattle of export weights. One load, weighing 1200 lbs., Manitoba steers, was sold by Maybee & Wilson at $7.60, which was the top price paid. Bulls sold at from $5.50 to $6.35. The above load of steers was bought by the Harris Abattoir Company for local use.

Butchers.

Geo. Rowntree bought 700 cattle, more than half that on sale, for the Harris Abattoir Company, as follows: Steers and heifers at $6.15 to $7.05; cows, $3.75 to $5.85; bulls, $5 to $6, and a few choice quality cattle of export weights at $7.30 to $7.60.

Feeders.

Harry Murby reports few feeders or stockers on sale that were being offered as such. Mr. Murby got 50 cattle, 600 to 800 lbs. each, at $4.50 to $5.25.

Milkers and Springers.

There was a strong market for milkers and springers, of which there was a fairly good supply. Prices were firm, at $40 to $65 each, with one cow at $70 and another at $90. But it must be remembered that the latter two cows were something that is seldom seen as to quality and size.

Veal Calves.

Receipts of veal calves were liberal. Prices were much easier—so much so that some of the drovers stated that they had to sell them for less money than they paid. But they paid too much, when quality is considered. Calves are still a high price. They ranged from $3 to $7 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

The sheep and lamb market was firm at steady prices. Ewes, $6.50 to $7.25; rams, $5 to $6 per cwt.; yearlings, $8 to $9.50 per cwt.; spring lambs, $4 to $8 each.

Hogs.

The bulk of the hogs sold as follows: Selects, fed and watered, at $9, and $8.75 f.o.b. cars at country points.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, April 26.—Cattle—steady; prime steers, $8 to $8.40.

Veals—Receipts, 250 head; fairly active and 25c lower, $8 to $9.25.

Hogs—Receipts, 1500 head; fairly active and 5c to 10c lower; heavy and mixed, $9.75 to $9.80; yorkers, $9.60 to $9.75; pigs, $9.60 to $9.65; roughs, $8.75 to $8.80; stags, $7.50 to $8; dairies, $9.50 to $9.75.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 4000 head; sheep fairly active and steady; lambs slow and 15c lower; lambs, $7.35 to $9.25; yearlings, $7.75 to $8.25.

New York Live Stock.

NEW YORK, April 26.—Beeves—Receipts, 749; nothing doing; feeling weak; dressed beef slow, at 11c to 13c.

Calves—Receipts, none, and no trading; feeling steady at yesterday's decline; dressed calves weak; city dressed veals, 9c to 14c; country dressed, 8c to 13c.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 2815; trade slow; prices weak to 10c to 15c lower; sheep nominal; medium lambs, all chipped, $8.

Hogs—Receipts, 1751; nominally steady at yesterday's quotations.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, April 26.—Cattle—Receipts 4000; market steady; steers, $4.25 to $8.50; cows, $3.25 to $6.25; heifers, $4.25 to $7.50; bulls, $4.75 to $6.40; calves, $3 to $8.00; stockers and feeders, $4.75 to $7.

Hogs—Receipts 9500; market 5c to 10c higher; choice heavy, $9.60 to $9.70; butchers, $9.40 to $9.67½; light mixed, $9.45 to $9.55; choice light, $9.55 to $9.65; packing, $9.50 to $9.60; pigs, $9.20 to $9.40; bulk of sales, $9.55 to $9.60.

Don't Want to Submit Rates.

Ottawa, April 27.—Great efforts are being made by emissaries of the Commercial Cable Co. to stave off the threatened order to submit its rates to the consideration of the Railway Commission.

If the Commercial Cable Co. is forced to have its rates regulated by the Railway Commission, it is probable it would get around the difficulty by doing Canadian cable business through Newfoundland and the United States.

This would give strength to Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux's plan for a state-owned cable.

Turned Back at Border.

Port Huron, April 27.—When a girl, giving the name of Bessie Moorstown, 20 years old, and claiming a home in Toronto, was detained by the immigration officers here, she cried as though her heart would break.

"Why, I'm on my way to Detroit; I'm going to be married when I arrive there," she sobbed.

But the U. S. officers thought that she had been deceived, and in view of the fact that she was penniless, she was given a ticket and sent back to her Toronto home.

Report Was Inaccurate.

Montreal, April 27.—There is nothing to the story published in an evening paper to the effect that Sir William Van Horne's retirement from the chairmanship was to permit Sir Thomas Shaughnessy to take the dual position of leader of the Conservative party and chairman of the C.P.R. The position will be abolished at the next meeting of the board of directors.

Jewels In a Pedestal.

New York, April 27.—The mysterious disappearance of $100,000 worth of jewels of the late Mrs. Theodore Octavia Moss, widow of the late theatrical manager, has been cleared up by the accidental striking of a foot on a secret spring, which released a door in a pedestal in the home of Mrs. Moss on Madison avenue and revealed a dazzling array of gems.

American MSS. Brings $43,250.

London, April 27.—A collection of official correspondence relating to the colonial period of America brought $43,250 at Sotherby's yesterday. The papers are addressed chiefly to William Blathwayt, Secretary of State and commissioner of trade and plantations, and cover the period from 1683 to 1710. They were purchased by a Bond street dealer.

Albanian Rising Serious.

Constantinople, April 27.—The Albanian risings has again become serious, and the Government has decided to despatch two brigades of reinforcements. The reported capture of Kachanik endangers communications with Uskub and threatens the complete isolation of the Turkish army in Kossovo Plain, in Upper Albania.

"The Queens"

Toronto, the Queen City of Canada, has much of the beautiful. It is found in many handsome churches, artistic public buildings, imposing offices, public drives, parks and gardens. Its Government Buildings are fine. Of hotels there are many; none, however, approaching the Queen's for perfect service, quiet comfort, and homelike surroundings and the peculiar excellence of its cuisine. Its fame is far-reaching, and many remember with pleasure the hours spent within its hospitable walls. The charges are based on the American and European plan, and are as follows:

Rooms without bath (American plan), $3 per day up; Rooms with bath (American plan), $3.50 per day up; Rooms (European plan.. $1.50 per day up.

A PUBLIC BENEFIT

Peterborough People Greatly Interested in the Generous Offer of McDermid and Jury Drug Co.

The people have already demonstrated that they would rather trust a man who is naturally honest than one who is honest only because he had to be.

McDermid & Jury have a firmly established reputation for square dealing and sterling honesty. When they told the people that Rexall Remedies are the purest and most dependable medicines that it is possible for modern science to produce, and that they would tell the public what each one of these 300 or more remedies contained, and that they sold Rexall Remedies on their personal guarantee that they would give entire satisfaction or they would not cost the user a single cent, they were believed.

Ever since this announcement the McDermid & Jury store has been largely patronized by people buying Rexall Remedies, all of which proves that this store has the confidence of the people and that honesty is the best policy.

There is no "cure-all" among the Rexall Remedies. There are different and separate medicines, each one devised for a certain human ailment or a class of ailments closely allied. For instance Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are recommended for the positive relief of stomach irritation, indigestion, flatulency, and dyspepsia. They are rich in Bismuth-Subnitrate, Pepsin and Carminatives. They are prepared by special processes which perfect and enhance the great remedial value of these well-known medicinal agents. This remedy sells for 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.00 per package. Every one suffering from stomach disorder should try Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, inasmuch as they cost nothing if they do not satisfy.

Remember, McDermid & Jury's drug store is the only store in Peterborough where these remedies may be obtained, and every one in need of medicine is urged to investigate and take advantage of the frank and generous manner in which they are sold.

Don't forget the two concerts marking the opening of the new T.A.S. Hall on Simcoe Street, on the evenings of TO-NIGHT and Thursday, April 27th and 28th. Miss Margaret McCann, Scottish Australian Vocalist. All seats reserved. Plan now open at Mr. Lynch's Drug Store. Tickets 50c and $1.00. 2d94

MR. AND MRS. R. J. DEVEY WERE HONOURED BY "GEISHA" COMPANY

Members of the Peterborough Amateur Operatic Company and Orchestra Present Them With Several Handsome Pieces of Silver as a Mark of Appreciation of Their Services---Enjoyable Social Evening Spent.

The presentation of a beautiful silver pudding dish, accompanied by a silver cream pitcher and sugar bowl, to Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Devey featured the social evening, held by the members of the Peterborough Amateur Operatic Society, or more familiarly the "Geisha" Company in St. John's School house last evening. The event was arranged by the members of the Company in order to give them an opportunity of showing their thorough appreciation of the efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Devey in promoting the success of the "Geisha," and in accomplishing the consummation of an organization that has helped to bring Peterborough into the calcium light of general publicity more than any other similar enterprise has ever done. It was a surprise to those who were honoured, but none the less merited, and it is pleasing indeed to note such a spirit of harmony and co-operation between the heads of the organization and the individual members. One of the secrets of the great success scored is beyond peradventure, the presence of that spirit to which reference has been made and which was clearly indicated by last night's successful event.

Mr. and Mrs. Devey have worked energetically and industriously for the welfare of the "Geisha" performance; they have sacrificed much of their time and risked much financially for the success of the event, and it must be indeed pleasing to them, not only that the presentation scored a triumph, but that their services have been appreciated by those in the best position to know just how great those services were—the members of the company themselves. Praise and thanks from them is even more sweet than from the outside public.

Nearly all the members of the cast were present at last night's event, and to the Examiner representative, who had received a kind invitation to be present they seemed like one big happy family. However, there was nothing exclusive about the family circle: the scribe was received as a brother, and appreciated the heartiness of his welcome.

With Mr. Nat. Greenhalgh, the "Marquis Imari" of the production acting as chairman in an efficient and graceful manner, a very enjoyable musical programme formed the first act of the evening's proceedings. Every number was warmly applauded in a manner that left no doubt as to the enjoyment of the auditors.

The programme was as follows:

Piano selection—Miss Houdry.
Vocal solo—Mr. Bradley.
Vocal solo—Mr. Lee.
Recitation—Mr. R. Sutcliffe.
Solo—Mr. John King.
Vocal duet—Miss Lee and Mr. A. Lee.

Mr. W. Common, in a neat speech, referred to the services rendered by Mr. and Mrs. Devey, in connection with the performance of the "Geisha." While all the members of the cast had worked hard the great brunt of the work fell upon their shoulders, and the members of the company were, indeed, indebted to them for the interest they had taken. The Operatic Society, he was sure, thoroughly appreciated what Mr. and Mrs. Devey had done for the production.

Mr. R. Sutcliffe, the business manager of the company, and Mr. R. Sturgeon, the stage manager, also expressed the feelings of the company towards Mr. and Mrs. Devey and Mrs. J. E. Firth made the presentation at the same time making a neat speech of congratulation and thanks.

Mr. Devey, in replying for himself and Mrs. Devey, thanked the members of the Operatic Company most heartily for their kind presentation, and for the co-operation and assistance they had accorded in the work of preparing for the presentation. Such a success could only be scored with the entire company working as a unit and he believed that the chief reason for the splendid outcome of the "Geisha" was that every member was quite willing to be told what to do. There had been work and worry in the project for himself and Mrs. Devey, but their efforts had been made pleasant by the co-operation of everyone connected with the enterprise. He thanked the ladies of the Company for the way in which they had worked, and added his thanks to Mr. Sturgeon, the stage manager, and Mr. Sutcliffe, the business manager, for their untiring labours on behalf of the company. They were grateful, too, to Mr. W. E. Conway, whose assistance made it possible to secure some of the costumes, by means of which the affair was so elaborately staged. Speaking of the presentation itself Mr. Devey pointed out that while they did not win a prize they had been even more greatly honoured by having had His Excellency the Governor General come to see the production for a second time. The production had splendid principals and vocalists, their chorus had been splendidly costumed, and he was sure they had with them some of the prettiest girls that had appeared in Toronto during the week of the competition. (Applause.) Mr. Devey concluded by once again thanking the company for their assistance, and expressing his gratitude for the splendid gift which was, indeed a surprise to himself ad to Mrs. Devey.

Following the presentation the gathering sat down to a most enjoyable banquet prepared by the ladies of the company, the excellence of the repast showing that their genius is not confined entirely to the successful presentation of comic operas. Ample justice was done to the array of good things prepared and the company fraternized most pleasantly around the festive board.

A short programme of speeches brought the evening to a close. Mr. W. MacLaren, the "Won-Hi" of the company, contributed a comic recitation that elicited much applause, and was forced to respond to an encore, after which speeches were made by Messrs. W. E. Conway, Smith, Lee, Frank Hickey, Greenhalgh, J. Butcher, and others, referring to the success of the presentation, and to the splendid work done by Mr. and Mrs. Devey.

Mr. Greenhalgh in his remarks paid a graceful tribute to the work of the chorus. As one of the principals he wished to thank them for the assistance they had rendered. No bouquets had come their way, but the principals were, he was sure, grateful for the help they had been given by the members of the chorus.

A vote of thanks to the chairman, Mr. Greenhalgh, was enthusiastically passed, and Mr. MacLaren, in his inimitable style, thanked the ladies for the repast they had prepared, after which a most enjoyable evening was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem and "Auld Lang Syne," followed by three cheers for Mr. and Mrs. Devey.

No Joy Riding For Johnson Will Have License Revoked

San Francisco, April 26.—Jack Johnson will do no joy riding about the crags and precipices when he should be punching the bag or dessicating the countenances of his training partners.

"Tex" Rickard, manager of the big fight has arranged that the negro champion shall do no mountain climbing in his automobile. In fact if Johnson tries to drive that speed car of his more than about four miles a day he will have no driver's license.

The news that Johnson was coming to town with an automobile guaranteed to do one hundred miles an hour, some hours, caused Rickard no perturbation. The promoter has a surprise up his sleeve that is sure to cause the black much sorrow. Johnson's frequent clashes with the police over the speed law caused Rickard to frame up a nice little deal with the authorities, and the minute Johnson throws on high speed and tries to demolish telegraph poles with his auto, just that minute Johnson will be arrested and his license revoked. In that case he cannot drive a car again in California.

"I'm doing this to keep Johnson out of the hospital, not out of jail. He might get good training in prison, never in an hospital," chuckles Rickard.

The Seal Rock House Gymnasium where Johnson is to train, is being put in tip-top shape, and everything will be in such complete order that he may begin training the day he arrives.

The negroes of Oakland are planning a great reception for the champion when he arrives. A delegation with numerous coloured brass bands will meet Johnson at the depot and escort him to the hotel, where there will be speech-making and cork-popping—and things.

THEIR CHURCH SERVICE

Court Stanley A. O. F. Will Attend St. John's First Sunday in June.

The regular meeting of Court Stanley, C.O.F., was held last night in S. O. E. Hall, the Chief Ranger, Bro. Brotherson, presiding. One candidate was duly initiated and one proposition received for membership. Considerable business was done for the good of the court, and the annual church service of the court will be held on the evening of the first Sunday in June, to St. John's church, when the Rev. Canon Davidson will give an address. All members from visiting courts are cordially invited.

PLEADED POVERTY

Begged Lodging and Has $1,725 in Cash.

St. Louis, April 23.—Giovanni Grappi, thirty-five years old, on his way to Italy to marry one of two sisters, he does not know which, was apparently in distress when he appealed to Patrolman Biggio at Union Station for assistance. He said he was sick and had no money to pay for medicine.

At the City Dispensary it was announced Grappi was suffering from a headache superinduced by port wine. Grappi was told that he had better go to a hotel for the night and he would feel better in the morning.

He pathetically explained to the policeman and dispensary attendants that he had no money to pay for hotel accommodation. He was taken to the Central District Station for a night' lodging. When he was searched $25 and foreign exchange for $1,699.50 were found in his pockets.

He explained that he had saved his wealth while working in mines at Tuberville, Tex., at $2 a day. He told the officers that he was on his way to Venice to marry Constantina Fiatt, if she is still single.

"Maybe, if she is married, I will marry her sister, Johanne. "I will marry one of them."

DON'T FOOL WITH THE GRIP

The after results of the grip are apt to be exceedingly serious. It leaves in its wake weakness and a run-down condition in general.

Prof. R. E. R. Hicks of Maplewood, Ala., says that after grip, Vinol restored his strength and cured his cough after different physicians and cough syrups had failed and he considers Vinol one of the greatest blessings ever afforded to the public.

WAS INDUCTED

Peterborough Presbytery Met at Port Hope Last Night.

The Peterborough Presbytery met in the Mill Street Presbyterian church in Port Hope last night, at 8 p.m., and inducted the Rev. W. H. Brokenshire, M.A., into the pastorate of the congregation. Rev. James Skene, of Baltimore, presided, and Rev. A. K. McLeod, of Brighton, preached. After the installation Rev. J. G. Potter, of Peterborough, gave the charge to the new minister, and Rev. Wm. Johnston, of Millbrook, addressed the congregation. Rev. Mr. Skene, who has been in charge of the congregation during the vacancy, was the recipient of a beautiful address and a handsome marble clock.

A STONY CREEK MAN IS FOUND DEAD IN A BARN

Police Believe That He Was Murdered---Found With an Ugly Wound in the Back of His Head---Dead Man's Son is Arrested by the Police.

Special to The Examiner.

Hamilton, Ont., April 27. — Suspicious circumstances in connection with the death of Eli Fenton, one of best known residents of tSony Creek district, has led the police to believe he was murdered. The old gentleman, who lived with his brother, was found by him yesterday noon dead, behind the barn, with an ugly wound in the back of his head. An inquest is being held.

At 1 o'clock this morning Chief Twiss, of Dundas, arrested Thomas Fenton, son of the dead man. "We are not holding him on a charge of murder," said Chief Twiss, "we are just taking precautions." Eli Fenton was a man of considerable wealth.

ONTARIO'S PROMINENT PART IN THE MILLING INDUSTRY

New Ontario Milling Concern, The Maple Leaf Milling Co., Limited, Has Under Way Construction of a 6,000 Barrel Mill and a Million Bushel Elevator.

Ontario is certainly going to play a very prominent part in the future of the Milling industry in Canada. According to leading Milling interests, it is only a matter of time when all the largest mills in the country will be situated at different points about the lakes that surround the province, mainly because such sites seem to have some advantage over any others that may be selected in any other part of the country. It may be that for the small local market that surrounds a mill there may be other points just as attractive, but when it comes to building a great big mill that must look to the export as well as to the home market, in order to be able to dispose of its large output, officials of different companies are practically agreed that these Ontario points are the most advantageous of all.

And so it is that we find that the new big Ontario milling concern which will be known as the Maple Leaf Milling Co., Limited, and will absorb the Maple Leaf Flour Mills Co., Ltd., and with it the Hedley Shaw Milling Co., has already under way the construction of a 6,000-barrel mill, a million bushel elevator, and storage warehouses out on the new piers that have been constructed at Port Colborne. Naturally it takes a big pile of money to carry through such big undertakings, and the men who are at the head of the new company, including Mr. Cawthra Mulock of Toronto; Mr. Hedley Shaw, founder and head of the Hedley Shaw Milling Co., and Mr. D. C. Cameron, the Western lumberman who organized the Maple Leaf Flour Mills Co., Ltd., have supplied $1,000,000 of additional cash capital, which besides permitting of the completion of the entire new plant already under way at Port Colborne, and the construction of some 15 new elevators throughout the West, will provide the new Company with further working capital to go right ahead and get its full share of the larger business that is offering, not only throughout Canada, but more especially in Great Britain and various foreign markets.

Just what the elevator capacity of Canada is going to be a few years hence, it is almost impossible to say, but some idea of how it is going to increase may be gathered from the remark of Mr. Wm. Whyte, the Vice-President of the Canadian Pacific Ry. to the effect that while the Western country was now producing at the rate of about 135,000,000 of wh at, that by the end of 1915 it will have increased to over five hundred million bushels, and that it would not be very long after that before Canada is producing more wheat even than all of the United States. When it is remembered that last year our neighbors to the south produced somewhat over seven hundred million bushels, it will be seen that the mills of Canada will have all they can do to cope with the Western crop.

As Robert Meighen, of the Lake of the Woods sometimes says, "Up to the present time the amount of the available lands under cultivation does not exceed the amount of land that has been set aside for roads."

Incidentally, Toronto will benefit by the organization of the new big milling Company, as it will have its head office in that city, while all its mills, with one exception, are situated within the Province of Ontario, in addition to the Port Colborne mill, the locations being at St. Catharines, Thorold, Welland and Kenora. The only mill at present outside the province is the one at Brandon, Manitoba.

Many Slogans Come In Great Interest Is Shown

Every mail continues to bring a bunch of "Slogans" into the Examiner office and the interest in the contet continues to grow day by day. The competition will be open until Friday night at 8 o'clock so that there is still plenty of time for anyone who has not yet sent in his guess to have a try for the diamond ring which Mr. R. C. Elliott of the International College of Ophthalmology is offering for the best slogan submitted.

The only condition in regard to the contest is that attempts must be sent in on the coupon published daily in the Examiner. The results will be announced on Saturday and the slogans received will also be published without of course the names of the parties sending them in. The coupons should be sent to the "Slogan Editor" of the Examiner. Don't make the mistake one contestant did to-day and send in an envelope addressed "The Slow Gin Editor." Such addresses cast an undesirable reflection upon the temperance principles of the staff.

Subscriptions Continue To Come In For The Chimes

Although no canvass has been made during the past three or four days subscriptions continue to come in to the chimes committee in many cases unsolicited. So far no less than 169 subscriptions have been received representing a total amount of $2000.

Among the letters received to-day one from Mr. T. F. Matthews containing a cheque says: "I am pleased indeed that you have made the matter one of public interest, and allowed those outside the Church an opportunity of expressing their practical goodwill."

Mr. W. H. Hill in sending in a contribution writes: "I am glad you are making good headway and trust that the amount may yet reach $2500 or $3000. It is a satisfaction to see that the work has been pushed energetically and the chimes if they are good ones will be pleasing to everybody."

Trustees Of St. Paul's In A Peculiar Situation

(Toronto Star.)

The late Miss Christian Scott, of Peterborough, willed $1,000 to St. Paul's Presbyterian church there, for the maintenance of a mision church in the south ward, and to-day the trustees of St. Paul's asked Mr. Justice Riddell what they should do with the money. His Lordship directed that the matter go on trial.

Between the making of the will and Miss Scott's death St. Paul's did establish a mission church in the South Ward. Thi mission is now an independent church, and it is known as the Knox church.

"Shall we pay the money to St. Paul's church, the congregation of which is again building, or shall we establish another mission in the south ward?" ask the trustees of St. Paul's.

WILL GO TO GAOL

Several Men Who Could Not Pay Their Fines at Police Court This Morning Will Pass From the Ken of Society for a Few Days.

LARGE DOCKET TO-DAY

The revenue of the city will not go up many points from the amount of money received from the police court this morning as most of the law breakers had more time than money and preferred taking the prescribed number of days rather than part with the loose change, if they had any.

Thomas McDonald, ("Mousie"), the well known heel walker, pleaded not guilty to being a vagrant. The artist exploded a sorrowful story, but nevertheless his worship inflicted a fine of two dollars to be paid forthwith with the alternative of fifteen days. Thomas decided to retire from society for the period mentioned.

John Peters, an Indian, pleaded guilty fo having been loaded with too big a cargo of fire water and was given an option of a two dollar fine or ten days on the heights. John accepted the time with a "brave" smile.

James D. Middleton, a citizen of Toronto, received ten days as he was unable to negotiate the financial obligation attendant on a fine of two dollars.

An Indian list man pleaded guilty to having partaking of the invigorating "spirits" yesterday afternoon. His financial circumstances were at such a low ebb that it looked as if he would be forced to take fifteen days instead of paying a fine of ten dollars, but his father came to the rescue.

The young lad who was convicted of stealing a pair of boots from Mr. Downs, a George St. shoemaker and pawning them at a second hand store, was allowed to go after paying a fine of $2.25. His Worship strongly urged the boy to forego the dubious pleasures of bad company and become a good honest citizen.

TRIED TO FLEE

Three Convicts Saw up Boards in Workshop Floor and Hide, But are Soon Dicovered.

New York, April 25.—Three convicts, with the aid of some of their fellow prisoners in the cart and waggon shop, made an unsuccessful attempt to escape from Sing Sing yesterday afternoon. They were discovered about three hours later in their hiding place.

The prisoners are Otto Werner, sent up from Brooklyn last January for receiving stolen goods, for less than one year and two months and not more than two years and four months; George Endore, sent from Brooklyn, June 10, 1908, for more than five years nor less than four years for burglary, and Bruno Berah, of Rockland County, sent up for grand larceny last November for not less than three years nor more than six years and six months.

All three were employed in the cart and waggon department. They were missed when noses were counted shortly before 5 o'clock. The keepers hustled the other convicts to their cells and then the search for the missing men began.

Keeper Healey discovered the three convicts huddled together between the flooring and the ground of the shop, where there was a space of about fifteen inches. They had sawed out several boards in the floor, and after they had crawled in, the boards were replaced, the other prisoners piling boards and tools over the place. They probably counted on boring their way through the wall during the night and then climbing the iron fence at the river edge.

Warden Frost says neither water nor provisions of any kind were taken by the men, and they probably would have been sorry before they got from the building that they had made such a foolhardy attempt to get away.

Though there is practically no such thing as really pure water, the adults of the family need not do without a beverage that benefits. Regal Lager's absolute purity is its maker's pride; and this delicious brew is also a health-helper.

SATISFACTORY TO BOTH.

The Examiner actively supported the proposal to permit the Canadian General Electric Company to develop power at the Waterworks dam, as one entirely in the interests of the city, and one which, while costing the city absolutely nothing, would result in very important direct and collateral advantages. It was pointed out on the assurance of a gentleman associated with the works, that, not only would there be an immediate extension of the works, costing $250,000, but the plans proposed, involve extensions to cost $600,000 or $700,000. It is a great pleasure to have the assurance of Mr. Frederic Nicholls, General Manager, that the estimate was understated—that the initial figure of extension is to be equal to the ultimate figure first mentioned; that is, the cost of extensions will be given at half a million and increase ultimately to a million. What this means in structural expenditure and the employment of wages in the city can easily be seen; but the important character of the situation is that the perpetual employment of labour, perpetual expenditure of wages in the city will be very greatly increased and continues increasingly for all time. We have made an excellent bargain with the Canadian General Electric Company—one satisfactory to both parties, and have more reason than ever for pride in the possession of one of the most important industrial establishments in the Dominion.

DISCIPLINE THE RASCALS.

It is a pity that some means can not be devised for getting at, exposing and black-listing the Canadian exporters who are black-eyeing Canadian credit for business honesty. From time to time the miscreants who commit the outrage of shipping apples to the British market in packages, with the top layer a fair showing of prime fruit, and the bottom or under layers a foul show of wind-falls and inferior fruit, are detected. The idiot of the fable who killed the goose that laid the golden eggs; must have married and had numerous descendants, for we have some of them with us always, in the shape of the rascally fruit exporter. And he crops up in another form. The report of Mr. H. R. Poussette, Dominion Trade Commissioner in Durban, South Africa, tells us of lumber shipments from Canada that fell short of the standard of specification in several cases, and tht in consequence it will be difficult to get any more Canadian export business in that market, which is one of the most promising markets for Canadian produce that has opened in many a day, one in which honestly-filled orders would have meant a perpetual harvest of orders. Such an action as that described is not only business folly, but an actual crime against the country, an act of treason to our best interests. A "combine" of honest dealers and shippers, to discipline the rascals should be regarded as a beneficent conspiracy in the interests of the national name for honest, square dealing.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The riots in China, said to be caused by hunger, will not probably amount to much. Men short of bread will not have much stomach for fighting.

Toronto's water problem is as vexatious as her street railway problem. the microbe seems to have the city as much by the throat as the railway managers. After an extension at great expense by the water works intake into the lake with a view of securing more uncontaminated water, the people are now told by Dr. Sheard, medical health officer, that the lake water 2,000 feet out from the present intake ,has been fouler recently than that at the intake. Peterborough is to be congratulated upon having a source of water supply comparatively free from contamination.

THE LURE OF THE WEST.

The tide of immigration of United States citizens into Canada is alarming the United States people, and President Taft is called upon to take some measures to lessen or stop the flow. The New York Commercial thus discourses upon the subject:

Many of the very best types of our Western farmers are selling out their properties, "pulling up stakes" and rushing northward to a new "land ofpromise." The fact is full of significance, and it is explainable initially by the fact that unusually liberal terms are open for the taking-up of Government homesteads in Canada. It is estimated by the immigration bureau that the amount of money taken out of this country by these 95,370 emigrants to Canada averages at least $1,000 to a man. It is also disclosed by this investigation that since March 31. 1897, down to March 31, 1909, 425,460 persons left the United States to reside in Canada permanently. This means not only a great loss in population and citizenship, but also an enormous drain of our money into Canada—and chiefly gold, at that. It is significant, too, that of these ninety-five thousand and more emigrants, 57,576 were American-born, and 37,794 were foreign-born. We are losing to Canada not only a large number of the best "old-stock" population, but also many of the best Americanized foreign-born people. Prisident Taft's attention has been called sharply, it is said, to the tide of American migration into Canada, and it is thought that efforts will be made in some way to stem it.

There are two or three causes contributory to these conditions. In the first place the attractions that Canada is able to present in the form of fertile lands at reasonable prices, and the superior civil conditions and form of government—in fine the opportunities for the achievement and enjoyment of a generally higher citizenship are potent factors. Then, perhaps, the oppressively high protective tariff, which hits the western farmer of the United States particularly hard has no small influence in determining the Hegira. The money-making microbe, such as has influenced the stripling of many Ontario farmers to the West, is another magnet. The lure of gold, whether it is in the form of golden grain, golden sands, or golden quartz, has always, and always will, be irresistible to a large proportion of mankind. Meanwhile the stream of United States immigration continues to flow Canada-ward, and we welcome it. It is gilt-edged in a double sense; it is composed principally of farmers who are accustomed to similar agricultural conditions, as will be found in the West. It is gilt-edged in another sense, for as the New York Commercial states, nearly all these United States immigrants have plenty of money—"mostly gold."

Horse Show Opens.

Toronto, April 27.—Back in its old stamping grounds once more, the Canadian National Horse Show last night at the Armouries, in the fifteenth year of its career, exhibited a dash and spirit which shows that whatever years may do to horses individually, age cannot stale nor custom wither their infinite variety collectively.

There has never been a finer display of the noble animal, and the long series of entries, stretching over the week numbering nearly 1,000, and attracting the rank and fashion and beauty and talent of the land, will establish a record for Canada. There has never been a greater attendance on an opening night, and while the ladies reserved their most brilliant frocks for the benefit of His Excellency next Friday, there was color and plumage sufficient to make an interesting picture.

BJORNSON DEAD.

Norwegian Author Dies With Family About Him.

Paris, April 27.—Bjornstjerne Bjornson died here last night, surrounded by his family. The end was peaceful.

The last serious illness of the novelist extended over nearly a year. He was brought to Paris in the early part of last November for special medical treatment. In Paris, however, he was unable to receive the treatment for arterial sclerosis, from which he was suffering, but notwithstanding this, he showed marked improvement for a time, due to his wonderful vitality. Again last February his death was expected momentarily.

Charities Conference.

Guelph, April 27.—A bigger convention than hitherto was planned here yesterday by President J. P. Downey, M.P., Vice-President J. J. Kelso and Secretary F. M. Nicholson of the Canadian Conference of Charities and Correction. It is to be held at the City Hall, June 22-24. About 300 visitors are expected.

Sore, Chafed Aching Feet

Made Well and Comfortable by the Soothing Effects of DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

What misery many endure from sore, chafed and aching feet.

Tightly imprisoned in the modern shoe the feet perspire and the skin is chafed and irritated until it is in anything but a healthful condition. Possibly you never thought of Dr. Chase's Ointment in this connection, but it brings wonderful relief and comfort almost instantly.

Powders are often worse than useless, because they clog the pores of the skin and prevent healthful action.

Dr. Chase's Ointment is so healing and soothing that it takes out the itching, burning, stinging sensations, and makes walking a pleasure.

It keeps the skin soft and pliable and prevents the formation of corns and bunions.

The better you become acquainted with Dr. Chase's Ointment the more you will marvel at the scores of ways in which it can be used wherever there is itching of the skin or a sore or wound that refuses to heal.

For chafing, skin irritation, ivy poison, stings of insects, barbers' itch, chilblains, eczema, and itching piles, Dr. Chase's Ointment is the standard cure.

Try it when occasion arises and you will wonder how you ever got along without this great skin treatment. It brings relief quickly and is almost magical, as a healer of raw, inflamed skin.

Do not be satisfied with a substitute. If your dealer does not keep Dr. Chase's Ointment, write for a free sample box to Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Sarnia Wants Indians' Lands.

Sarnia, April 27.—The Sarnia civic officials are endeavoring to purchase the six thousand acres of land in the reservation and annex it to the city. The Indians voted unanimously against selling their property. They claim that the officials are looking for some way in which to get the redmen away from that locality. The officials will seek the aid of the Department at Ottawa.

Uprising Was Planned.

Havana, April 27.—Indictments were returned yesterday against Gen. Estenoz, the negro leader, and twenty other negroes. The evidence indicated extensive preparations for a general uprising against the Government on May 24.

Kingston Youth Injured.

Kingston, April 27.—While breaking a jam of logs at Maynooth, John Lynchock had a leg broken and received internal injuries. He has reached the Hotel Dieu after a two weeks' journey. He was pushed on a railway truck over twenty miles to the nearest station. A man ten feet from him was jammed to a pulp.

Died From His Wounds.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., April 27.—Salvatore Gianola, the Italian wounded by a revolver shot in Little Italy Saturday afternoon, died at the Marine Hospital yesterday morning. Veto Longo, who did the shooting, is still at large, although diligent search is being made for him. It is believed he is hiding in the woods.

Hall of Fame.

The Hall of Fame For Great Americans is the name of a building on University heights, in New York city, in which are inscribed the names of famous American men and women. Nominations for the honor are made by the public and submitted to a committee of 100 eminent citizens. In the case of men fifty-one votes are required and in the case of women forty-seven. The first balloting took place in October, 1900.

Alligator and Crocodile.

The alligator never leaves fresh water, while the crocodile often goes to sea and in the West Indies has sometimes been found many miles from land, heading directly for an island, possibly out of sight.

Pen and Paper.

"Paper," whether of rags or of wood pulp, still takes its name from the papyrus. A "book" is the beech, the wooden rod on which our forefathers cut their runic letters. And a "pencil" is still by derivation "penecillus," a little tail, having been originally the name of the Roman painter's brush.

Peterborough's Destiny

Is Peterborough destined to become a large city? Most intelligent people will answer yes, and as most of the large factories, with large churches and schools, have built and are building south, and as population is following rapidly in the same direction, I am safely within bounds when I say that my Lots afford the public for homes or investment the safest and by far the most profitable Savings Bank for a little of their money.

Buy land in the way of a growing city and you must make money, and the more you buy the more you will make. Wage earners can you save $1.25 per week? If yes you can buy from me. My terms $10 down, and $5 monthly. Call for particulars. Prices will soon be higher.

Torontos Timely Taps Beat Baltimore Birds

Rudolph's Mush Ball Was Unhittable in the Pinches, While the Leafs, With Grimshaw Showing the Way, Leaned up Against the Ball Heavily---Score Was 4 to 2.

Baltimore, Md., April 26.—With Dick Rudolph on the mound for Toronto, the Maple Leafs took one from the Orioles to-day, the score being 4 to 2. The Birds always had trouble last year in touching up the diminutive twirler, and Rudolph lived up to his reputation to-day.

It was a hard game for the Birds to lose, for numerous chances were offered to score, but each time Rudolph put on a little more steam and widened his curves so that the Orioles could not touch him. In the seventh inning this was particularly the case. Only a phenomenal stop on the part of Mullen, in the first inning kept the Birds from tallying more than once. Slagle, the first time up, worked Rudolph into passing him, and Clancy beat out a neat bunt toward third. When Hall walked it looked as though everything was over except the shouting, for the sacks were full and none down.

The best Walsh could do, however, was to send up a high one, which Vaughn got back of third. Schmidt met one on the nose that travelled at a terrific rate towards right field, but Mullen by some freak of fickle fate, just got his gloved hand in front of the ball, and threw the butcher boy out at first station. Slagle was able to score, but the two and possibly three runs which might have counted were badly needed, as was afterwards proven.

Toronto got off with a flying start in the second inning. Grimshaw smacked a hot one over third for a single, only the fastest kind of fielding by Walsh holding it down to a one-sacker, but "Grim" was forced at second by Delehanty. "Del." however, stole the midway station a moment later. Right here fate took a hand in the game. One of Vickers' wide inshoots hit the end of Byers' mitt, rolling just far enough away to permit Delehanty to reach third safely, from where he scored a moment later on Jack Deal's safety across first base.

The Canucks annexed another in the second. Rudolph singled into centre and after Vaughn skied to Hooper, Mullen forced him at second. Mullen pilfered a bag and Shaw walked. Grimshaw clouted one to left field, but Walsh, by the quickest kind of fielding held Mullen on third. The former Oriole scored a moment later, however, when Delehanty beat out an infield tap. With three on the bases, Deal forced Delehanty at second.

Rudolph helped to win his own game in the seventh, when he beat out an infield hit, stole second and as Vaughn struck out and scored on Shaw's single into centre. Their fourth and last tally came in the eighth inning. Grimshaw made his third clean bingle, was sacrificed to second, and scored on Deal's hit over second.

In the seventh, Grimshaw made a wonderful catch of Clancy's liner to right. Adkins and Egan succeeded Vickers and Byers as the battery after the seventh, but "Addie" was not very effective, the Leafs gathering three bingles off his delivery and adding another run in the eighth. The score:

The fiercest of all animals is the black panther.

Hurrah.

"Hurrah!" It used to be "Hurray!" and the cry is as old as England. It is the battlecry of the old Norse vikings as they swept down to burn and murder among the peaceful British. "Tur, aie!" was their warcry, which means "Thor, aid!" an appeal for help to Thor, the god of battles.

An Old English Law.

In the time of King Canute, in the eleventh century, there was a law prohibiting English parents from selling their children to the Irish for slaves.

The grapefruit, or pomelo, with other members of the citrus family, was brought to Florida by the Spaniards about four centuries ago. It grows in great yellow bunches upon trees that attain a height of thirty feet.

Domestic Tobacco.

While some tobacco is produced in almost every state, less than 1 per cent of this country's crop is grown west of the Mississippi.

Somnambulism.

Blond persons are more apt to be somnambulists than dark folk, and in cold climates there is more somnambulism than in warm ones. In certain Greenland villages the hut doors are locked from without by a watchman in order that those within may not come forth in their sleep and maybe freeze to death.

At Lisbon Byron performed a more perilous though less celebrated feat than swimming the Hellespont. That was when he swam across the Tagus from old Lisbon to Belem castle.

What "Port Your Helm" Means.

In this country the helm is put to the port side of the ship (or left hand side looking forward) at the order, "Port your helm!" The rudder, of course, goes to starboard, and the ship's head moves to starboard. This is the rule of most nations, but in Sweden the reverse is the rule.

Boils and Pimples.

Whenever your complexion is unnatural, your skin in an unhealthy condition, your face covered with blotches and pimples, when boils and festering sores abound then your blood is bad. You can best cleanse it with that purely vegetable compound, Burdock Blood Bitters, which safely and promptly renovates the blood and invigorates the entire system.

Boils Cured.

Mr. C. A. Mussen, Bawlf, Alta., writes: "I recommend Burdock Blood Bitters as being the best blood purifier there is. About three years ago I was greatly troubled with boils and our druggist advised me to try Burdock Blood Bitters and after taking two bottles I have not had a boil or even a pimple."

Pimples Cured.

Mr. J. Morehouse, Zealand Station, N.B., writes: "My face and neck were covered with pimples, and I tried all kinds of remedies, but they did me no good. I went to many doctors, but they could not cure me. I then tried Burdock Blood Bitters and I must say it is a wonderful remedy for the cure of pimples."

OLD TAVERN CHARGES

Cost of Living at a Turnpike Inn Near New York in 1846.

LOW PRICES THE RULE THEN

The Regular Tariff For a Dinner Was 19 Cents, and a Wedding Breakfast For Six, With Twelve Quarts of Oats on the Side, Cost Just $1.69.

Guarded as carefully as any of the guests' jewels that lie beside it in the big safe of a great and glittering Broadway hotel in New York city and treasured by the proprietor more than its weight in gold is an old cashbook. The entries run from March to December, 1846. They record in quaint, descriptive phrases the comings and goings of the travelers who stopped at a wayside inn on a turnpike road less than 100 miles from New York. This tavern was kept by the Broadway hotel proprietor's grandfather. The building of the railroad, the passing of the stagecoach and the changes of more than half a century have obliterated this once famous old inn at South Durham, and now all that remains of it is this ancient book, which served not only as a record of cash received, but took the place of the modern hotel register.

The prices charged by this innkeeper of long ago are as far removed from those exacted today as this ancient hostelry is from the gorgeous summer hotels of the countryside where it once stood. The regular price for a dinner was 19 cents, but even this appears to have been "cut" to frequent travelers. For instance, there is an entry of "Candy peddler from Albany, two meals and lodging, 31 cents." Almost every entry is a brief description of the individual traveler and what he got—for example, "Freckle faced, eagle nosed boy, hay, supper, lodging and grease, 31 cents." This boy was probably driving a horse and wagon, which would account for the hay and grease. Another man who was described as a "fellow with tired colt" got hay, lodging and breakfast for 44 cents.

Every few days there came along, according to this ancient register, a "Connecticut man." He invariably spent just 6 cents for food, and that was for pie. On two occasions there is an additional charge for "greasing wagon, 6 cents." There were no theatrical companies touring this turnpike road half a century ago, but a phrenologist appears and vanishes, it being recorded that for "hay, 6 quarts of oats, lodging and breakfast" he gave up 56 cents. Once in awhile a real spendthrift would come along, like the "gent with three ladies and two children." They had six dinners. For these, the hay for the horses, the "meals for the dog" and the "segar" for the man $1.28 was charged. There was a wedding breakfast at this quaint tavern too. It is set down as "wedding, Radcliff's sister, 6 dinners, 12 quarts of oats, $1.60."

People "went west" by wagon in those days from the thickly settled east to seek their fortunes. Some did not find what they expected and came back again. One such group, an "emigrant family returning east—seven of them"—spent $2 at the inn. "Three cents' worth of candy" is a frequent entry. Probably the "candy peddler from Albany" paid for his food and lodging in sweets. There are but two entries of anything stronger than lemonade, and those are for beer—four quarts for 9 cents. Oysters were cheap, too, for six plates of them increased the contents of the tavern keeper's money box by just 15 cents.

Among the journeyers along this turnpike road whose passage is recorded in this age yellowed volume is "Old Particklar." Doubtless he was some cranky old codger who kicked about everything and whose goings the innkeeper sped as much as possible. Then there was the "Whistling Man," the "Stiff Arm Man," the "Dispeptic Man" (he had four quarts of tea) and the "Hen Man," who ate a piece of pie and traded roosters with the hotel keeper. Other travelers along the highway are thus described: "Abolition Man," "Mean Fellow," "Gent With Noble Horse," "Lady With Crying Baby," "Hank Day's Likeness" and "Cravat Peddler" (fool).

Occasionally an old acquaintance would pass by or some dignitary, for it is set down that a "friend from Lexington" had hay and lodging one day at the inn. Who knows but he might have been a son of one of the "embattled farmers" who kept the bridge that April morning of the ride of Paul Revere? The "Grand Juror and His Wife" tarried for a meal at the inn the same day as did the "Dominie's Wife and Child." On Nov. 3, so the careful chronicle says, the proprietor "went to York," where he remained six days. He must have had a roaring, roistering time of it while in the metropolis, for the next entry in his handwriting is somewhat shaky and says, "Sundries while at York, 50 cents."

Washington's Farewell.

The farewell address of Washington, the military chieftain, to his soldiers stands without parallel in all history. He does not refer to his own sacrifices or achievements. He simply and completely sinks himself, the great central figure, out of sight. He sees only his country and thinks only of her welfare.—Magazine of American History.

Forgetful.

I went into a barber shop,

The barber must have had a drop—
He badly cut my face.
And, when he saw my face was cut,
With all his might and main
He soused me with witch hazel, but
It didn't stop the pain.

Next day in a forgiving mood
I took another chance.
The haughty barber by me stood
With supercilious glance.

The barber did observe,
And I was mute, I must confess,
Before such lofty nerve.

IN CHICAGO CELL

The Alleged Dean of American Swindlers Found Living in Style.

Chicago, April 26.—Charles Moran, better known as "Chappy" Moran, alleged by Postoffice Inspector Stuart, of Chicago, and Inspecor J. T. Cortelyou, of Philadelphia, to be the dean of American swindlers, is under arrest awaiting removal to Philadelphia. The arrest was made Saturday, but was kept secret until the arrival of Cortelyou.

In the last 20 years, Moran's alleged illegal gains are said to aggregate close to a million dollars. He never operated on a small scale. When arrested, he was occupying an expensive suite of three rooms in an aristocratic hotel. A valet attended him and had plenty to do caring for his master's expensive wardrobe.

Moran is said to be known on both sides of the Atlantic, having in his earlier days plied the profession of gaming on the big liners. Later he became known as a daring and successful wire-tapper. He is said to have originated the "Sick Engineer" mining swindle, his first trial of this scheme having netted him $48,000. His picture is said to be in every rogues' gallery in the country and Europe There has been a standing order in New York for years to arrest him on sight, it is said.

According to Mr. Cortelyou, Moran made large sums by grain swindles in Providence, New York and Philadelphia. His method was simple, the Philadelphia case, to which he owes his present arrest, being a fair sample.

"Moran, working with William Clark, now a fugitive from justice, operated the Eastern Grain Company" explained Cortelyou. "They collected $50,000 or more as margins from investors, and then suddenly shut up shop. This was six years ago. Last month I arrested him in Philadelphia, but he gave $1,500 cash bail and went to Chicago. He was running a handbook on the races when arrested. He rented a taxicab to go to jail in."

WEDDING BELLS

MAHONEY—O'CONNOR.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Peter's Cathedral this morning, when Miss Mary Agnes O'Connor was united in the holy bonds of matrimoy to Mr. Edward Philip Mahoney. Rev. W. J. McColl performed the ceremony.

The bride looked charming in a beautiful dress of white silk mull. trimmed with baby Irish insertion over taffeta and Tricorne hat trimmed with white plumes. The bride carried an immense bouquet of bridal roses. The bride was assisted by Miss Adeline Mahoney, the sister of the groom, who was attired in a pale blue silk mull and wore a black picture hat.

The groomsman was Mr. Leo. O'Connor, brother of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Mahoney left for Toronto on the noon train. On their return they will reside at 327 Sherbrook street.

ADOPTING A MOTHER

A Short Story.

It is a little while since we began to keep house, Teenie and I—no, it is not a house that we keep, but a flat. a fine flat with a beautiful bathroom that makes you wish to get dirty to get clean, and a kitchen that Teenie delights in cleaning for it is so small. We climb four pairs of stairs—and the halls are very dark some days so we have to hold each other's hands to keep from stumbling — but when we ket to the flat we are delighted. recompensed, for the view is very delightful. All is bustle and activity outside, but inside calm, rest and peace await us. Teenie says the rumbling of the elevated road reminds her so pleasantly of the roar of the surf at home, and the flutter of our good neighbour's wash strung from gay poles is just like the white wings of the gulls. Ah, those dear seagulls, how we remember them with affection!

I am that prosperous it brings delight to the mind to make this elegant home for Teenie. We did not always have it—it is why we love it so passionately now—but that was before my great talents were understood. I was only come over a short time then, and Teenie was waiting in a boarding house for me to prosper. Then comes the great chance, the great opportunity; I seize it with my accustomed avidity and quickness. I take the store off my friends' hands—Pietro had prospered so he wanted to make a display—and I pay him good money, yes, a lot of god money for his store. But I get it back again. and prosperity comes.

When we took the flat Teenie was so delighted that she kissed me three times on the tip of the nose and called me her "dear" until I blushed from modesty. Teenie is very affectionate and emotional at times, and I—well. I have nothing to say against any one, but Teenie's eyes are the prettiest in the city, and her cheeks make the flaming rose hide its face. If I could once show you Teenie when dressed for a gay night at Pietro's—Pietro keeps a swell restaurant now and we go there often just to show him that we are prospering in his store—you would agree with me that she is stunning (I think that is the word you Americans use to express admiration of your pretty women). Yes. Teenie was stunning.

But there were days that seemed long to Teenie even in this adorable flat, days when I had to stay late and long in the store to convince customers of the superb quality of the goods which I offered for sale, and when I would climb up the dark stairs, puffing and weary, I would see the door above me open and there in the light would stand the beautiful angel. "Coming, sweetheart!" I would call cheerily, forgetting my weariness of legs. Then would she murmur in my ear: "Oh, Adolphus, you are late. The day has been so long, and I've been so lonely without you."

"It is lonely," I would say, "but it is also cozy up here."

It was then that she would bring my slippers and tuck my feet in them. making me comfortable, while she brought the savoury dishes from the kitchen. Teenie was an excellent cook, and the odours that greeted my nostrils were like the fragrance of an olive orchard abloom.

Teenie was an orphan, and I was an orphan; we come to this country with no parents or grand-parents, and we find none here, and that made Teenie sad sometimes. This sadness came now more frequent, and I could see it preying upon her mind. So one day I spoke up with a sudden inspiration:

"Teenie, if you're so lonely, why don't you adopt a child—a nice child that keeps you company and not bother you any?"

We kept few things from each other but now I suddenly discovered Teenie's great secret. How I cannot explain. She answered not, but just blushed and tilted her head gracefully to one side. I think she winked an adorable eye-lash, but I could not say with positiveness. When the great realization dawned upon my mind, I said in a catching breath:

"No, Tennie! Is it true?"

"Yes, it is true."

Then I rose and kissed her. I felt the paternal extinct expand, and holding her in my arms, I spoke with the authority of one born to leadership:

"Teenie, you need a mother now. and you shall have one."

She looked up not a little surprised by this masterful speech, and her lips murmured:

"But how, Adolphus? Where can we get a mother?"

I touched her hair with a hand and pressed the other to my bosom. I should show her that I could command the things to come to pass which we needed.

"They adopt children, Teenie, in this great free country of America," I made reply. "Then why not adopt a mother? There is the home for old ladies and mothers, good and estimable ladies, I know, and we can go there and pick one out. Would any woman fail to appreciate the joy we would confer upon her? This beautiful home would be her home, too, and you would no longer be lonely. It is the way out of our difficulty. I, too, am tired of being an orphan."

Teenie always agreed with me, and she now demurely assented to the reasonableness of my great plan. She saw that I was right, and she was willing to take my advice.

"But whose mother will she be?" she asked, teasingly. "If she's your mother, she'll only be my mother-in-law, and if she's my mother she'll be your—"

I stopped her short with a kiss.

"I think," I said, "an adopted mother is the mother of both of us. That's the law in this America."

"Oh, how delightful! A mother for both of us, and when the time comes she'll be a grand—"

"Adorable! I cannot think of it without an emotion that overwhelms me!"

But the unexpected difficulties bestrewed my path so that I come near to the verge of despair. There were no mothers ready for adoption. They loved the home which a beneficent government in its generosity had provided for them, and they turned me away with a laugh—ah, no, the cackle, for not one of them had a tooth in her head or a civil tongue in her cheeks. Such ingratitude is very discouraging. It was with fear of Teenie's excitement that I went home to unfold my misfortunes.

But I was not to be so disappointed in my ambition, and I was led to reflect upon the rewards that come to the persevering. It is a good world after all—to those who know no despair. I met Shatkin on the street. and in a moment of excitement informed him of my errand and its failure. Shatkin is prosperous, too, and lives by himself and family in a flat that overlooks the beautiful river they call the East. Shatkin was impressed by my tale and commiserated with me.

"An adopted mother, it is, you're looking for?" he says, scratching his head. "Why, that ought to be easy."

"It ought to be, Shatkin," I replied, "but my experience shows me that it is not easy. There don't seem to be any mothers that want to be adopted—and Teenie and I have such a beautiful home, fifth floor back. overlooking our neighbour's backyard."

I sighed, partly in remembrance of that home, and partly because of the hard-heartedness of adopted mothers. But Shatkin did not sigh; he actually rubbed his hands with glee.

"I have it," he exclaimed with animation. "I know the dearest, sweetest little woman that you can adopt. She'll come right away, too—to-morrow, if you say it."

"Oh, Shatkin!" I exclaimed, "you make me too happy! You're not fooling me?"

"I was never more serious." Then he hesitated as he eyed me with that serene glass eye of his. "I don't know," he continued, "but I really ought to get a commission for it. It's not every one who can pick up such a fine woman for you every day."

"Don't speak of it, dear Shatkin," I murmured, pressing the money in his hand. "The commission is gladly yours."

I noticed he still hesitated. Was the money not enough? Oh, these greedy Americans! They give freely and expect big things in return! But it was not more money that he wanted. and I was agreeably surprised.

"If I was you, I'd take her on a two weeks' trial first," he said finally. "That's the customary way in this country. Then if you like her you can formally adopt her."

"And if we do not like the dear lady?"

"Send her away—or I'll take her off your hands."

Dear Shatkin! What a friend and considerate neighbour! I wrung his hand with bowed affection and with intensity of emotion. We parted with mutual expressions of joy.

It was a wild night for us, so great was our excitement at the expectation of a mother on the morrow. Teenie would not sleep, and I paced the floor with intensity of anticipation. Our cup of joy was surely full and overflowing. Ah, what is a home without a mother?

We were up bright and early to greet the newcomer. Teenie arrayed in her best dress, and I in a suit that adorned my person only on special occasions. Shatkin was true to his word, and stumbled up the stairs with the dear woman in tow shortly after daylight.

"Here she is," he exclaimed, poking his head in the room. "I can't stop for I'm late for work. Hope you'll like her."

Timid and hesitating, the dear woman stood in the dark hallway, her embarrassment greater than ours; but Teenie was equal to the great occasion. She rushed forward and clasped the rotund figure by the waist.

"Dear, you'll let us call you mother at once," I heard her murmur. Then I shook hands and kissed her plump on one of the cheeks.

This welcome must have impressed her, for she could find no voice for a long time. Then Teenie dragged her into the light, and we inspected her. She was rotund, and full of what you call averdupois. Beside Teenie she loked like—ah, well, it is not well bred to speak so of your adopted mother. She could not alter her figure, and most mothers I know are fat or lean. If Shatkin got us a fat one. it must be because they are more reasonable in disposition than the lean ones. So I have heard it is in this America.

"Mother," said Teenie in her cooing voice, "you are mo ' welcome. Let me remove your things. '

But the dear woman was still too scared to meet Teenie's welcome with the same spirit of magnanimity.

"I want to go to me room," she fluttered, catching her breath. "I has such a cold."

Teenie led her through our spacious flat and conducted her to the bedroom back where she had a glorious view of white-washed walls.

"Is this to be my prison?" she sniffed. "I couldn't turn round in it without breakin' me shins on the furniture."

Such funny dialect these Americans sometimes have! Teenie was not quite sure she understood, and replied sweetly:

"Everything here is yours, dear, and I hope you'll be happy."

"Happy is it, wid me children turnin' me out of dhoors, an' sendin' me amungst strangers! Where d'ye think the joy an 'happiness comes in?"

Then such fine furniture as we had she began to inspect. The beautiful lace curtains at the window she crushed between her fingers and muttered. "cheesecloth," and the fine mattress that was so soft to the wearied body she punched and said aloud: "Cotton fillin's an' shucks." This strange action of the new mother amused Teenie, but when she came to look at the beautiful ornaments on the bureau and wall she was more than comical to withstand. She bit the pin tray of beautiful design, rubbed a finger moistened with her lips on Teenie's best platter, scraped the paint from the washstand, and then studied with great interest the pictures in their frames.

To restrain our merriment from hurting her feelings, we stepped out into the hall; but she must have listened to our whisperings, for the door was slammed in our face.

We walked back to the parlour. Teenie looked at me with mirthful eyes and said: "It is a big mother we have."

"Yes, she's all there. But big mothers are better than small mothers, so I've heard."

But it is not all joy in adopting a mother. It is like training a child, I suppose, you must teach them your ways, and then have patience. Teenie is very patient, and I—I have never found it polite in business to speak impatiently of any one. So we let our adopted mother have her little comical ways without speaking words of harshness to her. She did not like the exquisite salads that Teenie made, and said frankly that "olive oil makes me sick, an' it ain't fit to feed the pigs wid."

We laughed at this brilliant remark and asked her what delicacy she preferred. "Corn-beef an' cabbage or a good Irish stew," she replied promptly.

Teenie did not know how to cook these strange concoctions, but she did not like to confess to her ignorance, and when she served them up she had a feeling of suspicion that all was not right. The adopted mother sniffed, touched a finger to them, and then said aloud so Teenie could hear her in the kitchen:

"For the love iv Hiven! what have ye here? Roast corn beef and fried cabbage!"

Then she took that platter and very impolitely dumped it in Teenie's lap. She also jumped from the table and shut herself in her room. Teenie was too surprised to remove the mess from her lap until the rich gravy had soaked through to the skin, spoiling the fine linen dress I'd given her for her birthday, and then dripped through to discolour our handsomely tinted jute rug. But Teenie was patient and took the blame to herself. She spent the day mollifying the offended mother, and then coaxed her back into the kitchen to do the proper cooking of her cornbeef and cabbage.

"It's not that I intind to do this often," she explained, "fur I ain't a servant, an' won't cook the meals fur no wan. But its that famished I am fur a dacent bite of civilized food that I'll consint to show you how to do the thing right. Mind now, ye understand? I ain't doin' this often!"

Teenie promised to learn and watched anxiously the different processes of cooking the meat and cabbage. Then with it hot and steaming on the table we sat down to the mother's most delicious morsel of food. But ah, the tastes differ! Teenie and I could not eat the food. We so longed for our salads and oil dressings that we had to conceal our motives for going out that evening to Pietro's where we rioted in good things to eat.

Our beautiful home was always steaming thereafter with the odors of the cabbage. Teenie and I escaped the fumes by walking the streets by nights. It was all such a surprise to us that we had no words to meet the occasion. We could not starve our new mother, and she would not eat of the good things we prepared for her; but in feeding her the cornbeef and cabbage, Teenie was slowly losing her appetite. She said she could not eat, not even our beloved salads, after spending a day over the pot cooking cabbage and cornbeef.

"Oh, Adolphus, I fear it is not for us to have a mother," she confessed with tears.

"So!" I replied, thinking hard, "it is not adopted yet that she is. Shatkin gave us two weeks' trial. Teenie we can escape yet."

The little face which had grown thin and sad, brightened up and we walked home with a new hope in our hearts. When we reached the top of the dark stairs, we fumbled with the key of the door and entered our spacious abode. But all was darkness. Teenie felt her apprehensiveness getting the better of her.

"Where is the light we left burning?" she asks.

"And where is the mother?" I asks striking a light.

"Not gone?" she says, with hopeful glimmer in her eyes. "No," says I, hearing sonorous sounds from the back of the hall. "She is in there, it is evident. Listen!"

Teenie listened and then crept up close to me.

"Is she sick?" she whispered.

I could not answer. I boldly gather gather my courage together and awlk the length of the hall. I knock on the dor softly, then louder, and try to peak through they key hole. What a terrible noise rises from within and smites my ears! I knock again, and then push open the door.

The mother is not sick, but asleep—and snoring! But when I push open the door and the light strikes her eyes she awakens with a start. She blinks at me and then sets upright in bed.

"What ye doin' with that light?" she asks in a strange voice that makes me tremble. "Put it out; ye hurt me eyes wid it. Didn't I blow it out onct?" What ye want to light it agin? Ye go galavantin' roun' all night, an' then come home at onchristian hour an' rouse dacent people from their sleep. The divil take ye, ye'll be the death of me yet—ye an' them onnaccheral children of mine.

Then she sets up to weeping until the tears flow down in streamlets and the heart of me is nearly melted. I know then she is ailing and that the doctor is needed. I beckon to Teenie. "Go—hurry—bring the doctor," I whisper. "The mother is sick."

"I am that," the mother responds, hearing the last of the sentence. "I'm onto death. Oh! Oh! Sick of—"

She groaned and cried until she could no longer utter the words that stood on her lips. With delicacy of feeling I entered the room and turned on the light; but this did not please her.

"Out with that light, ye divil," she screamed. "Didn't I tell ye it hurt me eyes? Ye light it agin an' I'll drap ye wid a shoe!"

I quickly obeyed, wishing to humour her, for she was wandering in the head. But in the darkness the groans seemed so harsh and gruesome that I edged away and stood close to the door.

"Ain't you goin' to shut that dhoor?" she cried again' "It's not for a dacent man to stand there in a pore woman's room an' grin at her when she's sick. eY will grin at me, will ye—ye divil?"

Then something struck the door and made it shiver. It sounded like a rock, but it was only a shoe. I shut the door softly but rather hastily. I did not wish to offend the sick mo-

HOLDING DOWN A HOMESTEAD.

How the Land-Seekers In the West Wait For the Office to Open.

Something new under the sun! This surely is, as men from all parts of the earth silently take their stand side by side to the number of almost eleven hundred. Some are a week ahead, securing their footing, holding it day and night. This company is democratic and socialistic by compulsion.

Strange languages intermingle, and stranger bedfellows lie down side by side under the canopy of the sky. Social distinctions are lost. The Russian peasant and the son of a lord may chum it, as cheek by jowl they share the same grey Indian blanket. Even sex is no bar to this fellowship for several women and a baby help to swell the ranks of this dauntless though inactive army. The lion and the lamb, so to speak are found among the motley array of fur coats, some bristling with newness and some worn to the skin and through it with years and rubbing up against the rough side of life.

The last afternoon has come. Tomorrow morning the doors of the land office will be opened and the crowd will file in, first come, as a rule, first served. All down the ranks they will receive their right to make a piece of prairie their own. It may be the first inch of earth they have ever owned. Night and day they have kept hold of their little pre-empted spot, relieved in most cases at times by a friend.

It is said one homesteader, who had no such friend, offered a man a dollar to keep his place for him for an hour. When he came back the man refused to either give up the dollar or the place. But such cases are rare.

It is Sunday afternoon. The time drags wearily this January day to the close ranks of men jammed together with their backs against Father van Feighem's old picket fence which encloses precious trees, fruit and evergreens, the pioneers of this once lonely, mud-swept prairie.

As darkness comes down — and comes early—the lights from lanterns which some have set in long boxes, serve to keep the feet warm, and the constant lighting of pipes makes the long line twinkle and look like an immense glow worm or a string of fire-flies and here and there are shown up the faces of the men who almost surround a block. But the long, heavy evening has a pleasant break. The sound of the Salvation Army drum is heard, and the men "sit up and take notice." Many of them are attentive as they hear repeated: "Lay not up for yourselves treasures on earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt and where thieves break through and steal, but lay up for yourselves treasures in Heaven. For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also." To some the words have a familiar sound, to some they are unknown, and to others they are without meaning, for the words are in a strange tongue. But as the band plays a good many join in singing the old, familiar hymns; it may be in some instances both the words and music are of home manufacture, but a big volume of sound goes up on the night wind. At last the band moves off and only a few passers-by disturb the quiet which has settled down on the weary waiters. One of these comes to a group of men with a little flag stuck into the cage in front of them. "What flag have you got here?" he enquires.

"The Stars and Stripes," is the answer.

"That is not allowed here," he says, and with that takes the fluttering little "Old Glory" and throws it in the road and passes on laughing, with the remark, "You can't touch me, for you can't leave your place."

Midnight comes. The little distractions are over. Only the mounted policemen takes a turn to see that all is orderly. The stories have all been told and listened to and yawned over, and now—sleep and dreams, perhaps, of the old home or the homestead that is to be. Perhaps they see the little shack, their future home, the beginning of great things, see it plainly with the smoke curling out of the stove pipe through the roof and feel the cheer within.

And so the night passes and the great glowing sun floods the eastern sky and dyes it blood red away to the mountains in the west. The day has dawned when each in turn will file in and get his location and right to toil on a bit of this old earth.—Crys Tyne, in Saturday Night.

Counted the Jardinieres.

A good story is told of Senator Jas. McMullen, who when he was a member of the House of Commons during the long years that the Liberal party was in the shades of opposition, was one of the most vigilant enemies of the Conservative administration. A party of members the other day were discussing the expenditures on small public works which run into thousands of dollars.

"Ah," said a member from far off British Columbia. "I heard Mr. McMullen take up hours one weary night criticizing an item in the Auditor-General's report for the purchase of fifty jardinieres for Rideau Hall."

"'Why fifty jardinieres—it is monstrous,' declared Mr. McMullen.

"'How do you know?'

"'Why,' remarked Mr. McMullan with a note of triumph. 'I was invited to Rideau Hall a few days ago and I counted the jardinieres and I could not find fifty'."

Mexican Peons.

Mexican peons live chiefly on beans, rice, corn, cheap cuts of meat, coffee, tortillas and peppers. Bread is not used by these people.

SETTLERS' HOMES.

Quaint Little Places Growing Up Around Montreal.

Early as it is in the year, one may see processions of immigrants passing through the city of Montreal—the men with bundles on their backs, the women following with the children.

In the immigrant quarters of the C.P.R. they huddle, while the trains which are to bring them to the North West are being made up; but many Russians, Roumanians, Austrians, Italians and Swedes, remain in the city.

The increase of big industries both in the city and along the canal bank, makes employment for the strangers possible.

They cannot offer skilled labor, but they are willing to be taught; and, in forms of work which need strength and endurance, the strangers excel. This is especially noticeable with the Russians—great big, patient fellows, who talk little, do as they are told, and work for small wages—so long as they are unorganized.

These strangers soon find employment at the Angus shops, the Locomotive Works, at Longue Pointe; the Canada Car Co., Dominion Car and Foundry Co., the Allis-Chalmers-Bullock Co., or in any of the half dozen or more big machine shops in Lachine and along the canal banks.

Industrial corporations which operate outside the city proper, prefer that the employes shall live in the neighborhood of their work. There results from this heroic and yet pitiful attempts at home-making in the district, wherever it is.

Along the banks of the Lachine canal, in Lachine itself, many large industries have been started of recent years.

The employes, or many of them, have managed to buy on the instalment plan, bits of land on which they begin the erection of homes.

To glance at these, the word would seem a misnomer.

In most cases, there is a long wait until the lot is paid for.

After this, there can only be the buying of bits of lumber now and then as means will allow.

The work of construction is mostly done in the early mornings and late evenings by the men themselves.

Any old bit of wood that can be picked up, any piece of tin sheeting—anything that will help to keep out wind or rain—is eagerly requisitioned.

You will see scores of these shacks on the way to Lachine, set down in what is called a park—Dominion Park.

They are pitifully small. They seem to make a mockery of the word "home." Dotted here and there, without, as it would seem, any regard for street lines, in the centre of a level plain, they look like the hurried structures of a mining camp or raw settlement.

A stranger going to Montreal on business or pleasure, would get an odd notion of this architectural medley, so close to a great metropolitan city.

The Quebec Legislature.

At the present session of the Quebec Legislature, there will be a move to establish something like working-day hours into the proceedings of the Lower House. Mr. Arthur Plante, M.P.P. for Beauharnois, is a prime mover in the plan, and early in the session he will introduce the necessary resolution.

In an explanatory way it may be said that the popular idea that a representative's attendance at the Parliament of which he is a member is a great big holiday, is a fallacy, as far as most Houses are concerned.

Last session in Quebec, for instance, sessions lasting until two and three o'clock in the morning were common, and sometimes at six a quorum of members were still at their posts. Then there were committees at ten to be attended, as very often important measures were under consideration there.

Mr. Plante has decided that a fixed hour for adjournment should be established, and he will by formal resolution ask that the House should establish such. He will propose that at twelve o'clock, whether a debate or a speech is concluded or not, the House should rise.

Some Booming Towns.

If we are to take the growth of cities and towns in the Dominion of Canada represented by the provinces of Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan there is a wonderful future for some of them. Winnipeg, the largest city, in eight years has increased from 42,000 to 140,000.

Other places for the past eight years show this expansion: Calgary from 4,900 to 29,300; Edmonton from 2,600 to 25,000; Regina from 2,000 to 13,500; Brandon from 5,600 to 13,000; Saskatoon from 113 to 12,200; Moose Jaw from 1,600 to 12,000; Lethbridge from 2,100 to 10,000; Prince Albert from 1,800 to 7,000; Portage la Prairie from 4,000 to 7,000; Fernie from 1,900 to 5,300; Medicine Hat from 1,600 to 5,000.

In these places $47,000,000 has been invested in new buildings in the last three years, and in five years their taxable values have been increased from an aggregate of nearly $57,000,000 to about $220,000,000.

If the Colt Starts.

When the multitudinous crowds gather on the hills of Epsom to witness the race for the Derby of 1911, there may be many there who will cheer for a Canadian victory. In the list of entries for the race appears a colt by Kelston, owned by R. M. Dale of Qu'Appelle, Sask. If the colt starts Mr. Dale will be the first resident of Canada to try his luck for the prize and from one end of the Dominion to the other he will have the well wishes of his fellow-Canadians.

Not Able to Judge.

"Been abroad, I hear."

"Yep."

"I understand that living is very cheap in every country in Europe. How about it?"

"Can't say. We only hit the high places."

Minute Parasites.

The wasp, like the bee and almost every other insect, is infested with parasites. Wasps have been captured which had two or three dozen parasites clinging to their bodies.

MI-O-NA

RELIEVES STOMACH MISERY ALMOST IMMEDIATELY.

If the food you ate at your last meal did not digest, but laid for a long time like lead on your stomach, then you have indigestion and quick action should be taken.

Of course there are many other symptoms of indigestion, such as belching up of sour food, heartburn, dizziness, shortness of breath and foul breath, and if you have any of them, your stomach is out of order and should be corrected.

Mi-o-na tablets have cured thousands of cases of indigestion and stomach trouble. If you have any stomach distress, Mi-o-na will relieve instantly.

But Mi-o-na unlike most so-called dyspepsia remedies, does more than relieve; it permanently cures dyspepsia or any stomach trouble by putting energy and strength into the walls of the stomach, where the gastric juices are produced.

A large box of Mi-o-na tablets costs but 50 cents at Wm. Madill's and are guaranteed to cure or money back. When others fail, Mi-o-na cures. It is a producer of flesh when the body is thin; it cleanses the stomach and bowels; purifies the blood and makes rich red blood.

POST CARD COLUMN.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—Will you kindly inform me if it was the "Saftest of the Family" reported in your issue of to-night re The Soul Kiss, that one of the choruses in the medley of Harry Lauder's song, was "The Safest Way of the Family." Yours,

INQUIRER.

P.S.—I was not present; but I lost my $5 bet by your publication.

Through a typographical error the absurd title "The Safest Way of the Family" managed to find its way into the Examiner columns last night. As anybody who has heard of Harry Lauder knows the song is "The Saftest of the Family."

BODY FOUND

Richard Gough, Pittsburg Farmer, Has Been Missing Since Last Fall.

Special to The Examiner.

Examiner Special:

Kingston, Ont., April 27.—The body of Richard Gough, a farmer of Pittsburg, who has been missing since last fall, was found this morning in Princess street slip. He was about 70 years old and supposed to have lost his way and fell into the harbour.

WESTON THE WALKER BETAINED BY ILLNESS

Utica, N.Y., April 23.—Edward Payson Weston, on his walk from Los Angeles to New York City, collapsed on the Erie Canal tow path two miles west of Chitenango at 8.30 a.m. today, and was taken to a farm house nearby, where he was put to bed.

It was feared by his attendants that the remainder of the trip would have to be abandoned, as the aged walker seemed to be in complete collapse. On reaching the farm house he fell asleep and slept soundly until one o'clock. When he awoke he declared he felt as well as ever and was ready to go ahead. His attendants urged him to rest for the remainder of the day, but he said he had made up his mind to come to this city and spend Sunday.

When he resumed his walk a doctor accompanied him. He proceeded at his usual pace and reached Canastota at 3 o'clock, having walked eight miles in two hours. He said then he was feeling in fine condition and that he would surely make the remaining thirty-one miles to this city by night. He is seventeen days ahead of his schedule and could well afford a layoff if he were so disposed.

Weston's collapse is believed to have been caused by clam chowder, which he indulged in last night at the home of his friend, George C. Ryan, in Syracuse.

PETERBOROUGH

Full many a poet a ditty has sung
With more or less barbarous freedom of tongue,
Extolling (oh! cheerful and harmless proclivity)
The charms of the place that can boast his nativity.
But lives there a poet, who thirsting for fame,
Can tunefully, soulfully, warble the name,
Of the city we live in, and cause it to flow,
To some metrical measure save Peterbor—o?

It is dreadful to think of—it grates on the nerves,
To know that Parnassus, throughout its preserves,
Deep down in the dingle or high on its slope,
No provision can yield for this musical trope.
You may search where you will, you may grope till you're blind—
You may call to your aid all the muses and find,
That the mournful result is a metrical burr,
Unlovely—unmusical—Peterbur—rur!

There are people, we know, who would count this a gain,
They say that a poet just gives them a pain,
And declare with tremendous and needless ferocity,
That the writing of rhymes is a shameful atrocity,
And some will go further, but oh! why pursue,
A topic so tinctured with wormwood and rue?
Fair city, your beauties I'd gleefully show,
If I could but get over that Peterbor—o.

COLD ON THE LUNGS

This letter gives some idea of the confidence placed in Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine by people who know by experience of its exceptional merit. Mrs. F. D. Turner, Broadview, N.W.T., writes:—"We have seven children and have used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for them all when troubled with colds on the lungs. We buy four bottles at a time and always keep it in the house, believing there is nothing so good for coughs and colds."

ALWAYS BRING RESULTS

Examiner want ads never fail to bring results.

Sometimes the process is a little delayed from one reason or another, but generally they serve their purpose in a remarkably short space of time.

An instance of a case in which there was a little delay has just come to light. Last winter a Peterborough lady lost a pear sunburst and advertised for the missing jewellery in the Examiner. There were no replies and the sunburst was given up as lost indeed. However, a day or two ago a gentleman who happened to be looking over an old Examiner came across the add, He had picked up a sunburst answering the description last winter and being an honest man lost no time in returning the jewelry. The case shows that the Examiner ads generally get there, but usually without such delay.

MEETING THIS EVENING

The congregation of Knox church is requested to attend the meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the church for the purpose of transacting business which was omitted at the annual meeting.

NEW UNIFORMS

Mr. Trebilcock has been given the order for the new baseball uniforms of the T.A.S. club.

The suits are to be white, with green trimmings. Three large green initials in a new design will be worked on the coat of the uniform.

Things Theatrical.

Logan Paul is in the company playing "The Squaw Man."

Oscar Wilde's play, "The Duchess of Padua," is to be produced in London by George Alexander.

Sheldon Lewis has been engaged by Harrison Grey Fiske for Mrs. Fiske's company in "Pillars of Society."

"The Dawn of a Tomorrow," in which Eleanor Robson has been starred, will be produced in Berlin.

W. A. Brady is shortly to produce a play called "The Detective," in which the chief figure is a woman detective.

Douglas J. Wood has been engaged to play leading Shakespearean parts with the Ben Greet company in New York.

Olga Nethersole will have a spring season in London, opening in May. She may later on make a tour of the South American cities.

It is said that E. H. Sothern and Miss Julia Marlowe will not act together next season and that Miss Marlowe may visit Australia.

Tales of Cities.

Singapore has been for some years the most prosperous and progressive city in the far east.

The city of Pekin has supplanted its insanitary wells with a thoroughly modern system of waterworks, including pumping stations, settling tanks, filtration beds and water towers.

The maiden name of Nassau street, New York, was Pie Woman's lane. It was opened in 1696 by a man named Kay, who was granted the right to make it a cartway to what is now City Hall park.

"Forward" is the motto of Atlanta, Ga., and her taxpayers seem more than willing to live up to it. Recently by a large majority they voted to issue $3,000,000 of bonds for permanent improvement, $600,000 of the issue to be used for the schools. A new hospital, a crematory, a complete sewer system and water extensions are also provided for.

MANITOBA HAS CLAIM

Premier's Announcement Rather Upsets the Plans at Rideau Hall For State Ball—If Manitoba Got Her Request Confederation Terms Would Be Upset, Says Sir Wilfrid Laurier Yesterday.

Ottawa, April 28.—The Manitoba boundary question came up in the Commons yesterday, as an amendment to the motion to go into supply, moved by Alexander Haggart of Winnipeg. The amendment recited various correspondences and resolutions and concluded: "That this House affirms that the Province of Manitoba is entitled to equality of treatment with either the said Provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan to the west, or with the said Provinces of Ontario and Quebec to the east, and regrets that the Government of the Dominion did not agree to give to Manitoba such equality of treatment."

Manitoba, he said, sent a deputation to Ottawa in 1905, but they were told to wait until the boundaries of Saskatchewan and Alberta had been arranged. In 1908 the Legislature passed a resolution setting forth a claim to all the land lying west of the northwest boundary of Ontario and northward to Hudson Bay. The Federal Government had to take some action and passed a resolution fixing the proposed new boundaries, giving a smaller area than had been asked for, and providing that financial terms should be the subject of negotiations. In February, 1909, Sir Wilfrid Laurier sent to the Premier of Manitoba a copy of the bill it was proposed to introduce, but making the suggestion that the only change in the financial terms should be an additional grant of $10,000 to cover the administration of justice in the new territory.

The attitude of Manitoba was: "Give us the same terms as Alberta and Saskatchewan. If you cannot do that, don't say you will give us nothing. State what you will give, but it is not right to say that you will make no counter proposition."

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that in asking for equality of treatment with Ontario and Quebec, Manitoba was asking for control of the lands, and yet, according to the terms of the memorial passed by the Manitoba Legislature, all that was asked for was land in the new territory to be added to the province. The resolution asked not only for an addition to their territory, but that the financial terms upon which Manitoba was organized in 1869 be revised and new terms be given.

Sir Wilfrid did not think that it was reasonable to suggest that the terms of Confederation, which have been in force for forty years, should be revised. It was absurd to contend that, as a consequence of the extension of the territory of Manitoba, the land should be given to the province, not in the new territory of the province. If the Parliament of Canada was wrong in 1869 in retaining control of the lands for the Federal Government, that was another question.

There are strained relations between Rideau Hall and the Government. The state ball will likely be a fizzle, and Rideau Hall is angry.

The state ball and prorogation usually take place simultaneously, and the invitations for the former are not sent out until the Government announces the date of prorogation. In accordance with an announcement by the Government, the date for the state ball was set for May 10, and thousands of invitations sent out.

But the Premier announced yesterday morning that Parliament would prorogue next week, hence the strained relations, because the members and Senators will all have flown.

The Prime Minister is of opinion that the business now before the House can be disposed of in about a week.

This was the effect of his reply to George Taylor, chief Conservative whip, in the Commons yesterday morning when asked if prorogation could be reached next week. The Premier had moved that the House sit next Saturday.

At the opening of the House Mr. Blondin emphatically denied the report that at a meeting in Montreal he had advocated the formation of a separate French-Canadian party, on the lines of the Irish party in the United Kingdom.

Claude Macdonnel complained of Mackenzie King's action in putting through his bill to amend the Lemieux Act. These amendments really were his own, having been suggested by some of his constituents. He introduced a similar bill last year.

Hon. George P. Graham's bill to provide for the payment of bounties on crude petroleum was passed yesterday. This measure is to permit payment of a portion of the bounties on oil to farmers in Kent and Essex, whose lands have been damaged by petroleum works.

Comber Postoffice Robbed Again.

Comber, April 28.—The Comber postoffice was again robbed sometime during the night. Entrance was effected through a window. About $3 in stamps and coppers were taken. The burglary was evidently the work of boys. Three weeks ago the safe was blown open.

Three Men Drown.

Quebec, April 28.—At Bedards Rapids, Tewkesbury, three men met a watery death in the Jacques River. Only one of the bodies, that of Sam Dupont, belonging to Batison, has been recovered. The men were driving logs.

A Call to Winnipeg.

Belleville, April 28.—Rev. J. A. Ford, pastor of Victoria avenue Baptist church, in this city, has received a call to a church in Winnipeg, which it is said he will likely accept. The stipend is double that [illegible] him here.

Iron and Steel Bounties.

Ottawa, April 28.—Hon. W. S. Fielding has given notice of the following resolutions regarding the iron and steel bounties:

"It is expedient to provide that no bounties shall be payable in respect of rolled round wire rods after June 30, 1911, under the provisions of section 1 A of chapter 24 of the acts of 1907, an act to amend the act respecting bounties on iron and steel, except on such rods as may have been otherwise entitled to the payment of bounties under the provisions of said section, and which were, on or before June 30, 1911, sold to wire manufacturers for use, or used in making wire by the makers of such rods in their own factories in Canada."

Arrested In Winnipeg.

Montreal, April 28.—Charles Cresser, who until recently lived with his wife and two children in upper Mance street, was arrested in Winnipeg on Tuesday night on a charge of fraudulently disposing of about ten thousand dollars' worth of stock belonging to A. R. Angus of the Ames Holden Co. Cresser, as an agent, dealt extensively in stocks.

Joe Martin to Visit B. C.

Victoria, B.C., April 28.—In a letter just received by H. B. Gilmour, from his friend and former political leader, Joseph Martin, member for St. Pancras East, states that as soon as the session of the Imperial Parliament closes he is coming back to British Columbia for an extended visit.

Slashes Throat With Ink Eraser.

New York, April 28.—Down in the vault of the Jefferson Bank at Forsyth and Canal street yesterday, Geo. W. Rose, aged 54, assistant receiving teller, took his own life, slashing his throat and hands with an ink eraser. His salary recently had been reduced.

Tax on Colonial Flour.

London, April 28.—The Canadian Associated Press understands that a duty will be imposed on colonial flour. The Tariff Reform League welcomes immunity from taxation of colonial wheat, and has pledged itself to support this policy.

Barefooted Nuns Arrive.

New York, April 28.—Five bare-footed Passionist nuns, the first of the order to visit the United States, arrived here yesterday from Cuveto, Italy, on their way to Pittsburg, where they will establish a foundation.

Danger In Beef.

Winona, Minn., April 28.—Seymour Brown, 48 years old, a capitalist, died yesterday of actinmycosis, contracted last December by eating beef from cattle afflicted with lumpy jaw.

"Trusties" Like It.

Guelph, April 28.—There are now 28 "trusties" at the new reformatory, 14 more having arrived yesterday. The men apparently enjoying the change from prison walls and striped clothes to outside work and civilian garb.

Accident to Carthagenian.

London, April 28.—The Allan liner Carthagenian, which left Liverpool April 23 for St. John's, Halifax and Philadelphia, is being towed back to Glasgow by the Hesperian of the same line, having broken her piston rod.

Quebec Stands Pat.

Washington, D.C., April 28.—U. S. Consul Foster at Ottawa has telegraphed to the State Department that Premier Laurier has informed him that Quebec Province declined to modify the new law on pulpwood.

ELEPHANTS ARE LOOSE

While Unloading Herd From Train After a Trip From Chicago the Beasts Charge and Get Free—Big Multitude Joins In Novel Hunt and Several Are Hurt—Loss Estimated at Ten Thousand.

Danville, Ills., April 28.—Several persons were injured and much property was damaged yesterday by nine elephants which stampeded just after they had been unloaded from a car after several hours' ride from Chicago.

A large bull elephant made a break for liberty, bowling over the keeper and escaping. The animal was followed by seven other bulls, which ran bellowing through the streets and across fields.

Later, while the entire force of trainers and keepers was engaged in the unusual sport of hunting elephants in automobiles, a female elephant escaped.

For several hours the elephants were at large, hunted by all attaches of the circus, all the city policemen and the more venturesome citizens. The elephants at first moved in a bunch, then separated. They stopped for nothing except brick and stone buildings. Such small frame structures, coal sheds, fences and trees as came in their path were pushed over, trodden down, uprooted and thrown to one side.

At the home of Wm. Miller, three elephants found insufficient room to pass between the summer kitchen and house, so they pushed the kitchen aside, frightening the persons therein from the table, but injuring no one.

At the home of Joseph Peebles, after overturning a shed and killing a horse, one of the animals attacked Peebles and hurled him against the side of his house Peebles is in a critical condition.

Barney O'Neil, a liveryman, was thrown from his wagon by the elephants as they dashed down a side street in front of his team. F. Krabbe, one of the keepers, while assisting in stabling three of the bulls, after their capture, was hurled against the side of a barn and injured. Several other persons were slightly injured, mostly because of horses, frightened by the pachyderms or through their own fright during the stampede.

More than 100 homes were damaged to some extent by the elephants, but the total loss will probably not exceed $10,000.

Several truck gardens and orchards were partly ruined in the outskirts of the city and many shade trees were broken or uprooted.

One elephant was still at large last night north of Danville, with a force of attendants with trusty elephants after it.

WHITNEY AT KINGSTON.

Premier Lays Cornerstone of Gordon Hall at Queen's.

Kingston, April 28.—"I was asked when I came down here to choose a name for this building," said Sir James Whitney, who well and truly laid the foundation stone of the new chemistry building of the school of mining of Queen's University yesterday afternoon. "I had very little hesitation in doing so. I feel that I honor myself in the name that I have chosen. This building shall be known as 'Gordon Hall'."

Principal Gordon, whose name will henceforth be linked with the fine grey granite structure that has already begun to rise in harmony with the general architectural scheme of the university, replied to the honor done him in a few felicitious words.

Sir James was presented by the vice-chairman of the board of the school of mining with a handsome trowel of Cobalt silver, the handle being of Canadian maple. In a receptacle in the stone were placed copies of the local papers and the various university publications, sets of coins and tercentenary stamps and a scroll containing the names of Earl Grey, the Lieutenant-Governor, Sir James Whitney and of the university and civic dignitaries.

Accompanying the Premier's party were Hon. Frank Cochrane, Hon. Jas. Duff, R. J. McCormick, M.P.P., Allen Studholme, M.P.P., J. R. Dargavel, M.P.P., and Valentine Stock, M.P.P.

Must Learn to Obey.

Toronto, April 28.—Sir Ernest Shackleton visited Upper Canada College yesterday and was given a rousing reception. In addressing them he said:

"You have here the carrying out of what your forefathers started years ago. Strong and upright men are needed to make Canada the greatest nation in the world. Some day in the future you will remember I spoke to you, and don't forget that it rests with you whether you make good or not. Don't look on your masters as enemies, but as friends, and be loyal to them. My men obeyed my orders, and unless you learn at your age to obey you never can command."

Later the Antarctic hero visited St. Andrews' College, the Military Institute and the Toronto Golf Club.

Senator Loses His Seat.

Ottawa, April 28.—The close of the session will find another vacancy in the Senate, one more reduction in the dwindling force of Conservative Senators. Hon. Michael Sullivan, of Kingston, has not been able to attend during two sessions, counting the present one, and thus forfeits his seat under the rules. He has been too ill to attend.

Senator Sullivan is an Irishman from Killarney. He has had a distinguished career as a surgeon, was once an unsuccessful candidate for the Commons, and was called to the Senate in 1884.

Sir John Carling of London is also ill, but saved his seat by attending one day this session in the care of a member of his family.

Young Best Under Arrest.

Windsor, April 28.—After a coroner's jury announced that it held Arthur J. Best, a young tinsmith of Comber, Ont., directly or indirectly responsible for the death of his wife, who was drowned in the Detroit River here March 12, Prosecuting Attorney Van Zile ordered the arrest of her husband. He was in court yesterday on a murder charge. He says he will fight extradition and was remanded.

Editor Squares Himself.

Niagara Falls, Ont., April 28.—The Daily Record was published by the amateurs of the city yesterday for the benefit of the general hospital. A considerable sum was realized, and the venture was a great success. For the past few months Proprietor J. E. P. Bothwell has roasted the City Council and other well-known men. To allow these to "get back" he donated the paper to them yesterday.

THE PORT OF MISSING MEN

By MEREDITH NICHOLSON,
Author of "The House of a Thousand Candles"

COPYRIGHT, 1907, BY THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

"It's from the commander of the Sophia Margaret, who is just leaving Rio Janeiro for Trieste and reports his prisoners safe and in good health."

"It was a happy thought to have him continue his cruise to the Brazilian coast before returning homeward. By the time he delivers those two scoundrels to his government their fellow conspirators will have forgotten they ever lived. But"—and Judge Claiborne shrugged his shoulders and smiled disingenuously—"as a lawyer I deplore such methods. Think what a stir would be made in this country if it were known that two men had been kidnaped in the sovereign state of Virginia and taken out to sea under convoy of ships carrying our flag for transfer to an Austrian battleship! That's what we get for being a free republic that cannot countenance the extradition of a foreign citizen for a political offense."

Armitage was not listening. Questions of international law and comity had no interest for him whatever. The valley breeze, the glory of the blue Virginia sky, the far stretching lines of hills that caught and led the eye like sea billows, the dark green of shrubbery, the slope of upland meadows and that elusive, vanishing gleam of white—before such things as these the splendor of empire and the might of armies were unworthy of man's desire.

Her arms were about his neck.

The baron's next words broke harshly upon his mood.

"The gratitude of kings is not a thing to be despised. You could go to Vienna and begin where most men leave off! Strong hands are needed in Austria. You could make yourself the younger, the great Stroehel"—

The mention of his name brought back the baron's still unanswered question. He referred to it now as he stood before them smiling

"I have answered all your questions but one; I shall answer that a little later If you will excuse me for just a few minutes I will go and get the answer—that is, gentlemen, I hope I shall be able to bring it back with me."

He turned and ran down the steps and strode away through the long shadows of the garden. They heard the gate click after him as he passed into the Claiborne grounds, and then they glanced at each other with such a glance as may pass between two members of a peace commission sitting on the same side of the table who will not admit to each other that the latest proposition of the enemy has been in the nature of a surprise. They did not, however, suffer themselves to watch Armitage, but diplomatically refilled their glasses.

Through the green walls went Armitage. He had not been out of the baron's ground before since he was carried thence from the bungalow, and it was pleasant to be free once more and able to stir without a nurse at his heels, and he swung along with his head and shoulders erect, walking with the confident stride of a man who has no doubt whatever of his immediate aim.

At the pergola he paused to reconnoiter, finding on the bench certain vestigia that interested him deeply—a pink parasol, a contrivance of straw, lace and pink roses that seemed to be a hat and a June magazine. He jumped upon the bench where once he had sat an exile, a refugee, a person discussed in disagreeable terms by the newspapers, and studied the landscape. Then he went on up the gradual slope of the meadow until he came to the pasture wall. It was under the trees beneath which Oscar had waited for Zmai that he found her.

"They told me you wouldn't dare venture out for a week," she said, advancing toward him and giving him her hand.

"That was what they told me," he said, laughing, "but I escaped from my keepers."

"You will undoubtedly take cold without your hat!"

"Yes; I shall undoubtedly have pneumonia from exposure to the Virginia sunshine. I take my chances."

"You may sit on the wall for three minutes; then you must go back. I cannot be responsible for the life of a wounded hero."

"Please!" He held up his hand. "That's what I came to talk to you about."

"About being a hero? You have taken an unfair advantage. I was going to send for the latest designs in laurel wreaths tomorrow."

She sat down beside him on the wall. The sheep were a grayish blur against the green. A little negro boy was shepherding them, and they scampered before him toward the farther end of the pasture. The faint and vanishing tinkle of a bell and the boy's whistle gave emphasis to the country quiet of the late afternoon. They spoke rapidly and impersonally of his adventures in the hills and of his illness.

"I didn't know, Miss Claiborne, that I was going to lose my mind that morning at the bungalow or I should have asked your brother to conduct you to the conservatory while I fainted. From what they told me I must have been a little light headed for a day or two. If I had been in my right mind I should not have let Captain Dick mix up in my business and run the risk of getting killed in a nasty little row. Dear old Dick! I made a mess of that whole business. I ought to have telegraphed for the Storm Springs constable in the beginning and told him that if he wasn't careful the noble house of Schonburg would totter and fall."

"Yes, and just imagine the effect on our constable of telling him that the fate of an empire lay in his hands. It's hard enough to get a man arrested who beats his horse. But you must go back to your keepers. You haven't your hat!"—

"Neither have you. You shan't outdo me in recklessness. I inspected your hat as I came through the pergola. I liked it immensely. I came near seizing it as spoil of war—the loot of the pergola!"

"There would be cause for another war. I have rarely liked any hat so much. But the baron will be after you in a moment. I can't be responsible for you."

"The baron annoys me. He has given me a lot of worry. And that's what I have come to ask you about."

"Then I should say that you oughtn't to quarrel with a dear old man like Baron von Marhof. Besides, he's your uncle."

"No, no! I don't want him to be my uncle! I don't need any uncle!"

He glanced about with an anxiety that made her laugh.

"I understand perfectly! My father told me that the events of April in these hills were not to be mentioned. But don't worry. The sheep won't tell—and I won't."

He was silent for a moment as he thought out the words of what he wished to say to her. The sun was dipping down into the hills; the mellow air was still; the voice of a negro singing as he crossed a distant field stole sweetly upon them.

"Shirley!"

He touched her hand.

"Shirley!" And his fingers closed upon hers.

"I love you, Shirley! From those days when I saw you in Paris before the great Gettysburg battle picture I loved you. You had felt the cry of the old world, the story that is in its battlefields, its beauty and romance, just as I had felt the call of this new and more wonderful world. I understood—I knew what was in your heart. I knew what those things meant to you, but I had put them aside. I had chosen another life for myself. And the poor life that you saved, that is yours if you will take it. I have told your father and Baron von Marhof that I would not take the fortune my father left me. I would not go back there to be thanked or to get a ribbon to wear in my coat. But my name, the name I bore as a boy and disgraced in my father's eyes—his name that he made famous throughout the world, the name I cast aside with my youth, the name I flung away in anger—they wish me to take that."

She withdrew her hand and rose and looked away toward the western hills.

"The greatest romance in the world is here, Shirley. I have dreamed it all over—in the Canadian woods, on the Montana ranch as I watched the herd at night. My father spent his life keeping a king upon his throne, but I believe there are higher things and finer things than steadying a shaking throne or being a king. And the name that has meant nothing to me except dominion and power—it can serve no purpose for me to take it now. I learned much from the poor archduke. He taught me to hate the sham and shame of the life he had fled from. My father was the last great defender of the divine right of kings, but I believe in the divine right of men. And the dome of the capitol in Washington does not mean to me force or hatred or power, but faith and hope and man's right to live and do and be whatever he can make himself. I will not go back or take the old name unless—unless you tell me I must, Shirley!"

Back across the meadow they went hand in hand.

There was an instant in which they both faced the westering sun. He looked down suddenly, and the deep feeling in his heart went to his lips.

"It was that way. You were just like that when I saw you first, Shirley, with the dreams in your eyes."

He caught her hand and kissed it, bending very low indeed. Suddenly, as he stood erect, her arms were about his neck and her cheek, with its warmth and color, lay against his face.

"I do not know"—and he scarcely heard the whispered words—"I do not know Frederick Augustus von Stroebel, but I love John Armitage," she said.

Then back across the meadow, through the rose aisled ways of the quiet garden, they went hand in hand together and answered the baron's question.

True Household Economy

MOTHERS, we owe it as a duty to our husbands and families to take good care of them. We all want, of course, to have our loved ones cheerful and comfortable.

Our dominant part is to give them the very best that we can make or bake. But sometimes we are tempted to save a few pennies in food and think that in so doing we are economising. But is it so? Is this the kind of economy that is wise and profitable? Is it doing our full duty to our loved ones?

Royal Household Flour

We wouldn't think of buying the lowest priced eggs in the market just for the sake of economy. We would feel that because they were cheap they would be good eggs to avoid. The low price would give us a suspicion of their freshness and quality. None of us would want to economise by buying eggs marked ten cents a dozen.

But when it comes to flour, for example, we may be tempted to buy the second best instead of the best because of the few pennies difference in price. We may think that economy in flour is different from economy in eggs. But it isn't. The principle is the same. The difference in cost between the best flour in the world and ordinary flour is so little that in justice to our responsibility as wives and mothers we can not afford to take chances.

The one safe rule in buying flour is to buy "Royal Household" and in that way make sure of the finest quality. and absolute uniformity

From every point of view Royal Household Flour is more economical than any other. It produces more loaves to the barrel. It is richest in food value. It is more uniform. It is best for Pastry as well as Bread and yields more baked product in either bread or pastry than any other flour.

ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR furnishes more nourishment, more real food value per pound and per penny's worth than any other flour in the world.

The acme of economy in flour buying is to use only "Royal Household." Best for Bread. Best for Pastry. Most uniform. Most perfect. Best and cheapest for health and happiness of the entire family.

German Gleanings.

A German student preparing to be a doctor needs about $3,500 during the five years involved in medical training.

The Berlin town council has sentenced to a week's detention a factory hand who laughed at a Salvation Army meeting.

Within a year Germany has added 130 officers of all ranks to her naval personnel, including one vice admiral and one rear admiral.

It is not uncommon to find in some parts of Germany families of five to seven persons whose combined weekly earnings do not exceed $3.47 to $4.19 a week.

Piles Or Hemorrhoids

This Most Torturing Disease Invariably Yields to DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Piles and Dr. Chase's Ointment are connected in the minds of most people because this treatment is recognized as about the only actual cure for this annoying disease.

Until you have tried Dr. Chase's Ointment you will not believe how quickly it brings relief from the nasty, itching, stinging, burning sensations.

It is just as sure to make a cure if you persist in its use. Naturally and gradually the ulcers in the rectum are healed and cured and life is again made worth the living.

It doesn't mattter what the cause, Dr. Chase's Ointment will bring you relief every time, and that right quickly. Put it to the test and you will be able to write just as enthusiastic a letter as this one:

Mr. James Hurley, Pockshaw, Gloucester Co., N. B., writes: "I cannot find words of praise to express my opinion of Dr. Chase's Ointment. For thirty years I was troubled with itching piles and tried all sorts of remedies, none of which gave me more than temporary relief. What other treatments have failed to do Dr. Chase's Ointment has done. It has positively cured me of itching piles."

If you can get Dr. Chase's Ointment to-day you can make this your last day of suffering from piles. Should your dealer not have Dr. Chase's Ointment in stock write to us for a free sample box, or enclose 50 cents for a full size box, which will be sent postpaid.

No substitute will satisfy you if you realize the merits of Dr. Chase's Ointment. For sale by all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

New Perfection
WICK BLUE FLAME

is the latest practical, scientific cook-stove. It will cook the most elaborate dinner without heating the kitchen.

Boils, bakes, or roasts better than any range. Ready in a second. Extinguished in a second. Fitted with Cabinet Top, with collapsible rests, towel rack, and every up-to-date feature imaginable. You want it, because it will cook any dinner and not heat the room. No heat, no smell, no smoke, no coal to bring in, no ashes to carry out. It does away with the drudgery of cooking, and makes it a pleasure. Women with the light touch for pastry especially appreciate it, because they can immediately have a quick fire, simply by turning a handle. No half-hour preparation. It not only is less trouble than coal, but it costs less. Absolutely no smell, no smoke; and it doesn't heat the kitchen.

Cautionary Note: Be sure you get this stove—see that the name-plate reads "New Perfection."

The nickel finish, with the turquoise blue of the enameled chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

Head Office: 46 King Street, West TORONTO

The Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of the Imperial Guarantee & Accident Insurance Company of Canada, was held at the Head Office, 46 King Street West, Toronto, on the 19th inst.

Mr. E. W. Cox, President of the Company, in reviewing the business of the year, made reference to the growing popularity of Accident Insurance, and its effect on the success of the business of the Company during the year. The amount of insurance written was over $26,270,000.00, an increase of $1,950,000.00 over the business taken out in 1908. This is considered exceptionally satisfactory in view of the fact that the business of the Company is confined to Personal Accident and Guarantee Insurance.

The Gross Income for 1909 amounted to $919,741.76.

That being an increase over the year 1908 of $41,817.25.

The Assets now total $566,973.00, and, after allowing for Reserve for unearned premium calculated on the full Government standard, and all other liabilities, the surplus for the protection of policyholders has increased to $213,427.19.

THE MOON'S VOLCANOES.

Causes of the Gigantic Craters and Great Fissure Eruptions.

It is evident to any one who glances upward at the moon that its volcanoes are on an immensely larger scale than those which stud our globe. One explanation, now abandoned, is that the force of gravitation being there only one-sixth that of the earth the matter expelled from a crater would be spread far more widely, and explosions would be generally on a far more magnificent scale. Professor Pickering quotes this theory only to refute it in some comparisons which he made between the great volcanic region of Hawaii and one of the smaller craters of the moon. The facts seem to him to be that the larger craters on the moon came into existence when the thin, solid crust covering the molten interior was, owing to the solidification and contraction of the crust, much too small to contain the liquid material. The craters were therefore formed by the lava bursting through the crust and so relieving the pressure. Later, after this relief had been found and the crust had thickened, the interior regions by cooling shrank away from the solid shell, which was now too large and, being insufficiently supported, caved in, permitting the great fissure eruptions which produced the so called lunar seas. These extensive outflows of lava dissolved the original solid shell whenever they came into contact with it, much as they do in the present day in Hawaii. Had the moon been much smaller these eruptions might not have occurred at all, and if the moon had been much larger their relative size would have been greater. Most probably on the earth similar outbursts were greater, and our original gigantic craters were destroyed by the outflow of the earlier archaic rocks which completely submerged and dissolved them. —London Post.

THE ESKIMO BABY.

How the Little One Is Carried and Cared For by the Mother.

The arrival in the world of the youthful Eskimo is not greeted by the orthodox cradle and swaddling clothes. Practically till he can shift for himself he lives absolutely naked inside his mother's sealskin blouse, skin to skin keeping him warm.

This arrangement allows the mother to go about her work almost immediately, and she can also travel and hunt without a perambulator and without having to leave any one at home to "mind" the baby. The mother's dress is almost exactly like the father's, except that it has a long sort of tail reaching nearly to the ground, embryo, no doubt, of the modern "train."

Spared the miseries of soap and water and early weaned to the readily swallowed diet of blubber and raw seal meat, the infant rapidly develops that invaluable layer of subcutaneous fat which, while it enhances the "jolly" appearance of the lads and the shapeliness of the maidens, assists materially in economy in clothing.

Thus in their frigid clime, once in their skin tent, the whole family will divest themselves of every stitch of clothing, unembarrassed by the fact that so many families share the tent with them. Sociability is early developed when one's next door neighbor on each side is only separated by an imaginary line between the deerskin you sleep on and the one he uses. The winter deerskin serves as bed and bedding at night and as parlor furniture during the day. Community of goods is almost imperative under this arrangement. Thus when one kills a seal all are fed, and likewise when he doesn't all go hungry together.

Magnetic Mediums.

"You've got a pretty bad headache, sir, haven't you?" asked the barber, giving a dry shampoo.

"That's just what's bothering me," replied the man in the chair. "But how did you know?"

"Tell it by my wrists and hands," explained the barber. "You and I are what they'd call magnetic mediums. And the electricity in my fingers takes the pain out of your head. But I get it. That's why I know. My hands are aching now. I don't often strike a customer like you, however, or I'd have to go out of business. I'll bet my arms ache for a half hour after you're gone."

Very Imposing.

"How was it Dr. Knowit got such a big fee from Talkative?"

"Because when he was called to attend Mrs. Talkative for a slight nervous trouble he told her she had an acute attack of inflammatory verbosity."

"Well?"

"And recommended absolute quiet as the only means of averting paroxysms of cacaothes loquendi. She's scared dumb."

TUMOR OF YEARS GROWTH

Removed by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Winnipeg, Man.—"Eleven years ago I went to the Victoria Hospital, Montreal, suffering with a growth in the uterus. The doctors said it was a tumor, and could not be removed, as it would cause instant death. They found that other organs were affected and said I could not live more than six months in the condition I was in. After I came home I saw your advertisement in the paper and commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it constantly for two years, and still take it at times, and both my husband and myself claim that it was the means of saving my life. I highly recommend it to suffering women."—Mrs. ORILLA BRADLEY, 284 Johnson Ave., Winnipeg, Manitoba.

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy—tumor. If you have mysterious pains, inflammation, ulceration or displacement, don't wait for time to confirm your fears and go through the horrors of a hospital operation, but try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills.

"Why don't you take it with you?" asked the clerk. "You would save 40 cents."

INDIAN LODGES.

Homes of the Savages In the Days of the Buffalo.

While in buffalo days some of the wild Indians of the plains occupied permanent dwellings during a part of the year, there were others who lived wholly in movable lodges.

These were made of buffalo skins tanned white and sewed together. They were of different sizes, the poor occupying smaller lodges, while the wealthy man, he who owned many horses, very likely had a large family and required a larger lodge. The size of a man's lodge was to some extent an indication of his wealth. Two horses were needed to drag the poles of a large lodge and one to carry the lodge itself, three horses for the transportation of the dwelling alone, to say nothing of the other property and the different members of the family.

A lodge of moderate size required eleven skins, and eighteen poles were needed to set it up. A sixteen skin lodge required twenty-two poles. The larger the lodge the greater was the number of poles needed. From the fact that they used an unusual number of poles in setting up their lodges it resulted that the Cheyennes had well stretched, nice looking lodges.

The northern Cheyennes declare that an odd number of hides was always used for the best lodges, and the number might range from eleven to twenty-one. The skins were sewed together with sinew thread. First, of course, the hides must be tanned, the hair removed and the skin softened. Then the Cheyenne woman held a sewing bee which was not unlike the bees of our ancestors in the early days of this country. She invited her friends to come and help her sew her lodge and provided them with refreshments. Among them was always one woman especially skillful in cutting out the lodges, and she fitted the skins together before the women began to sew them. —Forest and Stream.

HOLDING A CAMERA.

Some Practical Suggestions to the Beginner In Photography.

One of the most important lessons for a beginner to learn is to hold the camera in the proper position during exposure. Whenever there are corners of buildings or other objects which give vertical lines the camera must be held absolutely level. If this is not done, the building in the picture will appear to be falling either backward or forward, according to the way in which the camera was tilted.

There are times, however, when the camera may be tilted to an advantage. In some cases it is an absolute necessity. For example, in photographs of clouds, waterfalls, balloons, etc., the camera may point upward, while in taking pictures of people swimming or bathing, children at work or play, etc., it may be pointed downward.

Very successful photographs of prominent speakers, parades, crowds, etc., have been taken when the camera was upside down. It makes no difference in the negative whether the camera is right side up or not. By holding the camera in the way suggested many a photographer has secured good pictures, while others who tried to use the camera in the usual way made absolute failures.

Often by holding the camera by the side of the body and pointing it backward one may secure pictures of children at play and of older people in natural poses without the knowledge of any members of the group.

Another warning to beginners is necessary. Do not try to take a time exposure while holding the camera in the hand. Even if the camera is held against the breast and respiration stopped the action of the heart is sufficient to cause the box to vibrate and spoil the picture.

Stripped at the Law.

Dickens describes in his novel "Bleak House" the woes of those who were involved in suits in the chancery court and the delays to which they were subjected before the English judicial procedure was reformed. Tradition says that an artist once represented the same idea in much less space. Two suitors in chancery, being reconciled to each other after a very tedious and expensive suit, applied to him to paint a device in commemoration of their return to peace and amity. He gave them entire satisfaction by painting them in the act of shaking hands—one clad in his shirt, the other without even that.

Wants More Than Beauty.

The modern Englishman has more cool common sense than his great-grandfather. A beautiful woman attracts his eye, and he may have a passing fascination, but that feeling is only a transient one unless Miss Beauty has other recommendations. If he cannot get beauty combined with usefulness, he goes in for plainness.—London Women's Life.

Close Application.

"Now that you are about to go to college, my son, let me enjoin upon you to bear in mind one thing."

"What is that, dad?"

"It is this, my boy—the greatest results are always achieved by close application."

"Why, dad, you talk just like a person plaster."

Yes, Indeed.

A man may have a heart big enough to love two women at one time, but he ought to have more head.

ADVERTISE in The Examiner.

Revealed By Fire

What a Discarded Lover's Heroism and Sacrifice Brought Him.

By ADDISON HOWARD GIBSON.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

The full September moon shone down upon a little cabin on the dry prairies of western Kansas, lighting up the faces of a young man and woman who were slowly walking up and down the open space before the door.

"I was so happy, Rachel," the man said, glancing at the strong, beautiful face of his companion, "when I heard your school up in the Wyoming mountains was closed and you were coming home. I thought you were coming to stay this time. I hope so, for, Rachel, I've loved you a long time."

Dan Southard leaned toward the girl to study the effect of his avowal on her.

But Rachel Winton betrayed no emotion.

She merely turned her dark eyes from the man's eager face and looked off across the moonlit prairie.

"I've been working and waiting, Rachel," he continued, his voice husky with feeling, "until I had something to offer you. I was sure you wouldn't give up teaching for just anything—you're not that kind.

"But I've loved you ever since two years ago, when we all came out to these prairies together in our covered wagons. I remember, after we were here, how bravely you worked to help your parents get started off comfortably before you went with your uncle to Wyoming to teach that ranch school."

"Dan," she exclaimed almost sternly, "I haven't ceased to remember our old house, which father lost on that security debt, the home we were forced to leave when we came here. Mother and I were not very brave, for we shed tears most of the way, though no one knew it. We came because it was the only thing to do, but this pioneer life is a hard, hard one.

"In my heart I am at war with it and always have been. It takes away youth and kills all high and noble ambitions. See how mother has aged during the two years we have lived here. It makes me bitter. That's why I go back to teach. I'm going to make enough to take them away from this life."

"But, Rachel," he pleaded, "you shall never work as your mother has had to, I promise it," then suddenly, with a catch in his voice, "Say, girlie, there's no truth in the report about your caring for that rich Wyoming ranchman?"

"Mr. Miles has been very kind to me," she answered without pretending not to understand. "He has offered to let father and mother have the lovely home he owns in Denver if I'll marry him. It would be an ideal place for them to end their days in."

"My God, girlie! I couldn't stand it to see you the wife of another!" the young man cried, his strong frame shaken with emotion.

"You mustn't care so much, Dan," she returned, tender pity for his suffering making her tones kind. "Get a better girl to share your home—one who will love you enough to make the best of this hard life."

"Never, never, Rachel!" he answered, with passion. "I love only you. If you could but read my heart and see how much you would surely care just a little for me. Your ranchman, rich as he is, will never love you as I do, Rachel! Never!"

"I couldn't love any man well enough to give up all I enjoy and settle down to this isolated life, this continual treadmill of drudgery," she retorted, turning away, then in a milder tone, "Forget me, Dan."

Forget her! That he would never do—he never could. There was a time—it was when they lived in their covered wagons and camped at night by the trail; yes, and even after they were settled here—that he had thought she cared for him.

Those had been the happiest days in Southard's life. He had never dreamed that she hated those free, rolling prairies so intensely.

Blind to this, he had been toiling on his new claim to get things in good shape before asking her to marry him.

Bitterly now he felt that it was all labor lost, for without Rachel Winton nothing was worth while.

After gazing at the girl a moment in silent reproach Southard walked over to his tethered horse, mounted and rode away.

The moon climbed higher as Rachel stood looking after the vanishing horseman.

"Poor Dan!" she murmured. "He is so strong and good. Father and mother love him like a son, but I just can't, can't!" And the tears gathered in her eyes.

"I was intended for something better. If I wasn't, why should I dislike the rough, crude ways of pioneer life so terribly?"

With this question on her lips Rachel Winton entered the cabin, where her parents were already asleep, and sought her couch.

For a long time she lay awake, her mind, much against her will, busy comparing young Southard and Mr. Niles.

Dan's clear cut but somewhat boyish face lost nothing by comparison with that of the bearded, middle aged ranchman who had been wooing her persistently for the past year.

Life with one meant the unceasing drudgery of the prairie farm; with the other, wealth to enable her to live wherever she might choose herself and also give her parents a comfortable home.

But which of the men held the key to her heart?

Really she could not tell, but she grew drowsy making herself believe she would be able in any event to compel her mind with its power of judging wisely to control her heart.

Toward midnight she was aroused by a strange pungent smell pervading her little room. Her breathing was not quite free. What could it mean?

She lay for a minute dazed, yet with what sense she could command, trying to discover the cause of the odor that was gaining in strength and stifling power.

Suddenly a great crimson light illumined the small window. With a quick movement Rachel sprang from bed, and as she did so there came to her ears the rapid beat of a horse's hoofs on the prairie road.

Then she heard Dan's voice burdened with awful import.

"Rachel!" he called. "Mr. Winton! Get up! Get up quick! The prairie is on fire!"

"Father! Mother!" the girl called, running to their bed. "Get up! Do you hear? There is a big fire. Yes, Dan," she called from the window as she helped her mother to dress.

"There's not a minute to lose," Southard called back. "The fire is sweeping this way as fast as a strong wind can bring it."

There had been no rain for three weeks, and everything was dry as tinder.

The Wintons understood the terrible danger impending.

Not only the cabin, but stock, crops, even they themselves, were at the mercy of those leaping flames.

"Bring the blankets, quick!" shouted Southard. Obeying him instantly, Rachel dragged every blanket out of the house.

Dan had ridden his horse to the little spring in the hollow and was rapidly filling every pail he had been able to find about the place.

Acting under his directions, the girl mounted her father's pony, and she and Dan carried water for Mr. and Mrs. Winton to wet the blankets, this being their only means of fighting the fire.

How they worked and fought! It seemed as if the whole world was arrayed against them, and all the while the moon looked down, cold and uncaring, while the fire swept fiercely onward until it caught in a row of dry cornstalks that reached nearly to the cabin. Here the battle must be fought with renewed energy.

The smoke of the burning grass and grain assailed their nostrils, scorched their throats and blinded their eyes, but with hands torn and blistered they toiled on.

When the old cannie fell back upon Dan and Rachel took their places with the heavy wet blankets and worked side by side. Inch by inch they beat back the angry flames.

Even in that terrible situation the girl felt a singular strength and coolness in working by Southard's side. She felt that the enemy must yield to such grand and compelling superiority.

When the fire attacked them from another vulnerable point it was Dan's exhaustless energy that saved the day.

By sacrificing a patch of ripe grain, through a prompt back fire, the foe was met and made to recoil in wrathful flames upon itself.

After a time the great body of the fire swept away northward, having consumed everything of the Wintons' except cabin and stock.

With a thankfulness in their hearts for the preservation of these, the old couple entered the house and threw themselves upon the floor.

Then Southard and Rachel came back with weary, lagging feet from their last successful onslaught.

"Everything's safe now, Rachel," he said huskily, starting toward his horse.

"Dan," she questioned, a queer choking in her throat, "you are not going now?"

He stopped and looked at her. She had never appeared more beautiful to him than now, with the marks of that great fire battle upon her face and tattered dress.

"All we have left we owe to you, Dan," she went on, noting his scorched face, bleeding hands and burned clothing.

Then she placed her blackened hand on his shoulder. How he trembled under that touch.

"I don't feel as if I could bear to have you leave us, Dan." There was a tender pleading in her tones.

"The danger's over, Rachel," he reassured her, "and I must ride all the way to Westfield before daybreak."

"Why to Westfield?" she asked.

Without a word he pointed across the blackened prairie toward his claim.

Only a mass of smoking ruins marked the place where his house and stable had been. She understood.

"You left all you had to come to us, Dan," she said, with a sob. "Now you have nothing left. Without your help everything here, even our lives, would have been sacrificed. Oh, Dan, the light of that fire has given me a sight of my own heart! I see that the true life for me is right here, and if we can just pull through now, but hope to save some more time by. We had some money saved up for old age, but we've been a-drawin' on it for Tom, and this is all there is left."

When she went out with her draft I found myself boiling with indignation at this worthless scamp, who was sucking the lifeblood out of his old father and mother—even his sweetheart.

There was a visit from the sweetheart after this to ask for a draft of $18.50, which convinced me that Tom had accepted the last amount she had sent him. Then one day the old farmer came in pale and trembling, evidently just out of a sickbed, with the check of a mortgage company for $1,000. He asked for a draft in exchange for it payable to this vampire of a son. We bankers make it a rule to mind our own business, but I had reached a point where I could no longer refrain from warning this poor old man.

"So you have mortgaged your farm to send money to your son?" I said.

"Yes; Tom's in powerful need of money. The mine he thought was goin' to turn out so fine petered out. He says it closed up as he went down instead of openin'."

"And you lost all the money you sent him for the development?"

"Yes, we lost it," replied the old man with a tremulous voice.

"Aren't you afraid you'll lose this too?"

"I dunno. Tom's got another mine. He says he's sure o' this."

"Of course it's no business of mine, but I don't like to see you, an old man, mortgaging your farm to send money to a son who should be giving you money instead of you giving it to him. Suppose you can't pay the interest on the mortgage when it is due. You will lose your farm."

The old man stood wiping his face with a bandanna handkerchief, the picture of misery.

"I know what yer mean," he said, "but ma she won't keep back anything the boy wants. She never did. I always told her she'd spoil him."

"I'm afraid she has spoiled him. You should know that your son is not wasting your money at gambling or something like that and telling you that he's on the verge of making a fortune in a mine before risking any more money on him."

"That's what I tell ma."

At this moment the draft was laid before me, but instead of handing it to him I said:

"Hadn't you better think this over?"

He stood, his eyes fixed on vacancy, slowly swaying or tottering, and I knew there was a great contest going on in his mind. His love for his boy conquered.

"I'm 'bliged to you, Mr. Cashier, and mebbe you're right, but I allus believed in my Tom, and I can't go back on him now."

I handed him the draft, and he scuffled slowly out of the bank.

The old man must have borrowed all he could on his farm, considering the transaction as a sale, for he failed to pay the first interest that fell due on the mortgage. I knew this, because I saw in a newspaper a legal notice of foreclosure proceedings on his farm.

"Well," I sighed, laying down the paper, "the old man has given his home to his reprobate son; he has nothing more to give. I shall not suffer again at seeing him come into the bank to do what I can't prevent his doing."

The same day I met the young girl on the street whom I was sure was Tom's sweetheart. I stopped her and asked:

"Is Farmer Williams turned out of house and home?"

"Not yet, sir."

"But he will be?"

"I suppose so."

"Has his son sent him anything to help him?"

"No, sir. He wrote to say that he was awful sorry to see the farm go, but he could not help it."

"H'm. Do you think a son who will treat his father and mother like that would treat a wife any better?"

Tears came into her eyes. I was ashamed at giving her this useless pain. I walked on.

About a month after this a strapping young fellow with a fine, manly face came into the bank and said he wished to open an account. I assented, and he made a deposit of $49,506.

"Will you please leave your signature in this book?" I said. He took up a pen and wrote:

"Thomas Williams."

"You Tom Williams?" I exclaimed.

"Yes. What do you know about me?"

"Son of Farmer Williams?"

"Yes."

"Sold your mine?"

"Yes; I've sold a mine in Colorado, or two-thirds of it. This money I'm leaving with you is the first cash payment; there are two others of $50,000 each."

"Has your father's farm gone to the mortgagee?"

"No; I'm in time for that. I was afraid I wouldn't be, though. Anyway, I'd have bought it back. If it hadn't been for the money father sent me I couldn't have carried the deal through. I expected the farm to go for the mine."

"And the young girl to whom we gave drafts payable to your order?"

He colored and said: "It's in with the rest, but she and I'll be one anyway. I shall transfer two-thirds of this deposit to father. I took him and mother in for thirds."

I went to see the old farmer and his wife and found them jubilant. "I told you I had confidence in my boy," the farmer said. "He was always straight."

I attended Tom Williams' wedding and kissed the bride. I couldn't help it.

The International College of Opthalmology,

Gentlemen,—

I desire to state that your method of examination which your Firm has conducted with the Crack Rifle Shots of Canada, has been so satisfactory that I can honestly state that you are certainly the best Optical people in Canada in my mind, and thoroughly reliable.

George Fitzgerald,
Peterborough Carriage Factory.

Lindsay, April 22nd, 1910

TO THE PEOPLE OF PETERBOROUGH :

I desire to make known that I have been fitted on several different occasions in the past ten years for reading and shooting glasses by the representatives of the International College of Ophthalmology, and they are in my judgment the best Optical people in Canada, and am sure are regarded as such by the military crack shots all through Canada. J. A WILLIAMSON, Maj. 45th Rgt, Lindsay

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN :

On several occasions I have had my eyes tested for shooting glasses, which I use in my rifle shooting. I consider Mr. Cecil Elliott one of the best optical experts in the business and he is generally recognized as such by the crack rifle shots of the Dominion.

C. H. VANDERSLUYS, Capt., 44th Regt.

April 27th, 1910

To the People of Peterborough :

This is to certify that I know the International College of Opthalmology to be very skilled optical people. They have supplied me with shooting lenses for my Military Shooting for the past number of years, and I am satisfied they can fit the most difficult cases of eye trouble.

Dr. J. B. Pentland, Dentist

NOTICE—These Frames are absolutely Gold Filled, not Gold Plated. They occupy the same place in the optical trade as Rogers Bros.' "1847" does in the Silverware line, or Elgin or Waltham do in the watch line.

Church and Clergy.

Forty-two per cent of the clergy live to be septuagenarians.

The oldest Presbyterian church in the United States is said to be the one at Southampton, N. Y. The building was erected in 1707 and was dedicated in 1709.

In the English Church Times the clerical obituary for 1909 contains 461 names. The ages of 370 of the deceased clergymen are mentioned, and these show the attainment of an average age of seventy-one and one-half years.

Rev. S. M. Stewart, who has spent eight years on the northern coast of Labrador, says that up there it is often a question of starvation or a diet of raw seal. He says that it tastes like a combination of codfish and beefsteak with a dash of rabbit thrown in.

WOMEN'S WOES

Peterborough Women are Finding Relief at Last.

It does seem that women have more than a fair share of the aches and pains that afflict humanity; they must "keep up," must attend to duties in spite of constantly aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, bearing-down pains; they must stoop over when to stoop means torture. They must walk and bend and work with racking pains and many aches from kidney ills. Kidneys cause more suffering than any other organ of the body. Keep the kidneys well and health is easily maintained. Read of a remedy for kidneys only that helps and cures the kidneys and is endorsed by people you know.

Mrs. John Wallace, of 323 Water St., Peterborough, Ont., says: "I have suffered with many painful and annoying symptoms of kidney trouble for over two years and could find nothing that would benefit my condition. My back was weak and a dull, heavy pain settled across the small of it, extending into my sides and shoulders. I could not sleep at night as the kidney secretions were so frequent and irregular that I would have to leave my bed a number of times. I was dizzy and would usually awake with a dull headache. Booth's Kidney Pills procured at Wm. Madill's Drug Store, cured me when all else failed. I am stronger and feel better generally. I can conscientiously recommend Booth's Kidney Pills and I would not be without a box in the house."

Palestine Violin.

The rebab of Palestine is a sort of violin. The body is a square frame covered with parchment. The instrument is played with a bow. There is but one string, a thick, coarse horsehair, but expert performers can, it is said, get considerable variety of tone from this primitive instrument.

Longest Bridge.

The Lion bridge, near Sangang, in China, is the longest in the world, being five and a quarter miles from end to end. The roadway is seventy feet above water.

Formosa.

Formosa is known to the world generally as the principal source of the camphor supply, but its marvelous natural resources include exceedingly valuable forests, gold, coal and sulphur mines.

London Aldermen.

An alderman of the city of London holds office for life.

Bail Substitute in Egypt.

In Egypt persons placed under police supervision and unable to find the security demanded for future good behavior are employed, if they so desire, in cultivation or other work at a daily wage.

Bead Stringers.

In the Tyrolean parishes of Mieming and Rietz the members of nearly every household are engaged in the making of rosaries by stringing beads together.

Fuel in Wales.

In Wales the economical housewife keeps down coal bills by burning clay, four parts of anthracite being mixed with one part of clay and then rolled into small balls about three inches in diameter.

Oldest Firearms.

The oldest firearms were used in China. The Chinese fought with guns at a time when Europeans used bows and arrows.

Ptolemy's Nuptial Yacht.

Ptolemy Philopator possessed a nuptial yacht, the Thalamegon, 312 feet long and 45 feet deep. A graceful gallery supported by curiously carved columns ran around the vessel, and within were temples of Venus and of Bacchus. Her masts were 100 feet high and her sails and cordage of royal purple hue.

The Kilowatt.

A kilowatt almost exactly equals one and one-third horsepower.

Straight Hair.

Straight hair was considered by the ancients as a mark of the god's displeasure. Hair which was straight before sickness will sometimes grow curly afterward.

Canadian Indians.

Canada has 100,000 Indians among her population of 6,000,000. The government has isolated them as wards of the nation in reserves which are scattered all over the Dominion.

Blackmail.

Blackmail was originally in England a compulsory payment for the protection of cattle in the border counties, but was prohibited in 1601 by Elizabeth.

Chinese Schools.

No crayons or blackboards are used in Chinese schools. The pupils learn to write from copies set by their teachers and which they at first trace with a brush and india ink through thin paper made of bamboo fiber.

The Human Body.

The principal elements of the human body are nitrogen, hydrogen, oxygen, carbon, water, iron, salt, carbohydrates, chloride of potash, magnesium, sulphur and hydrochloric acid.

Turkey's Sacred Spot.

The Chirkan Scherif, or hall of the Holy Garment, is the most sacred place in Turkey, for it shelters the mantle of the prophet Mohammed, his staff, his saber, his standard and, among other relics, two hairs from his venerable beard, which are inclosed in a casket of gold.

Mount Rewenzori.

Mount Rewenzori, in equatorial Africa, is about 20,000 feet high, has twenty miles of glaciers and is nearly always cloud covered.

Voting in Belgium.

They encourage people to record their votes in Belgium by issuing cheap tickets on the state railways. Tickets are sold to electors to go to their voting places at less than half price.

Gas Lighting.

The inventor of gas lighting was one Murdock of Birmingham, England. In 1792 he installed gas lighting in his house, but it was not till 1803 that the system was given a public trial.

A Warrior's Wardrobe.

In the Russian campaign the personal baggage of Napoleon's brother, Jerome Bonaparte, contained 60 pairs of boots, 200 shirts and 318 pocket handkerchiefs. The transportation of his wardrobe entire required several heavy wagons, while his whole campaigning kit stretched over half a mile.

Vaccination and Marriage.

In Sweden and Norway a legal marriage is not allowed to be solemnized till both parties produce certificates attesting that they bear genuine vaccination marks.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

John Linnan, who is said to have a son in Toronto, was drowned in a creek at Bradford, Pa.

The Grand Trunk Pacific has purchased sixty acres of land at St. John to provide room for terminals.

Five hundred Albanians, mostly women and children, were killed by Turkish shells at Godauntz, in Albania.

Mr. Lloyd-George's finance bill passed its third reading in the House of Commons and its first in the House of Lords last night.

The aerial Derby, worth $50,000, from London to Manchester was won by Louis Paulhan, who covered the 186 miles between the two cities with but a single stop.

The West Zorra Council has appointed two constables to patrol the roads and shoot all unmuzzled dogs running at large. A mad dog was killed there the other day after biting a couple of dogs.

The commission appointed by the General Assembly to consider changes proposed in Queen's University constitution have recommended the adoption of the report in favor of the separation of Queen's from the Presbyterian Church.

An Elaborate Fraud.

New York, April 28.—Details of one of the most gigantic jewelry frauds of recent years, with merchants of many of the larger cities as victims, are given out in a formal statement issued by M. de Rothschild, president of the jewelers' board of trade, an organization of jewelers all over the country. The losses may range as high as $2,000,000.

The statement avers that nine men have been arrested. The scheme was to buy jewelry throughout the country and ship to Montgomery, Ala. After that the reports say dummy packings were sent to other stores controlled by the conspirators. These were then credited as real shipments of valuable goods and so listed. The stores were set on fire, it is alleged, and the dummy packages listed as lost assets by the firm in bankruptcy proceedings.

Farm Hand Shot.

Guelph, April 28.—An Englishman named Risebrook was brought into the hospital here late Tuesday night with a bullet wound in the intestines.

According to the story it appears that Risebrook and a compatriot named Beer were engaged on McCurdy's farm near Campbellville. A quarrel ensued, and Beer is alleged to have drawn a gun and shot Risebrook, the bullet piercing the intestines.

When Risebrook reached the hospital his condition was thought to have been serious, as the bullet had taken a diagonal course, punctured the vertebrae and paralyzed the lower limb. At a late hour last night his condition was considerably improved, he was able to use his legs a little and strong hopes are entertained for his recovery.

Industrial Underwriting.

Brantford, April 28.—Brantford Board of Trade has launched a movement for the organization of an industrial underwriting syndicate here, following plans adopted successfully in Williamsport, Pa. The plan is to secure a $200,000 fund for the syndicate, with a capable executive of prominent business men acting in an advisory capacity, so that stock of American firms locating in Canada may be underwritten locally. This inducement is thought to be much more preferable than bonusing, and the granting of land, hard cash and concessions.

Two large industries, the Crown Electrical Co. and the Brantford Shoe Co. have established factories here on the above plan.

Kitchener Welcomed Home.

London, April 28.—Representatives of King Edward, the Prince of Wales and the British War Office met Field Marshal Lord Kitchener on his arrival at the Waterloo station yesterday from a trip around the world. An immense crowd gave the popular soldier a rousing welcome.

Good Prices for Spruce.

Fredericton, N.B., April 28.—The water in the river here fell about three inches during Tuesday night. There was a very good run of logs yesterday at the booms. Spruce bank logs are still bringing $14 a thousand, which is considered a most satisfactory price.

For Joint Authority.

Ottawa, April 28.—Negotiations are being carried on by the Government here with that of the United States, concerning the joint authority of the Canadian Railway Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission where several international roads are concerned.

Sentenced to Death.

New York, April 28.—Albert Wolter, convicted of the murder of little Ruth Wheeler, was sentenced yesterday to die in the electric chair in Sing Sing Prison during the week of June 6. Wolter displayed only a languid interest in the court proceedings.

The Erie Settles.

New York, April 28.—The Erie Railroad's wage differences with its firemen have been adjusted, it was learned yesterday, by an advance of 8 2-10 per cent. to the men.

A GENEROUS OFFER

Wm. Madill Will Refund Your Money if Parisian Sage Doesn't Banish Dandruff.

Pretty strong talk, perhaps you'll say, but it's honest talk, every word of it, because if Wm. Madill was not absolutely certain, if he did not know from actual results obtained, he could not make such a generous offer.

Parisian Sage, which can now be obtained in every town in Canada, is also guaranteed to stop falling hair, and itching scalp.

It is the ideal, delightful, rejuvenating hair dressing that makes hair grow in abundance. Parisian Sage is a prime favourite with women, because it keeps the hair brilliant and fascinating, is daintily perfumed, and is not sticky or greasy.

The price for a large bottle is only 50 cents at Wm. Madill's, who guarantees it. Sold everywhere, or direct all charges prepaid, by the Canadian makers, Giroux Mfg. Co., Fort Erie, Ont.

Hogs 5c to 10c Lower at Buffalo—Cattle Steady.

LONDON, April 27.—London and Liverpool cables quoted live cattle (American) firm, at 14c to 15c, dressed weight; refrigerator beef steady, at 11c to 11½c per pound.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, April 27.—(Special.)—At the Canadian Pacific live stock market this morning offerings were 800 cattle, 125 sheep and lambs, 625 hogs and 1900 calves. There was an easier feeling for choice cattle, as the supply was in excess of requirements. The top price realized was fully ¼c per pound lower than on Monday. In the lower grades offerings were rather limited. A fairly active trade was done. Choice steers sold at 7¼c; good at 7¼c to 7½c; fairly good at 6¾c to 7c; fair at 6¼c to 6½c, and common at 5¾c to 6c per pound. Hog prices to-day were irregular. Supplies were fairly large and demand fair, and sales of selected lots were made at $10 to $10.75. Offerings of calves were very large, but good prices were well maintained at from $2.75 to $8 each. Sheep prices were unchanged, at 4c per pound, while lambs sold at $4.50 to $8 each.

At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market there were 300 cattle, 150 sheep and lambs, 500 hogs and 2300 calves. Hog prices since Monday show a decline of 15c to 40c, with sales of selected lots at $9.75 per cwt. The trade in calves was active at from $2 to $8 each.

A Message to Laborites.

Melbourne, Australia, April 28.—Hon. Mr. Fisher cabled the following message to British Democracy:

"Go on and take courage from our success. Over 20 years' advocacy of the right of the toilers to fair and reasonable remuneration for their labor has been rewarded with great victory. This victory evidences the determination of the Australian people to prevent the growth of degrading poverty, the tyranny of private monopolies, and the evils of dangerous accumulations of wealth."

Goes to Chicago.

Chicago, April 28.—Dr. Thomas O'Hagan of Ottawa, Canada, has been appointed editor of The New World, the Roman Catholic organ of Chicago. The appointment was made by Archbishop Quigley, a personal friend of Dr. O'Hagan, who, though a layman, is a close student of theology.

Babe Scalded to Death.

Halley's Comet Visible.

Cambridge, Mass., April 28.—Halley's comet has brightened rapidly since last Friday, and is now clearly visible to the naked eye shortly after 3 a.m. The comet is displaying a fine brush-like tail.

Roosevelt For the Senate?

Washington, April 28.—Theodore Roosevelt for the U. S. Senate as successor to Chauncey M. Depew. This is the way the political prophets and wiseacres in Washington have the situation in New York State figured out to-day. His support in the upper branch of the Congress would mean a wonderful strengthening of Mr. Taft's hands.

Streets Flowed With Beer.

St. Louis, April 28.—Fire caused $530,000 loss to the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association early yesterday. Five hundred thousand bottles of beer were destroyed and millions of burning corks made a dense smoke. The streets about the plant flowed with beer for more than an hour.

An admiral of the fleet of Great Britain has a salary of £2,100.

The "short lived parliament" under the Earl of Bath in 1746 existed only two days.

The speaker of the house of commons draws a salary of £5,000 a year and on retirement is usually awarded a pension of £4,000 and a peerage.

Peeresses of Great Britain, Scotland or Ireland by birth, marriage or creation are free from arrest or imprisonment in civil process, and in the event of a peeress being charged with a criminal offense she would be tried by the house of lords.

Tree Branches.

The white poplar can be used as a natural lightning rod.

An oak tree of average size, with 700,000 leaves, lifts from the earth about 123 tons of water during the five months it is in leaf.

Among our nut bearing trees the hickories are perhaps the best known. They are strictly North American trees. None now grow in any other part of the world. There are fourteen known species. One grows in Mexico, while the other thirteen grow east of the Rocky mountains.

QUICK ACTION OF SECTIONMEN AND ENGINEER SAVED THE LIFE OF A TWO YEAR OLD BOY

Clarence Robinson, Son of John Robinson, Bonaccord Street, Was Struck by G. T. R. Train But Suffered Only Minor Injuries.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE

Only quickness and presence of mind of a number of G. T. R. sectionmen coupled with speedy action on the part of the engineer of the west bound G. T. R. train, which leaves Peterborough at 5.30 p.m., last night averted a repetition of the tragedy by which little Frances O'Brien lost her life a few days ago.

Clarence Robinson, the two-year-old son of Mr. John Robinson, Bonaccord street, was the central figure in a most miraculous escape from death. Playing around his home he wandered away and walked out on to the G. T. R. tracks at Bonaccord street, just as the train approached the crossing. He seemed unconscious of the dangerous position he was in, but fortunately a number of G. T. R. sectionmen, under Foreman Armstrong, saw the child, and almost simultaneously heard the rumble of the oncoming train. They were working some distance away and horrified at the peril in which the child was they rushed down the track frantically waving their coats as a signal to the engineer to stop. Their signals were observed, and the engineer, throwing on the emergency brakes, checked the speed of the train to such an extent that it was scarcely moving when the pilot struck the child and threw it from the rails. The section men had reached the spot by this time and one of them was so close that he was able to catch the boy in his arms as he was thrown.

The little fellow, strange to say, escaped almost uninjured with the exception of a few bruises. Drs. McClelland and Caldwell were called and attended to his injuries. The little fellow is not much the worse for his adventure this morning.

NOT SUPERSTITIOUS

Michigan Judge Censures Participants in a Law Case.

Special to The Examiner:

Detroit, Mich, April 27.—"You all ought to be spanked for such superstition," exclaimed Justice Lemkie, when a number of women witnesses in the suit of Mrs. John Skowerinski against Mrs. Josephine Gawronski made a disturbance in the courtroom.

Belief in a witch doctor was at the bottom of the trouble. Mrs. Gawronski suffered with catarrh of the stomach, and a witch doctor told her that she had been bewitched.

She remembered that Mrs. Skowerinski had given her a drink at a wedding, and thought that she had "wished" a witch incantation upon her at the time. She sought Mrs. Skowerinski, and, it is alleged, pounded her, forcing her to repeat a formula taking back the spell.

The catarrh did not leave her, and at the behest of the witch doctor she is said to have beaten another woman.

Judge Lemkie disgustedly ordered Mrs. Gawronski to pay Mrs. Skowerinski $25.

SAW HIM SUICIDE

Daughter Ignorant of What Her Father Was Doing Until It Was Too Late.

Special to The Examiner:

Cleveland, April 27.—Sitting on the porch of her parents' home, at Brecksville, Ohio, Mrs. Alice Wehman, a bride of two weeks, watched her father hang himself, unaware, until too late, of what he was doing.

The suicide, William Breen, a retired farmer, fifty-six years old, had been despondent through ill health for some time. After vainly trying to persuade his daughter to go to her room and lie down he procured a rope and some tools and went to an outhouse in full view of Mrs. Wehman. In answer to her questions he said he was going to fix the door, which was loose.

Not until her father had kicked the chair on which he was standing from under his feet and was actually in his death struggle did the young woman realize the meaning of his actions. Her screams aroused the neighbours, but Breen was dead when cut down.

FINGER PRINT EXPERT IS TO BE CALLED

Hamilton, April 28.—To-day the police are making a thorough search on the Finton premises in the hope of finding the instrument with which Eli Finton was struck, and killed on Tuesday. There is talk of having a finger-print expert make an examination of the blood stains on the barn door, which, it is said, were noticed by the first man who arrived to help to move the body and must, therefore, have been made by the murderer. Another circumstance which points clearly to the murder theory is that he was struck twice on the head.

MEETING OF SUBSCRIBERS TO THE CHIMES FUND

Details of the Scheme are to be Discussed at Meeting to be Held in the Bank of Montreal Chambers To-morrow Night.

HEADWAY IS MADE

The small committee who have been collecting for chimes in Peterborough have called a meeting of subscribers to be held (by kind permission) in the Bank of Montreal chambers to-morrow, Friday evening, at 8 o'clock.

Owing to the wide cooperation of citizens generally the project has now assumed far larger proportions than when inaugurated. Various suggestions have also been made which call for consideration, as well as replies to several letters of inquiry.

It is coming to be more and more generally realized that the whole city is necessarily interested in this movement, as any mistake might result in jarring and unpleasant sounds, while a beautiful rich-toned chime would wait pleasing and inspiring melodies over the whole city and suburbs.

In view of these facts the committee feel that a brief consultation is advisable and hope that in the public interests a large and representative meeting may be held to which all interested citizens are invited.

KILLED HIS FIRST WIFE NOW BEATS HIS SECOND

Samuel Rowatt of Toronto Was Released on Account of Good Conduct and is Now in Trouble Again.

MAY 4 IS HIS HOODOO

Toronto, April 27.—May 4th has been Samuel Rowatt's fatal day. The fatal assault was committed on May 3, 1897; his first wife died as a result on May 4, 1898; he was released from Kingston penitentiary on May 4, 1907. He married his present wife on May 4, a year ago, and he will come up for sentence on May 4 next.

Released in 1906, after serving nine years for a twenty year sentence for the manslaughter of his wife, Samuel Rowatt was this morning before Magistrate Denison in the police court for committing a brutal assault on his second wife, with a prospect of having his parole repealed. Should he be convicted of this last assault he will have to serve the remainder of his sentence, which will mean a further seven years.

The story of Mrs. Rowatt disclosed a sad state of domestic affairs since the two were made one on May 4 last.

Drunk, in Bad Temper.

"Last night my husband came home," she declared, in the witness box, whither she carried her infant child. "He was drunk, and was in a horrible temper. He started to break up the furniture, and when I told him to stop he turned on me and struck me on the head with a teapot."

"Is that the first time he has assaulted you?" asked Crown Prosecutor Corley.

"Oh, no," she said, "I'm afraid for my life. Whenever he gets drunk he goes crazy and I catch it. Two days after we were married he struck me, and two weeks after we were married he threatened to kill me."

"Did you know he was a murderer when you married him?" asked the magistrate.

"No, I didn't know that," she replied.

No Provocation.

Rowatt ventured upon a cross-examination with apparent intention of showing that he had provocation.

"Didn't you throw some hot water at me?" he asked.

"No, I didn't," she answered emphatically.

A young woman named Rose Phillips corroborated the complainant's story of last night's assault.

Magistrate Denison commented that it seemed as though the license of Rowatt would have to be revoked. In the meanwhile he would be remanded for a week.

The First Tragedy.

It is 13 years ago since the tragedy that Rowatt has suffered for was perpetrated. The police recall it as a most brutal crime. Coming home drunk one day he shot his wife three times. One of the bullets glanced on to her spine. As she was on the way to the hospital in an ambulance she felt that her days were numbered.

"I'm never going to get better," she told Detective Wallace, who accompanied her there. She lingered for a year and died 12 months after to a day. The time that had elapsed prevented a charge of murder being preferred against Rowatt, and he was convicted of manslaughter and sent to the Kingston penitentiary for 20 years. Good conduct earned him an early discharge, and on May 4th, 1907, he was released.

ARE MICROBES IN YOUR SCALP?

It Has Been Proved That Microbes Cause Baldness.

Professor Unna, of Hamburg, Germany, and Dr. Sabourand, the leading French dermatologist, discovered that a microbe causes baldness. Their theory has time and again been amply verified through research experiments carried on under the observation of eminent scientists. This microbe lodges in the Sebur, which is the natural hair oil; and when permitted to flourish it destroys the hair follicles and in time the pores entirely close, and the scalp gradually takes on a shiny appearance. When this happens there is no hope of the growth of hair being revived.

Dandruff is a contagious disease, which is largely due to a destructive microbe which when left to pursue its course causes itching scalp, falling hair and baldness. Dandruff is caused by the microbe affecting the glands which produce the sebaceous matter, which latter then unnaturally dries up and scales off.

We have a remedy which will, we honestly believe, remove dandruff, exterminate the microbe, promote good circulation in the scalp and around the hair roots, tighten and revitalize the hair roots and overcome baldness, so long as there is any life left in the hair roots.

We back up this statement with our own personal guarantee that this remedy called Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will be supplied free of all cost to the user if it fails to do as we state.

It will frequently restore gray and faded hair to its original color, providing loss of color has been caused by disease; yet it is in no sense a dye. Rexall "93" Hair Tonic accomplishes these results by making every hair root, follicle and pigment gland strong and active, and by stimulating a natural flow of colouring pigment throughout the hair cells.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is entirely free from grease or sediment, is exceedingly pleasant to use and will not gum the hair or permanently soil the clothing or pillows.

We exact no obligations or promises—we simply ask you to give it a thorough trial and if not satisfied tell us and we will refund the money you paid us for it. Two sizes, price 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain it at Peterborough only at our store—the Rexall Store. McDermid and Jury, corner George and Charlotte streets.

UNIONS TO MEET

MANY ENTRIES IN THE SLOGAN COMPETITION

Contest Will be Closed at 8 o'clock To-morrow Night, But There is Still a Chance to Get Your Attempt in Before Closing Hour

RESULTS ON SATURDAY

The end of the slogan contest is in sight and the competition will be closed at 8 o'clock to-morrow night. Competitors should bear this fact in mind and get their attempts in as quickly as possible using the coupons that will appear in to-night's and to-morrow night's Examiner. Remember the 1st coupon is quite as likely to win the prize as is the first one. It is merit, not speed that decides this competition, so don't hesitate to send in your effort, even if you don't do it until to-morrow night.

For the benefit of competitors it may be stated emphatically that what is wanted is a slogan to advertise Peterborough. A few of the competitors evidently have been impressed with the idea that the winning slogan will be one that advertises the Examiner of the College of Ophthalmology. These contestants have failed to grasp the significance of the competition. The motto must be one that will impress the outside world with the advantages that Peterborough possesses. Remember the contest closes at 8 o'clock to-morrow night.

MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

Dr. Bingham Addressed Local Doctors at Enjoyable Banquet.

The medical men of the city gathered at Hooper's Palm Gardens last evening, when a very enjoyable banquet was held. The feature of the occasion was the address delivered by Dr. Bingham, surgeon, of Toronto, on "General Peritonitis," which proved exceedingly interesting and instructive. Dr. Cameron, president of the association, was in the chair, and at the conclusion of the address, a vote of thanks was tendered the speaker.

YEARS UNDO DIVORCE

Couple Lived as Neighbours Until Age Brought Re-marriage.

Special to The Examiner.

Kansas City, April 27.—A legal separation of twenty-one years softened the impetuous French nature of Mrs. Eugenia Touvant, seventy-five years old, and she and her former husband, John Touvant, seventy-four years old, were remarried by Judge Van B. Prather, of the Wyandotte County Probate Court. The Touvants were divorced in 1889, and since then have lived on adjoining farms near Quindaro, Wyandotte County. They have occupied separate living quarters and kept all their business accounts separate. Touvant rented land from his divorced wife and paid her for it regularly. He is a gardener and wine grower.

"I have a mild disposition and my wife was impetuous," Touvant said. "We quarreled frequently and were extremely unhappy. We have been friends since the separation. There were no children to suffer by it. In late years I have noticed the fiery disposition of my former wife's youth was passing away. We decided to end our days as husband and wife. We have combined our business and all other interests."

ROLL COMES BACK

Old Vest Goes to Cleaner and Comes Back Without Loss of a Wad.

Special to The Examiner.

Derby, Pa., April 27.—After practically giving up $165 for lost, K. H. Wilson recovered the roll, which he had neglected to remove from a vest pocket when he took it to be pressed at a local tailoring shop.

Wilson was on hand when the suit was returned, and, putting his hand in the vest pocket, pulled out the missing roll.

He is undecided whether his vest was thoroughly cleaned or whether everybody is honest.

BIG ISLAND IN CLEAR LAKE TO BE INHABITED

New Cottages Being Erected on This Beautiful Island at the Head of the Lake—One Summer Cottage Completed—Others in Course of Construction

SPLENDID SITUATION

What is known as Big Island at the head of Clear Lake, will be inhabited by a number of cottagers this summer. This beautiful island, one of the largest and prettiest at Stony Lake, has been divided into building lots and already purchasers have made preparations for the summer. Last fall Mr. Claude Rogers put up a fine cottage at the extreme southern end, with a splendid view down the lake. It is an ideal situation and will have, in addition to the grand view, all the advantages of the cool breezes blowing up the broad expanse of Clear Lake. Mr. G. K. Rackham, it is understood, is also building a cottage on this property. Workmen have commenced on the building of a summer home in Kawartha Park, on Clear Lake, for Harry Beal. This will make the ninth one, in addition to a store and post office at this popular point on the Lakes.

FAITHFUL DOG

Carries an Appeal and Owner's Life is Saved.

Special to The Examiner.

Elk City, Ore., April 27.—Rover, a collie dog, is the hero of a tale in which a dog's almost human intelligence saved his master's life. James Parks, Rover's master, became ill several days ago in the mountains along the Big Elk River. Gradually his strength became less until he began to fear death.

In the height of his fever Parks called his collie dog, and tying a message, asking for help, about the dog's neck, told the animal to "go."

Although the collie had not been away from Parks' cabin for six months he started out. The dog turned up at the home of Parks' brother at this place, and upon being admitted to the house, by his continued yelping finally attracted attention to the message about his neck.

A physician was summoned and made a hurried visit to Parks, whom he found in a serious condition. Parks will recover—thanks to his dog.

STOLE FROM DEAD

Man Arrested for the Deed Says He Thought Man Was Sleeping.

Special to The Examiner.

Gilroy, Cal., April 27.—Max Kubie is under arrest, accused of having stolen a dead man's shoes. He has confessed that he took the shoes, but refuses to say how four watches, seven razors and a quantity of other jewelry of more or less value came into his possession.

Kubie found E. J. Gunderson, of Pleasanton, lying in a stock car and stole his shoes. He was arrested at Sargent, where the car was standing, as a suspicious character, and when sounded admitted that he had robbed Gunderson, who he thought was sleeping. He had two other pairs of shoes strung on a piece of rope over his shoulder.

Gunderson was found by a jury to have died from natural causes while en route from Pleasanton with a carload of horses which had been purchased there.

FORTUNE ON A WORD

Mistake in Will of "My" for "Her" Brings Legal Contest.

Special to The Examiner.

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 27.—Upon the mistake of somebody, who made the word "her" read "my" in a will, rests the decision of an estate of $250,000 in Cincinnati. The case has been taken into the Common Pleas Court here for decision, and will probably be fought out through many branches of the courts of Ohio and the United States.

The will is that of Robert Gordon, one of the wealthiest coloured men in the Middle West, who died in 1883, and devised that one-half the rents and personal property should go to his wife, Eliza Gordon, for life, and that the other half would go to his daughter, Virginia Ann Jackson, wife of a coloured attorney here. At the death of his wife and daughter the whole property was to go to the children of Virginia Ann Jackson, "provided, of course, that the children should be those living at the time of her death." In copying the will somebody made the phrase "her death" read "my death."

The will was taken into court to prevent the payment of charitable bequests which had been made within one year of the testator's death.

NO SERIOUS DAMAGE DONE BY THE HEAVY FROST LAST NIGHT

Enquiry From Some Farmers in Surrounding Districts Showed That Young Plants Out and Fruit Bushes Were Nipped a Little.

AN INCH OF ICE

The thermometer took quite a fall last night and those who were up early enough this morning found about an inch of ice. It was feared that the sudden change would do considerable damage to young trees and bushes that had thready begun to bud, but the Examiner learned on communicating with some farmers that while there was a heavy frost, nothing had suffered to any great extent. However, they stated that it was hard to tell as yet. Currant bushes and young plants were nipped a little. In conversation with Mr. G. K. Moore, of Smith, the Examiner was informed no damage of any account was done in that township. Mr. Holden, the market gardener of Otonabee, stated that some young plants he had out suffered a little, but on the whole no serious damage was done.

EXAMINER ADS. DO THE WORK

"Hello! Is that the Examiner?"

"Yes."

"This is Mrs. ——— speaking. Please discontinue the insertion of my wand ad for a servant which I had in your paper last night. The one ad was enough. I secured a girl last evening."

The little telephone conversation given above is interesting. It serves to demonstrate once more that Examiner want ads produce results. Yesterday Mrs. ——— wanted a servant; at the same time there was in Peterborough a girl who wanted a situation. A little ad in the Examiner at a nominal cost (ten cents) was the link that connected the two and this morning both are satisfied. This is not an isolated case. Examiner ads always work that way.

THEY NEVER SPOKE

Estranged Couple Lived in Same House for Twelve Years.

Special to The Examiner:

Cleveland, April 23.—In his suit for divorce, William J. Pullman testified that he and his wife, Fayette L. Pullman, occupied the same house for the past twelve years and ate at the same table during all that time, still they never spoke together and lived apart.

Pullman said that they had lived the life they did on account of their children, but that he could stand it no longer. "My wife left me on Jan. 31 last," he testified. Since that time, he said, he had not seen her, although they lived but a mile apart. Judge Adams granted him a divorce on the ground of gross neglect of duty.

OFFICERS' CLASS

Sergt. Instructor Coffin Will Give an Address To-night.

Another in the course of lectures being given to local officers by Sergt. Instructor Coffin, of Stanley Barracks, will be given to-night, the subject for the evening being of great importance and interest. Sergt. Instructor Coffin will speak on the subject of the application of strategy and tactics as well as the general service regulations as applied to combined forces in the field. The lecture will be given in the officers' rooms in the armouries, at 8 o'clock and Col. Stevenson wishes it understood that all officers and ex-officers of the Peterborough garrison are cordially invited to be present.

WEDDING BELLS

MIDDLETON—MANNING.

On Tuesday last the marriage of Miss Frances Willard Manning, daughter of Rev. H. M. Manning, to Dr. J. E. Middleton, Peterborough, took place quietly at the Methodist parsonage, Whitby, the bride's father officiating. The wedding party was small, comprising only the families and immediate friends of the bride and groom. Little Miss Doris Milner, niece of the bride, acted as flower-girl, and conducted the bridal party into the prettily decorated parlours during the playing of the wedding march by Miss Kate Manning. Dr. and Mrs. Middleton left on the evening train for Toronto and points west. They will reside in Peterborough, where both are widely known and are two of the city's most popular young people.

MANLEY—DELONG.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Delong, Douro, on April 27, when their second daughter, Vera Maude, was united in marriage to Mr. John Wesley Manley, of Peterborough. Rev. J. R. Bonner, of Smith, performed the ceremony, in the presence of a number of relatives and friends of the bride and groom. The bride was handsomely dressed in cream Bedford cord. After supper was served the happy couple left on the 5.30 train for Toronto and Niagara Falls. The handsome presents displayed show the esteem in which the young couple are held.

PLEASED WITH WEST

Mr. A. J. Tovey, formerly of this city, has taken up permanent residence in Unity, Sask., where he has purchased a drug business. Unity is one of the recent incorporated towns of the West, and one that is making rapid progress. It is about half way beween Saskatoon and Edmonton, on the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. Mr. Tovey's many friends in Peterborough will join in wishing in Peterborough will join in wishing prise. Since going West Mr. Tovey has had charge of drug stores at Vegreville and Viking in Alberta, the last one being at Viking.

Siamese Twins In A Matrimonial Mixup

Prague, Bohemia, April 23.—Rosa Blaschek, one of the Bohemian "Siamese twins," has given birth to a son. As soon as she is able to travel she will resume her variety hall contracts, taking the baby along as an added attraction. The twins have always drawn well. Now managers are in active competition for them all over Central Europe.

The husband has turned press agent, and is furnishing the newspapers with the views of jurists as to whether or not he is a bigamist, for having married one woman who is really two. It appears that he was so pleased with them that he offered to marry either. He has found legal opinion that he really took both to wife.

An obdurate father figures in the domestic drama. He objected to having the girls courted by a single suitor, having no use anyway for a son-in-law with a prospective claim on the show profits.

His objections led to clandestine meetings that set the hearts of both girls in a flutter and confused the suitor so much that he lost ability to choose between them and left it to the girls to decide which of them should have him. He fell to Rosa, because she seemed the more eager, but Josefa declares she can never love another. Under the circumstances there is quite a possibility of the twins quarrelling over him and of getting into court with suits for alienation of affection, which would increase the interest of managers in them.

USEFUL CITIZENS.

During the past five years Italians have been entering Canada at the rate of about 11,000 a year, the total being something like 57,000. Unthinking Canadians, mostly loafers, whose daily occupation is upholding street corners in the intervals of sponging, or living on relations and the public, have created a prejudice against the Italians. But it is not justified. Though there are some black sheep among our Italian new comers—a little too ready with the knife—for the most part the Italians are industrious and hard-working, willing to do work which native Canadians refuse to do, and which makes them an indispensable element in the upbuilding and development of a nation, where there is much pioneering work, such as railway and canal building, to be done. Among the most thrifty and enterprising of our citizens are to be found many Italians and the most are infinitely better than the loafers that jeer at them.

THE MAN BEHIND THE GUN.

The alarmists in Parliament and out; in season and out of season, harp on the German war scare, but they only play one part of the scare. They take it for granted without any more tangible proof than their feverous imaginations, that the great naval preparations Germany is making are directed against Great Britain. Assuming that these dreams were facts and that the rapidly building German navy was intended to be used against Great Britain, that simple fact does not necessarily constitute a dangerous menace. In many cases there is a wide space between intention and effect. Put a gun or a dozen guns of the most deadly efficiency in the hands of a blind man, and no matter how hostile this man's intentions, any threatened person would incur no danger, no matter how truculent the menace. A warship per se is not a belligerently offensive structure. To be this it must be armed with the best of guns, and the guns to have the greatest possible effectiveness must be well manned and well trained. A gun that might be able to pierce the rock of Gibraltar with a shot would be as useless as an air gun, if it were not well aimed at the object of destruction. It has now become public that some very serious defects and vital shortcomings were revealed in the late German naval manoeuvres, and that the Emperor of Germany and his naval advisers are greatly disappointed and chagrined. The gunnery was extraordinarily—in comparison with British gunnery—ludicrously poor. Even in the newer war ships, with the most modern and most theoretically effective guns, with the best signalling and ranging appliances, the shooting fell—not to use a pun—far short of the mark. So defective was the shooting, and so inferior were the Germans in the matter of training, that in the real essence of naval effectiveness—power to strike, smash, sink, and disable—Germany, which aims to be the first naval power or to get, at least, on a level with Great Britain, is a fifth-rate naval power, being, in the matter of skilled gunners and seamen inferior to Great Britain, France, Japan and the United States. With an equal or greater number of more powerful ships, armed with more powerful guns, Germany, in an engagement in the North Sea, where the battle of Armageddon of the alarmists is to take place, a smaller British fleet of ships of inferior strength would, by dint of straight shooting, easily overcome the Germans. Big ships and great guns are useless unless they can be manoeuvred and aimed so as to hit the target. Therefore, Great Britain need not dread Germany's Dreadnoughts till German gunners learn to shoot. It is not the guns of the Germans, but the morale of the German gunner that is at fault. The German gunner and seaman are dominated by a cast-iron rigidity of discipline, which has crushed out initiative, and trampled down power of individual thought and decision. In spite of the best ships, the best guns and best engines of propulsion and destruction that money can buy, or skill construct, in the final analysis, it is the man behind the gun that counts.

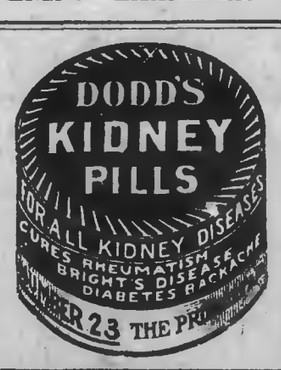
THE CALL OF THE CITIES.

Mr. C. C. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Ontario has been calling attention to the movement of rural population to the cities. The rural population of Ontario in 1899 was 1,108,874. In the past ten years this decreased to 61,858, the total in 1909 being 1,047,015. In 1899 the urban population of Ontario was 901,874. In the ten years to 1909, this had grown to 1,197,724. That is, in that time the cities, towns and villages had increased in population by 295,696. This persistent movement to population centres seems to be inevitable. In one sense the cities attract the best and most enterprising of our rural population who reason—not always correctly—that the opportunities for advancement are greater in the cities. Of course the educational opportunities are greater, as well as the opportunities for culture. This is illustrated somewhat by a statement of Dr. Vogt, the wonderful leader of the wonderful Mendelssohn choir, that in taking a census of the birth places of the members of his choir, he discovered that only 20 per cent of the members had been born in Toronto, the remainder being born in the rural parts of the province. While the call of culture may attract many ruralists and, in this regard the best in the country districts, it does not attract the best elements of the farming community. Those who desert the farm for the city, are not to be regarded, from a farming point of view, as a very important loss to the country. They have no taste, or have developed a distaste, for agricultural work and would not have made successes if they had remained. This distaste is to a large degree the fault of many farmers themselves. Instead of making farming the noblest, the most dignified and most independent of occupations they make it a dull coarse form of drudgery, unlightened by recreation or intellectual diversion or uplift of any kind. The fathers and mothers have grown into indifference to the dull monotony of their lines, because their apprenticeship was passed at a time and in a state of the country where the city lure had not arisen, where the farmer's horizon was bounded by the encircling fringe of the forest. Conditions have changed, means have increased, the cities have grown and beckon those whose little taste of urban knowledge and attractions breed progressive discontent with the sombre sameness of farm life. This is bound to be unless the farm horizon is widened, unless the dull routine of breeding, seeding, sowing and reaping are brightened with relaxation and recreation; unless books, music, newspapers and reasonable opportunity for their use and enjoyment and for social culture be stolen from the long days of unbroken toil that make the nights only intervals of (absolutely necessary) animal rest.

One of the curses of the tendency of the country dweller to the towns and cities, especially the smaller cities, is the scarcity of farm labour. Farmers advanced in years and themselves beyond the capability of harder labour become discouraged. They have prospered and amassed a competence and they drift into villages, towns or cities to spend the autumn of their days in leisure leaving their farms to their sons or tenants. But not all the rural population Ontario has lost has gone to be swallowed up in the cities; "it is not lost but gone before"; it has gone to expand with the growing west. Rural life has not lessened—simply displaced and transposed. Conditions will before long readjust themselves in this regard, if the proper means are taken to enlist some of the thousands and tens of thousands of small and tenant farmers of the old country who would gladly occupy Ontario farms, if the great advantages and opportunities were properly placed before them. If Mr. James can move the Government with which he is associated in so important and effective a capacity, to take a systematic and practical interest in diverting a portion of the large and excellent immigration now entering in Canada, to Ontario; in inducing the incoming of the better class of old country farmers, who are in a position to enter upon occupation of improved farms in Ontario, he would be doing a great deal to repir the loss of rural population which removal to the cities and towns and to the great west have created. There is infinite opportunity for agricultural expansion in Ontario, and it only needs intelligent and energetic initiative and action to promote the conditions that are possible.



PUBLICITY BETTER THAN PROTECTION.

(Ottawa Free Press.)

The anti-combines measure, which was, practically put through the House of Commons on Monday by Hon. Mackenzie King is economically considered one of the most important legislative acts of our generation.

It is a distinctive advance upon the Clarke-Wallace bill, passed in the late eighties, and supplemented by the amendment of the Criminal Code passed by Sir John Thompson.

Because—and it is a very important prefix—the present bill compels investigation before prosecution while the Criminal Code, as it now stands, supposes prosecution of alleged combines with investigation afterwards, or during the course of the trial.

It is only fair that any body of men shall be considered to be acting within the law, until they are proved to have done otherwise.

That is the principle of the bill to which the Commons assented yesterday.

Any body of men who are complained against by any body of producers or consumers must prove their bona fides before prosecution takes place; but once having failed to prove those bona fides, they must conform to the law of the land or pay the penalty.

But just as publicity has proven effective in the case of disputes between masters and men, so we are convinced that the new King act will prove equally efficacious as between producers and middlemen, and the middlemen and the consumers, as has the Lemieux act proven in 80 other cases.

Publicity pays.

MILLING IN ONTARIO

GREAT NATIONAL INDUSTRY IS CENTRING HERE.

The Maple Leaf Company Will Have a Daily Capacity of 12,800 Barrels, of Flour When the Port Colborne Mill is Added to Present Plans.

The official announcement of the organization of the Maple Leaf Milling Company, Limited, indicates that Ontario is coming into its own in the milling industry. This company, besides having five of its six mills situated within the Province, will have a total daily capacity almost equal to that of any of the other companies operating in Canada. Prominent Toronto interests are identified with the organization of the new company, along with the interests who have been for some years past behind both the Maple Leaf Flour Mills Company, Limited, and the Hedley Shaw Milling Company, Limited.

Among these Toronto interests are Mr. Cawthra Mulock, and Mr. C. W. Band, and both Mr. D. C. Cameron, the former President of the Maple Leaf Flour Mills Company, Limited, and Mr. Hedley Shaw, who has been General Manager of the Maple Leaf Flour Mills Company, Limited, will retain their active interest in the new concern, the Board of Directors including, in addition to these four gentlemen, Mr. John I. A. Hunt, President of the Goderich Elevator and Transit Company, Limited; Mr. Chas. Wurtele, Vice-President of the National Iron Works; Mr. John Carrick, Secretary of the Maple Leaf Flour Mills Company, Limited; and Mr. Hedley Shaw, of Toronto, Managing Director of the Maple Leaf Milling Company, Limited.

When taking over the Maple Leaf Flour Mills Company, Limited, and the Hedley Shaw Milling Company, Limited, the interests behind the new company have placed in the treasury $1,000,000 of additional cash capital, which, besides permitting the completion of a modern 6,000-barrel mill, a 1,000,000-bushel elevator at Port Colborne and the erection of some fifteen new elevators within the western wheat belt, will provide it with further working capital.

The new company will, when the new mill at Port Colborne is completed, have a daily capacity of 12,800 barrels of flour. The mills of the company are situated at Kenora, St. Catharines, Thorold, Welland and Port Colborne (the latter in course of construction), and at Brandon, in the Province of Manitoba.

Ontario will have a particular interest in watching the results achieved by the operation of the new big plant at Port Colborne, as experts state that a mill erected at such a point will enable the new company that owns it to lay down its flour at almost every point in Canada, or at the Atlantic seaboards in Canada, in Great Britain and in the foreign markets of the world at a much lower rate than can be done by any other concern that has to alternate from any other point in the country.

Up to the present time Montreal has been rather the headquarters of the big milling concerns, but the organization of this company makes it look as though Toronto would rival the older city in still another industry by being the headquarters of the concern, the total output of which will be equal to that of any one concern in the country.

ADOPTING A MOTHER

A Short Story.

ther. Then the fever took another turn. I could hear the alarming wails from the inner room, pitched in a high key.

They'll lave me here to die, the varmints! They wouldn't come to help me whin I'm dyin' !Oh St. Patrick! This i the limit!"

There followed a crash like the splintering of mang fragile rticles, and I thought of Teenie's beatuiful new lamp. A dull thud like the crash of a rock through a floor came next, and I feared for our new wash-stand. The paroxysms grew so terriffic that I was

He seemed to smile and grin at us, and then deliberately winked at Teenie. I would have spoken agrily with him att his impropriety, but I noticed Teenie was too horrified to notice the offered insult. Then the man picked up his medicine bag and walked out of the room.

"Guess you need a policeman instead of a doctor," he said over his shoulder, while his foot fumbled for the first step of the dark stairs.

"A policeman!" I exclaimed in fear and surprise.

"Yes, a policeman," he retorted, mimicing my words. Then cruelly he going to open the door again, added as he disappered: "I don't treat the D.T's."

For so long a while we stood in the hall that Teenie got a chill from the draft, thinking of the words of the unkind physician. Then we crept inside and found the door to our room. Not for once did we strike a light, and Teenie undressed and crept into bed in the dark. I remained by the door on guard. I would watch until daylight. I could not further hold converse with the adopted mother—no, not adopted, only taken on trial — Shatkin had said that. Oh, joy! There was relief in sight.

Shatkin had been expecting me; he said so when I hunted him out early in the morning. I related my tale of grievances and implored him to take the dear mother off our hands. Willingly would I pay him another commission for such a kindly service.

"I hate to take the money from you" he said, accepting the proffered commission, "but it's owrth it—every bit of it."

"Yes, Shatkin, it is" I said humbly.

Then he smiled and looked askance at me.

"It's worth this extra commission," he added, "for I'll have to take her home again an' she's the devil when she gets into one of her fantrums. But, um! um! a man's got to put up with his own mother-in-law."

"Mother-in-law!" I exclaimed in wonderment.

Shatkin bit his lip and looked sheepish.

"Oh, didn't I tell you she was my mother-in-law?"

"Tell me? Such scoundrelly action deserved the righteous scorn of a gentleman, and I hurled wrathful looks at him; but I disdained to speak the words of condemnation on my lips, and it is as well I did, for Shatkin is not a—a—ewll, a gentleman. No gentleman in this free America would let another man adopt his own mother-in-law—would he?

The Schedule Selected For The Senior City Baseball League

The Schedule Committee Met Last Night and Arranged a List of Games for the Season—Will be Submitted To-morrow Night.

EXECUTIVE TO MEET

At a meeting of the committee selected to draw up the schedule for the Senior City Baseball League, held last night, the list of games given below was decided upon, and the draft will be submitted to the League at a meeting called for that purpose in the Y. M. C. A. to-morrow night.

The clubs are advised to study the schedule carefully so as to be able to discuss it intelligently to-morrow night. Considerable difficulty was experienced in order to give each club the same number of home games and yet arrange it so that the 2 and 4 o'clock games should be as equally divided among them as possible. The T. A. S. asked that they be allowed to play the first game on the opening day, and realizing that it was their prerogative as champions last season the committee decided to accede to their request.

Following is the suggested schedule, the first named club in each case being the home club and the first named game the 2.15 fixture:

May 21—West Ends vs. T. A. S: P. A. C. vs. Strathconas.

May 28—Strathconas vs. West Ends. T. A. S. vs. P. A. C.

June 4—P. A. C. vs West Ends; T. A. S. vs. Strathconas.

June 11—Strathconas vs. P. A. C.: T. A. S. vs. West Ends.

June 18.—P. A. C. vs. T. A. S.: West Ends vs. Strathconas.

June 25—Strathconas vs. T. A. S.: West Ends vs. P. A. C.

July 2—T. A. S. vs. West Ends; P. A. C. vs. Strathconas.

July 9—Strathconas vs. West Ends: T. A. S. vs. P. A. C.

July 16—West Ends vs. P. A. C.: T. A. S. vs. Strathconas.

The clubs are asked to remember to-morrow night's meeting, which is called for 8 o'clock, sharp.

Jeffries Will Not Overdo His Training Stunts

Big Fellow is Not Pleased With Conflicting Opinions and Advice of His Handlers and May Superintend His Training Himself---Is Bound to Get Into Shape.

Jeffries' Training Camp, Rowardennan, Cal., April 27.—Those who are watching things closely at Rowardennan would not be surprised that within the next few days, Jim Jeffries gives a practical demonstration of the boast made several days ago that he had trained himself for every big fight he ever went into. It is an open secret around camp that the former champion is not exactly pleased with the conflicting opinions of handlers. One day the big fellow is overdoing things, and must let up in his work, while the next day hard work is just what he needs, according to the various views that have been expressed by his handlers. No earlier than Monday Berger thought Jeffries needed boxing exercise and plenty of it. Yesterday he was convinced that his charge would be right on edge inside of two weeks if he kept up the pace he has been setting.

While Jeffries, to a certain extent, has acceded to the wishes of his handlers, it is not because he shares their views. Physical ailments are the things that have influenced the big fellow. His muscles were sore and stiff during the first couple of weeks in camp. He had just limbered up in good shape when a smash from the glove of Bob Armstrong put the muscles of his neck temporarily out of commission. Then a boil appeared on his shoulder, from which he is still suffering.

Jeffries believes he needs hard work and a lot of it.

"I know that ten weeks intervenes between now and the fight time, but I know also what I have to do in the meantime. Just take it from me that I am not going to overdo things," said the big fellow.

Ninth Innings Rally Gave Leafs The Game

Three Singles Followed by Vaughn's Timely Two-Bagger Gave Torontos Three in the Last Period--Kelley Showed Good Judgment.

Baltimore, Md., April 27.—That the great national game is full of uncertainties and that the game is not over until the last man is out was well demonstrated to-day, much to the disappointment of a thousand fans.

The Orioles had the game well in hand until Toronto came to bat in the ninth, but Adkins ceased up a bit too much, and four hits, one of them a two-bagger, put the Leafs one run to the good. The Birds made a game try to even up matters, but some good judgment on the part of foxy Joe Kelley warded off the needed run. The three runs which counted for Toronto in the ninth session made the score 4 to 3 against the Birds. Grimshaw's big stick was responsible for the first run Toronto got across the plate. In the third inning Sammy Smith beat out a perfect bunt toward third, went to second on Vaughn's sacrifice and to third on Mullen's long fly to Jimmy Slagle. He scored when Grimshaw cut one through the pitcher's box too hot for Adkins to handle.

The Birds evened up in the fourth inning. Fitzpatrick began the ninth with a slashing single over second, which Hooper could not quite reach. Vandergrift lined one at Jimmy Catiz that was too hot for him, and both were safe. With two strikes on Sammy Smith Manager Kelley sent Wyatt Lee in to bat for the twirler, and Lee hit the first ball pitched to him to left for a single. Vaughn then doubled to left and Fitzpatrick and Vandergrift scored. While Mullen was out on an infield tap, Frick, running for Lee, after the latter reached third, scored on Shaw's long fly to Walsh.

McGinley began twirling for the Leafs in the ninth. Bill Byers, batting for Adkins, the first man up, singled safely to left, and Dunn sent Cooney in to run for Byers. Slagle sacrificed Cooney to the midway station, and with Clancy and Hall batting next things looked promising for an extra inning session. Manager Kelley, however, hasn't been in the baseball business all these years for nothing, and knows a thing or two about the game. Right at this interesting stage Kelley yanked McGinley and sent "Doc" Newton to the mound. Both Hall and Clancy were out at first on infield taps while Cooney was left on the sacks.

Joe Kelley is at present running into some hard luck. Mullen was hit on the leg in Providence last week, and is not in first-class condition. McDonald was taken ill Monday night, and will be out of the game for a day or two.

Joe said to-day that his staff of twirlers is slow in rounding into form because of the cold weather. He has the wires burning trying to get an emergency catcher and another man, about whom he refuses to talk. Score:

Langford Had Shade Better Of The Argument

Philadelphia, April 27.—Sam Langford of Boston, and Stanley Ketchell of Michigan, met to-night in the arena of the National Athletic Club in a six-round bout, and at the end there was little to choose between the men. If anything Langford had a slight advantage, but a draw would have been a fair decision.

After the first round both men fought viciously, Ketchel playing for the coloured man's stomach, while he Boston fighter used a straight left, varied occasionally with a right uppercut. It was one of these damaging blows which caught Ketchell flush on the nose, near the close of the third round and started the blood flying in a stream. Langford thereafter played for the damaged organ, driving his long left straight to the face repeatedly. This attack seemed to unnerve Ketchell and he swung wildly many times, while Langford was cool all the time. As the men rushed to a clinch just as the bell sounded for the close of the fourth round, Ketchell drove a vicious left into Langford's stomach and the coloured man's eyes closed and his mouth opened. He was visibly affected by the blow, but what might have proved a damaging blot on his career was averted by the bell.

Ketchell pursued his usual tactics of forcing the fighting. There was not a moment during the battle that he was not right on top of the Boston fighter, never allowing him to get set. This was the part of wisdom, for Langford easily outboxed Ketchell when the men once or twice sparred.

What Is Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey?

It is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain, great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, thus destroying the germ and producing a predigested liquid food in the form of a medicinal whiskey; softened by warmth and moisture, its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

IT IS A GENTLE, INVIGORATING STIMULANT and TONIC.

What Does It Do?

It builds up the nerve tissues, tones up the heart, gives power to the brain, strength and elasticity to the muscles and richness to the blood. It brings into action all the vital forces; it makes digestion perfect and enables you to get from the food you eat all the nourishment it contains.

It is invaluable for overworked men, delicate women and sickly children. It strengthens and sustains the system, is a promoter of good health and longevity, makes the old young and keeps the young strong.

It cures nervousness, typhoid, malaria, every form of stomach trouble, diseases of the throat and lungs, and is recognized as a medicine by doctors of all schools.

Thousands of letters have been received from men and women in all walks of life, many from those nearly 100 years old, extolling the virtues of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, as the world's greatest medicine.

BEWARE of imitation and substitutes. They are positively harmful and are sold for profit only by unscrupulous dealers. Look for the trade-mark, the "Old Chemist," on the label, and be certain the seal over the cork is unbroken.

JENNINGS OF BELLEVILLE AND HIS VIEWS ON FIGHT

(Toronto Star.)

Pat Jennings, the Belleville man who had influence enough to bring Jack Johnson from Chicago to Belleville for a one-night stand, claims to have the right dope on the big battle. He was with Johnson a lot around Toronto and Belleville, and the black talked confidentially to the Belleville Irishman.

"There have been a number of questions asked and I think I can answer some of them," said Jennings to-day. "A lot of people want to know if they are going to stall ten rounds for pictures. I say they certainly will not. I know this to be a positive fact. It Johnson gets a chance to put Jeff away in one round he will do so, and Jeff will do the same. Some people think Jeffries has too many advisers. In my opinion he has, but after all is said and done, Jeffries will use his own judgment, and he should know best what he needs. Some people want to know if the fight will be on the level and if Johnson will get a square deal. The fight will be on the level, and Johnson told me himself that he will get a square deal, and if he loses it will be a case of Jeffries being a better man, not the result of crookedness. Johnson also told me that if Jeff should knock him out and he could rise to his feet, he would be the first man to grasp the victor by the hand and congratulate him on his victory,

Can Jeff Come Back.

"Can Jeffries come back as good as he was seven years ago? Well, I have had experience in athletics, and never in my time have I ever known an athlete to come to the front after five or six years' retirement. It has been tried several times and failed, and if Jeff comes back he will be the first human being I know of that has ever done so. Baseball players have come back, but there is no comparison. When Jeffries was at his best Johnson owuld give him a battle of his life, but I think he would beat Johnson. But as far as I can see now, it's Johnson all the way, for I think with that terrible uppercut and his great stamina which he possesses will win for him."

Jeffries Will Have To Fight Langford If He Puts Johnson Away July 4

BY FRANK GOTCH.

Champion Wrestler of the World.

To mosquote a popular song a little Jim Jeffries may have "to haul two loads of coal away." When the big fellow came out of retirement for the sole purpose, as his glib press agent, Sam Berger, put it, of proving to the world the superiority of the white race over the black in things pugilistic, Jack Johnson was the only man who was regarded as a fit opponent for the undefeated alfalfa ranchero. Since that time, however, Sam Langford has been knocking at the gate for the championship class of the heavyweight division, and even if Jeff whips the present title holder he may be called upon to stow away the "Boston Demon" in order to fulfil his great desire of "vindicating the Caucasian race."

Langford is not to be denied. He meets any one who is willing to risk a collision with his uppercut or terrible right across, and beats him. His victory over Jimmy Barry the other night marked the third time he has put away the big Chicagoan by the knockout route in nine fights. Before that go many had argued that Langford lacked the stamina to go over a long route.

It was pointed out that when he defeated Iron Hague for the heavyweight championship of Great Britain he was a very tired boxer at the finish. That bout went but four rounds that Langcry went up immediately that Langford would be sure to lose as soon as he met a man who could escape his uppercut for ten or fifteen rounds. Jim Flynn came along, and catching Langford out of condition, stayed ten rounds with him. Again it was said that Sam could not go the route. Flynn was given another chance and went to dreamland in eight rounds. Next came Barry, who, from the experience he had gained from his eight previous fights with Sam, had evolved a defense for Langford's famous uppercut. For fifteen rounds he stalled along, escaping Sam's one best but, only to run into a good old-fashioned right cross in the sixteenth and go down and out

Langford Can Go Route.

Langford has proved he can go the route and be strong. If Jeffries wins from Johnson, as I think he will, there is sure to be a demand that he can give Langford a chance. Many men say that Sam is too small for the "Big Bear" of California, but he is no smaller than Fitzsimmons, and there is every reason for believing that he can hit just as hard as Ruby Robert. Langford now is on his way to fight Ketchel six rounds in Philadelphia, April 27. He is not liable to run into a snag in such a short bout with the Thunderbolt, and should come up to July 4 with a clean enough record to demand a fight from the winner.

This fight between Ketchel and Langford, by the way, should be a terrific one. Sam surely is right just now, and reports say that Ketchel at last has awakened up to the realization of the fact that he has a real fight on his hands and is training. Both men have terrific punches, but I do not look for either to take much of a chance in this fight, which probably will go the limit. Langford is far the cleverer of the two and is fully as hard a thumper as Ketchel. A long battle between the pair would be a great card for an opener of the big fight carnival at San Francisco in July.

Jeff Acts Wisely in Training.

Jeffries appears to have settled down into a sensible routine of training. He started altogether too strenuously for a man nearly three months removed from a battle, and the easing up he did last week was the right thing for him to do. Strong as he is, he might have grown stale before the time came for him to step into the ring with Johnson had he continued his breackneck training speed.

The good thing about his scheme of preparation is that he is doing those things which he likes. He always was a great fellow to be out of doors and has the playful disposition of a boy. He is an enthusiastic fisherman and hunter, and hardly a day passes that he is not tramping across country in search of game or fish. In doing this, he is following his own inclinations, enjoying himself to the limit and at the same time getting into shape for a fight. By mixing pleasant things with the always hard things of the training camp Jeff is sure to come through in good shape. A good disposition is one of the greatest aids to a fighter and a fellow who is fighting, hunting and playing ball with all the spirit of a street gamin cannot but be of good cheer.

Shows Old-Time Boxing Skill.

Jeffries has done little in the boxing line to date, but what he has done has demonstrated to all who have seen him that he has lost none of his old-time cunning. The same skilful dodging and footwork that caused him to outbox Corbett in their second meeting, and the old-time accuracy of hitting.

The best thing of all his work has been the proof that his wind is right. No man whose bellows are working badly can go eight or ten miles on the road and end with a two or three mile sprint, then follow with baseball, handball, boxing and wood-chopping. Jeffrie's endurance will be O.K. All his friends may rest assured of this, and I want to repeat the same statement that I made three months ago—that the longer the bout goes the better will be the chances of the white man. He is seemingly impervious to fatigue and in a long battle his tremendous weight will tell greatly in his favour. When Jeff went to Rowardennan he was much nearer to fighting trim than he thought and his first hard work put him on such an edge that he declared and so did the best critics on the Coast, that he was right for a fight. All he has to do from now on is to keep in his present trim and he will climb into the ring July 4 ready to fight as well as ever he battled.

LIVED DUAL LIFE

Claim for Body of Engineer Killed in a Mine is Put in by Two Women.

Special to The Examiner:

Washington, Pa., April 27.—The investigation by Coroner Hoffman into the death of D. E. Kuhns, chief engineer of the Marianna mines, who was killed four days ago by the bursting of a fly wheel in the engine house has brought out the charge that Kuhns for the last two years had been leading a double life.

Kuhns left his wife and family in Uniontown two years ago, saying he was going to Birmingham, Ala., to look for work. He went instead to Morgantown, W. Va., it is said, met a woman and brought her to Marianna, where he became chief engineer at the mines.

Hearing a report that his father had been seen in Marianna, one of Kuhn's sons, by the supposed first marriage, visited the town some time ago and located him. The son says he did not expose the man because he wished to avoid a scandal for his mother's sake.

On hearing of his father's death, however, the son came to Marianna, and demanded the body. The woman at first protested that she was the dead man's wife.

HABITUAL BONE BREAKER

Puts In Much Time in Hospitals Getting Fractures Repaired.

Roxana, Del., April 23.—Edmund J. Evans is again in the hospital, this time with a broken leg caused by a fall a few days ago.

When Evans was eight years old a tree fell on him and broke his right arm, collar bone and skull. Unconscious for days, the boy finally recovered and had no serious accident until he was eighteen years old, when he was run over by a heavy waggon, and was laid up for several weeks. Then he cut one heel, severing a sinew, and for forty-five days he lay in a Philadelphia hospital until that was mended. Later a large bone of one ankle was broken and he was compelled to use crutches for a long time.

In 1899 both bones of his right wrist were broken and he took another enforced vacation in a hospital. Last September he fell in Philadelphia and sustained a compound fracture of one leg, spending seventeen days in a hospital at that time.

'ROUND THE STORES

The times are good. A man needs to be a born and bred pessimist who can see hard times ahead for Peterborough. Our people need little encouragement just now to enlarge their operations, and a spell of good weather ought to start up a "hum" that will depress every "knocker" in the city. Among other coincidences of faith in prosperous trade conditions is that shown at Cressman's, where the merits of vast displays of rich goods are being discussed daily by many busy shoppers. Goods in the economy of a business occupy the same position as do individuals in the life of a nation. Such a wealth of high-class merchandise as is displayed at Cressman's this season,, especially in the department of dress goods, and home furnishings, is apodictical of a bright era for Peterborough's retail trade.

Every business requires a special and distinct form of window dressing and no store arranges its windows in the manner most suited to its own special needs more than that of C. B. Routley's, George street. The dress is distinctly smart, and the price bulletins in the windows draw the attention of the passer-by. Any man who advertises ought to be willing to bestow painstaking thought on his show windows. Good results generally follow the pricing of goods in the windows. Some people will hesitate to walk inside to inquire the price of an article, because they run the risk of being induced to pay more than they wish to spend. At Routley's it is a satisfaction to shoppers to find so many of the varied lines of goods priced, and, generally, priced at reasonably low figures. The stock is always brimful of new things.

Why should there be such a thing as stale eggs? The hen herself is as honest as she is industrious and never has been known to lay a stale egg. The hen turns out a work of art, but no sooner does man gather it from her nest than straightway the law of supply and demand starts in to do the cold-storage act. And so, while millions of fresh eggs are being brought into the world every day, it becomes a task, sometimes, for the housekeeper to get a dozen immaculate fresh eggs for the breakfast table. It will be good news to the reader, provided he is a lover of fresh eggs, to know that great big basketfuls of freshly laid eggs from well-known country poultry houses, are always to be found at the Grocery store of Porter S. White, George street.

One of the features of the Peterborough Music Co., John Cunningham, proprietor, is that you can be shown a piano or organ at any price, for which a good instrument can be built; from the finest Mason and Risch, that money and genius can create, to the instrument that can be sold for as little as any instrument worth your buying. A genuine clearing sale is going on just now at this music store, owing to improvements going on in the warerooms, which offers chances of a most unusual character. Read the advertisement in another column.

You are throwing away money sending out of town for furniture. Clegg's prices, in many cases, are lower on exactly the same articles. You also save delay in getting goods, and the risk of breakages, which, on furniture, is very great. Clegg picks out his furniture makers with great care, and he also keeps on his desk catalogues of the largest manufacturers, and can furnish any article not in stock at closest prices and save you the freight besides.

Lovers of fish are under a debt of gratitude to W. J. Oke, fruit and fish dealer, 376 George street, for the constant and abundant supply of fish daily received. The assortment cannot be surpassed here. Good fish, properly prepared, is rich and nourishing, and provides an agreeable change for the table.

Busy as bees at Warne's new drug store, where everything seems to be selling at less than the regular price, and it is impossible to enumerate. The public, generally, appreciate the fact of the cut rates. Warne's new dispensary department bestows great care on all prescriptions. Orders are filled by a skilful pharmacist, and just as the doctor ordered. Warne's stock is so large and there are so many new articles coming in every day that the firm is obliged to advertise every day in order to keep the public posted Watch their store news in the Examiner on 8th page. It pays well, especially on Saturdays.

ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM KEENE VILLAGE

Examiner Special.

Keene, April 26.—The Choral Class, under the direction of Professor McCann, gave a concert in the town hall Thursday evening. They were assisted by Miss Hill, Mrs. Rchill and Mr. Miles, of Peterborough. There was a large attendance, and, judging from the applause that greeted the various numbers of the programme, it was highly appreciated.

Mr. Percy Skinner, who has been attending Queen's University, spent a couple of days this week with his parents before leaving for Cobalt, where he will spend the summer months.

Mrs. J. B. McWilliams and Mrs. Miller, Peterborough, are visiting Mrs. (Dr.) V. H. McWilliams.

Master Harold Smith, of Peterborough, was the guest of his father, Mr. A. St. A. Smith on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John McFarlane spent Sunday in Lakefield.

Miss Jennie Girvin, Peterborough, is visiting relatives in Keene.

Mr. Albert Wilson, who has been attending Queen's University, is the guest of his father, Mr. Wm. Nelson.

Mrs. Wm. Campbell is visiting her daughter, Miss Jean Campbell, Kingston.

Miss Theobald, Peterborough, is the guest of Miss Eliza Doris.

MAGNIFICENT CONCERT IN THE NEW T. A. S. HALL

Singing of Miss Margaret McCann Will Linger Long in the Memory of Those Who Heard Her---Programme Was a Generous One.

The officers and members of the Peterborough Total Abstinence Society are to be heartily congratulated on the success attending their inaugural concert last evening. Every number on the programme was well rendered and the singing of Miss Margaret McCann in particular was a treat that will linger long in the memories of those who were fortunate enough to hear her. The press notices which heralded Miss McCann's appearance in Peterborough by no means exaggerated her vocal qualifications or the magnetic charm of her personality. Possessed of a clear mezzo-soprano of beautiful tone and considerable compass, she rendered her Irish and Scotch selections in a way that was simply remarkable. Seldom, if ever, has a Peterborough audience had the good fortune to listen to such a flood of pure melody as flowed from the singer's lips. Needless to say she soon won her way to the hearts of her hearers and was greeted with unstinted applause. The programme was a generous one and Miss McCann contributed no less than ten numbers. The other contributors to the entertainment did excellently. Mr. J. H. Werdein in particular was exceptionally good and surprised the audience with his cleverness in the imitation of the singing of various birds. Miss Carrie White, also, gave a recitation which was admirably rendered and deservedly applauded. Mention must be made of the splendid showing made by the boys of St. Peter's school and by the little girls from the convent. In the various numbers they showed the careful and conscientious training of their teachers by going through their parts in a very precise and intelligent manner. The boys shone in more ways than one, their singing of the opening number, a patriotic song, and of, "The Cat Came Back," both proving immense hits with the assemblage.

At the conclusion of the first part of the programme, His Lordship Bishop O'Connor addressed the gathering. "It was most encouraging," he said, "to find that at the opening of the new hall so representative a gathering had assembled together. It proved that no mistake had been made by the Society in the step that they had taken. After describing the comprehensive character of the Society's work, to meet the demands of which the building had been specially remodelled, His Lordship went on to say that he had been invited to give a name to the building and after due consideration he had decided to call it the "St. Alphonsus Lyceum," as this title seemed more nearly to embody the principles for which the society stood and worked—Alphonsus being the name of a saint who was held in the highest honour by all Catholics as a character worthy of all veneration, and the name "Lyceum" standing for that mixture of mental and physical culture which they hoped to engage in in this their future home.

Rev. Father McColl followed his Lordship in a few words and referred to the great help that the Bishop had been in acting as surety for the society. A burden of $16,000 is not to be lightly assumed by anyone, but His Lordship had absolute faith in his people and had shown it in this very emphatic and generous manner.

The programme was as follows:

Patriotic Song .....
Boys of St. Peter's School
Parasol Drill .....
Convent Girls
(a) "Doun the Burn, Davie, Love ..... (Old Scotch)
(b) "The Rosary" ..... Nevin
(c) "Terence's Farewell" ..... Lady Dufferin
Margaret McCann
Chorus, "Fairy Bells" .....
Convent Girls
"What the Midgets Say" .....
Boys of St. Peter's School
(a) "Caller Herrin" ....Lady Nairn
(b) "Kathleen Mavourneen" Crouch
(c) Japanese Love Song ....Clayton
Margaret McCann
Bird Whistler and Imitator .....
J. H. Werdein
Recitation ..... Selected
Miss Carrie White
(a) "Come Under Ma Plaidie" .....
(b) "Piccaninny Mine, Good Night" Trotire
Margaret McCann
God Save the King

This evening the programme is to be entirely changed, with the exception of the parts taken by the school children, and those who did not have the pleasure of hearing Miss McCann last night can have that pleasure this evening, whilst those who did can have the additional satisfaction of hearing her in fresh numbers from her repertoire.

Mr. Dan O'Connell will be the speaker at the concert this evening.

Royal Baby Powder.

When Edward VII. of England was born, on Nov. 9, in the second year of Queen Victoria's marriage, every one at Buckingham palace went wild with delight. Bells rang and guns boomed with glad tidings all over the kingdom. Douglas Jerrold, amid the roaring of the ordnance, said, "Dear me, how, they do powder these royal babies!"

Street Car Tips.

In European cities it is quite common for a passenger in a street car to give a small tip to the conductor, receiving in return a deferential salute.

Pet Birds in Pekin.

In the streets of Pekin are to be seen a large number of pet birds carried on sticks, to which they are generally attached by strings. The Chinese possess a peculiar faculty for the training of these birds, which fly away for a short flight and return to perch upon the stick, when they receive a little sweet food.

We Predict You Will Pronounce These

PRINCESS DRESSES

"Charming"

And we call no occult powers into play in foretelling it. Styles are simply irresistible.

Here are Princess Dresses which are "different"—novel touches in design and trimming characterize each one of them. Mother Finds Her Lost Son After Years Of Searching

Special to The Examiner.

Omaha, Neb., April 27.—Mrs. Patrick Bresnahan, of Omaha, has been reunited here to her son, Ryo Davis, who, twenty-two years ago, when he was eighteen months old, with his infant sister, was stolen by his father, Frank Davis, and who grew to manhood believing his mother dead.

The mother had divorced the boy's father a short time before the two children were kidnapped, and she suspected that he had stolen them, although she did not know it until she found her son was in San Antonio, Texas. The daughter died in early childhood.

The two children disappeared from the mother's home in Ottumwa, Iowa, one evening at twilight. Immediately thereafter the mother began search for them, and for years she travelled in her efforts to find them.

Finally, her money exhausted, she settled in Omaha, and remarried, but kept up her search through correspondence with the police of the country, and by advertizing.

Recently an Ottumwa detective wrote her that on a visit to San Antonio he saw a young man who bore a striking resemblance to her son. She communicated with the police of that city, who found the missing boy living with his father.

The father wrote her that he had told the son the history of his life and would send him to Omaha. The son arrived here to-day.

Woman Stole March On Millionaire And Is Now Accused As Kidnapper

New York, April 25th.—"I may be charged with kidnapping, but I have my darling and no one shall take her away from me again."

Mrs. Lotta W. Schmitt, daughter of a millionaire building contractor of Delaware, Ohio, in these words threw down the gauntlet to her husband, who has set the machinery of the law in two states at work to recover possession of Florence Schmitt, their daughter of six years.

"I've got my mamma and I'm going to keep her," the pretty little girl added, as she threw her arms about her mother's neck and kissed her.

Now that the young mother and her daughter are here in New York, the strategy which she used last Sunday night in taking her little girl away from the Ohio home of her mother-in-law and bringing her to her own apartment, near Broadway and One Hundred and Twelfth street, has caused a sensation.

Already an Ohio lawyer and a detective who aided her in getting Florence at her grandmother's house, have been charged with kidnapping and held for the action of the Grand Jury. J. Douglas, Westmore, of No. 5 Beekman St., the New York lawyer who has been retained by Mrs. Schmitt to fight for her child, was yesterday informed that a warrant is on the way to the New York police for the arrest of his client.

B. W. Hough, the Delaware lawyer who figured in the case, is a lieutenant colonel of the Ohio State Guards. He and Detective Matthews voluntarily submitted themselves to the Grand Jury when they heard of the warrants for kidnapping, claiming that they had acted in good faith.

J. Douglas Wetmore, Mrs. Schmitt's New York legal adviser, explained yesterday that the Schmitts have not been living together since February, 1907.

Since June, 1908, Mrs. Schmitt has made her home in this city. She has retained friendly relations with her grandmother during this time and last Christmas allowed her to take Florence to Ohio upon condition that the little girl be given her when demanded.

"Mrs. Schmitt," he said, "sent her own mother to take the little girl home with her. But the grandmother refused to let her have the child. That was the reason my client went for her little girl personally.

"Mrs. Schmitt was never served with any paper in her husband's divorce action. He knew where she was. The decree will not be recognized by the New York courts. I am preparing to begin a divorce action in this State in behalf of my client. She will make a hard fight to keep her girl."

Loyal Wife Takes Up Her Husband's Burden

Special to The Examiner:

Memphis, Tenn., April 27.—Katharine Handlan Fortner, daughter of A. H. Handlan, a St. Louis millionaire, is greeting guests in a little hotel in El Dorado, Ark., managed by her husband, M. Dwight Fortner, just to show her father that her husband is made of the right stuff and that she is better satisfied by his side actually working for a living than enjoying the advantages and comforts of her father's costly home, from which her husband has been banished.

In this hour of need the "stuck," and few men have married women of the determination and great love the young woman shows for her husband.

Fortner left St. Louis some time ago, after appealing a verdict in an alleged forgery charge and a sentence of two years in central prison. He interested Southern capital and leased a hotel in El Dorado, Ark. He started up in business and his wife, displaying implicit faith in him, followed with their little baby. She is now by his side and smiles through it all because she is glad to be working side by side, helping to "show" her father that she made no mistake and married a sure enough man.

This is her general summary of the situation. She dropped wealth and plenty for an uncertain livelihood. Maybe she will have to actually go into the kitchen to cook and to sweep out corridors or dust the rooms, but she is willing.

She is eager, she declares, to make money and wipe out debts in St. Louis. She is anxious to help Dwight settle with the world and return to father unhampered by any obligations, ready to "show him" that he paid out and is made of the right stuff.

St. Louis newspapers say that she is truly a chip off the old block, showing determination and grit that has characterized her father's successful business administration.

Her father says that Fortner must "show" him, and this is the determined manner in which his daughter is working it out.

Father's Wife's Mother Is Young Man's Bride

Special to The Examiner.

Alpena, Mich., April 28.—John Whitlock, eighteen years old, and Mrs. Arvill Leayn, thirty-eight years old, both of Wilson township, were married recently by a justice of the peace. Young Whitlock's father is already the husband of the daughter of the woman the youth married.

Experts in trigonometry are trying to figure out if the older Whitlock thus becomes his son's son-in-law; if his wife is her mother's mother; if his mother-in-law is his daughter-in-law, or if Ann would be a suffragette if it were proved that she is old enough to vote.

All efforts to blame the marital mix-up to Halley's comet have failed. Young Whitlock is figured out to be his step-mother's step-father, and his wife's daughter is his step-mother according to bulletins issued at a late hour last night.

The senior Whitlock's daughter-in-law becomes his mother-in-law and his son is his wife's father or something like that.

Proofs are on record at the courthouse and the bridegroom says he won't have to prove it by the Eskimos.

MUST BE AGE LIMIT

The Examiner has been requested by Truant Officer Geo. Cochrane, to warn the merchants from employing boys under fourteen years of age during school hours. Mr. Cochrane points out that by the merchants doing so boys are led to stay away from school and there have been cases recently in which the parents thought their boys were at school, while on the contrary they were working as errand boys in down town stores. The merchants are warned not to hire boys under fourteen years of age, and if this notice is disregarded, court proceedings may follow.

WOMEN MAY RUN FOR ANY OFFICE

Eligible as Governor of Nebraska—May Not Vote.

Lincoln, Neb., April 23.—Women, although not permitted to vote, are qualified and eligible to hold any office in Nebraska within the gift of the voters. This is the majority decision rendered by the Supreme Court in the case of Miss Gertrude Jordan, who was last November elected treasurer of Cherry County, but was deprived of the office until the highest court of the state had sustained her contention.

Six justices united in an opinion sustaining Miss Jordan, but Associate Justice Jacob Fawcett, a kindly faced and kindly mannered man of sixty-five years, dissented, declaring the precedent set by the court a dangerous one and opening the way for a woman to become Governor of the State or Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

"With the political proposition of the right of women to vote and hold office I have no quarrel," says Justice Fawcett, "but neither by the constitution nor by statutory enactment are they given the right to do either, except as to school offices. If their political rights are to be thus extended, it should be done by legislation and not by judicial legislation.

"If a woman may be elected county treasurer, she may be elected Governor of the State. There is no more constitutional or statutory inhibition of the one than of the other. Can we arbitrarily say she has sufficient capacity for the former, but not for the latter? Neither the framers of the Constitution nor the Legislature has said so."

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Thompson Orlando Huggins, who died March 17th, 17th, 1910, aged 9 months, 2 weeks and 6 days.

Softly on the morning breezes,
That around the windows blow,
One more spirit wafted homeward,
Where the good and holy go.

Hushed is all within that dwelling,
Silently the tear drops fall,
And each footstep echoes lonely,
And each word the past recalls.

Dreaded death and all its horror
Marred not the beauty of his brow
So early called from home and loved ones,
Rests in dreamless slumbers now.

How we miss your baby prattle
In the morning and the dawn,
The sweetest flower of our garden
But, alas, is dead and gone.

Little hands, so sweetly folded
O'er a pulseless bosom rest,
Folded there by loving parents
One small Easter lily pressed.

Before we say farewell forever
And e'er we get the last sweet call,
Let us breath the prayer of childhood,
God protect and watch us all.

Uncle J. Huggins.

ZAM-BUK IN THREE ACCIDENTS

It would seem that Zam-Buk, the famous healing balm we hear so highlyspoken of everywhere, is particularly useful in the family circle. A report sent by Mrs. E. Davey, 786 Ellice Ave., Winnipeg, will illustrate this. She says: "My little boy, of three, while playing, fell from a high verandah to the ground, cutting his forehead badly. Instead of calling a doctor who would undoubtedly have put in a number of stitches, I bathed the wound well, and applied Zam-Buk. The little fellow, although suffering keenly, soon had relief from his pain. In the course of three weeks by applying Zam-Buk daily, the wound in his forehead was nicely healed.

"Since then I have also used Zam-Buk for a boil which came on my check, and which proved very painful and looked unsightly. Zam-Buk soon drew the boil to a head and it then quickly banished it.

"Another time my baby was scalded on her left thigh and calf of leg with boiling water. This was a severe scald and the child suffered cruelly, screaming from pain. Directly it was done I thought to use Zam-Buk, as we had a box in the house, and spreading some on lint I wrapped up the baby's limb. Next morning she rested much easier and I applied a fresh bandage with Zam-Buk. I kept this treatment up daily and was rewarded by seeing a great improvement each time I dressed the wound. In a very short space of time the scalds were all nicely healed.

"I cannot recommend this wonderful healing preparation too highly for family use, and I have such great faith in its healing powers that my house is never without a box."

For all skin injuries and diseases, piles, eczema, salt rheum and face sores Zam-Buk is absolutely unequalled. 50c. box all druggists and stores, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse all substitutes.

"ST. ELMO"

Irl Hicks On The Weather For May

A reactionary storm period is central on the 2nd, 3rd and 4th, during which days look for change to warmer, with falling barometer, cloudiness and rain, all beginning in western sections and passing in due order eastward over the country on and touching the dates named. Brief reaction to cooler, with rising barometer will follow closely behind these disturbances.

A regular storm period is central on the 9th, extending over the 6th to 12th. Moon is on the celestial equator on the 6th, in perigee on the 8th, and new moon at an eclipse node falls on the 9th, the central day of the period. The Mercury period also covers this storm period. We do not hesitate to say that this promises to be a very decided and dangerous period. Storms of tornadic charcter are more than probable during this period, calling for watchfulness on the approach of all threatening storm clouds. It goes without saying, of course, that dangerous storms possibly may not develop at this time, or that many localities will not be visited by them if they do; but this stubborn fact remains, that violent storms are more than probable and no locality has any positive guarantee that it will not be visited by them. Hence, it is the part of wisdom and common sense to watch and not be surprised. Change to very cool nights, with probable frost over northerly sections will follow for several days west of storm areas in and following this period. From the 6th to 12th, centring on the 9th, is one of the most positive seismic periods of the month or year. There will be a great strain on the Earth at this time, and earthquake shocks, diagonally through the Earth, from the southern to the northern hemisphere, are almost certain to occur about Friday, the 6th, to Thursday the 12th. The central days of seismic danger are the 8th, 9th, 10th and 11th. Watch and see.

A reactionary storm period falls central on the 14th, 15th and 16th. The Moon at first quarter and the culmination of the Mercury period will heighten storm probabilities at this period. It must also be borne in mind that "the annual focus of solar energy" is central over the middle states at this and other May storm periods. Hence great electrical and tornadic storms are more frequent and violent about this time. It is folly to be unmindful of these great facts, and it is criminal in any one having the care of a household to make no sort of preparation for tornadic visitations at such times. Regular rise of barometer and change to cooler will follow at the close of all May storm periods. Should the barometer remain low, with warm, southerly, muggy winds, storm cycles will repeat themselves daily until these conditions break up. When you see the high barometer, stiff westerly winds, and decided change to cooler, know that that daily cycle of thunder, rain and wind is at an end.

A regular storm period covers the 18th to 22nd, central on the 20th. Low barometer, much warmer, with decided electrical storms will result about the 19th to 22nd. We repeat the warning of probable tornadic danger at this time. The seismic period central on the 9th will continue up to, and reach another seismic crisis from the 21st to the 26th, central on the 24th, at the Moon's eclipse.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 25th, 26th and 27th. Falling barometer and storms will appear promptly and pass from west to east over the country during these days, followed by cooler. The month ends as we enter a regular storm period.

CURED WHEN DOCTORS FAILED

Mr. Felix Villeneuve, Clarence Creek, Ont., writes: "I was a great sufferer from kidney disease, inflammation of the bowels and liver troubles, and doctors could not help me much. Could not sleep, water contained sediment, had frequent desire to urinate, and often passed blood. Had dreadful headaches, one side almost paralyzed and was deaf in one year for eight years. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cured me, and I am very grateful. I want to thank you.

The Ladies of Peterborough May Now Have Beautiful Hair—McDermid & Jury Have the Article and Guarantee it to Grow Hair

McDermid & Jury, backed up by the manufacturers of SALVIA, the Great Hair Grower guarantee it to grow hair.

SALVIA destroys Dandruff in ten days.

The roots of the hair are so nourished and fed that a new crop of hair springs up, to the amazement and delight of the user. The hair is made soft and fluffy. Like all American preparations SALVIA is daintily perfumed. It is hard to find an actress who does not use SALVIA continually.

Ladies of society and influence use no other.

Salvia is a non-sticky preparation, and is the ladies' favourite. A large, generous bottle, 50c. The Scobell Drug Co., St. Catharines, Canadian distributors.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

Miss Hartwell, of Donnington, Chichester, Eng., who has been visiting with her sister, Mrs. G. A. Hamon, Rogers St., returned to her home this morning.

News was received in the city this morning of the death of Mrs. (Rev.) J. R. Webb's mother, Mrs. John Waldon, who passed away in Hamilton today. Mr. and Mrs. Webb leave this evening for Hamilton. The funeral will take place at Palmerston, Ont., on Saturday, and Mr. and Mrs. Webb will return to the city on Saturday evening.

Mr. John E. Patte is visiting in the city after two months' absence travelling through the Maritime provinces. Mr. Patte has made striking progress as an enthusiastic and skilful salesman and his business prospect are of the best. He keeps up a lively interest also in St. John's church and brought in this morning a liberal contribution to the chimes.

Mr. Harry Noyes, who, for the past twenty-five years, was section foreman in Keene for the Grand Trunk Railway, will, in the course of a few days, commence his duties as foreman on the first section of the Belleville line. Mr. Noyes is well known in this city, being a brother of Messrs. John and Charles Noyes, of East City. Previous to Mr. Noyes' going to Keene, he was section foreman on the Lakefield-Peterborough line. Mr. Noyes, on his return, will reside at the corner of Sherbrooke and Bethune streets.

Mr. A. Simpson, who is now quite an old resident of Peterborough and who until lately resided at 217 Mark St., has decided to commence farming in this country and should succeed. He seems to have the right sort of qualities in him and he has had experience in having been a farmer in the old country and here. His friends iwsh him every success and are sure he is taking up a good step. He has taken over the farm which Mr. McGregor lately occupied on the old Cobourg track. The whole family are residents of Peterborough excepting one daughter, who is hoping to join them within a week or two. Mr. Simpson seems already to be making good headway by the appearance of things.

IN MEMORIAM

Mrs. Susan Calvert, died April 22nd, 1909, at Ennismore.

Another hand has beckoned her,
Another call was given;
And glows once more with angel steps
The path which reaches heaven.

Our dear, kind mother, whose smile
Made brighter summer hours,
On that lonely April day
Left us for holier bowers.

A paling of her cheeks of bloom
Forewarned us of decay:
A shadow from the silent land
Fell round our mother's way.

There seems a shadow on the day,
Her smile no longer cheers;
A dimness on the stars of night,
Like eyes that shine through tears.

Alone unto our Father's will
One thought has reconciled,
That He whose love excelleth ours
Hath taken home His child.

Fold her, O Father in Thine arms,
And let her henceforth be,
A messenger of love between
Our human hearts and Thee!

Still let her mild rebuking stand
Between us and the wrong;
And let chr dear memory serve to make
Our faith in goodness strong.

And grant that she who trembling here
Distrusted all her powers,
May welcome to her holier home
Her children now in sorrow.

OBITUARY.

HENRY EARL.

Mr. Henry Earl, of Millbrook, died to-day after a long illness. He was an old and highly respected resident of Cavan, and his many friends will regret to learn of his death. Mrs. Jas. T. C. Lang of Peterborough, is a daughter of the deceased. The funeral will take place on Saturday at 2 p.m.

Dancing.

Dancing was originally a mode of expressing religious feeling and was often used in military displays, though the Romans, like orientals, usually had their dancing done for them by hired slaves.

Marriage in Scotland.

Boys over fourteen and girls over twelve are legally entitled to get married without the consent of their parents or guardians in Scotland.

The Dodo.

The dodo was a bird bigger than a turkey and too heavy to fly, its wings being only rudimentary. It was very common in Mauritius when the island was discovered, but its flesh was so good to eat and it was so incapable of self protection that within forty years it became extinct.

THE PASSING OF JINNY

There Was Something She Knew Before the End Came.

By LESLIE JAMES.

It was the big doctor who found her, misshapen and suffering, in her father's gloomy shop. In spite of its noise and dust, Jinny preferred the shop to the tiny back room, because the customers spoke kindly to her and made her forget the ache in her back. When they gave her candy enough to start a make believe shop on the narrow window ledge she sold it for pins to the children in the dingy court just because she loved to watch these straight limbed, bright eyed children caper about as she knew she never could.

When the big doctor brought her to the hospital he said to Nurse Powell:

"I'll leave Jinny under your special care, Miss Powell. I am greatly interested in her case. The expense is being met by one perfectly able to do it, and she is to want for nothing."

And thus were the gates of an earthly paradise opened to Jinny of Borden's court. First there was the cunning little room, all her own, with pictures on the wall and the whitest of iron beds with shiny knobs on each corner and a bright red wrapper, woolly and soft, with knit slippers to match. Then came the pretty young ladies of the Flower mission, with their nodding blossoms and occasional glasses of quivering jelly. Sometimes the big doctor's nieces brought their dolls and spent an hour at Jinny's bedside, and happy Jinny was permitted to hold as long as she liked the marvelous Florette, who could walk and talk like a real baby and whose dresses really and truly came from Paris.

But in Jinny's mind all these things faded into insignificance when compared with the big doctor and Nurse Powell. These two formed a joint divinity before which Jinny burned the sweet incense of childish devotion. Nurse Powell had obeyed the physician's generous instructions to the letter, at first from a sense of duty and later because she learned to love the patient little sufferer.

And the big doctor? Even Nurse Powell, who knew his deep interest in his work, wondered at the attention he lavished on this denizen of the slums. Often when his rounds in the hospital were over and he had time to spare he would come back to Jinny's room for a chat, and Jinny, her great black eyes set in a face of ivory whiteness, would smile happily from one to the other—the big doctor who ordered medicine that eased the pain in her back and the nurse whose gentle hand could smooth away wrinkles in her forehead when the pain was at its worst.

Sometimes when they sat thus Jinny was vaguely conscious that the big doctor was talking to her, but looking at Nurse Powell. But Jinny did not know how, years before, when the big doctor, fresh from the medical school, had been house physician in the city hospital, he had met a sweet faced "probe" doing her first night duty in his ward. The head nurse had looked scornfully at the slender figure and the trembling hands, but the young house physician had said: "Give her time. She'll get her bearings after a bit."

Nurse Powell had been grateful for his cheerful encouragement and the many kindnesses which lightened her burden during that first awful year in the big wards, but when he asked for something more than gratitude she could not give it. Now head of the nurses' staff at a sanitarium, she sometimes grew a-weary and wished she had learned to love the big doctor whose brown eyes seemed still to follow her at her duties. Then her heart would say: "No, no! His work would always come first, and I would be second. Besides, I wonder if he has a heart! When I see him undertaking those horrible operations without the quiver of an eyelash I think he has no feeling."

And so this nurse who could unflinchingly assist at the same operation waited inconsistently for love to come into her life, a love that would be all tenderness and thoughtfulness, a thing apart from the scenes of suffering in which she moved.

It was one afternoon when Jinny had been almost a year at the hospital. In the morning the big doctor had said: "I've changed the medicine again, Miss Powell. I don't like that rise in temperature. If you note a tendency toward coma during the afternoon send for me at once."

But Nurse Powell did not have to send for him. He came of his own accord, just as the afternoon drew to a close. Jinny had been sleeping restlessly, and when she opened her eyes with an expression of weariness that had not been there since she came to the hospital the big doctor and Nurse Powell were sitting on either side of her little bed. At the foot lay a gayly illustrated copy of Mother Goose's rhymes, which Nurse Powell had been reading aloud before kindly sleep came to the small sufferer. Now Jinny pointed to it with a swan smile.

"I've had the funniest dream! I went to Mother Goose's land, way, way off, an' she was such a funny ole woman, an' she was right glad to see me! An' she says, 'Little girl, would you like to stay with me awhile?' An' I says, 'I'm obliged to you, ma'am, but I can't stay long.' An' then she brings out the purtiest dress, purtier than my red wrapper, an' she says, 'Little girl, would you like to wear that?' An' when I see the little stick all tied with ribbons I knew it were MORE mopsey a dress, an' I put it on an' chased them sheep all roun' the field, an' it never hurt my back a bit. An' I tried on lots uv clothes, Little Miss Muffett's ruffled bonnet, an' Mary, Mary Quite Contrary's big hat, an' the Queen of Heart's long train, an' Mother Goose, she says, 'Ain't you havin' a good time, little girl?'

"An' I says: 'Yes, ma'am, thankee, ma'am, but I guess I'd better be a-goin'. You see, my big doctor 'll be roun' pretty soon, an' he'll miss me if I ain't in my cot. An' Nurse Powell will bring my bread an' milk, an' there won't be any little girl there to eat it.' An' then Mother Goose she says, 'All right, little girl; jus' jump on my broomstick, an' we'll be down there in a jiffy.' An' here I am, an' I'm glad, fur the bed feels so cumfy, an', sure enough, my big doctor is here."

The great black eyes glowed wondrous bright as they met the big doctor's gaze, and he spoke very gently while he stroked her hand, now thin and transparent.

"Does your back ache after your long ride on the broomstick, Jinny?"

"Oh, no! The ache's all gone. There ain't been any ache all day."

The big doctor looked across the bed at Nurse Powell, but she was gazing steadily through the open window. And something bright and clear, like diamonds, shone on her long lashes.

A weak, piping voice raised again:

"No, I ain't achin' any place today, only I'm dreadful tired. An' every once in awhile you an' Nurse Powell go a-slippin' an' a slippin' away from me, an' then I feel like I was a-slippin' too. I wisht Nurse Powell would sing. Then p'haps I'd go to sleep again."

Nurse Powell's quivering lips tried to form the notes of the nursery song Jinny loved best, but something rose in her throat and choked the melody.

"I wisht—you'd sing—that—sleepy song."'

The tired voice trailed off into silence, but not before the heavy eyes were raised appealingly to those of the white capped nurse.

The big doctor seemed to rouse himself as from a dream. He leaned over and clasped Jinny's nerveless hand in his great, warm one and then in a clear tenor voice began to sing:

Sweet and low, sweet and low,
Wind of the western sea.

The music floated over the cot, past Nurse Powell, through the open door and down the corridor to the ward, where other sufferers heard and marveled, and over the face of Jinny stole an expression of infinite peace.

In that distant ward men who had been battling with death turned their faces toward the sinking sun and felt that even amid pain it was good just to live, and in Jinny's little room all was silent. Nurse Powell was kneeling beside the bed, her face hidden in the pillow. The little hand she still held was strangely limp and pulseless. Then a strong arm raised her to her feet, and she looked straight into the soft brown eyes that had followed her all these years patiently, steadfastly.

"Gertrude!"

"Henry!"

Later, when she raised her head, she turned from him to the quiet figure on the cot.

"I almost wish she knew—she loved us both so well."

And the big doctor whispered gently, "I think she did know, even before you did."

Tasmania.

Tasmania is 4,000 miles less in area than Ireland. The names of its eighteen counties are almost all taken from English counties.

Lions and Tigers.

There is nothing odd or peculiar about the sleep of the lions and tigers. In captivity they show the same indifference to danger that they manifest in the jungles and by day or night will slumber through an unusual tumult, unmindful or unconscious of the noise. Their sleep is commonly heavy and peaceful.

$200,000 DONATION

Three Toronto Citizens Give One-Third of $600,000 Required Before Campaign Starts—Massey Estate, E. R. Wood and J. C. Eaton Were the Donors—Campaign Opened With a Big Banquet.

Toronto, April 29.—With one-third of the $600,000 already in sight, with three branch committees whose combined strength is four hundred and fifty men, with the most efficient team organization ever got together for such a purpose, the Young Men's Christian Association building fund campaign was formally launched at a banquet given at the King Edward Hotel last night, when over four hundred representative men sat down. It was an auspicious gathering, marked by enthusiasm, fervent and sincere, which augers well for the success of the giant movement.

The opportunity is unparalleled for a city like Toronto. As told by Geo. Warburton, general secretary of Toronto, with the present limited and antiquated facilities, leads the continent in proportion of membership. There was the chance to lead the continent in generosity, and later in equipment, and by being foremost on this continent, Toronto would become the premier city of the world in the domain of Young Men's Christian Association endeavor.

At the conclusion of his address, Mr. Warburton announced the munificent benefaction of $100,000 by Chester D. Massey, on behalf of the Massey estate, $50,000 by E. R. Wood and $50,000 by John C. Eaton, the enthusiasm of the evening reaching its climax upon this announcement. With this initial impetus, the hopes of the entire organization resolved itself into confidence and renewed determination was manifested to carry the campaign to a successful consummation.

This being a campaign of work and not of oratory, the speechmaking only occupied little over an hour. A number of addresses were given, but each was characterized by crispness and pithiness. All were eminently practical.

Comet Seen At Last.

Toronto, April 29.—Halley's comet was sighted by at least three Torontonians early yesterday, viz., Prof. Chant of the university, A. R. Hassard, the barrister, who is an ardent astronomer, and R. S. Muir, a member of the astronomical society.

Mr. Hassard reports it as being in the eastern sky, pretty well up. Those who know something about the position of the more important heavenly bodies will be able to locate it by the positions of the great square of Pegasus and the star Venus. Draw a line from the lowest star in the square to Venus, and on the line about midway between the two stars will be seen the comet.

Mr. Hassard viewed it from about 3.45 till 4.30, using a small glass at first. It can be discerned with the naked eye. The color of the head is clear white and the tail as it recedes becomes a light grey.

Two More Drowned.

Haileybury, April 29.—Roy Delibough, whose own brother was drowned recently, brought the news to town yesterday of the drowning of two Toronto men in Fredericknouse Lake on Monday night. No clue can be had as to the personnel of the drowned men, but it is said they came from Toronto. Their bodies have not been recovered, although the searching party is dragging the lake for them.

The body of Freddie Delibough, the eighteen-year-old Haileybury boy who was drowned in Fredericknouse Lake on Nov. 8 of last year, was found on Tuesday floating on the surface near the centre of the lake.

Pope Will Not Protest.

Rome, April 29.—The latest report is that the Vatican has abandoned the idea of making an official protest against the visit of Albert, Prince of Monaco, to the quirinal, it being considered that the prince's attitude while here sufficiently justifies his claim that he was in Rome as a private individual.

TO PULL TOGETHER

To Haughton Lennox, Who, With Messrs. Borden and McGrath, Made a Bitter Attack on the N.T.R.—Lennox Wanted a Commission, But Was Defeated—We Can Compete With U. S. Ports.

Ottawa, April 29.—The most strenuous three weeks' fighting of the present Parliament culminated last night in an unusually powerful attack on the Government by R. L. Borden, C. A. Magrath and Houghton Lennox, in connection with the surrender of Canada to the Grand Trunk Railway.

Mr. Borden was especially bitter over the announcement that the Grand Trunk Railway has arranged to build a railway to and create a terminal at Providence, R.I., under an express agreement with the people of Rhode Island and the Legislature there, to make it a great port for the export of grain grown in Alberta and Saskatchewan. He demanded that the Government be patriotic and see, if possible, even now that Canadian traffic should not go through American ports, while Mr. Lennox moved that a royal commission be appointed to enquire into the whole transcontinental situation. This was defeated on a party majority of 43—105 voting with the Government and 62 with the Opposition.

Mr. Lennox pointed out that the Grand Trunk Railway had just announced that it intended to make Providence, R.I., its ocean port, and declared that it was the intention of the railway to divert a large amount of Canadian traffic to that port.

Mr. Lennox asked the Government to have the whole N.T.R. transaction investigated in order to alley the suspicion that it was a huge swindle. He made the charge that the people had been misled and deceived, that positions had been prostituted for political purposes, that it was a Liberal haven of refuge, that the public interests had been persistently ignored; that the country had been subjected to inefficient service, that in all proposed or attempted investigations the position of the commissioners had been in favor of the contractors and opposed to the public interest; that the attitude of the Government and the commissioners towards Hodgins and Lumsden, who had reported wrong-doing, would prevent others from fearlessly discharging their duties, and that there had been incompetence or dishonesty, or both.

Mr. Lennox concluded by moving that a royal commission be appointed. He asked that the leader of the Opposition should have the right to nominate the minority of the commission and the right to nominate one or two of the counsel who should be engaged.

Hon. George P. Graham said the only thing accomplished by Mr. Lennox was to make it difficult for this road to carry out its financing in the old country. He had never listened to a more unfair presentation of a case during his public career, and it should never have been made unless Mr. Lennox was prepared to face the issue by a direct charge.

The suggestion by Mr. Lennox that it was the intention of the G.T.P. to divert traffic to Providence, R.I., he was inclined to ridicule. The road was designed to use Canadian ports at both ends. It was the Opposition who had tried to get the country to accept an alternative scheme which would have diverted trade to American ports. It was the ambition of the Government and the people of Canada to do part of the carrying trade of the United States rather than to build up American ports.

Instead of persistently knocking this railway, it would be better for Canadians to pull together and assert ourselves, and not say that we could not compete with American ports.

Mr. Crosby of Halifax interrupted to ask what port would be utilized in the east.

Mr. Graham said he had heard that the G.T.P. were securing a site for terminal facilities at St. John, N.B.

Frenzied Murderer.

New York, April 29.—In a sudden frenzy of insanity Clarence Woods, 19 years old, of Rutherford, N.J., shot and stabbed Miss Anna Kipp at the boathouse of the Rutherford Boat Club, seriously wounded Chief of Police Smith of Rutherford and also shot Policeman McClellan. For several hours afterwards Woods was under siege at the boathouse, armed with a gun and revolver. The building was surrounded by Sheriff Brewster and twenty-five deputies.

Realizing that he was about to be captured, Woods turned a revolver on himself and took his own life.

Stands by Russia and Japan.

London, April 29.—The British Government, under the fire of questions in the House of Commons, has dropped the mask which has concealed its far eastern policy, formally espousing the tactics of Russia and Japan which resulted in blocking China's Chin-Chow-fu-Aigun Railway project. The Foreign Office representative declared that the two powers in question were acting reasonably and fitly declared that the British financial group interested in the projected Manchurian railway loans needs not look to the Government for any assistance.

Bryan's Daughter to Wed Britisher.

London, April 29.—The engagement is announced of Lieut. Reginald Altham Owen of the Royal Engineers, stationed at Jamaica, to Ruth Bryan, daughter of William Jennings Bryan, who formerly was Mrs. W. H. Leavitt.

WAS BEATEN TO DEATH

They Claim That His Assailant Chased and Beat Him Brutally, Then Dragged the Body—Neighbors Say They Saw Two Men Leave Finton Farm on the Morning of Tragedy—People Won't Talk.

Hamilton, April 29.—That Elijah Finton was struck on the head with some blunt instrument, at least half a dozen times; that his body was arranged with the hands neatly folded across the breast; that the soft felt hat that he wore was found by the police with at least two cuts in it; that the body was dragged some distance and that the finger prints on the barn door were there before the body was moved, were developments yesterday in the alleged murder at Stony Creek. The police are of the opinion that he was attacked in the barn and that while trying to run away was pursued and struck violently over the head half a dozen times. The weapon has not been found.

Chief Twiss admitted yesterday that the people in the community refuse to say anything, as they were on good terms with the dead man and his family and do not want to be dragged into the case. The hat was found near where the body was discovered, and in it were two tell-tale cuts. The importance of the blood marks on the barn door cannot be underestimated, in view of the fact that the two men who were on the scene soon after the body was discovered declare that they saw the finger prints when they first arrived. The men are William Metcalf and Fred Dewberry, employed on the farm of Reeve Millen. A Dominion police officer may be called in to try and show whose finger points they are.

Mrs. Downing of Stony Creek, a sister-in-law of Thomas Finton, who is under arrest, claims that there are two children who say they saw the dead man around at 10 o'clock in the morning. However, as the dead man and his aged brother looked somewhat alike at a distance, the latter may have been mistaken for the brother. However, unless the brother retracts his statement of Wednesday, that he was at the barn door about 10 o'clock and saw nothing of the body, some importance may be attached to the report. Doctors, however, say death occurred before 10 a.m.

A farmer who lives about a mile east of the Finton house said yesterday that he saw the two men walking the Grand Trunk tracks near his farm on the morning of the alleged murder and that several other people also saw them. They were walking from the direction of the Finton home.

George S. Lynch-Staunton has been retained by Thomas Finton, who is under arrest. The inquest will open to-night.

Lieut.-Col. Davidson Is Dead.

Toronto, April 29.—Military men Canada over will regret to learn of the death of Lt.-Col. John I. Davidson, which occurred late last night, at his residence, 156 St. George street. He had undergone an operation for cancer two months ago and had been confined to his home since.

He began as a private in the 7th Aberdeenshire Volunteers, serving 2½ years, he then served as a private for one and one-half years in the London Scottish; one year in the Uxbridge Yeomanry, and six years as lieutenant and captain in the 10th Royal Grenadiers. He held a Royal School of Infantry first-class certificate.

He took a most prominent part in organizing the 48th Highlanders of Toronto, and was its first commanding officer, he being confirmed in the command of the regiment March 25, 1892.

The regiment adopted the Davidson tartan and the Davidson coat, and his identity with the regiment will live through the time to come.

Crop Damage Exaggerated.

Washington, April 29.—Damage to crops in the southern states east of Mississippi River is not as great as first reports indicated, according to President Finlay of the Southern Railway. He said yesterday that cotton and corn have suffered in the northern two-thirds of the States of Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia, but that further south these crops were not injured and that further north they were not far enough advanced to be seriously hurt.

To Conserve Resources.

Carleton Place, April 29.—The Town Hall, holding 950 people, was filled Wednesday evening to hear an address by Kelly Evans, on the conservation of natural resources, especially of fish and game and tourist traffic.

There was great enthusiasm for the cause of conservation. Mr. Evans dwelt on the economic value of birds to the farming community. David Findlay spoke of the good work of the association.

For Cruelty to Cattle.

Toronto, April 29.—At the April meeting of the Toronto Humane Society yesterday afternoon Staff Inspector Kennedy of the police reported that a cattle car arrived at the Western Cattle Market a couple of days ago with 19 calves and one cow dead from overcrowding. The animals were shipped by S. Pearson of Hickson, Ont., and in the car were crowded 17 steers, 22 calves and 1 lamb. No attention had apparently been given the live stock from the time they were shipped until the market was reached. A summons has been issued for the shipper.

Train and Track.

Canada's mileage of railways in actual operation increased last year by 1,138 miles.

Records recently filed show that the site for the Chicago Northwestern's new passenger depot at Chicago has cost $12,000,000.

A new safety appliance for railroads is a machine to place torpedoes on a rail when a danger signal is set in foggy weather or in such a location that a derail could not be used.

A projected railway will start from Adrianople and go in as straight a line as possible to Rumeli Hissar, which is to be connected with Anatol Hissar by a suspension bridge. It will pass through the most fertile and most populous districts of Asia Minor and will be extended to Suleimanieh, whence it will proceed through Persia to India.

The Skate Fish.

The ray, or skate fish, has a mouth set transversely across its head, the jaws working with a rolling motion, like two hands set back to back. In the jaws are two rows of flat teeth, set like a mosaic pavement, and between these rolling jaws the fish crushes oysters and other mollusks like so many nuts.

Age of Elephants.

There are records of elephants that have lived for 200 years, and an age of 150 years is not regarded as so very old for an elephant. It takes about a quarter of a century to get the elephant to full maturity.

Had Weak Back.

Would Often Lie in Bed for Days Scarcely Able to Turn Herself.

Weak back comes from the kidneys, and when the kidneys are out of order the whole system becomes deranged. Those who have never been troubled with kidney trouble do not know of the suffering and misery which those afflicted undergo. Doan's Kidney Pills are a specific for all kidney troubles.

They begin by heaping the kidneys to flush of all the acrid and poisonous impurities which have collected, thus clearing out the kidneys, bladder and all the urinary passages and carrying away the uric acid, the chief cause of rheumatism, from the blood.

Mrs. Arch. Schnare, Black Point, N.B., writes:—"For years I was troubled with weak back. Oftentimes I have lain in bed for days, being scarcely able to turn myself, and I have also been a great sufferer while trying to perform my household duties. I had doctors attending me without avail and tried liniments and plasters, but nothing seemed to do me any good. I was about to give up in despair when my husband induced me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and after using two boxes I am now well and able to do my work. I am positive Doan's Kidney Pills are all that you claim for them, and I would advise all kidney sufferers to give them a fair trial."

Price, 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

LUXURIOUS BAGS.

A Collapsible New Dressing and Hand Bag.

The fitted traveling bag is supposed to be the height of luxury—at least to judge by its cost. The furnishings are silver, ivory or even gold, combined with cut glass bottles of all sizes. The bags themselves are of the finest Russia leather or calf, and the outside usually carries the monogram of the owner in small gold or silver letters.

All this is very handsome and very heavy. The weight of the bag before anything is packed into it is enough to daunt a woman with a weak back, though her bag may be one of the smaller sizes.

Since the convenience of having all one's toilet belongings neatly packed in readiness for a hurried trip is evident most women will welcome one of the new bags, which are so built and furnished as to be three times as light as those ordinarily sold.

The bag is a collapsible affair of fine smooth leather, black or colors, that closes up like an accordion. It lets out according to the amount of packing necessary. This extension is regulated by leather straps on the outside, which add rather than detract from its smart appearance.

On the inside are mirror, comb, brush, tooth and nail brushes, shoe horn, buttoner, nail file, flask, a bottle or two and a soap box. They are arranged to take up the least possible space and, being made of white celluloid, weigh almost nothing.

The effect of this celluloid, with its black monogram on each piece, is good, and the weight is less than half as much as ivory. It wears well, and the only precaution necessary is to keep it away from a flame, as it may explode. A novelty in the bag line is a new silver mesh model with a watch set at one side of the heavy silver mounting.

HELPFUL HINTS.

A damp room or cupboard may be dried by keeping in it a jar containing quicklime. The lime will absorb the damp and keep the air dry and pure. It must be frequently renewed, as it loses its power.

Eggs are muscle building food and are digested principally in the stomach. They are most easily digested when raw, somewhat less readily when slightly cooked, but difficult of digestion when hard boiled.

The weary woman who wishes to woo sleep successfully should try a scented slumber cushion. Cased in a dainty cover of washing silk, the contents vary from vegetable down scented with lavender to the aromatic hop.

An old proverb says, "Spare the dinner, spare the doctor." Like many other homely sayings, it is to the point. Some of the foremost physicians shake their heads gravely and say, "People eat too much." They have grown into the habit of unquestioningly eating all that is set before them, and then, rather surprised, they resent any reference to this as "overeating."

The Baby Walrus.

At six months a baby walrus will eat fifty pounds of codfish a day.

MRS. MORSE IN WALL STREET

Working For Husband, Who Is Serving Prison Sentence.

Mrs. Charles W. Morse, wife of the convicted ex-ice king and bank president, has entered Wall street with the purpose of rebuilding the shattered fortunes of her husband and obtaining a pardon for him. She recently opened an office at 43 Exchange place, New York city, to take charge of the convicted financier's involved business affairs.

Mrs. Morse had intended to rent a cottage near the federal prison in Atlanta that she might be able to visit her husband as often as possible, but on seeing him in prison garb she changed her mind. The sight of his humiliation so possessed her with the desire to work for his freedom and the rehabilitation of his fortunes that she returned to New York.

As if the associations of her husband's former financial triumphs would stimulate her, Mrs. Morse has made her business headquarters in the building which the little financier had constructed for the home office of his many great enterprises.

On its ground floor, for example, are the onyx columned, bronzed railed counting rooms of the National Bank of North America, head of the chain of banks which Morse established and which all collapsed with his downfall. In addition to assuming the burden of her husband's large business interests, Mrs. Morse is circulating petitions addressed to President Taft asking for the pardon of the ex-ice king.

In her work she is ably assisted by Miss Katherine Wilson, formerly confidential secretary and stenographer to Mr. Morse.

The "Talking" Wrinkle.

The woman who tried to talk without moving the muscles in her face in order to prevent the acquisition of wrinkles developed into a most stupid, uninteresting person. Better wrinkles than no facial expression, if these are the alternative, but a compromise ought to be possible. It is facial habits that make wrinkles—one woman rumples her forehead when amazed, another curls down the corners of her mouth, a third furrows her brow when perplexed, and still another purses her lips when she talks. They can conquer these habits with a little determination and persistence, and they should do so if they consider wrinkles disfiguring.

Healthy Trees.

The time in the summer at which the leaves begin to turn is a tolerably sure indication of the soundness of the tree. Some trees will keep their foliage green until September, while the leaves of unhealthy trees will begin to show signs of turning brown or yellow in August.

An English Chemist has Discovered How to Grow Hair.

In England the ladies have entirely abandoned wearing rats, which is due, entirely to this new discovery.

It has been proven that Henna leaves contain the ingredients that will positively grow hair. That they contain this long-looked-for article is proven every day.

The Americans are now placing on the market a preparation containing the extract from Henna leaves, which is having a phenomenal sale.

This preparation is called SALVIA, and is being sold with a guarantee to cure Dandruff and to grow hair in abundance. Being daintily perfumed, SALVIA makes a most pleasant hair dressing. McDermid & Jury, your druggists, are the first to import this preparation into Peterborough, and a large generous bottle can be purchased for 50c.

Few Men in Washington Society.

While the cause of militant woman is advancing so strongly in every direction, it comes almost as a surprise to find mere man still has a value of his own, but signs are not lacking that "the man question" is proving one of the most difficult that Washington society has to face this winter. There is a scarcity of eligible young men, and the dearth is felt nowhere so severely as in that youthful circle which is increased each year by a fresh crop of debutantes. This season's crop has been larger than usual, between seventy-five and a hundred young girls having stepped from the schoolroom to the reception and the ball room in the last two or three months. The situation obviously is serious when, having taken the step, they find no men to talk and dance with. Philadelphia and Baltimore can lend Washington no assistance, for these cities are in an equally bad way. There is a general disposition to blame the departments of war and the navy, for, in obedience to the policy outlined by the secretaries, a sharp check has been placed on wholesale excursions of cadets from West Point and Annapolis, who formerly could be counted on to save any occasion by their presence. The administration, in fact, is at pains to keep its young soldier and sailor officers out of matrimonial temptations, and the Washington girls, therefore, are threatened with rather a dull season.

A Tour of the Escurial.

It requires about four days to make an investigation of the Escurial, the great Spanish palace, there being such a multitude of rooms and apartments. To travel all the halls, chambers, corridors, lengths and depths of the great palace would require a tour amounting to over a hundred miles.

Whist.

The game of whist has been traced by curious inquirers to the game of triumph or trumph or trump, which was extensively played in the early days of the sixteenth century.

KIDNEY TROUBLES

Are Overcome By

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills

The kidneys have a very important work to perform in preserving health. All the blood passes through them over and over again and they filter it, removing all the impurities and worn-out muscle and tissue which the blood gathers up, in microscopic particles, in its flow through the body. These impurities are then expelled through the urinary system.

When the kidneys for any reason fail to perform this function, and the impurities are left in the blood, about the most distressing series of ailments which afflict mankind follow. First there is the aching back and a feeling of weariness, and then, as conditions grow worse, comes Rheumatism, Gravel, Diabetes, Gall Stones, Inflammation of the Bladder or the dreaded Bright's Disease.

The man or woman who allows kidney trouble to develop into any of these diseases is doing himself or herself a grave injustice, particularly when a cure can be had so readily. One of the constituents of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills is a Diuretic, which strengthens and stimulates the kidneys, enabling them to do their work thoroughly and with ease. These Pills also increase the action of the bowels and the pores of the skin, which remove some of the impurities, thus lightening the work of the kidneys.

Mr. Geo. Whitney, of Buffalo, N.Y., says they worked wonders for him. He writes:

"Your Doctor Morse's Indian Root Pills have worked wonders in my case. I suffered for six years from liver trouble and kidney ailment. If I tried one medicine I tried a dozen, but without good results. Your pills were recommended and they cured me after using four boxes."

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills should be taken at the first sign of back-ache, of rheumatism, or of any difficulty in urinating.

MR. HERMAN DYING OF STONE IN THE BLADDER

Gin Pills passed the Stone

513 James St., Hamilton.

"Four years ago I was taken down with what the doctors called Inflammation of the Bladder—intense pains in the back and loins, great pain and difficulty in urinating. The pain was greatest in the region of the bladder, and the attacks, which became more frequent, amounted to unbearable agony, and I became so weak that I could not walk across the floor. Doctors could do nothing to help me. My wife read in the paper about Gin Pills and sent for a box.

From the very first I felt that Gin Pills were doing me good. The pain was relieved at once, and the attacks were less frequent. In six weeks the Stone in the Bladder came away and the pain stopped entirely. I have had no return of the trouble and have not lost a day's work on account of it. I cannot express myself strong enough when I speak of what Gin Pills have done for me. When I remember how I suffered, and how now I am healthy and well and strong and able to do a full day's work, I feel I should speak and tell other sufferers of my experience and of the wonderful merits of Gin Pills."

JOHN HERMAN

You don't have to buy Gin Pills to test them. Simply write The National Drug & Chemical Co. Dept. B. Toronto, and a free sample will be sent you by return mail. Milady's Mirror

What would you do to keep well and look well? Cultivate a belief in water. It is hard to get too much of it either externally or internally.

Every woman who values her digestion and her complexion should drink at least six glasses of cold water a day. If desired the glass taken before retiring and first thing in the morning may be hot, with a pinch of salt in it.

Have appointed hours for this water drinking and take it at those times. In the morning just as you leave the bed and the last thing before entering it at night, a half hour before each meal and in the middle of the morning and afternoon will divide the periods nicely.

At first it may seem a great nuisance to drink water by rule, but soon it will become a habit that you will get almost unconsciously without disturbing your routine for more than a minute. If you have trained maids they should be instructed to bring the water at the appointed hours.

Equally important to the water drinking habit is that of taking a cold shower or dashing oneself with cold water after the daily hot bath. This not only prevents taking cold, but acts as a tonic to the skin, stirs up the circulation and adds color to lips and cheeks and brightness to the eyes. This, too, is hard at first, but the system soon gets accustomed to the shock and is benefited by it.

Simple Bleaches.

A girl who wishes to keep her throat and chest white should use a simple bleach daily, for once a yellow or brownish discoloration appears on the skin a preparation with strength is required to bleach it, and in restoring the natural whiteness the skin may become dry, a condition that may be rectified by the application of grease, but should be avoided when possible.

Such a mixture can be made from a wineglassful of lemon juice, a pint of rain or soft water and three drops of attar of roses and will be effective. Rosewater is better than plain water, but it makes the lotion more expensive. This liquid is to be put on the neck and throat and wiped off gently, but not thoroughly. If the neck is treated with this regularly night and morning there will be little chance for the development of an unsightly yellow line.

If the discoloration already shows a strong solution of benzoin may act as a bleach. For this purpose add one ounce of tincture of benzoin to one-half pint of alcohol. If this be used night and morning it may obliterate the mark. If the color does not lighten in a week it would be well to stop the use of benzoin and try instead a lotion made from two ounces of lactic acid, one ounce of glycerin and one-half ounce of rosewater. This is used in the same manner as the other.

Good Hand Whitener.

Cornmeal paste is the best handmade whitener known. To make it you take enough cornmeal to half fill a pint bowl. Into this you put enough oil to moisten it slightly, and add a little oil of jasmine. A hand specialist adds also a little lime juice. To whiten the hands of her patrons she provides herself with a pair of gloves three sizes too large. She splits them down the back and with a dull knife spreads the paste on the inside of the gloves. She then puts them on her patient's hands, sewing up the outside with big stitches. In two hours she rubs the hands with sweet almond oil made into a paste with sheep's fat, which is left on all the afternoon. In the evening they are something to conjure with.

To Make the Hair Curl.

A woman whose hair is slightly wavy has discovered a simple method for increasing its curl without using any artificial curlers.

When taking it down she gives a thorough brushing. In this way all the tangles are removed, and a stroking which will give polish and bring out the natural oil she continues for a couple of minutes. In order that the brushing shall help in the waving the strokes are not laid flat on the head each time, but are drawn away from the scalp—that is, the hand is held at an angle, and the brush bristles are laid against the temples or just below, and pressed along the scalp for a couple of inches. After that the hair is drawn out into space.

Use of the New Hairpin.

For the fashionable swirl, mop or turban style of hairdressing, called respectively by one or all of these names, come the new square hairpins. They not only serve to keep the braid in place that winds about the head,

AN ATTRACTIVE DISPOSAL OF THE SQUARE HAIRPIN.

but they are decidedly decorative. These pins are generally of tortoise shell, but other materials are employed for their makeup. Another pretty device for the new hairdressing is the fillet of tortoise shell with side comb attachments.

The Elm Incident.

Washington was taking formal command of the Continental army at Cambridge. He crooked his arm, placed his elbow against the historic elm and rested his head on his hand. Then he addressed the ill assorted gathering of patriots. In the midst of his remarks his elbow suddenly glided from the tree and Washington completely lost his equilibrium.

"Why didn't you inform me," said the great general with dignity, "that this tree was a slippery elm?"—Woman's Home Companion.

THEY INJURE CHILDREN

Ordinary Cathartics and Pills and Harsh Physic Cause Distressing Complaints.

You cannot be over-careful in the selection of medicine for children. Only the very gentlest bowel medicine should ever be given, except in emergency cases. Ordinary pills, cathartics and purgatives are apt to do more harm than good. They cause griping, nausea and other distressing after-effects that are frequently health-destroying and a life-lasting annoyance.

We personally recommend and guarantee Rexall Orderlies as the safest and most dependable remedy for constipation and associate bowel disorders. We have such absolute faith in the virtues of this remedy that we sell it on our guarantee of money back in every instance where it fails to give entire satisfaction, and we urge all in need of such medicine to try it at our risk.

Rexall Orderlies contain an entirely new ingredient which is odourless. As an active agent, it embraces the valuable qualities of the best known intestinal regulator tonics.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candies. They are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night; do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness or other undesirable effects. They have a very natural action upon the glands and organs with which they come in contact, act as a positive and regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel and its dry mucous lining; remove irritation, overcome weakness, tone and strengthen the nerves and muscles, and restore the bowels and associate organs to more vigorous and healthy activity.

Rexall Orderlies completely relieve constipation, except when of a surgical character. They also tend to overcome the necessity of constantly taking laxatives to keep the bowels in normal condition.

There is really no medicine for this purpose so good as Rexall Orderlies especially for children, aged and delicate persons. They are prepared in tablet form, in two sizes of packages; 12 tablets 10 cents, and 36 tablets 25 cents. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Peterborough only at our store,—The Rexall Store. McDermid and Jury, corner George and Charlotte Sts.

Fortune Telling

Does not take into consideration the one essential to woman's happiness—womanly health.

The woman who neglects her health is neglecting the very foundation of all good fortune. For without health love loses its lustre and gold is but dross.

Womanly health when lost or impaired may generally be regained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This Prescription has, for over 40 years, been curing delicate, weak, pain-wracked women, by the hundreds of thousands and this too in the privacy of their homes without their having to submit to indelicate questionings and offensively repugnant examinations.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence held as sacredly confidential. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Great Family Doctor Book, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, newly revised up-to-date edition—1000 pages, answers in Plain English hosts of delicate questions which every woman, single or married, ought to know about. NEW BULB GROWING.

A Delightful Floral Decoration For the Home.

A pretty room and table decoration has been insured of late by the introduction of the method of growing bulbs in specially prepared fiber. A glance at the illustrations will give some idea of the beauty of this sort of table decoration. As some readers may care to experiment in this direction, the following may be of use:

For this system of culture no drainage is necessary, and the bowls and vases which are specially made for the purpose are not pierced with the usual holes for drainage. The receptacles are nonporous and may be placed on tables and columns, or they can be employed in halls and corridors without the slightest risk of injury.

The fiber is perfectly clean to handle, odorless and remains sweet for an indefinite period.

Any receptacle may be used for the purpose provided it is nonporous, but the bulbs to be planted in them should be suited to their size. For quite small jardinieres crocuses, scillas, snowdrops and grape hyacinths are available; also the smaller varieties of narcissuses. It is better not to mix different kinds of bulbs in one bowl unless simultaneous flowering can be insured.

The specially prepared fiber requires moistening only before use. Having selected suitable receptacles for the bulbs to be grown, place a few pieces of charcoal at the bottom of the bowl. Then cover the charcoal with one to three inches of moistened fiber, according to the depth of the bowl, placing the bulbs in positions so that their tips reach to within half an inch of the rim—the spaces between and around the bulbs to be filled with moistened fiber, carefully packed in by hand. The bulbs will require practically no attention for the first few weeks and should be placed in a warm, airy place.

If the fiber has been properly moistened there will be no need to give water until the shoots are an inch or so long, but the fiber must not be allowed to dry or the flower buds become "blind." The surface of the fiber should always look moist, but if too much water has been given, the bowl may be held carefully on its side so that the surplus water may drain away. As the growth increases more water will be required and as much light as possible to insure sturdy foliage.

HOUSEHOLD DANGERS.

After filling a lamp be careful to wipe the outside dry, for any trickle of oil on the sides might easily catch fire.

Be careful when you light a fire in the kitchen that there is plenty of water in the boiler; otherwise when the cold water rushes into the hot boiler it is likely to crack it.

Don't put clothes round the fire to dry and then go to bed and leave them. A spark might easily fly out of the fire and set them alight. Never leave a wood fire unguarded.

Don't try to make a fire draw by holding a newspaper in front of it. It doesn't set fire to the mantelpiece or to your own clothes it may fly up the chimney and result in a fire.

Never fill an oil lamp while it is alight. It is quite easy for the vapor to catch fire and set the spirit or oil ablaze, and an explosion will most likely follow. Always turn the lamp out before refilling it.

Don't allow the oil to stand in the lamp very long. If it is not burned it should be thrown away. It gathers impurities and increases the risk of an explosion. For the same reason always keep the kerosene can well corked.

Recent Inventions.

To hold a horse's hoot and trim it evenly before shoeing is the purpose of a machine invented by an Arkansas man.

A shovel with high, sharp sides and with a hinged blade that lifts away from the front has been patented by a New Jersey resident to cut and lift sods.

A patent has been granted an Indiana man on a meter to count the words written on a typewriter, pressure on the space bar closing a circuit and causing it to register.

Two Tennessee draftsmen have patented a magnetic T square which is held against the ironbound edge of a drawing board by an electro magnet in its head. A switch cuts off the current and allows it to be moved.

Dr. de Van's French Female Pills—The Wife's Friend

A reliable regulator; never fails. While these pills are exceedingly powerful in regulating the generative portion of the female system, they are strictly safe to use. Refuse all cheap imitations. Dr. de Van's are sold at $5.00 a box, or three for $10.00. Mailed to any address. The Scobell Drug Co., St. Catharines, Ont.

Trick With a Coin.

Half fill a glass of water and put a dime or a quarter into it. Cover the glass with a plate, upon which place one hand, while you hold the glass with the other. Turn the glass upside down, so that none of the water may escape. Place it on a table, and you will see the coin at the bottom larger than it is in reality and another will appear of the natural size a little above it.

Old Style Bouquets.

Bridesmaids and debutantes are carrying the formal bouquets which their grandmothers gloried in when they were girls. These bouquets call for a mixture of blossoms and for long ends of ribbon or tulle or both, often with little clusters of the flowers knotted in with the ribbon. A florist says that fully half the debutantes and brides whom he has supplied with flowers at their weddings and coming out receptions this season have selected this kind. A bouquet used for a reception had cream colored rosebuds massed in the center, white narcissuses around those, a narrow edge of violets around the narcissuses and a fine feathery white flower next the violets. Then came a row of purple orchids, a row of lilies of the valley bordered by maidenhair fern and looped green pink tulle and white lace paper. Ends of pink satin ribbon and tulle fell from the bouquet.

Constipation.

No one need expect to be healthy if the bowels are allowed to become clogged up. A free motion of the bowels daily should be the rule with everyone who aspires to perfect health.

Costiveness or constipation clogs the bowels, chokes up the natural outlet of impure matter, and retains in the system the poisonous effete waste products of nature, causing bad blood, dyspepsia, headache, biliousness, foul humors, pimples, boils, blotches, piles, etc. Burdock Blood Bitters has built up an unrivalled reputation as a cure for constipation and all the diseases which arise from it.

Constipation Cured.

Mr. Burns Woodcock, Nashwaak Bridge, N.S., writes: "For over two years my wife was troubled with constipation. She tried several physicians, but could get no relief, but after taking three bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters she was completely cured and is to-day in good health. My wife and I cannot speak too highly of Burdock Blood Bitters."

ANALYSIS OF

St. Lawrence Sugar

THE STANDARD OF PURITY

Laboratory of Provincial Government Analyst.

MONTREAL, 22nd February, 1909.

I HEREBY CERTIFY that I have drawn by my own hand ten samples of the St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Co's EXTRA STANDARD GRANULATED SUGAR, indiscriminately taken from four lots of about 150 barrels each and six lots of about 450 bags each. I have analyzed same and find them uniformly to contain 99-99/100 to 100 per cent of pure cane sugar, with no impurities whatever.

THE IMPERIAL GUARANTEE & ACCIDENT INSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA

Head Office: 46 King Street, West — TORONTO

The Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of the Imperial Guarantee & Accident Insurance Company of Canada, was held at the Head Office, 46 King Street West, Toronto, on the 19th inst.

Mr. E. W. Cox, President of the Company, in reviewing the business of the year, made reference to the growing popularity of Accident Insurance, and its effect on the success of the business of the Company during the year. The amount of Insurance written was over $26,270,000.00, an increase of $1,940,000.00 over the business taken out in 1908. This is considered exceptionally satisfactory in view of the fact that the business of the Company is confined to Personal Accident and Guarantee Insurance.

The Gross Income for 1909 amounted to $219,741.76.

That being an increase over the year 1908 of $4,847.34.

The Assets now total $306,974.00, and, after allowing for Reserve for unearned premium calculated on the full Government standard, and all other liabilities, the surplus for the protection of policyholders has increased to $213,417.12.

The following Directors and Officers were elected:

Edward W. Cox, President. — Hon. F. T. Frost.
Noel Marshall, Vice-President. — R. Bickerdike.
Hon. Geo. A. Cox. — W. D. Robb.
Elias Rogers. — J. J. Kenny.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labour, which schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation and the place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $20,000.00 made payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Railways and Canals must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited, if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The cheque of the successful tenderer will be held as security or part security for the due fulfilment of the contract to be entered into.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

MOTHERS' DAY IN CANADA

From Farm and Dairy.

There has in recent years been inaugurated a movement called Mothers' Day. It has spread through the entire United States, and last year for the first time was celebrated in London, Ont.

The second Sunday in the month of May has been chosen as the day, when all of us shall keep in especial remembrance the virtues of motherhood. On that day, the white carnation, which our own Canadian poet Bliss Carman has called the most comely of flowers, will be worn in honor of Home and Mother. The movement is meeting with the most enthusiastic appreciation, and Canadian people, who have as good homes as may be found in the world, will not be slow to observe a day which commemorates the central figure in the home.

This new movement for Mothers' Day is in itself more significant than any monument and, by associating itself with flowers, gives a peculiar sweetness and pleasing suggestion to the memories of the day. No matter how world-weary or troubled the woman or man may be, the very thought of the old home and the childhood associations will bring refreshment and healing. Perhaps it was a farmhouse on the wide acres of a Canadian homestead where there was room and to spare for a band of merry youngsters. There was such a fine old orchard, such an alluring creek for small feet to wade in, such a glorious hayloft for a romp on a holiday! But, best of all, was the mother's face smiling from the kitchen doorway as the tired small persons came home from school or play. What a fine old kitchen it was, with its wide flags and savory smells! There were all manner of good things, spiced and preserved and stored away, and from the old stove came the appetizing whiff which told of baked apples or hot biscuits for tea. The home scene comes back, borne on the scent of a white carnation which, strangely enough, is mingled with other perfumes—the fragrance of apple-blossoms in the large orchards, the lilacs in the old lane, and the heavy scent of the flowers which rested on the coffin. Wherever the old home may have been, it was a fairy spot and the modern world shows not its like to weary hearts. There are many houses along life's road, but there is only one old home—and its queen was the Mother, whose love has followed her children all around the world. There is the magic in the white carnation.

OBJECTS OF THE DAY.

To honor the one who loved you first and always—your Mother.

To give tribute of loving remembrance of your mother or her memory—through some distinct act of kindness, visit or letter.

To wear a white flower—emblem of purity and fidelity—on Mothers' Day. If possible, send one to others as a message of sympathy or brotherhood. Remember the sick or unfortunate in hospitals.

While any white flower may be worn, the white carnation is the Mothers' Day special flower. Its whiteness stands for purity; its form, beauty; its fragrance, love; its wide field of growth, charity; its lasting qualities, faithfulness—all a rue mother's attributes.

Mothers' Day may be observed through special sermons, exercises or addresses in honor of "Our Mothers," and by the wearing and distribution of the white flower in connection with such occasion.

Mothers' Day is for every creed, class, race and country. It is not denominational. Social, fraternal, civil, military and religious organizations; official, professional and business classes are all asked to pay homage to mothers through the wearing of the white flower, and observance of the spirit of the day.

Easily Tired Exhausted

DOES THIS DESCRIBE YOUR CASE? — THEN READ THIS LETTER ABOUT

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

The accompanying letter describes so well the condition of a person whose nerves are weak and exhausted that little need be added.

The danger of such a state of health is sometimes overlooked by persons who do not realize that the next step is some form of paralysis which leaves one helpless in mind and body.

Mrs. Edward Schwartz, Ladysmith, Que., writes: "It is a pleasure to let you know how I was benefitted by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I was run down and weak, unable to do any housework, was easily tired and exhausted, lacked energy and ambition, was very nervous, easily irritated, could not concentrate the thoughts, hands and feet were cold, I could not sleep, had frequent headaches and dizzy spells and palpitation of the heart.

"Nervous prostration was my trouble, but Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cured it all and I cannot find words to express my thankfulness for this wonderful medicine."

The results achieved by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food are often more wonderful than words can tell. In cases such as this patient persistent treatment is necessary, but you are encouraged by steady and natural improvement until the cure is thorough and complete.

There is a satisfaction in knowing that each and every dose is bound to be of at least some benefit in rebuilding the wasted nervous system.

THE FIELD FOR POULTRY

From Farm and Dairy.

I. W. Steinhoff, Perth Co., Ont.

We had the pleasure of paying one man in the township of Hibbert, Perth Co., Ont., $150 for 91 turkeys, delivered at our plant last year during the latter part of November. This man stated that his flock had been very little trouble to him after they had a fair start and that he had only fed them on grain about 10 days at the finishing point.

Let me illustrate what some districts in the United States are doing with poultry. This past season we had Mr. F. P. Wiseman superintending our poultry plant at Stratford. He has been engaged in the same capacity over one of Swift & Company's larger poultry houses at Ottumwa, Iowa. Mr. Wiseman stated that from a district of 60 miles in area about Ottumwa that eight to 12 cars of poultry were shipped weekly and that it was not infrequent that they received from 100 to 300 birds from one farmer. It is a well-known fact that even the value of agricultural land depends upon its producing capacity, and in the district referred to, farm land is selling at from $125 to $175 an acre.

We have recently opened a local plant at Stratford for killing, dressing and packing poultry for Messrs. Swift & Company, who have established an excellent reputation for their poultry, both in the United States and in Great Britain. The feature that is giving us the greatest concern is to obtain a sufficient supply at this point without having to draw from too great a distance. There is no richer agricultural district in Ontario than around Stratford, but not much attention has been given to this branch of the farming industry.

UP-TO-DATE METHODS.

In the attempt to develop this branch of our business in Ontario, we hope to be a benefit especially to the agricultural community in putting up our poultry in a systematic, up-to-date and reliable style of packing. For instance, one of the crude features in common practice in killing poultry in Canada in the past has been that of breaking the necks and leaving the blood in the carcass. Consumers of poultry killed in this way will confirm the statement that the necks are always found to be filled with clotted blood, and in many cases this extends up into the trunk of the fowl. The method adopted by Swift & Company is to bleed all poultry through the mouth, have it cleanpicked by skilled pluckers, packing small varieties 12 in a parchment lined box in single layer, with feet washed before being packed. All birds are passed over the scale before being packed and graded according to quality and weight, so that purchasers of our poultry will know just what they are buying.

By these systematic and careful methods we hope to be a benefit to the trade. In this connection I may state that in England last year, where Swift & Company have established a reputation for their poultry, their best brands of chickens were selling at 11d to one shilling a pound.

The poultry branch of our farming industry is not receiving the attention that its importance demands. Compared with some districts in the United States, as has been noted, the quantity produced in this province is insignificant. It is a fact, well recognized by business men, that the towns and cities in Ontario that are likely to make any material growth will only be those that develop manufacturing industries, enabling them to cater to the wants of our fast developing Western Canada, as well as to local demands. Applying the same principle to the agricultural community, farmers should apply their energies to the branches for which the greatest demand exists and which yields the most liberal profits.

GOOD PRICES.

All over Canada, towns and cities are increasing rapidly with a population of consumers, and it is the business of the farmer to supply the wants thus brought to their own doors; and one of these requirements, especially during the holiday season and fall and winter, is poultry. It should also be remembered that with the increase of wealth, our population becomes more particular as to the quality of the products that they place upon their tables, and it is found that where No. 1 quality can be secured, consumers are willing to pay good prices. The price of poultry to-day, compared with that of 10 years ago, is double, and yet the quantity produced in Ontario does not seem to be materially increased. With proper attention and the adoption of suitable conditions, poultry raising is among the most profitable of the branches of the Ontario farmer. It is also a branch with the very best prospects for the future.

The returns brought in by poultry will be found to be a very acceptable adjunct to the family purse, especially at the holiday season, and by the farmer's wife, who should receive a fair amount of these returns. I believe that one of the reasons that there is not a larger amount of poultry produced in Ontario is that farmers themselves consider this branch not worthy of their consideration and leave it to the female members on the farm, without providing the necessary facilities and rations for the development of good poultry.

WHY BOY LEAVES HOME

From Farm and Dairy.

Let us consider for a moment the much-talked-of labor problem. Why do the Ontario farmers' sons leave the farm for the city? Why do they flock to the West? Why don't they stay at home and help with the burdens of the day where they are most needed? Simply because their parents ignore these little things. Parents forget a boy's present needs, real or imaginary. They provide only for the distant future. "Oh, yes, John will have all when I am dead and gone." But John might get out and hustle for himself and have far more and make it easier than if he had stayed at home to await and work for his inheritance. And it is this belief, strong in the mind of any sturdy Canadian boy, that takes him from his father's farmstead.

THE REMEDY

"Give us the remedy," you ask. It is simple. Run the farm and its operations on strictly business principles. Make it worthy of the best that is in you. Aim to excel in some particular branch, i. e., specialize; be known to excel in at least some one thing. Make improvement the watchword all along the line. (Practically every farm in Ontario to-day could be made to double and treble its output.) Don't forget to use your boy as you would have to use a hired man. Pay him. Yes, that's right; pay him! No twentieth century Canadian boy, worth his salt, can be expected to work contentedly without pay. Far-off promises of a farm, etc., won't do. He might earn two or three farms while waiting and working for that one. The boy must be allowed to share, and to share in a real way, in the business. Then, being a partner, he of necessity will be consulted in all things pertaining to the farm; hence will his interest and his confidence be obtained.

A CONCRETE EXAMPLE

"The Son" enjoys the acquaintance of many young men that left home for causes herein stated. The tendency to err is not with the big things. It is in little things. One well meaning father of the writer's acquaintance offered his son a start totalling respectable thousands. Yet that same man would pinch that son on small deals. How could such inconsistency be tolerated? We know the question is not one-sided. Both often are at fault. Attention, in great measure to these little things, however, will smooth out many a troubled spot and go far towards contenting the farm boy with his lot.—"The Son."

JUDGING A FOWL'S AGE

From Farm and Dairy.

Among the methods used by the poultryman is examination of the feathers, the shanks, the spurs, the head, and the comb. If the spurs of the male bird are long, heavy and coarse, and the scales of the shank are rough and uneven, the conclusion can be safely reached that the fowl is rather old.

Cockerels frequently have long spurs but the spurs will be clear and free of roughness on the surface and the shanks will be smooth and clean. The same evidence can be used for hens and pullets.

Old hens will have longer toe-nails, the ends of which will be worn or broken off from scratching. The scales of the shank will be coarse and rough, and frequently have dirt beneath them, while the shanks and toes of pullets are usually fresh-looking and smooth. Fowls that have black shanks will change the color with age. Older fowls of this kind will have shanks and toes of an ashy grey color, rather than black. Fowls with yellow shanks and legs usually turn white with age.

In pullets the points of the pelvis bone will be much closer together than they will be in old ones. Each year the space between these becomes wider. When noticeably wide apart, the hen will very likely be more than two years old. The skin of old fowls, both male and female, becomes coarse and rough, and the holes from which the feathers have been taken more prominent. The head and eyes of old fowls become rough and coarse. The eyes become sunken and the skin or projection over them more strong and prominent.

One of the most perfect tests which is used by expert market poultrymen is the examination of the wing feathers. At the conclusion of the first complete moult, which takes place when the fowls are exactly 12 months old, the secondaries alter in shape, and bear evidence as to the dividing line having passed. Those who are thoroughly familiar with this change can tell at a glance whether the fowl is more than a year old.—N.Z.F.

H. C. Duff, Norwood, Ont.

As we look back over the progress of farm and dairy work, we find that we are advancing, to a certain extent, at least. As dairy farmers we are advancing, but there is great room for still greater advancement. To-day we find farmers taking an interest in their herds that years ago would have classed them as faddists. The aim today is not alone to feed cows that they may live, but to feed in order that they may return as much profit as possible.

As cheese makers we also have room for improvement. This is well shown by criticisms of British importers writing to Farm and Dairy. One firm criticized the products of our factories by saying: "The insipid and featureless stuff that is put on the market in the late autumn is driving the retailers to the use of New Zealand cheese." This should induce our makers to improve the quality of our cheese. Three firms assert that Canadian summer and early autumn cheese has a character distinctly its own and therefore commands the top price on the market, although some of the Canadian cheese could be classed only as seconds. We are glad to know that the Canadian summer cheese and early autumn cheese, at any rate, fits into a hungry spot in the British market as no other cheese can. But we must also recognize the fact that there is great room for advancement. What can makers do in this particular? Mr. Publow advocates that makers visit their patrons because it is his firm opinion that every factoryman knows best what are the needs of his patrons and therefore there is no one better qualified for this work than the makers.

I find that there are great possibilities in Peterboro County for makers to co-operate and assist their patrons. I doubt whether or not all makers get in touch as closely as they should to the Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner's staff at Ottawa. From time to time excellent literature is sent out from there free. This literature can be procured in sufficiently large quantities to give a copy of whatever bulletin it is to every patron.

We find that where cow testing associations exist, the farmers are making better progress than elsewhere; there is no one who can help along the work of the cow testing associations better than the maker himself. Where the maker does the testing, it is a direct money making project, for I understand that he is paid for every test made. If there is one work more than another which I think the cheese makers can do to advantage this summer, it would be to push the work of cow testing associations. You have an excellent opportunity at your annual meetings for booming these associations.

What we would like to see in every factory is not only good cheese makers, but we should say local preachers of the gospel of agriculture. There are great opportunities of doing good and of advancing agriculture before the cheese makers of this country.

FEEDING FOR OFFICIAL RECORDS

From Farm and Dairy.

C. H. Gardiner, Supt. of Advanced Registry, Delavan, Wis.

The Ohio farmer-dairyman, whom I mentioned some weeks ago, writes that cows which are well born by reason of having sires and dams, grandsires and granddams, which have been developed in size, vigor and capacity by proper food and care, at least as far as such development is measured by advanced registration results, are valued too highly for his purse, and asks for suggestions as to selecting and starting a herd and testing for the Advanced Register. The old recipe for cooking a hare begins, first catch your hare: so, in developing a pure bred dairy herd, first select your foundation. It will be wise to move carefully, selecting well-grown, thrifty, promising cows and heifers of approved type and of the milk and flesh form; but not rejecting an otherwise desirable animal because she happens to be of the milk form, nor refusing to buy because the owner of the herd will only allow you to select from among his best cows by your paying him well for the privilege.

Any dairy cow needs a rest of 60 days before parturition, and will yield more milk per year by reason of such rest. If H.-F. cows are fed much grain at drying off time, it is difficult to get them dry; but when once dry, grain should be fed in reasonable quantity to get them in good condition at calving time, and to form a good udder. From five to eight pounds of grain a day will usually be found sufficient before calving, watch the udder carefully and guard against harm: and when the animal has recovered her appetite after parturition, she can usually start in with 10 to 12 pounds a day. Keep the cow comfortable both before and after parturition; using plenty of bedding and the card and brush. See to it that she has water in plenty.

Milk three times daily from the start, and at nearly equal intervals; 5 a. m., 1 p. m. and 8 p. m. being convenient hours; recording the weight of each milking. Feed the grain ration by weight, feeding as often as the cow is milked, and increasing it slowly till the cow is on full feed. Cases differ, but one to one and one-half pounds will usually be found a sufficient daily increase. Keep the feed-box or manger perfectly clean; removing at once any feed left uneaten, and reducing the next feed proportionately. Fifteen to 18 pounds of grain a day for a heifer, and 20 to 24 pounds for a full aged cow will usually be all that a novice should feed, though after gaining experience he may safely feed more; but it is only the cow or heifer making a very large record that needs so much. The appetite for grain may be checked by feeding more of coarse feed. The experienced feeder will begin his test when he knows the cow is reaching her best; but the novice had better begin about ten days after calving.

CURE FOR WHOOPING COUGH

Mrs. William Ball, Bracebridge, Ont writes: "My three boys had whooping cough and we could get nothing to help them until we used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It arrested the coughs at once and they kept on improving until they were cured at the cost of one dollar. This was not a large bill for so dangerous and distressing an ailment."

BEFORE YOU CLEAN HOUSE

From Farm and Dairy.

In packing away clothes and other perishable goods a plan worth trying is as follows: If you have a closet to spare, first burn some sulphur in it; next with a small bellows blow insect powder into the cracks between the floor and baseboards, then line the closet with tar paper, being sure to place the folds of the paper well over one another, tacking closely.

Have your furs and things ready aired, place them on hangers and hang up as usual, sewing bags of camphor balls, cedar chips or tar balls into them if you like. Keep this closet closed and locked, though if you are fortunate enough to live in a house with a yard it will be well to take the contents out once during the season and hang in the sunlight for a whole day.

This is the way things are kept moth-free in the South, and unless our Northern moths are mere belligerent ones will not experience any trouble from them and clothes will keep in shape much better than if packed in trunks. Blankets, rugs and curtains may be wrapped in tar paper or bags, sealed up and laid on the floor of this closet.

Lindsay, April 22nd, 1910

TO THE PEOPLE OF PETERBOROUGH:

I desire to make known that I have been fitted on several different occasions in the past ten years for reading and shooting glasses by the representatives of the International College of Ophthalmology, and they are in my judgment the best Optical people in Canada, and am sure are regarded as such by the military crack shots all through Canada. J. A WILLIAMSON, Maj. 45th Rgt, Lindsay

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

On several occasions I have had my eyes tested for shooting glasses, which I use in my rifle shooting. I consider Mr. Cecil Elliott one of the best optical experts in the business and he is generally recognized as such by the crack rifle shots of the Dominion.

C. H. VANDERSLUYS, Capt., 44th Regt.

April 27th, 1910

To the People of Peterborough:

This is to certify that I know the International College of Opthalmology to be very skilled optical people. They have supplied me with shooting lenses for my Military Shooting for the past number of years, and I am satisfied they can fit the most difficult cases of eye trouble.

Dr. J. B. Pentland, Dentist

NOTICE—These Frames are absolutely Gold Filled, not Gold Plated. They occupy the same place in the optical trade as Rogers Bros.' "1847" does in the Silverware line, or Elgin or Waltham do in the watch line.

Owing to the great demand by the residents of Peterborough and vicinity, we have at last decided to continue our great sensational sale of $3.50 to $5.00 Spectacles and Eyeglasses for $1.00 for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. This will positively be the last chance, as all goods advance to their regular price on Thursday. COME EARLY.

THEY WILL CO-OPERATE.

Wholesale and Manufacturing Grocers Unite.

Toronto, April 29.—With a resolution to bring those manufacturers into line who do not allow a sufficient profit on their goods, the Wholesale Grocers' Exchange brought their meetings to a close yesterday. A committee consisting of John Dillon, T. B. Escott, London; F. T. Smye, H. C. Beckett, Hamilton; A. H. Pulford, Hugh Blain, Toronto, and W. C. Craig, Kingston, will take up the grievance with the manufacturers, who will also be asked to declare themselves in favor of the declaration system. The profits on condensed milk and cream, canned goods, laundry soaps and baking powder were stated to be insufficient, and the committee will seek to readjust them with the manufacturers.

Though one member expressed himself as being loath to go to the extremity of boycott, H. C. Beckett's resolution to stand by the newly-appointed committee carried unanimously.

The members decided to go back to the former title of Wholesale Grocers' Guild, and an effort will be made to establish a local guild in Toronto.

The convention decided to grant vacations to travelers from July 23 to Aug. 26. Only cities west of Toronto and north of North Bay will be affected. Christmas presents to the trade were tabooed, Smye characterizing the practice as a pernicious and costly one.

The following officers were elected: President, F. T. Smye, Hamilton; first vice-president, John Dillon, London; second vice-president, F. F. Telfer, Collingwood.

CHARGES UNJUSTIFIED.

Special Committee Reports Lumsden Charges Unfounded.

Ottawa, April 29.—The special committee appointed to investigate the charges made by Mr. Lumsden against some of the engineering staff of the Transcontinental Railway in connection with alleged disregard of orders and over-classification presented their report to the Commons yesterday morning.

They found the charges altogether unjustified.

The increase was not due to over-classification. The early estimates of the cost, were, however, naturally inaccurate, as they could not be based upon actual measurements, and no allowance could be made for train haulage, side hill cuttings and detours.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Aaron Strome fell from a barn roof at Elmira, and was killed.

The New Brunswick Government has appointed a committee to enquire into the export of pulpwood.

W. F. Lee, traveling agent of the Canadian Railway Insurance Co., died on a train at White River. The body will be brought to Toronto.

Premier Fisher of Australia denies that anyone in London is authorized to speak for the Australian labor party in reference to the empire messengers.

Judge Winchester, R. J. Fleming and Hon. Melvin Jones will be arbitrators to award damages to the trustees of the Massey estate for the C.N.R. cutting through a section of the Dentonia Farm, East Toronto.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hemstead, of 63 Palmerston avenue, Toronto, after having been blind for 15 years, as the result of nervous troubles, has had her sight restored. Last summer Dr. F. C. Trebilcock operated successfully on one eye and this week the other one was attended to.

To Beat International Limited.

Montreal, April 29.—It is reported here that the Grand Trunk Railway Co. have decided to make an important cut in the running time between this city and Toronto. At present the best time made is by the "International Limited," which does the run in seven and a half hours.

Next season it is proposed to put on a flyer, to leave Montreal at 1.30 p.m., and make the trip in six hours or less, which means that a passenger will be able to lunch in Montreal and dine in Toronto.

The new train will be the fastest for the length of the run (333 miles) on the continent, eclipsing the famous "Twentieth Century Limited" between New York and Chicago.

Brother of Hon. J. S. Duff Dead.

Toronto, April 29.—Word was received here yesterday evening of the death in St. Louis, Mich., of T. G. Duff, V.S., a brother of Hon. James Duff, Minister of Agriculture. About two months ago he had a paralytic stroke, but was thought to be recovering when he suffered another stroke, which carried him off.

Hon. James Duff was at Kingston attending the convocation of Queen's University when the news of his brother's illness reached him. He arrived in Toronto yesterday morning and immediately left for St. Louis, Mich., but was unable to reach his brother before he passed away.

H. B. Ames, M.P., Very Ill.

New York, April 29.—H. B. Ames, member for St. Antoine division, Montreal, in the Canadian House of Parliament, arrived here yesterday from Southampton on the steamer Adriatic, so ill that he had to be carried on a stretcher to the train for Montreal. He contracted typhoid fever in India in January, and this was followed by an attack of sciatica.

Continues to Hold Seat.

Ottawa, April 29.—Senator Michael Sullivan of Kingston has turned the tables of those who wanted to see Hon. Wm. Harty get his seat in the Senate. It was prematurely given out the other day that because he had not been in the Senate for two years Senator Sullivan had automatically lost his seat.

He took his seat in the Senate yesterday afternoon.

Stockers and Feeders.

Harry Murby reports few short-keep cattle going out, on account of the high prices, and buyers are turning their attention to lightweight cattle at more reasonable prices. Mr. Murby bought 300 cattle this week, 500 to 900 lbs. each, at $4.25 to $5.25 per cwt.

Milkers and Springers.

Receipts of milkers and springers were fairly liberal. Several eastern buyers from Montreal and Quebec caused a strong market, especially for the better class of springers. Prices ranged from $40 to $65, with several choice quality cows at $70, $75 and even $80.

Veal Calves.

Receipts have been liberal this week, and prices were lower to-day than at any time this season, selling at an average of $5.75 per cwt., although prices were quoted at a range of $3 to $7 per cwt.

Four other license-holders are ordered to get new premises or be cut off in three months.

WITNESS MISSING.

Did Not Appear Before the Alberta Commission.

Winnipeg, April 29.—W. A. Faulkner, a witness whose evidence is badly wanted by the Alberta Railway Investigating Commission, failed to appear yesterday.

One letter, supposed to be from Faulkner to Ross Sutherland, dated Feb. 21, 1907, says: That efforts had been made to interest certain people in the project, and that success was practically assured. Premier Rutherford and Hon. W. H. Cushing were to take up the matter of cash subsidy from the Dominion Government. On account of some political questions, it was necessary for the executive to deal secretly with the syndicate, and in order also to secure proper interest in the road, it was found necessary to arrange indirectly that those directly interested in securing the support of the Government should get a portion of the $544,000 stock. J. K. Cornwall testified he was to receive, if he succeeded in getting the guarantee and cash subsidy.

Emerson, testifying yesterday, said he had at one time thought that Hon. C. W. Cross was interested with Cornwall in the Athabasca railway project, but must have been mistaken. He could not explain where he got this idea.

He said that last Friday night he saw Faulkner last. Faulkner was accompanied by A. M. Parker, of Calgary, and told Emerson he was trying to evade service to attend the commission.

KITCHENER IS FIELD MARSHAL.

He Got the Baton Yesterday From His Majesty.

London, April 29.—King Edward handed Lord Kitchener the baton of field marshal at an audience at Buckingham Palace yesterday. Richmond Burdon Haldane, Secretary of State for War, stated that it was proposed that Kitchener should shortly commence his duties as field marshal and commander in chief of the Mediterranean with headquarters at Malta.

Interviewed with reference to the defence of Australia, Lord Kitchener said that for £1,700,000 a year Australia would in due course, have a complete system that will make her secure against attack. She will no longer need to look to the Mother Country for an instant for aid in the event of danger. The amount of money is but trivial to such a rich country.

Kitchener added that England is not decadent. Whatever anyone may say or think, her sons are as good as ever, and as full-hearted. She is quite able, under God, to determine her own destinies. She needs help from none of her children or from strangers. She can quite take care of herself.

"She has yet full youth of days I assure you," said Kitchener.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS

Mad Dog In Oxford.

Woodstock, April 29.—Drs. Purdee of Toronto and Tenant of London, representing the provincial board of health, are in the city co-operating with the city council and board of health in an investigation of the mad dog scare.

A dog, which has since been proven to have been affected with rabies, escaped from its owners a few days ago and bit several animals in the vicinity of Bremer, the provincial officials have issued orders for all of the bitten animals to be chained up and watched.

Banquet to Sir Richard.

Ottawa, April 29.—Sir Richard Cartwright, Minister of Trade and Commerce, and Government leader in the Senate, was a guest of honor last night at a banquet at the Parliamentary restaurant, which was attended by both Liberal and Conservative members of the Upper House.

Sir Richard has seen 47 years of public service.

Ran Amuck, Met Death Himself.

Welch, W. Va., April 29.—John Morris, a miner, maddened by drink, shot and killed two men, wounded several others and [illegible], according to news just received here [illegible] his death while trying to escape into Virginia on a freight train, by losing his balance and falling under the wheels.

Slashed From Ear to Ear.

Pittsburg, April 29.—Bent backward over a broken chair, her neck slashed from ear to ear and her clothing soaked with blood, Mrs. Emily Mills, aged 28 years, keeper of a restaurant near the downtown section, was found yesterday. Her husband was arrested.

THE WINNER OF SLOGAN CONTEST WILL BE ANNOUNCED TO-MORROW

PITIFUL LETTERS

Epistles Written by the Unfortunate Mrs. Best to Her Husband Are Produced and Read.

ARE VERY TOUCHING

Windsor, Ont., April 28.—Arthur J. Best, the Comber youth whose matrimonial troubles resulted yesterday in the issuance of a warrant charging him with the murder of his wife, may discontinue the fight against extradition to Detroit. This was made known to Chief of Detectives McDonnell, of Detroit, late last night by Mayor Hanna, of Windsor, the attorney for Best. It is thought Best may go to Detroit to-day or to-morrow to face the murder charge.

Detroit Prosecutor Van Zile told Mayor Hanna this morning that it would be in the best interests of the prisoner to go to Detroit without a legal struggle.

"That would be one point in our case," said Van Zile. "If you want to help us you can get back to Windsor and fight extradition," said the prosecutor to Hanna. The issuance of an extradition warrant by Judge McHugh, of this city, yesterday afternoon, is regarded by Detroit as the first victory.

It holds Best as a prisoner in the Sandwich jail until a week from today, unless he consents to go to Detroit without a struggle.

As a preliminary to the reading of the letters which painted Best in no favourable light, Miss Martha Frankfurth, cousin of Mrs. Best, testified yesterday afternoon that she had "kept company" with Best for several months previous to his wife's death, not knowing that he was wedded to her cousin. Then came the letters.

Her Soft Answer.

In one missive, dated early in March, Best announced that he was to leave for the west, and in dramatic words wrote that he would rather die than live with his wife. The answer was as follows:

"Dear Husband:

"I received your foolish letter and was much surprised at your sudden change of heart. I wish you would reconsider your action, and see what a great mistake you have made. I am not trying to persuade you to live with me—but you want to be a man. I know you can, and I think we could live happily together. At least I trust we will. Now Arthur, the time is drawing near. I must have money. I suggest that you send me $25, so that I can prepare clothing for little Arthur. You might as well ask me to give up my life, as to give up the little child which is to come, for I have a mother's love, and hope to have the child as a comfort to my life for the sufferings I have undergone.

"Arthur, dear, if you have not seen your way to do as I have suggested, come and live with me, and I will make you happy. Otherwise I shall ask the assistance of your parents, and I know they would not see me turned into the streets with the child. If I have not satisfactory reply from you by Wednesday noon, I will write or go in person to your parents and tell them everything.

Kept Copy of Letter.

"You say your mother would go crazy if she heard about this. Wouldn't my mother? And how happy both our mothers would be to see us living happily together and doing what we know is right in the sight of God.

"I remain, your loving wife,

"Alice Best."

Mrs. Best left an exact copy of the letter in her home. To her sister she confided that it might be of use in future struggles. The defence regards this as one element of the tragedy which tends to show that the unhappy young wife contemplated suicide.

The letter Best wrote his wife follows:

"I'm going west April 17. There is no use of you going. It would only mean more expense. Don't tell anything to mother, for I don't care if I ever come back. There is nothing but trouble for me here. Never mind about the quilts you were going to make, because I don't think we will ever live together. We would never have been married if I had taken a second thought. I would rather be dead than where I am.

Death Rather Than Marriage.

"If I had to do it over again, I would rather be killed than to be married. So you can do what you like when you get this, for I don't care what happens. We can never live together as long as I am in my right mind. I will die before I will ever live with you, as you proposed, or any other way."

This letter Best signed "A. J. B." He wrote the missive from Comber, while his wife was in Detroit. Apparently they had made some agreement as to the keeping of the child which was to come, as the woman protested pitifully in hopes that she might keep the mite with her. Another letter written the day after Mrs. Best sank to her death in the icy waters off the foot of Woodward avenue. It was couched in most endearing terms and was signed "Your Loving Husband."

"Knew It Was His Wife."

"The difference between the first and last letters he wrote was of great importance, and led us to our verdict, with other circumstances," said Foreman Wilson, after he had delivered the verdict.

One of the witnesses called yesterday afternoon was Harold Hull, of Comber, Ont. He testified that on the Tuesday after the finding of Mrs. Best's body, young Best had confided to him that he knew for several days that it was his wife who figured in the river tragedy.

The members of the coroner's jury were Robert Wilson, David Belyea, Frank Marchner, John McManus, Judson de Laurier and J. P. Berschneck. After the verdict was announced, detectives departed with the letters which figured in the case. Coroner Burgess learned this and demanded them from Chief of Detectives McDonnell. The captain agreed to forward the letters as soon as the sleuths returned to Canada.

BOBCAYGEON GIRL IN TROUBLE IN TORONTO

Is a White Elephant on Police Hands and Salvation Army Will Try to Solve the Case.

"COUSIN" CLAIMS HER

Toronto, April 28.—Ethel Taylor, the girl who has furnished much newspaper copy on both sides of the border line was a sort of a white elephant upon the hands of the police court this morning. Ethel has beyond doubt, been misbehaving lately. The two young men who took her and another young girl to the States are each serving a year for procuring. Ethel has been to Bobcaygeon since her return.

"Why didn't you stay in Bobcaygeon?" asked his Worship.

"I just came down for over Sunday," said Ethel with a pout.

"We found her in a house with a number of Macedonian men," said Staff Inspector Kennedy.

"Will you go back to Bobcaygeon if we let you out?" asked Magistrate Denison.

"Yes," drawled Ethel, smoothing her blouse.

"There is no sense in that," objected the Chief Inspector. She has been misbehaving in Bobcaygeon and they don't want her there."

"We don't want her here," said Mr. Corley.

Then while the court officials stared one at the other the usual sensation came in the shape of a young man who claimed to be a cousin of Ethel and wished to take care of her.

"Probably wishes her for immoral purposes," said his Worship and plied the "cousin" with questions.

Bluff Failed.

Cousin went into the box quite readily and stated that he had come to rescue the brand from the burning. Alas! when the family relations were questioned cousin fell down hopelessly. He was unable to tell what Ethel's father's name was.

"Step down out of that," said his Worship, his tones vibrant with contempt, and cousin stepped—lively.

Ethel was still to be disposed of.

"Guess we'd better let her go with the Salvation Army," said the Chief Inspector.

"Will you go?" asked Magistrate Denison.

Would she go? Did her whole face light up with smiles.

"Try and get her a position somewhere out of town," advised the Magistrate. "As far away from her so-called cousin as you can," he added.

Agnes Fletcher, the first "philanthropist," who had tried to get Ethel out of jail to reform her was remanded until Monday after some evidence of a very personal nature.

Parker Goes Up for Trial on Charge of Shooting His Neighbour.

Special to The Examiner.

Tweed, April 28.—Robert Parker, the old grey-headed man suspected of shooting William Masters, his next-door neighbour, on Friday morning, April 8, will have to stand his trial upon the charge of murder at the assizes, to be held in Belleville some time next fall. This was the decision given by Magistrates Bowlby and Wray at the preliminary hearing of the accused to-day. Parker was brought up from Belleville, and as this was his first appearance in court in connection with any of the proceedings the people were anxious to see how he took the matter, and turned out in large numbers, again filling the court-room. Parker bore himself in his usual manner, which was always more or less nervous. He followed the evidence closely, occasionally shaking his head and smiling derisively at some of the evidence, especially that which credited him with uttering those terrible threats against Masters and his family. Parker was defended to-day by Mr. Carnew, of the firm of Porter — Carnew of Belleville.

The evidence given to-day was largely the same as that given by several witnesses in the former investigations before the Coroner and his jury. There were about forty witnesses summoned, but a number were not called. None of the witnesses varied very materially in giving their evidence to-day from what they had said in the other investigations. Only two new witnesses were called.

CORNWALL VISITED BY WORST FIRE IN THE HISTORY OF THE TOWN

Ten Lives are Believed to Have Been Lost in Early Morning Blaze Which Originated in The Rossmore, the Finest Hotel in Cornwall---The Property Damage Will Amount to at Least a Quarter of a Million.

Special Wire to The Examiner.

Cornwall, Ont., April 29th.—Cornwall was visited early this morning by one of the worst fires in its history. Property damage to the amount of $250,000 being done, while ten lives are believed to be lost. The fire started in the Rossmore Hotel, Pitt St., which was the annex, Bailey's Jewelry store, and the C.P.R. telegraph office and the Bell Telephone office was destroyed, while the Colquhoun block and adjoining buildings on the opposite side of the street were badly damaged. The names of those known to be dead are as follows: B Fielding, formerly of Toronto, accountant Sterling Bank; Chas. Gagne, late of Levis, Que., teller Montreal Bank; Mrs. W. T. Archibald; W. Holmes, porter Rossmore Hotel; Ernest Fuller, bell-boy Rossmore Hotel, and a girl named White.

Four other persons are missing and are thought to have perished. The Rossmore was the finest hotel in the town.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

A C.P.R. despatch to the Examiner, says:—

Cornwall, Ont., April 29th.—Five persons are known to be dead, seven are missing and property destroyed to the value of nearly a quarter of a million as a result of the fire which started early this morning in Rossmore hotel. The burned are: Rossmore hotel, Bailey's jewellery store, C.P.T. telegraph office, Bell Telephone office, Colquhoun block and several other adjacent buildings damaged. Dead or missing:—Mrs. W. Taylor, Archibald, Benj. Fielder, formerly of Toronto, bank accountant, an infirm woman in the Rossmore; Charles Gagne, bank teller; C. C. Gray, wife and two children; Wm. Putines, porter at Rossmore; Ernest Bullier, bell-boy at Rossmore; Mary and Jane White, employed at the Rossmore.

'ROUND THE STORES

The half-tone reproduction of a handsome corner in Richard Hall & Son's carpet and rug department, which is shown in this page, is the same as appeared in a recent issue of that influential trade periodical, the New York Dry Goods Economist. The beauty of this picture is somewhat impaired by the fact that it is made for printing on a finer quality of paper than that used for a daily newspaper. But it will be recognized that Richard Hall & Sons, Limited are ranked as artistic home-furnishers, and that one has only to take a look around their big carpet and rug section on the second floor to see at a glance that there must be some one in charge with a real artistic taste for the beautiful in home decorations.

The wall fixture running down the north side is sacked to the ceiling with rich Axminsters, Brussels, Velvet and Tapestry carpet in a great variety of designs and colourings to suit any style of decoration. Rugs must be a popular floor covering, judging from the immense number shown. Pile after pile laid out for easy selection, and some beauties there are, beautiful Louis XVI. designs, two-toned greens and camels for the parlour or reception room; rich Orientals, Turkish and Persians for the living room and dining room; small trellis designs for the chamber in soft shades of old rose, blue, green and camel. Then there are the hall rugs, runners, door mats and arch or sofa rugs in great variety of designs, colouring and size.

It is a pleasure to look upon the artistic designs and the beautiful blending of colours shown in the lower-priced rugs.

The demand for linoleum seems to be growing greater every year, if one has to judge by the immense stock carried in Hall's, two three and four yards wide. Certainly there is more art shown, the tiles, florals, inlaid wood effects, 2 in. plank, mosaic and the standard block patterns are shown in great variety and very pleasing colourings.

One particular style for bedrooms was a soft shade of old rose with a small design in a darker shade of old rose and cream.

The windows which are on both ends and one side are very artistically draped in the modern styles of window decorations where a lady can at a glance see a modern window complete.

Sketches are shown and estimates given for draperies to suit any style of window, door or arch, also for pianos and mantles. These are all made to order. One cannot attempt to describe the immense assortment of beautiful draperies carried in this department. The most popular are the plain Rajah silk, shadow cloths, linens, taffetas, stencilled casement cloth, Madras casements, chintzes, and some snowy white muslins in new designs for bedroom curtains.

Window shades are also carried in great variety and are also shown in big assortments. It is a delight to find this department so well equipped for the needs of shoppers.

A. Laidlaw's Fashion Craft store, Hunter street, was pretty well sold out of full-dress suits last week. The call came principally from those interested in recent social events, who dismer wear, the shapes are particularly fashionable, embodying desirable features for smartness, ease, fit, and workmanship. The "Queen Quality" shoe for ladies is still growing in favour, as it deserves to. It offers excellent value.

Gemmell& Co., of Charlotte street, have on an attractive offering for ladies in white lawn waists for Friday and Saturday only. There is style and quality in these natty summer blouses, being made with neat all-over embroidery fronts and clusters of tucks, and are trimmed with Valenciennes lace, and insertion. The special price for these waists is 79c, instead of $1.00 and $1.50.

For summer you'll need new jewellery. The display at Schneider's jewellery store affords opportunity for good selection. Ladies will find many handsome necklets, and belt buckles, hat pins, brooches, fobs and rings. The flash of exquisite beauty in the diamond ring cases is seen in exclusive settings.

"You, who from April, date your years,
Diamonds should wear, lest bitter tears,
For vain repentance flow; this stone
Emblem of innocence is known.

Saturday brings a climax in price reductions at the Turnbull Co's big store. Many shoppers seem to know this and regularly do most of their buying on Saturday so as to get all the advantages they can. To-morrow it is expected that one of the largest crowds that ever swarm this store will rally in anticipation of the special bargains. The firm have gone about getting rare values with such an energy that cost or price has received little consideration. On Wednesday next, Turnbull's begin a price-revolutionizing ten days' sale of new summer merchandise, covering almost every need of the home and person. There will be a lot of "ripe persimmons" to knock down by shrewd shoppers. Everybody gets a square deal; and it is generally well to know that when an article is advertised or a statement made by "The house that value built" it can be relied on.

The engagement is announced of Miss Ellen Phyllis Ray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Ray, Peterborough, to Mr. John Edward Patte, Brampton. The marriage is to take place on June 1st.

DOG CASE WAS TRIED IN THE POLICE COURT TO-DAY

Alfred Huffman Was Bitten by a Canine While Petting it and Laid a Charge Accordingly.

WILL SEND IT AWAY

"Give me a chance to get the two dollars and I'll bring it back to you in a little while," was the despondent reply made by a young farmer, when the above fine was imposed upon him at the police court this morning, for taking too much "trouble-raiser" on the previous evening. The magistrate desired the money to be paid fortwith, but allowed him to remain in the cell for a few hours to see if some of his friends would make good his fine.

The next case dealt with, the by-law, in which Alfred Huffman, of Elm St., charged his neighbour with having a very vicious dog on his premises. Huffman testified that he was walking out Elm St. towards home on Monday evening, when his neighbour's dog, a black collie, came near him. He petted the dog and brushed its head with his hand. As he did so it sank its three teeth into his right hand, which caused the blood to pour fourth in large quantities. That evening he went to the doctors to have the hand dressed and since the event he has had it examined three times.

His mother corroborated the evidence but thought the dog was a brown one.

Mrs. Robert Glover, an ex-resident of Elm St., gave evidence to the effect that her little boy had been bitten by the same dog several years ago.

The owner of the canine explained that the animal was a valuable one and that he would send him to the country Saturday if the magistrate wouldn't order the dog to be shot.

Mr. R. N. Gordon appeared for the defendant and pointed out that the evidence given concerning the colour of the dog was diversified and probably it was a canine owned by some other person that did the biting.

The magistrate allowed the dog to be sent away.

SHOWS SAME INDIFFERENCE

Robt. Henderson, the Young Englishman Condemned to Hang for Murder, Appears Unconcerned as Ever—Minister of Justice Appealed To.

EATS AND SLEEPS WELL

Robert Henderson, the young Englishman recently condemned to hang on June the twenty-third for the murder of Margaret McPherson at her home near Norwood in February last, has shown little change in his condition since sentence was passed upon him. He evinces the same unconcerned, indifferent attitude, eating and sleeping well, unmoved by the terrible ordeal through which he will have to pass, unless the Minister of Justice decrees otherwise.

It is understood that the prisoner's counsel has written the Minister of Justice to have the sentence commuted, but as yet no word has been received.

The young man is visited frequently by Rev. Canon Davidson, who is administering to his spiritual needs.

SMALL INVESTORS

Maple Leaf Milling Company Give Them an Opportunity.

To-day more and more attention is being paid to the smaller investor who has only a few hundred dollars to invest. In the public issues being made these days, directors take recognition of this fact. An example of this is shown in the issue of stock being made by the Maple Leaf Milling Company. Shares of the preferred stock are $100 with each share of preferred carrying a bonus of 25 p.c. of common stock.

Subscriptions are payable as follows:

10 per cent. on application.
15 per cent. on allotment.
25 per cent on 1st June 1910.
25 per cent. on 1st July, 1910.
25 per cent. on 1st August, 1910.

As the preferred stock is 7 per cent. cumulative, from April 5th, 1910, investors are assured of a return on their investment from the very outset.

The common stock will eventually become very valuable so that a person who invests at the present time will receive returns from both his preferred and common stock.

CONTEST TO END TO-NIGHT

Dozens of Competitors Have Sent in Their Attempts and the Committee Will Go Over Them To-night—Time Yet Before the Close

RESULTS TO-MORROW

The slogan contest closes at eight o'clock to-night.

You, therefore, have but one more chance of trying for the splendid prize offered by Mr. C. R. Elliott, of the International College of Ophthalmology, whose sale at McDermid & Jury's is attracting so much attention.

The name of the winner will be published in the Examiner to-morrow, as the judges will meet this evening at 8.15 o'clock, for the purpose of examining the slogans sent in, and selecting the one in their opinion best suited to advertizing Peterborough. Realizing that the contest is almost at an end, Examiner readers have been hustling to get their attempts in, and every mail to-day has added a large number to the total.

Great interest has been shown in the contest and hundreds of people will anxiously await the appearance of to-morrow's Examiner.

BIG RAID MADE

Children's Aid Society Had Ten Men, Seven Women and Fourteen Children Arrested.

A very serious condition of affairs in Ontario is chronicled by Dr. Helen MacMurchy in her annual report to the Provincial Secretary on the feeble-minded in Ontario, made public yesterday.

"The feeble-minded women and girls alone who need such care and have it not in this Province, are," says Dr. MacMurchy, "according to our best information and estimate, at least from 500 to 1,000, and there are probably born to them now every year about 100 children, most of whom will probably be feeble-minded. How long can we afford to delay?"

Dr. MacMurchy urges that prevention is better than cure. The boy or girl on the way to an unproductive unemployed, undeveloped and criminal life cannot be met and helped too soon. "At present," says the report, "the Priest, the Levite, and the Good Samaritan often do not get a sight of him or her until the period of prevention has long since passed, and the strong arm of the law has clutched our neighbor, our brother, our sister, after an indelible impress of evil is made upon the character that in school days was capable of much better things."

The report concludes as follows:

"This question of the welfare of the feeble-minded is not the only question, nor at present the most important question, with which this department is at present concerned. The question of prison reform, the question of modern methods for studying and caring for psychiatric patients, the whole direction of charitable and philanthropic institutions in the Province, and the direction and fostering of preventive efforts for the benefit of the neglected children of the Province must have a first place."

LINDSAY EXCURSIONS

Stoney Lake Navigation Company Will Get Some Business at Scugogville

(Lindsay Post)

Mr. P. J. Young, of the Stoney Lake Navigation Company is in town today in connection with the excursion trade from this point to points on the Trent waters. In conversation with the Post this morning Mr. Young stated that his company had outings booked up till September.

On June 14th the steamer Majestic will run an excursion to Lindsay from Bridgenorth, and on June 15th the Stoney Lake will run an excursion under the auspices of the A. O. F. of Peterborough from that city to Lindsay.

Mr. Young has also booked a number of excursions from Lindsay to points on the Kawartha waters.

LEFT THEIR HOMES

Two Campbellford Boys Who Ran Away are Arrested by Local Police.

Two young boys answering to the names of Zufelt and Graham, were locked up last night, as a message was sent to P. C. Adams, from their parents, telling him to hold the boys here, as they departed from Campbellford without consent of their parents. It is supposed that the boys wished to see the thriving metropolis outside their own district and thought they would make an expedition hither. The brother-in-law of one of the boys took them to their home on the 6.40 train this afternoon.

CHURCH CHIMES.

(Canadian Churchman.)

If there be any sound in this discordant sin-stained world that conveys through the human ear a heartfelt message of charity, peace and abiding hope, surely it must be the stirring, softening chime of sweet church bells. Many a wandering, wayward lad in a foreign land has been moved to better thoughts and purer deeds in some peaceful moment as the music of the old church chime, revived by association and memory, has come to him "like the touch of a vanished hand". And then how sweet and pure is the music of the chime to innocent childhood? How uplifting and soothing to those who are no longer children? To dwellers in the calm, untroubled countryside, or where the crowded city pours along the stone-paved streets their fevered living stream, or when the wearied mariner gladly nears his port, to one and all from the belfry tower of God's House comes with the soothing, softening strain of the chime—an inspiration and benediction—that move to goodness now and speak in solemn hallowed tones of blessedness to come.

SATISFACTORY, ANYWAY.

Canada, whether on the post-hoc propter-hoc principle or not, has splendidly prospered under Liberal Government, and even Providence has been on the side of good government. Good harvests and farming conditions generally, supervening upon the fact of a magnificent dower of natural resources, have worked marvels of prosperity and progress since 1896. The crescendo movement has reached the fortissimo pitch this year in the matter of trade. The total trade of Canada for the fiscal year ending last month reached the record figure of $677,142,189. This is an increase of no less than $117,506,238, or over twenty per cent. as compared with the preceding twelve months. It is an increase of over twenty-six millions as compared with the previous high record of 1907-08. At present the regular monthly increases over the corresponding months of last year are running over ten millions per month, and the indications point to a total trade in the neighbourhood of eight hundred millions for the current fiscal year.

The total imports for the year were $375,783,660, an increase of $77,659,868 over 1908-09. Exports of domestic products totalled $279,211,537, an increase of $36,607,951.

Exports of foreign products totalled $22,146,992, an increase of $3,238,419. The chief items of export for the year with comparative figures are as follows:

	1908-9	1909-10
Agriculture	$71,997,307	$90,433,747
Forest	39,667,387	47,517,033
Animals and their produce	51,349,846	53,926,515
Mines	37,257,899	40,087,017
Manufactures	28,957,050	31,494,916
Fisheries	13,319,064	15,627,148

The total duty collected for the year amounted to $61,010,489, an increase of $12,969,475. The total trade for March last was $66,564,208, an increase for thirteen and a quarter million. Imports for the month totalled $43,391,991, an increase of about ten and a half millions. Exports of domestic products totalled $22,197,275, as compared with $18,397,974, in March of last year.

Whether or not, the whole or a large part of this prosperous procession of conditions is as can reasonably be held, due to Liberal Government, it is satisfactory anyway.

EMPIRE STATISTICS.

(Montreal Witness.)

Those who like to be acquainted with big events and things will find their liking gratified in the sixth issue of the statistical abstract of the British Empire relating to the period from 1894 to 1908. The population of the Empire, which in 1881 was 303,694,000, grew to 385,357,000 in 1901, equivalent to 34 persons per square mile. The Empire's population is now not far short, it is estimated, of 400,000,000. The estimated population of the United Kingdom in 1908 was 45,008,421. The trade of the British Empire is a vast thing. In 1894 the commerce of the Empire, with foreign countries, amounted to $3,323,495,000, and this had expanded in 1908 to $5,604,075,000. Of this latter sum, the exports amounted to $2,578,,975,000, and the imports to $3,025,100,000. The total trade of the United Kingdom with British colonies and possessions in 1908 amounted to $1,503,105,000, of which the exports amounted to $747,335,000, and the imports to $854,770,000. The trade of the Empire was, however, less for 1908 than for 1907 and 1906. Thus the grand total of the Empire for 1906 amounted to $7,627,895,000, that of 1907 to $8,334,710,000, as compared with $7,107,180,000 for 1908. This year, however, the Empire's trade is greatly increasing in the aggregate, and it looks very much like a boom in prospect. Exports, especially, are showing up well, in spite of which—the fact will be difficult to credit—those staunch patriots and tariff reformers, Messrs. Bonar Law Chaplin, and Chamberlain, with the Times, Morning Post, and the Pearson and Harmsworth newspaper chorus do not appear to be particularly jubilant. Nay, if such an unpatriotic thing could be believed, one would say that the Empire's prosperity had made them sad.

DETAILED DESCRIPTION OF PAULHAN'S GREAT FLIGHT

Graphic Story of the Record—Breaking Aerial Journey of the French Aviator Who Captured the $50,000 Prize.

THRILLING INCIDENTS

Manchester, April 28.—Paulhan, the French aviator, has won the $50,000 offered by Lord Northcliffe for the first flight from London to Manchester made within twenty-four hours' time with not more than one stop. Paulhan's machine only arrived in London at six o'clock Wednesday morning and both he and Graham White, the Englishman who was also out to win the prize, were busily engaged all forenoon in fitting up their aeroplanes and perfecting arrangements for the start. The weather was favourable, but owing to the heavy work involved in preparing the machines, it was supposed that the start would be deferred until Thursday.

Great Crowds Watched Preparation For Flight.

The two aviators had met early in the morning and discussed plans, expressing the hope that they would meet each other in Manchester. During the day constantly increasing crowds gathered at Park Royal and Hendon, the respective headquarters of the two men, in the hope of witnessing the trial flights. Late in the afternoon White, tired out with his heavy labours returned to his hotel and went to sleep intending to start in the morning. Meanwhile the spectators at Hendon were surprised at Paulhan, while testing his engine, taking farewell of his wife, who tied a large map of the road around his waist.

Paulhan kissed his wife and took his seat in the aeroplane.

White Made Hurried Dash for the Garage.

Word that the Frenchman had started quickly reached Park Royal. Rushing into White's room, his friends awakened him. White sprang to his feet, flew down stairs, jumped into a motor car and made for the garage at full speed, and within twenty minutes was sailing around the gasometer at Kensal Green in the first stage of the great contest.

Crowds Flocked Out to Watch the Contest.

The news of the race spread like magic in the town and villages along the railway, which the aviators followed closely. Paulhan being guided by a special train steaming rapidly northward. The people gathered everywhere to get a view of the novel sight. The sun went down and the cloudless sky gave the spectators an opportunity to watch the aviators as they successively passed at varying heights.

At Rugby Paulhan was a thousand feet up and the pulsation of the engines could be faintly detected below. The machine appeared sometimes to be swaying dangerously as they met the varying air currents, but still the daring aeroplanists held their course, until approaching darkness compelled them to seek a safe descent.

Towards 8 o'clock streams of automobiles and other vehicles brought thousands of people to the outskirts of Lichfield. Suddenly a shout went up; "There he is, and, half frozen and almost exhausted, Paulhan safely descended in a field close to the Trent Railway station, amid frantic cheers of the thousands of people. He had covered 117 miles without descending.

Hands Were Benumbed by the Intense Cold.

Speaking of his flight, he said: "I came down because it was too cold to trust myself longer in the machine. It seemed too dangerous. My hands were benumbed, the wind was very gusty and I was hardly able to descend without an accident.

"It is strange that I should alight almost in the same place that White descended on his first trip. I did not know this was Lichfield, although I had hazy ideas."

Paulhan went to a hotel and immediately retired to sleep, asking to be called at 2.30 a.m. and ordering breakfast for 3 o'clock.

White Also Suffered Greatly From Cold.

Almost at the same hour White came within sight of Northampton, where he sought vainly in the gathering darkness for a safe landing place. This he was unable to find and he turned back, making a descent in a grass field, where a small crowd soon assembled. White said:

"It was too dark to continue the flight in safety. I suffered from the intense cold and was quite sure of my location."

White appeared fresh and expressed his intention to start again at daybreak. When told of Paulhan's flight he exclaimed: "Good. It was plucky to get so far. I know what a strain it is."

White Was Out Before the Frenchman.

Following the example of the Frenchman who got away from London an hour ahead of him yesterday, White was in the air at 2.50 o'clock this morning, more than an hour before daybreak and more than an hour before Paulhan started from Lichfield, fifty miles further north. White passed Rugby just before day broke, flying at a great height and with terrific speed in an effort to make up the distance which he had lost by his late start yesterday. He kept up his speed following the railway line as well as he could in the uncertain light over Nuneaton and Atherstone and when he was compelled to descend at Polesfield he was only ten miles from Lichfield, from which point Paulhan had started but a moment before.

Paulhan upon ascending at Lichfield sharply at 4.09 this morning was hurried on by the news that White already was in the air and approaching Lichfield. Paulhan encountered a sharp southwest wind which, while toward the end of his journey made it almost impossible for him to keep a firm grasp on the levers, helped him on his way.

Just Avoided Collision With Tree.

An immense crowd was gathered at the field, where the machine was stored over night and along the roads leading northward and they gave the Frenchman encouraging cheers, although their sympathy naturally was with their fellow countryman. As he flew gracefully over them, the French aviator made a wide circle to get his bearings and when he had determined his course he mounted to a good height, just missing a tall elm tree in the ascent. Then he sailed directly for Stafford, the aeroplane swaying perilously in the wind.

Paulhan followed the railway line all the way to Manchester, usually at a height of 300 feet but ascending to 700 feet when passing over towns, and the people who turned out to cheer saw but a speck in the sky.

Plucky Aviator Could Scarcely Walk.

Paulhan was benumbed with the cold and thoroughly exhausted when he reached here. A great crowd awaited him and gave him a sportsmanlike welcome.

Manchester first saw the French aviator a few minutes after five o'clock, coming steadily as a steamer on a smooth sea and heading directly for the field which he had chosen for a landing place. Flying at a height of four hundred feet Paulhan came over a clump of trees and then bringing his balance around with a beautiful curve landed exactly in the centre of the field. He seemed dazed and benumbed with the cold and swayed as he walked down the field. All he could say was "I am cold but very happy." From his friends and the crowd the aviator received a warm reception but he was too tired to reply to the ovation. Presently he went to a hotel and retired.

Speed Exceeded That of Railway Train.

Paulhan did the last twenty-four miles in exactly twenty-four minutes, outdistancing the special train bearing his wife, Henry Farman and other friends which had accompanied him.

Paulhan's magnificent flight of 117 miles without descent from London to Lichfield in the two hours and fifty minutes, compares favourably with his flight on April 18 from New Orleans to Arcis-Sur-Aube, a distance of 118 miles in three and a half hours.

White Unfortunate and Lacked Experience.

White, who is hardly more than a novice in the art of aviation, encountered treacherous wind currents which thrice turned his machine around, and he also experienced trouble with his motor. But for the Englishman's ill-luck and lack of experience there would have been a close finish.

Speaking of the flight which he made, White said: "I was completely turned around three times by the wind. I tried my best to get along against it, but unfortunately it was no use, and I was forced to plant down. I managed to get over the telegraph wires and got a start over the track of the railroad at Roade by aid of signal lights, but over a good many miles about Rugby I saw no signal light and there was considerable wind. I could see clouds racing across the moon and when daylight came breezes were still vigorous and the gusts troubled me a lot."

White Calls Paulhan the Finest Aviator.

When at Polesworth, White was told of the Frenchman's success he mounted the seat of an automobile and cried:

"Ladies and gentlemen, the $50,000 prize has been won by Louis Paulhan, the finest aviator the world has ever seen. Compared with him I am only a novice. Three cheers for Paulhan."

The crowd gathered about the generous Englishman gave the three cheers heartily, following with a round of cheers for White. He said: "There is no longer an opportunity for me to win the prize, but I mean to get to Manchester, and by aeroplane."

Sent Congratulations to the Victor.

White was one of the first to telegraph congratulations to his rival. His message read: "I take the earliest opportunity of offering you my heartiest congratulations on your splendid performance. The better man has won."

The race has caused tremendous excitement in London. Bulletins of its progress were posted in public places and announced in the music halls, and the evening papers, containing an account of the start were eagerly snapped up. Everywhere hope was expressed that the Englishman would win. Little else was talked of last night, the international character of the race adding greatly to the interest.

Paulhan was given an official reception by the Lord Mayor of Manchester this afternoon prior to the departure for London. He told the Lord Mayor that he would have been very happy if White had arrived at the same time he did.

Paulhan's actual time officially determined as already given is 4 hours and eleven minutes, is considerably less than the average running time of the trains from London to Manchester and only forty-one minutes more than the fastest express when covering the route. A movement is on foot to erect a memorial on the field where Paulhan finished in commemoration of the Frenchman's superb flight.

Baltimores' Bad Bungles Let Leafs Land The Last

Birds Did Some Saffron Hued Fielding Which Made Things Easy for Speed Boys to Cop Final Game of the Series ---Newton Was Derricked in Favour of Rudolph.

Baltimore, Md., April 28.—(Special.)—The game to-day was undoubtedly the weirdest exhibition ever witnessed at Oriole Park, and was a poor excuse for baseball. Toronto won out by 12 to 9. Nine errors was the total for the Orioles when the exhibition was finished, and they were all timely. As soon as a Toronto man got on a base errors by the Birds were looked for, and invariably they came, too. Cooney, the new short fielder from Cleveland was in a very generous mood, and three of Toronto's runs can be traced directly to his playing.

The one redeemable feature of the Birds' playing was the hitting of Walsh. He had a perfect batting average, and three of his four swats were for extra bases.

Slagle scored the Birds' first tally in the opening session, when he beat out a bunt toward third, and scored on Walsh's three-sacker to the left-field fence. Toronto evened up in the third when Cooney threw the ball to the right field bleachers, permitting Vandergift to score from second. Slagle scored again in the third inning, but Toronto forged to the front through errors by Clancy and Catiz, which netted them two runs. From the third inning on two runs an inning came to be a habit with Toronto, and it was not until the eigth inning that they could be checked.

Toronto sewed the game up in the ninth on successive singles by Deal, Fitzpatrick and Vandergift after Grimshaw had hit safely and Delehanty had been passed. These three runs, too, were scored after two were out.

After the Orioles had landed on "Doc" Newton in the sixth for five runs, the doctor was derricked, and Rudolph had the Birds faded in the following innings, when it came to making the needed hits, Walsh being the only man who could solve the diminutive twirler when necessary.

Kelley was more than pleased to-night over his victories here, and says he is going after Newark tooth and nail. Toronto left to-night for Newark. Score:

THE LANGFORD-KETCHELL FIGHT GIVEN BY ROUNDS

Philadelphia, April 28. — Before a $20,000 house Stanley Ketchel and Sam Langford, the black, fought a hard, six-round draw. The white boy received $10,000 for his end and the Tar Baby $7,000.

Ketchel rushed the battle all the way. In the fourth Langford uppercut Ketchel's nose and drew blood. In the 6th, just as the bell rang, the white boy drove one to the negro's heart that made him shut his eyes and open his mouth. The general opinion was that the battle was a draw..

Fight by rounds.

Round one—Ketchel put a light left to the chest. Langford retaliated with two lefts to the face and hooked another to the neck. Langford jabbed the nose twice. The men then clinched, and Langford shot the left to Ketchel's nose and another to the neck. Ketchel put the right over the heart. Both missed swings and uppercuts, but, getting closer, Ketchel got home a left to the stomach, while the negro punched the ear with a hard swing. Ketchel swung a right to the ribs just as time was up. Langford had the round.

Round two—Langford swung both hands to the jaw, making Ketchel clinch. Ketchel sent a hard right to the body, while Langford jabbed him in the face. In another clinch Langford was warned for butting with his head. Ketchel got both hands to the negro's head, but Langford came back with a right hook to the jaw and a right to the ribs. Ketchel was fighting blow for blow at the bell.

Round three—Ketchel put the left to the nose. Langford landed swings with both hands on the head and body; Ketchel played for the stomach. Langford caught him on the jaw with two terrific smashes. Ketchel put the right to the heart. Both exchanged terrific stomach punches. Langford put one to the mouth. Langford had the round, landing the greater number of clean blows.

Round four—Langford put left to face and right to the body. Ketchel played on the ribs. Langford peppered nose and mouth with left. Ketchell put two rights over the heart. Langford jabbed the nose, bringing blood. Langford rocked Ketchel with a smash on the ear. Ketchel seemed to be tiring, and Langford showered blows on him. Ketchel became wild and missed three great swings for the head. Langford uppercut at the bell.

Round five—Ketchel swung a right to the ear. Langford put three hot lefts to the face and an uppercut to the chin. Ketchel clinched. On the breakaway, Ketchel put a solid left to the stomach. Langford crossed him on the eye with a right. Ketchel swung two rights, one to the heart and the other to the neck. Langford put a right to the face. In a fierce rally Langford slipped to his knees a moment before time was up.

Round six—Both landed smashes on the body. Langford uppercut to the chin. Ketchel hammered the heart and ribs and drove the left into the stomach. Langford put the right to the heart and Ketchel clinched. On the break Ketchel put a powerful right to the jaw and another to the stomach. Langford hooked the neck. Ketchel rushed with all kinds of blows, yet Langford was there every moment, and both were apparently strong when the fight ended.

The Flip Of The Coin Favoured The Turk

Montreal, April 28.—Yussiff Mahmout, Antonio Pietri's Turk, by turning Raoul de Rouen over twice in the first match of the four-cornered competition for the right to challenge Frank Gotch for the championship of the world, gains the first rung of the ladder.

The Turk owed his success largely to the flip of a coin. The match was to be at mixed styles. Mahmout is a catch-as-catch-can man. De Rouen is essentially a Graeco-Roman wrestler, although he has progressed wonderfully in the catch game during his two years stay on the North American continent. The flip of the coin for the choice of styles in last night's match decided that the first bout should be at catch. That gave Mahmout an advantage. The mighty lower limbs of the subject of the Sultan were more than enough to counterbalance de Rouen's superb upper development. Scissors after scissors the Turk worked on the nimbler Frenchman, and time after time the Frenchman broke away. Eighteen minutes of hard wrestling with a little rough and tumble on the side sufficed at last to give Mahmout the opening he was looking for.

Raoul had his chance in the next fall at the Graeco-Roman style. He made the fullest use of it and rolled the Turk over in twenty-five minutes.

According to the understanding between the two the winner of the quickest of the first two falls was to have choice of the third. Mahmout thus had his favourite style for the third bout and the bunch of tricks he uncorked was a shame.

De Rouen appeared to realize his position exactly and made the most of what opportunities came his way. The Gallic temperament, too, occasionally came to the surface and mixed it up with the warm Eastern blood of the dusky Mahmout. More, the skin of both got mixed with the gore which streamed from the Turk's nose when de Rouen put his foot on it during one of their lively tussles.

Sixteen minutes, however, of the third bout put an end to the match, for, after rushing his man into a corner and boxing him over in a heap the wily Turk jumped on him and put an end to the game by pressing his shoulders to the mat for the third and deciding fall.

PICKS PIRATES TO WIN

Cincinnati, April 28.—"Why do I pick Pittsburg to win the pennant?" pipes Clarke Griffith.

"Because the Pirates led the National League in batting and fielding last year. Common sense teaches that the team which develops the most offensive as well as defensive strength should have the best show.

"Not only are the Pirates the best hitters, but the official averages show they are the best fielders. That's a pretty hard combination to beat.

"In extra base hits the Pirates also lead every club in the league. These long-distance swats break up ball games.

"I can see the Cubs.

"If the Buccaneers outhit them and outfield them, how do they expect to win?

"Manager Chance is depending on his pitchers and catchers to pull him through. No mistaking, Chicago has the best staff of right-handers in the league.

"With his pitchers having control and putting twists on the ball which makes opposing batters hit weakly, the Cubs are counting on pulling off a lot of 'inside stuff.'

"No doubt Chicago has an elaborate system of signs and signals and shifts which have given the Chicago team credit for being the greatest baseball machine.

"Without these great twirlers the Cubs wouldn't finish in the first division.

"When their pitchers are going bad the Cubs look like bush-leaguers.

"As the Pirates have them buffaloed both in the field and at the bat I can reach no other conclusion than that Pittsburg will at least win more games than the Chicagoes."

JEFFRIES' SCIENCE

Ben Lomond, Cal., April 28—"While I am impressed with Jeffries' evidently splendid physical condition," said Joe Choynski, "I can see where the big fellow has a long, hard pull ahead of him to regain his former best ring condition. Physically, Jim is by nature a wonderful man. He looks unbeatable to-day, but still that doesn't mean that he is as grand a specimen of physical manhood as he was in his last big fight—that with Jim Corbett in San Francisco on August 14, 1903.

"Jeffries fought Munroe a year after his last battle with Corbett, but I do not count the Munroe affair as a fight. Jim didn't work very hard for the go. Jim wasn't scared at all by the reports that the Butte miner would loosen all the rivets in the boilermaker's frame and roll him into sheet iron. He knew he had a cinch with Jack. For the battle with Corbett the year previous, however, Jim trained like a Trojan. He never, before or since, was in such superb condition as he was that night when he crawled through the ropes in Mechanics' Pavilion to defend his title against Corbett.

"Last night I looked up Jim's measurements at the time of the Corbett fight, to compare them with those which Farmer Burns took yesterday. Of course, it is to be expected that Jim is not down to the weight he made for Corbett in 1903. Jim tipped the beam at 218 pounds that night in Mechanics' Pavilion. To-day he is more than twenty pounds heavier.

"When Burns put the tape on Jim yesterday the measurements were: Neck, 18; chest, 45; waist, 36; thigh 26; calf, 17; biceps, 16, and forearm, 13. On August 14, 1903, Jim's measurements were: Neck, 17½, chest, 46; waist, 34, thigh, 24½, calf 16¾, biceps 16½, and forearm 15. To-day his chest is an inch smaller than in 1903; his biceps measured 15¾ in. in 1903 against 16 to-day, and his forearm is two inches smaller to-day than it was in 1903. He had an inch more expansion then than now.

"On the other hand, Jeff measures two inches more around the waist than he did in 1903; his thighs are an inch and a half larger and his calves a half inch larger. In other words Jeff was bigger from the waist up in 1903 than he is to-day and sparer from the hips down.

"Jim has the weight where he needs it the least now. He carries a lot of extra weight around his waist and on his limbs. Jim has lost his paunch already, and that means a lot. The fight is two months off, and Jim will have plenty of time to round into form. He has got to work, and work hard, though, to make himself the marvel of man he was in the days that he mowed down Fitzsimmons, Corbett, Sharkey, Jackson, Ruhlin, myself and others.

"I found Jim in much better physical condition than I expected. I count little the unfavourable comparisons between Jeffries to-day and Jeffries in 1903. Jim started to regain his physical condition exactly as I should have him do. He didn't start in heavy training right off the reel. He gradually has been building himself up. He hasn't sapped his vitality or strained his frame or sinews with too sudden and severe conditioning.

"He is in 100 per cent. better physical condition to-day than he was six months ago. He has completed his rounding to condition and now will increase his work systematically. When Jeffries crawls through the ropes on July 4th at Reno, he will be much the same physical marvel he was in 1903. A little heavier, perhaps, but that practically will be the only difference."

Donovan has started cleaning house and three of his pitchers will depart at once if not sooner. Elmer Steel has been sold to Providence. Claude Thompson, the likely southpaw, is going out to join Mike Kelly's St. Paul team, while big "Buff" Ehman will show his slow curves to the Denverites.

Baltimore News—That three-base smash by Grimshaw in the opening round was as pretty a drive as has been seen here since the season opened....There was nothing of the Class D about the catch by Delehanty of Clancy's drive in the eighth. It looked good for a pair of sacks at least....McDonald made a screaming one-hand stop of Byers' larruper in the seventh, but he could not nail "Bill." That hit started the trouble....It looked as if Grimshaw would annex another three-sacker in the eighth but "Jimmy" Slagle almost went to the clubhouse door to get the pellet.

Dr. Helen MacMurchy's Report Reveals a Serious Condition.

(Havelock Standard.)

Provincial Inspector Gunton of Toronto, accompanied by county constables acting under instructions from the Provincial Children's Aid Society, made a big raid in Kaladar on Wednesday of last week, when they arrested ten men, seven women and fourteen children, at what is known as the Old Bryden Cookery, now a deserted lumber camp, presided over by Bill Thompson, a man of considerable notoriety.

After dinner, they were lined up before Magistrate J. M. Dafoe and Reeve Campbell, of Flinton. The man Bill Thompson, was fined $50 and $7 cost or three months in the Central. Two women, Mrs. Jas. Woodcock and her sister, Nora, were given six months each in the Mercer Reformatory. Five C.P.R. linemen were fined $8 each as frequenters. The latter were all dismissed by the company immediately. Eleven children were handed over to the care of the Children's Aid Society.

Another unfortunate mother gave up her three children and was allowed her freedom by agreeing to leave the district within thirty days.

CHARGES DISPROVED

From Farm and Dairy.

One of the most important features of the report of the Dominion Swine Commission is the flood of information it furnishes proving that the charges that have been hurled against our Canadian packers of manipulating prices for their own benefit have not been founded on fact. These charges probably have done more to create discontent among our Canadian hog producers and to cause many to give up the production of hogs than any other one factor. Although these charges have been strenuously denied by our packers, their denials were not generally believed, and a feeling of distrust was created which has worked untold harm.

The report of the Swine Comission shows that in spite of the fact that the majority of the packing establishments in Denmark are owned by the farmers, the prices the Danish farmers have received for their hog products have shown an even greater variation from month to month and from year to year than the prices that have been paid to our Canadian farmers. More than this, it shows that the variation in prices in Denmark and Canada have occurred at the same times and in practically the same degrees. It shows further that the prices paid in both countries have fluctuated exactly in proportion to the fluctuations in the value of the finished product on the British market.

One table contained in the report shows the comparative prices of Canadian and Danish bacon on the British market during the years 1909 to 1908, inclusive, the figures for 1909 not being complete. The lowest average price paid for Canadian bacon in any one year was in 1904, when the average price was $4.98. The highest average price paid was $6.68, which ruled in 1906. For the Danish product, as was the case with the Canadian, the lowest price paid was in 1904, averaging $6.19, while the highest price was paid in 1906, averaging $8.05. Thus the variation in the prices paid for our Canadian bacon was $1.70, while the variation in the prices of the Danish product was $1.86.

Another table gives the average prices paid the Danish farmers for their hogs from 1888 to 1908. The lowest price they received was $11.02, in 1896, and the highest price, $16.63, which was paid in 1906, showing a fluctuation in values of $5.61. The table shows that there was a considerable variation in values every year. The prices in Canada have not varied to a greater extent.

Still another table gives the selling price of Canadian and Danish bacon in England from 1904 to 1907. The lowest price paid for Canadian bacon was paid in December, 1904, and was $10.46. The highest price paid for Canadian bacon was paid in September, 1909, and was $17.37. Thus there was a fluctuation in values during the six years of $6.91. The price paid for the Danish product varied in exactly the same proportion and at the same dates; the lowest price having also been paid in 1904, it being $12.34, while the highest price was also paid in September, 1909, being $18.49. In these cases the fluctuation in values was a little greater in the Canadian product, amounting to $6.91, than it was in the Danish, which amounted to $6.15. When, however, we examine the prices paid for the Canadian and Danish products during each month of the six years, we find that in five out of the six years, there was a greater variation in the prices paid for the Danish product than there was in those paid for Canadian bacon.

The average price paid for hogs on board cars at country points in Ontario during the first seven months of 1909 was $7.20, while the average price paid at factories in Denmark was $7.92. During the same months, the average price per hundred pounds of Canadian bacon in London was $15.21, while the average price paid for Danish at the same time was $15.84. Thus the price of hogs here was practically even with that paid in Denmark, when the difference in the selling value of the bacon made from hogs in the two countries is taken into account. One of the reasons why Danish bacon realizes a higher price on the British market is due to the fact that it is landed in fresher condition.

These figures indicate that our Canadian packers have been paying our Canadian farmers proportionately as much for their product as the Danish farmers have been paid for their hogs which they have been marketing through their own factories. This information should help to heal this sore spot with the producers and bring about a better feeling between our Canadian packers and producers. If this proves to be the case, the sending of the commission of farmers to Denmark will have paid for itself many times over.

Celebrated His Golden Wedding

Although Mr. Foster, a Well-Known Undertaker of Jersey City Heights, N.J., has been Exposed to every kind of Contagious Disease, he has always enjoyed the best of health. He is now 74 years of age.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is his only medicine, and it keeps his system in such perfect condition that it wards off the attacks of all the germs with which his business brings him in contact.

He recently wrote: "I have used Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for a great many years and have found it to be the best tonic stimulant for old people. I am 74 years old, have been in the undertaking business 35 years and have exposed myself to every known contagious disease, but I have never taken anything to prevent contagion except Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey in small doses as a tonic. I have found that your whiskey keeps me in the best of health. On January 30, 1910, my wife and I celebrated our Golden Anniversary. I sincerely hope my letter will convince others that Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is a great blessing and help to those along in years."—David Foster, 589 Palisade Ave., Jersey City Heights, N.J.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

CRUELTY TO PRISONERS

In Moscow a jailer and a policeman have just been convicted of having tortured prisoners in the Smolensk prison. Thus, in the trials of these culprits, facts have come out that substantiate previous accounts which many persons naturally supposed were exaggerated.

In the indictment of the jailer and his comrade it is stated that four prisoners told the assistant prosecutor of the Smolensk court, during an inspection of the prison, that Semenoff, the jailer, and Soldatenkoff, a policeman, had beaten them with a rubber knout, in order to force them to confess crimes crimes of which they had been accused. On the testimony of a number of witnesses, two of whom were present when one of the prisoners, Bogdanoff, was beaten, it was established that "Semenoff, known for his harshness (note that these are the words of the official indictment) questioned Bogdanoff, and accompanied the examination with blows and threats.

"Having handcuffed Bogandoff, Semeno and Soldatenkoff made him lie on a devon and beat him. Semonoff used a rubber tube, filled with sand, and Soldatenkoff the scabbord of his sword. They asked the man to acknowledge his guilt. (He had been arrested on suspicion of having murdered a yerdman.) A clerk of the prison, Martinoff, held Bogandoff by the legs, but went out because he could not stand it."

Another witness of the torturing was Shiryaeff, a prisoner, who chanced to be in the chancellory. According to him, Bogandoff "shrieked in an inhuman voice, and it would seem that a few more blows would have killed him." There follows a description of the removal of the victim to a building in another part of the town, where the torture continued and three other prisoners were flogged. The indictment continues: "During the medical police examination of Bogandoff it was found that his whole back was covered with weals. The whole left hand was swollen up. There were weals all over the hands, as on the back.

"There was a wound on the left ear covered with congealed blood." The doctors considered that blows which left such results must be placed in the category of torture."

These horrors took place in September, 1908. Although the authorities have known about them for a year and a half, the tortures were allowed to continue working in the prison, and Semenoff has quite lately been advanced in the service. Bogandoff and another of the victims died soon after the torture, and whether they were guilty or not of the crimes they were ordered to confess will never be known. During the trial the prison surgeon stated that persons were so often brought into hospital to recover after torture that he regarded such cases as quite ordinary.

The accused did not deny the charges brought against them. The Crown Prosecutor, apparently thinking their offence ought not to be too hardly dealt with, pointoed ut that "the police have a most important and serious work in preserving public order, occasionally involving them in blame. Only in most cases that blame was not merited."

The defence put forward by the lawyer of the accused was curious. He said that they hda been brought up in the old school; that in torturing prisoners they were carrying out a system which flourished under other conditions and ws now baeing changed. Semenoff, he urged, held to the old tradition, and had been brought up in it; besides, he saw that others made a career by the "not impartial" questioning of prisoners, and was thus tempted.

After this explanation the court took a lenient view of the case. Semenoff was condemned to six months' imprisonment, and the assistant torturer got off with two months' arrest.

HASTINGS NEWS

Mr. J. Coughlin Honoured on His Departure for the West—Old Boys Hold a Re-union in Winnipeg.

WORK ON THE CANAL

Examiner Special.

Hastings, April 27.—Rev. D. A. Thomson and visiting clergymen had a lively ride to Norwood on Wednesday by "auto," under the guidance of Mr. Alf. Findlay, where Mr. Thomson led the ordination service in connection with the induction of Rev Mr. Cree to the charge of the Presbyterian church of that town.

Mr. J. Coughlan left this week for the West. Prior to his departure a number of his friends met to say goodbye, and took advantage of the occasion to present him with an address, and the gift of a handsome suit case. "Jack" has been quite popular and the boys are sorry to lose him, but wish him every success in his venture.

Rev. Dr. J. C. Speer, of Toronto, is the guest of his sister, Mrs. T. Gilchrist, of town.

His Lordsip Bishop Sweeny, of Toronto, administered the rite of Confirmation to a large number of candidates in St. George's church one evening last week. During his stay in town he was entertained at the home of Mr. and Miss Stephen.

Word has come to town of the death of Mr. Wm. Orr, in Michigan. Deceased was the son of the late Andrew Orr, of Hastings, and had a large number of relatives and old friends in this vicinity, who will extend their sympathy to the bereaved wife and family. Interment took place in Michigan.

Work on the canal is being pushed ahead and everything seems to be booming. The large dredge is busy taking out the cut at the new waterfront, and presents quite an imposing appearance, as it works away with almost life-like activity.

Mrs. Orr has returned after an extended visit with friends out of town.

The Scotchman, Andrew Stewart, by name, who has been employed in the tannery for a short time, and who one day last week requested to be locked up as he feared he was losing his reason, was taken to Toronto by Dr. Edmison, where he was placed in the hospital for treatment. The man was presumably in well-to-do circumstances, having a bank book with quite a handsome sum to his credit.

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church have secured the services of Miss Emma T. Irons, elocutionist, who will give her popular rendition of Ben Hur, in the church on Friday evening, April 29. Miss Irons comes highly recommended and no doubt will be greeted with a full house.

Mr. Joe. Doherty has been transferred to the Union Bank staff at Haileybury, and left last week to take the position.

Master Ed. Parsons, second son of Mr. Alf. Parsons, has returned from the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto, where he has been under treatment for about four weeks.

Mrs. H. A. Wilson and Master Earl are visiting friends in Lindsay.

Quite a number of Hastings old boys met in Winnipeg quite recently, amongst whom were Messrs. H. A. Wilson and son, Harry, E. Valleau, Harry McClelland, L. F. Clarry, S. Hatherley, J. Graham and J. English.

Mrs. R. Chambers of Peterborough, has been visiting friends in Hastings.

Miss Stephenson, of Whitby, has been a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wilson.

Mr. G. Hanmore, veterinary student, is spending the season with Dr. Hess.

Dr. Ford, of Norwood, was in town on Friday.

SET OF ORDINARY BELLS

Advocated by Ven. Arch. Warren—Sends a Subscription.

In enclosing a subscription for the chimes of St. John's church, Venerable Archdeacon Warren strongly urges the purchase of a set of ordinary bells rather than the tubular ones. These, he believes, would be more in keeping with the church and would be in the best interests of the city. He asked that the leading men consider carefully before purchasing as so good an object was well worth the trouble and expense of doing it well.

CELEBRATED VOCALIST SCORED ANOTHER BIG SUCCESS LAST NIGHT

Miss Margaret McCann Delighted a Second Large Audience—Had to Respond to Insistent Encores

A SPLENDID PROGRAMME

The second of the two concerts given in connection with the opening of the handsome new quarters of St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society was given last evening and again a large and appreciative audience was in attendance. Miss Margaret McCann, Australia's queen of Scottish song, was given a most enthusiastic reception. As soon as she stepped on the platform she was given a rousing welcome. With a stage presence that was faultless and a well rounded voice that was tuneful, she soon won herself into the hearts of her hearers, who quickly recognized her artistic and musical skill. Each number was loudly applauded and encores were demanded, the charming vocalist graciously responding. Her programme consisted of Scottish and Irish selections both of which proved exceedingly popular. During the evening Rev. Father McColl again referred to the kindness and generosity of His Lordship the Bishop for the assistance given the society in assuming the responsibility of the cost of the new building. He was sure they all appreciated it very much. The reverend gentleman also added words of praise to the school children who sang so well and to their teachers for the painstaking efforts in training them. He, too, congratulated his staff for the able assistance they had rendered. Father McColl then called on Mr. Daniel O'Connell to speak.

Mr. O'Connell on coming forward to address the audience was given an ovation. He said it was not his intention to make any lengthy remarks but he desired to offer his sincere congratulations to the Total Abstinence Society for the wonderful success they had achieved in many directions. It was only a short time ago, he said, they were celebrating the tenth anniversary with a membership of one thousand men. Now the society was opening a handsome new hall; another monument to their zeal and earnest endeavours. He referred in eulogistic terms to the good work of Rev. Dr. O'Brien in connection with this temperance organization, which was being so ably continued by Rev. Father McColl. There was a strong temperance sentiment passing over the entire province at the present time This was an age of strength and intelligence and the time was coming when the drunkard and inebriate would be a thing of the past. It was not only a work of temperance, but the methods of such a society as the T.A.S. tended to develop a strong character. He did not approve of legislation to destroy the drink evil, race track gambling and cigarette smoking. These were evils, he admitted, but the proper way to work against them was by moral suasion, by appealing to the man. Mr. O'Connell referred in appreciative terms to the cooperation of His Lordship the Bishop, whom, he said, they all revered and loved so much. In conclusion he remarked that every citizen must feel a debt of gratitude to this society for the good work they had done along the lines of temperance. He hoped that they would continue to flourish.

The evening's programme was as follows:

Mr. J. L. Armstrong acted as accompanist for the evening in a very acceptable manner.

FINE HORSES

To-morrow's Show Will Include Some Magnificent Animals.

The stallion and bull show to be held under the auspices of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition at the Exhibition grounds to-morrow, promises to be of exceptional interest to the farmers of the district, who will doubtless attend in large numbers. Saturday has been selected as the most convenient day for the farmers, as it saves an extra trip to town for the purpose of attending the show.

Some of the best stallions ever seen here will be on exhibition to-morrow, the most notable being the thoroughbred English stallion "Milner," bred in England by the Duke of Portland, and now owned by McColl of Cobourg. Milner is the best type of thoroughbred stallion, and is a horse calculated to improve the horse industry of the country. He is one of the stamp of horses that the governments of Russia, France, Austria, and other European countries have purchased to improve the horses of their respective countries. A visit to the Exhibition grounds will be worth while, if only to have a look at this splendid animal. Another fine stallion that will be shown is Harry Nesbitt's thoroughbred horse, one of the most valuable animals in the country.

In addition there will be a showing of thoroughbred Percherons, Clydes, Hackneys, and Shire horses, as well as of some splendid cattle.

WAS DROWNED

Campbellford, April 26.—Thomas Dunk, of Seymour Township, 26 years of age, drowned himself in the river at Crow Bay, near here. Up to a few days previous, Dunk seemed to be all right mentally. He had engaged to a farmer in the locality for the summer. During the night he went twice into the water, but came out again. After that he was carefully watched, but made his way to the river and plunged in.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

Mrs. P. Downham left on the 12.28 C. P. R. train this morning for Quebec City, where she has been called by the illness of her father.

The many friends of Mr. Jack English will regret to learn of his serious illness, caused from a bad attack of blood poisoning. Although Mr. English is an engineer on the Grand Trunk Railway in Lindsay, he is well known in Peterborough, having served some time on the railway in this city.

The friends of Miss Kathleen Owen will be glad to know that she has made a very rapid recovery from her recent severe attack of scarlet fever. She hopes to be well enough to leave Peterborough on the 5th of May with her father, Mr. A. B. Owen, to sail from Montreal on the 6th, per S. S. 'Corsican,' for England.

Mrs. R. C. Braund and children were the guests of Mrs. A. Wilde, in Havelock during the past week.

Among the out of town guests at the Maids and Matrons' dance, were Misses A Collins, H. Hay, I. Hay, and I Munro and Messrs. W. S. Davidson, J. Kelly, T. Sedgwick and J. Lonergan ,of Peterborough; Messrs. J. Linton and H. Johnston, of Campbellford; Miss Fry of Norwood; the Misses McWilliams, Miss Lamb and Mr. G. A. Bleecker of Marmora; Messrs. A. Armstrong and G. C. Munn of Toronto; and Messrs. P. E. Lancaster and G. Moon, of Madoc.—Havelock Standard.

OBITUARY.

JOHN MASTERSON.

On Friday, the 15th of April, at his home in Alnwick, after a short illness of thirty-six hours, John Masterson, an old resident of the Township, passed away. Born in the Township of Hope, on the 3rd of May, 1850, of Irish parentage, he had almost completed sixty years. He leaves to mourn his loss, six sons, Casey, of Peterborough, and formerly of Lindsay, Patrick, of Moosejaw, and Thomas, Edward Vincent, and Cornelius, at home, and three daughters, Irene, Teresa and Rose, also at home. He is survived by two brothers and Thos. of Wisconsin, and Mrs. Thomas, two sisters, Hugh, of Alnwick, and Govin, and Mrs. Murphy, of New Mexico. The funeral tok place to St. Jerome's church, Warkworth, where Mass was celebrated by Rev. Thos. A. O'Connell and tence to the cemetery at Warkworth.

MISS BESSIE MENZIES.

This morning Mrs. K. G. Lech received a telegraphic despatch from Kingfisher, Oklahoma, N.S., announcing the death at that place of her sister, Miss Bessie Menzies, second daughter of the late Mr. Thomas Menzies. Miss Menzies has been ill since last November and the tidings of her demise was not unexpected. Her sister, Mrs. R. S. Davidson, was called to Oklahoma by her sister's illness, and has been with her till the end. Miss Menzies leaves behind her, to mourn the death of a most unselfishly dutiful and devoted daughter and sister, her mother, Mrs. Thomas Menzies and four sisters—Mrs. R. S. Davidson and Mrs. K. G. Lech, Peterborough, Mrs. Eugene Watrous, Enid, Okl., and Mrs. Geo. Lang, Kingfisher, Okl. Mrs. J. R. Stratton is a cousin of the deceased lady and two brothers are at home.

Miss Menzies was born in Peterborough, where she lived till the family removed to the west. She was exceedingly popular and beloved, both in her old and her new home. But it was in the domestic circle that the highest manifestations of her beautiful character were developed. She gave up her life and devotion to others, and was, in every way, especially in her home life, which was in reality her whole life, a perfect type of the "ministering angel described by Sir Walter Scott in the words—

"When pain and anguish wring the brow,
A ministering angel thou."

Miss Menzies' many friends in Peterborough will learn of her death with deep regret, and their sympathy will go out to her bereaved sister and cousin, Mrs. Lech and Mrs. Stratton.

The funeral will take place at Kingfisher, Okla., on Sunday.

SALE OF SPECTACLES

Will be Continued Until Wednesday—Has Been Very Successful.

The sale of spectacles and eye glasses being conducted at McDermid and Jury's store by the directors of the International College of Ophthalmology is attracting considerable attention and has been so successful that it will be continued until Wednesday of next week, Mr. Elliott having decided to stay in the city until that time. The opportunity of securing spectacles that usually sell from $3.50 to $5.00 for $1.00 and at the same time of knowing that they are the work of experts and fitted by experts, has not been lost sight of by the people of Peterborough and there has been a record rush during the sale. The extension of the time (the sale was to have closed to-morrow) will give many more people a chance to take advantage of the exceptional offer. The spectacles are gold-filled and will be perfectly fitted to the face. Three expert opticians will be in charge during the sale so that customers may be sure of scientific examination.

AN APPRECIATION

I was sitting in the splendid concert hall of St. Alphonsus' Lyceum on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock; when the curtain went up for the first item of the great two-night concert, and it occurred to me that the opening chorus, "Canada, My Canada," struck the fundamental note of the Society, its objects, and its directors. For, as was so very well said by Mr. Dan. O'Connell, on Thursday night, the aim of all patriotic Canadians, of all true-loyal sons of this great new land, should be to build up a nation of physically, intellectually and morally perfect men. It was said of old, "England expects every man to do his duty." So might Canada say to her children to-day. We have a duty to our country, whether we be sons of the soil or adopted children. We must help to build up our country, to make her what God evidently intended her to be—the great nation of the future. And not one of us can say our co-operation is not needed towards that end. It is needed, and if we withhold it, then we fail in our duty to Canada. Where, then, we see a body of men earnestly striving in that direction we should give tangible evidence of our appreciation of their efforts. And are not the members of the T. A. S. working that way? Is it not their ideal and their ambition to develop character and moral courage and a sense of personal responsibility? And are they not gloriously succeeding? Have they not brought honour on our city, as the home of the largest Temperance Association on the American continent? And yet there were vacant chairs in the auditorium! Where were our broadminded, tolerant citizens? Why did they not come in larger numbers to show by their presence that they appreciated the work being accomplished by the T. A. S.? And then, again, the programme was a generous one. The mere presence of Miss McCann ought to have been sufficient to draw a full house. And I doubt if, taking it all in all, the programme could have been excelled in any concert hall in the world. Certainly Peterborough never enjoyed the like before. Too much credit cannot be given to Rev. Father McColl for his untiring efforts to make it a success. And his fellow-citizens are glad to think that his labours have been crowned with success. The splendid new club rooms will for ever stand as a memorial of his zeal and self-sacrifice. Every one felt on Wednesday evening that the kind words of Bishop O'Connor were indeed merited, and we rejoice to think that in the few months since Father McColl took over the Society the membership has gone on growing so that now it numbers well over the 1200. Now that the Society is established in its new home, we predict for it even still greater success, and in the near future we hope to be able to congratulate Father McColl on numbering within the Temperance fold every Catholic man in Peterborough. It is men like Father McColl we need here in Canada—men who have a high ideal of personal and social responsibility; men who realize that not in the legislature, but in the intellect and the heart are we to find the remedy for our social ills; men who can hit hard and fight straight; men of transparent honesty of purpose, who would not swerve an inch from the path of duty, no matter how strong the temptation. We believe that Father McColl is all this, and we respect him accordingly, abstracting altogether from his priestly dignity, we respect him as a man.

"ONE WHO WAS THERE."

The meeting to-night in the Bank of Montreal chambers for the purpose of discussing the chimes question is one that should be of the greatest interest to all citizens of Peterborough. The matter is one that will affect everyone, and therefore there should be a large and representative gathering to discuss the matter. The meeting is called for 8 o'clock.

COMMENCED WORK

Work has commenced on the large addition to the Peterborough Hardware Co. warehouse on George street, next to the wholesale house of Kinnear & Co. The Company last fall built a cement structure at the rear end of the property, and have been using it as a warehouse. It was their intention to further enlarge by building to the front, and work on the new part was started this week. It will be brick and will be three storeys in height. The estimated cost is $4,000.

Correct Vision In Both Eyes

The majority of people find that one eye is worse than the other. We can bring the vision of the poor eye up to the standard of the good one, or, if the good eye ought to be better we can improve that and thus give you perfect vision in both eyes, providing always that anything in glasses will do it.

ROYAL

Mr. Pappas, Manager of the Royal Theatre, of this city, has just returned from a visit to his agents, The Griffin Vaudeville Circuit, under the management of Mr. John Griffin, having just completed arrangements for the securing and presenting at his popular place of amusement the best and highest class attractions on the Griffin line. Mr. Pappas will play equally as strong features as played in Mr. Griffin's own houses. That Peterborough amusement lovers will receive in the future the strongest attractions from week to week, the like of which has never before been played in our town, commencing on Monday. The new arrangements start with the Royal Japanese troupe, one of the cleverest attractions of its kind that has ever been before the public. That this attraction will receive the patronage of its merits we feel assured. Your attention is called to the advertisements that will appear in this paper. When you take into consideration that the Griffith Amusement Co. represents over 100 houses in the Dominion of Canada, with branches in several cities of the United States, wherein these attractions are presented at from 10 cents upwards, and that Peterborough will get these attractions in future at the nominal sum of five cents, it will certainly be a treat to the lovers of wholesome, clean, and clever amusement, and should meet with the approval of our people.

THE FAMILY HEARTH

The man who is not big enough to rise above the things that trouble him, who cannot overtop his aches and pains, annoyances and disappointments, so that they are of little consequence in comparison with his great life aim, will never amount to much. There is an unwritten law for people who are thoroughbred — the real gentleman and the real lady — which compels them to keep their troubles, their ailments, their sorrows, their worries, their losses to themselves. There is a fine discipline in it. It mellows the character and sweetens the life. But when these things are not borne heroically they mar the character and leave their ugly traces in the face; their hideous forms appear in the manner and disfigure the whole life. If you have misfortunes, pains, diseases, losses, keep them to yourself. Bury them. Those who know you have them will love you and admire you infinitely more for this suppression. A stout heart and persistent cheerfulness will be more than a match for all your troubles.

Wit and Wisdom.

Don't scatter seeds for a new crop of troubles by talking about them.

He who loves to read and knows how to reflect has laid up a perpetual feast for his old age.

And when a man bumps up against hard luck he always blames some other fellow for shoving him.

Mistaken kindnesses causes half the boredom and inconveniences of life.—Reginald Lucas.

To strive at all involves a victory achievement over sloth, inertness, and indifference.—Dickens.

Hold faithfulness and sincerity as first principles. Sincerity is the way to heaven.—Confucius.

Hope always strengthens to the performance of duty, gives courage, and clears the judgment. — George MacDonald.

A man sells himself whenever he takes money for doing anything less than the best that is in him.—Keighley Snowden.

So long as we love to serve; so long as we are loved by others I would almost say that we are indispensable, and no man is useless while he has a friend.—R. L. Stevenson.

Wisdom for Girls.

The man a girl should choose for husband is not the acknowledged wit and favourite of his chums. It is not the handsomest, wealthiest or most fascinating man who makes the best husband.

A girl, if wise in selecting her lover, should, instead of being attracted by outside show rather look to the inner perfections and qualities of the man who is to be her partner for life.

The plainer, more homely and often less talented man is, as a rule, less selfish than his handsomer and more brilliant brother; he is not so vain, so conscious of his attractiveness and charms, more diffident and reserved; and, being fully alive to his own shortcomings, more likely to lavish a wealth of affection and love upon his wife.

The plainer man who is not so highly gifted, who possesses less personal attraction, who, instead of manly beauty and fascinating manners — which, after all, like beauty, are but skin deep—rejoices in the possession of a good generous heart, a noble disposition, a tender, thoughtful way and a gentle care for all women, is the man most likely to become an ideal husband.

Domestic Hints.

Boiled fruit should be kept in the dark. A dry cupboard is the best place for them.

When roasting or baking meet in the oven place the dripping pan on a dish of water. It will prevent the gravy burning or boiling away.

Grease stains on leather may be removed by carefully applying benzine or perfectly pure turpentine Wash the spots over afterwards with the well-beaten white of an egg.

A good remedy for stained knives is to have a penny box of powdered bathbrick standing on the sink, and after washing the knives apply a little briskly on a piece of damp cloth.

To get rid of mice spread mint leaves (or essence of mint will answer) wherever these pests are to be found. They have a great aversion to the smell and will not return again.

Earache in children may generally be relieved by dropping a little warm olive oil into the ear. An old-fashioned but excellent remedy is to bake an onion till perfectly soft, and then put the small centrepiece into the ear. The juice of the onion is most soothing.

Old hot-water bags which are past repair may be used as sponge bags for travelling. Cut off the neck, which is generally the worn part, leaving one side deeper than the other, like an envelope. On this sew a tape, and you can keep your sponge and rubbers quite safely.

RECIPES.

To make the veal and ham pie, cut one and a half pounds of veal into very thin slices, and also half-pound of ham; mix on a plate, one tablespoonful of flour, teaspoonful salt, half a teaspoonful of pepper, half a teaspoonful of powdered herbs, one of grated lemon rind, and a few grains of cayenne; roll in this seasoning each piece of veal and ham and lay in a pudding dish with two hard boiled eggs cut in slices; fill up the dish with water, line the edge, cover and decorate with pastry, and bake in a hot oven for one and a half hours. After pastry has risen cool, the temperature of the meat will be tough.

For a baked custard for flour, beat 3 eggs with 2 tablespoonfuls of sugar in an agate pudding dish, add 3 cups of hot milk slowly, set the dish in another containing hot water, and bake 15 or 20 minutes, or until a knife comes out clean when dipped in.

Cheese Straws.

Mix two ounces of grated cheese, two ounces flour, two ounces bread crumbs, and two ounces of butter, one salt spoon of salt, and a dash of paprika. Moisten with the yolk of an egg and enough water to make a stiff dough. Roll out to half the thickness of a lead pencil and cut in strips half an inch wide, and two or three inches long. Bake a delicate brown. —C.A.M.

Fruit Salad.

For fruit salad, use any mixture of raw fruit in season. Bananas, oranges, grapefruit, pineapple, strawberry, a little cooked cranberry—any two or three or all of these. Arrange in individual glasses or plates. For dressing use a boiled dressing, made with two eggs, slightly beaten, two tablespoons of sugar, a dash of salt or mustard accordingly to taste, quarter of cup of lemon juice or less of vinegar, cook until it thickens, remove from the fire and add a tablespoonful of butter and a half a cup of milk, stir until smooth. When ready for use, beat in a cup of whipped cream. A more easily made dressing can be made with two cups of whipped cream, juice of two lemons, and two tablespoonfuls of sugar.—Inquisitive.

Bread.

Scald one cup of milk, turn into the bread bowl, or the mixer, add one tablespoonful of shortening, one teaspoonful of sugar, two teaspoonfuls of salt and one cup of lukewarm potato water or plain water, add half a yeast cake dissolved in lukewarm water. Be sure it is not hot. Add sufficient sifted flour to make a thick batter. This should be down at about six p.m., and the mixer left in a warm place until about ten p.m. Beat it down, then add flour to make a dough. Cover until seven a.m., when it should have risen to twice its size. Turn out on bakeboard, divide in two, and mould into loaves. Let rise until light, prick with a fork to let out the gas during cooking and prevent the crust separations from the rest. Bake in a moderate oven, about one hour.

Cranberry Filling.

Chop fine six figs, one cup of sugar, one teaspoonful of mixed powdered spices, one teaspoonful of flour, one tablespoonful of flour, one tablespoonful of water. Bake between two crusts.

WOMEN LEND AID TO SUBWAY VICTIM

Make Bandages Out of Strips From Petticoats to Bind Stump of Severed Leg.

New York, April 30.—Women passengers on a subway train that cut off the leg of William Rice, twenty-one years old, of No. 729 Knickerbocker Ave., Brooklyn, at the Ninety-first street station yesterday, tore strips from their petticoats and gave them to Dr. Goodrich Smith, of No. 571 Lexington avenue, to enable him to aid the victim. Others procured water with which the young man's head was bathed. Many of the women later became hysterical from the tragic sight.

At almost the same hour that Rice was injured Walter Powers, thirty-five years old, a printer on a New York newspaper, living at No. 601 West 148th street, was crushed between the platform and a sub-way train at the Forty-second street station, and so severely hurt that his life is despaired of at the Flower Hospital where he was taken.

Rice was also crushed between the platform and a train. His uncle, David Mellinger, of No. 137 West Ninetieth street, and Emanuel Winters, his cousin, saw him injured. Rice was about to step aboard a train when the guard closed the door. One foot was on the platform at the time. The closing of the door threw him and he slid between the cars.

He clung to the side of the car and was dragged twenty feet. His screams caused consternation among the passengers, especially the women. Mellinger and Winters seised him and prevented his falling to the tracks. They ran along the platform, holding him. His left leg was caught between the car and the platform and was wrenched off.

Dr. Smith was a passenger on the car. He attended Rice, who was stretched out on the platform. He used the cloths supplied by the women to dress the gaping wound and the night stick of Policeman Lillie to form a tourrniquet.

The condition of the man was so grave that Dr. Smith ordered that a taxicab be called. Rice was hurried to the J. Hood Wright Hospital, where he was operated on. His condition is critical.

GOT TO THE ROOT OF HIS TROUBLE

And Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured W. Wright's Backache.

He Had Suffered for Several Years but the old Reliable Kidney Remedy Gave Him Quick Relief.

Kelvington, Sask., April 29.—(Special.)—"Yes, Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me of Backache, and I have recommended them to others who have also been cured." These are the words of William Wright, a farmer well known here. "I believe I inherited my trouble," Mr. Wright continues. "At times for several years it was severe. I also suffered from Lumbago, and in the morning I had a bitter taste in my mouth and was troubled with dizziness and my skin was dry and harsh and there was a sediment in my urine.

"No treatment I could find gave me any permanent relief till finally believing that my kidneys were the root of the trouble, I determined to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. Four boxes cured me."

Mr. Wright went at his trouble sensibly. He examined his symptoms, and they showed him that Kidney Disease was his trouble. Do as much for yourself, and if your symptoms point to disordered or diseased kidneys the cure is easy. Dodd's Kidney Pills will do it. They never fail.

A WEIRD STORY OF THE SEA

San Francisco, Cal., April 30. — A weird story of the sea is related by Captain Davies of the Cardiff steamer Trafalgar, which arrived recently at Falmouth after an awe-inspiring voyage. "We were bound from Port Talbot to Bastia with coal," reported Captain Davies, "leaving port on Wednesday, and we experienced boisterous weather, with heavy snowstorms. About eight o'clock in the morning we were about ten miles southwest of the Wolf rocks, when the vessel trembled violently and there was a loud report like the explosion of a cannon. The foremast seemed a mass of flame and the whole ship became aglow.

"At the same moment we saw a fiery body about eighty feet long strike the sea twenty feet from us. Its appearance was accompanied by a loud hissing noise, and as it disappeared a column of water rose in the air. Had it struck the ship I am sure it would have spelled disaster for us.

"Directly after what I may term the seizure of the ship the men came running from the forecastle, crying it was on fire. The whole of the interior was glowing with a brilliant light. The effect of the phenmenon in the engine room was most awe-inspiring, the whole place glowing with a faint violet light, from which millions of sparks emanated. All the men rushed on deck.

"The second mate happened to be sounding the well at the time, and received a violent shock from the steel rod which he held in his hand. The phenomenon did not last many seconds. When we recovered from our surprise we looked at the compasses and found them all demagnetized and awry.

"In that predicament I decided to put back for the nearest port, but as we were experiencing blinding snowstorms and could get no assistance from our compasses it was a difficult task. At last we picked up the Lizard, and by following coasting vessels got into Falmouth, entering the port without the assistance of a pilot. Strange to say, when the compasses were taken ashore they resumed their normal condition and were strictly accurate."

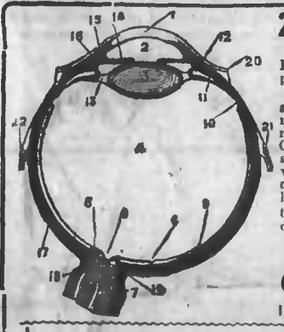
27000 Eye Glass Lenses



It may be interesting to know that the Human eye requires 27000 varieties of lens powers to suit its varied needs.

Even the largest manufacturers do not attempt to keep a full supply of these ready made, but cut and edge to prescription as required much the same as dispensary Chemist would make up a medicine to special prescription. We examine to know which of the 27000 powers is required and order these made. Then we examine the lenses to insure their accuracy. We give the exact powers required. This is why our business grows.

Woman's World

A DESERVED SUCCESS.

How Anna Steese Richardson Became a Playwright.

"My alma mater is the city room of a daily paper, my sheepskin the soiled and blue penciled copy sheets from the hands of a merciless city editor."

So said Anna Steese Richardson, coauthor of "A Man's a Man," the successful new play of American life, in which Mr. Robert Edeson is starring. Mrs. Richardson, who had just been asked how she had studied playwriting, should know whereof she speaks, for she has been a practical newspaper woman for fourteen years. Her apprenticeship was served as reporter in the city room of the Nonparell at Council Bluffs, Ia. At the end of three years she joined the city staff of the Omaha Daily News, Omaha, Neb. Twelve months later, having seen one of her particularly graphic descriptions of a murder trial copied in the New York World, she decided to try her fortunes in the metropolis.

As the price of her temerity and inexperience, she walked Newspaper row for weeks and finally found a berth as manuscript reader with the McClure Newspaper syndicate.

By day she read manuscripts submitted by ambitious young writers. By night she haunted the theaters for material used to build up feature stories for the Morning Telegraph. Later she edited the woman's page issued by the McClure syndicate, and this led her into magazine work for women. Five years ago she established in the Woman's Home Companion the first regular department for self supporting girls, a feature which has since been copied by almost every magazine for women in the country. A year later she joined the staff of the Sunday World as a special writer, and she still retains her connection with the last two named periodicals.

But all these years Mrs. Richardson has had her eye on a Broadway production for one of her plays. Several of her vaudeville sketches, notably those produced by Miss Lillian Burkhart, one of the first and daintiest of the vaudeville comediennes, scored a success. Before writing the play for Mr. Edeson she studied the personality of the star almost as painstakingly as she worked on the development of the plot. As the result of this method Mr. Edeson now has a role which is not only congenial, but sincere and convincing.

Mrs Richardson's experience disproves the oft repeated assertion that newspaper reporting unfits women for more serious and more enduring effort, for just as "A Man's a Man" was being produced one of the leading publishing houses in New York issued a book by Mrs. Richardson entitled "The Girl Who Earns Her Own Living," which is enjoying a large sale. Incidentally this little sketch of a busy woman's life should encourage many a wavering writer to fresh activity and greater determination, for while Mrs. Richardson started her New York career on a salary of $10 a week, and a fourteen hour day at that, she now commands one of the largest incomes drawn by women writers.

Think of Last Summer—

You can remember days when the heat inside your kitchen was so great you could hardly bear it. With the right stove you would have made a better hostess. Save your health. Don't put up with the drudgery of a coal range. You can have a clean, cool, pleasant kitchen. The does away with all drudgery of cooking. Why should you be a slave to a coal range when you can have an Oil Cook-Stove that is cheaper than coal, cleaner than coal, doesn't "smell," doesn't smoke, lights instantly, can be put out instantly, leaves no ashes, and doesn't heat the kitchen. With one of these stoves you can boil, bake or roast the most elaborate dinner. You can change from a slow to a quick fire, or the other way about, by simply turning a wick. Apply a match, and instantly the heat from an intense blue flame shoots upward through the turquoise-blue enamel chimneys to the bottom of pot, kettle or oven—but nowhere else. The stove has every convenience that can be thought of: Cabinet Top with shelf for keeping food and dishes hot, drop shelves to hold coffee or teapots, towel rack; in fact every convenience possible.

The nickel finish, with the bright blue of the chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive.

Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

CAT AND MICE.

A Jolly Game For Out of Doors or In the House.

If five children are to engage in the game of "cat and mice" one of them must play the cat, while the remaining four represent the mice. If the game is played out of doors the yard must have certain spots designated as "mouse holes." These "mouse holes" may be marked by stones, sticks stuck into the ground or by chairs and should be placed at regular distances about a circle or square of, say, twenty feet across or larger if the space permits. Where there are but four mice their corners form a square, but if there are six or more mice they may form a circle, the mice holes being some ten feet apart. The cat is in the center of the square or circle marked by the "mouse holes."

The mice take their places behind the objects representing the holes, thus pretending to be out of sight of the old cat, who lurks in the center. The game begins by one or more mice creeping out of hiding, going into the center of the space to find food. Of course a time to come forth is chosen while the cat's eyes are watching an opposite hole. The cat listens and must turn quickly and pursue one of the mice that is away from his hole. If the mouse is caught before he gets into the hole again he must exchange places with the cat, allowing the cat to become the mouse and he becoming the cat.

All the mice may come out of their holes at the same time if they feel inclined to do so, but no mouse may enter the hole of another mouse, even though closely pursued.

Punishing a Thief.

A physician who keeps a Japanese house servant was having new flooring laid in his office. The Japanese was greatly disturbed by the workmen, who interfered with the smoothness of his household routine. One day he came to his master with a look of alarm. One of the workmen had been stealing eggs from the pantry.

"Stealing eggs," said the doctor. "How's that?"

"I watch," explained the Jap. "I see him put something in his coat that hang in the hall. I look in pocket and find eggs; I look in pantry and don't find eggs. I will go take them back from his pocket."

"Oh, no," said the doctor. "That would be no better than taking them from the pantry. You must never take anything from another man's pocket."

The Jap went away with a look of disappointment. A few minutes later the doctor passed the hatrack in the hall where the workmen's coats were hanging and found the Jap beating the coats with a rug beater."

"What are you doing?" exclaimed the doctor as he saw the dust rising from the coats.

"I beat all the coats alike," said the Jap, "and the eggs they only make the bad man sorry."—New York Sun.

The Ready to Wear Conservatory.

A ready to wear conservatory is the possession of every up to date woman nowadays. The name is a little ambiguous, but the idea is to keep on hand sets or single bouquets of artificial flowers for the toilet. There has until recently been an aversion to the wearing of artificial blossoms except on hats and as costume decorations, but since the manufacturers have made flowers so perfect that they cheat nature out of some of her triumphs the ban has been raised.

Every other woman one meets nowadays has a bunch of fiber flowers pinned to her coat or nattily ornamenting her fur turban. And the latest cult is to have the bouquets in sets—one for the corsage, another for the pet dog's collar and a third for the automobile vase.

SELECTING THE CORSAGE BOUQUET.

The flowers are scented with the odor belonging to their particular variety. Gardenias are perhaps the most worn of the artificial bouquets, although a bunch of white lilacs with a mauve orchid in the center is the smartest thing just now. Fern leaves mingle their dewy freshness with the blossoms in many instances, and a process known only in France for preserving them makes it possible to wear the real leaves a number of times. It is necessary to keep the ferns in a cool, dry place; otherwise they will become limp and unattractive. The wearing of flowers with the street costume is a pretty habit and one that should be encouraged.

Luncheon Served in Room Made Gay With Colonial Colors.

Many a hostess would really like to introduce novelty in the way of characteristic dishes and table decorations into her entertainments, but is deterred from lack of time to plan these attractions.

When women only are to be entertained no more satisfactory way can be devised than to give a luncheon, for this is pre-eminently a woman's function.

The hour for serving a luncheon may be deferred as late as 2 in the afternoon. On the occasion in question have the dining room gay in the colonial colors. If one does not care to incur the expense of bunting, the buff and blue paper garlands on sale at this season may be used with equally good effect. If a picture of Washington can be secured hang it in a conspicuous place and drape it with buff and blue.

Instead of the usual luncheon cloth or luncheon set spread the table with a linen cloth, homespun linen if possible. Extending the length of the table on each side just inside the plate line have runners made by stitching together two strips of four inch wide buff and blue ribbon, or instead of ribbon crape paper may be used. Finish each end with a large rosette.

Shape fine mesh wire netting to simulate a large cannon ball and stud it thickly with tiny colonial flags. Surround the ball with a wreath of laurel. This will be suggestive not only of victory, but the method employed by the Father of His Country to gain that victory.

For souvenirs give each guest a small framed picture, either of Washington or of some place or event connected with his life. Such souvenirs are really worth while and cost no more than fancy candy boxes by the time they are filled. Cakes in symbolic forms, like those illustrated, add an up to the minute appearance to the table.

SHORT COATS ARE HERE.

The Modish Spring Jackets Are In Hip Lengths.

The steadily growing fashion for short coats is not a serious one to the economical woman, for one can always have a long coat cut off without interfering with its lines to a damaging extent.

Every one admits that no renovated garment is as smart as a newly created one, as all lines are designed for certain results. When they are interfered with they become awkward. When they are stopped short or elongated they are not good looking.

Understanding all this, there are women who must make the best of it because financial conditions demand it And there are other women with whom alteration is an obsession. They would rather change a gown into something worse than leave it as it is.

Quaintly enough, alteration is always considered an excellent job for an amateur. The little tailor or the home steamstress is called upon to alter a gown made by a master. Infrequently the result is excellent, but the proposition is an absurd one.

The suit illustrated contains all the new spring fashion features. The material is of hopsacking, a very fashionable fabric among the new goods.

Recompense.

Now doth the hen of hoary age
Wink joyously the other eye.
This thought death's horror doth assuage—
She'll soon be called a "chicken pie."

He was surprised at how the sores healed.—"I took your New Method Treatment for a serious blood disease with which I had been inflicted for twelve years. I had consulted a score of physicians taken all kinds of blood medicine, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but only got temporary relief. They would help me for a time, but after discontinuing the medicines the symptoms would break out again—running sores, blotches, rheumatic pains, looseness of the hair, swellings of the glands, palms of the hands scaling, itchiness of the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up in despair when a friend advised me to consult you, as you had cured him of a similar disease 8 years ago. I had no hope, but took his advice. In three weeks' time the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the New Method Treatment for four months and at the end of that time every symptom had disappeared. I was cured 7 years ago and no signs of any disease since. My boy, three years old, is sound and healthy. I certainly can recommend your treatment with all my heart. You can refer any person to me privately, but you can use this testimonial as you wish. W. ANOTIER MIRACLE IN NOVA SCOTIA

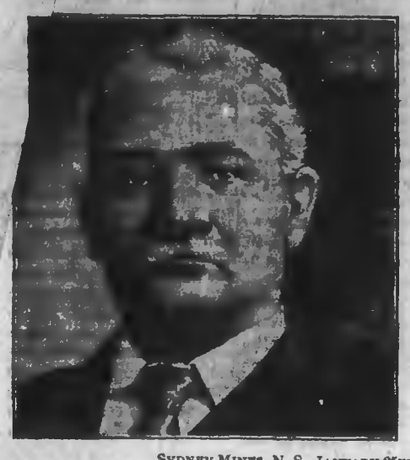
Thought the Disease was Cancer of the Stomach

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Cured Him



SYDNEY MINES, N. S., JANUARY 25TH 1910

"For many years I suffered torture from Indigestion and Dyspepsia. Two years ago, I was so bad that I vomited my food constantly. The agony I endured all these years. I cannot describe and I lost over 25 pounds in weight. I also suffered with Constipation which made the stomach trouble worse. I consulted physicians, as I was afraid the disease was cancer but medicine gave only temporary relief and then the disease was as bad as ever.

I read in the "Maritime Baptist" about "Fruit-a-tives" and the cures this medicine was making and I decided to try it. After taking three boxes, I found a great change for the better and now I can say "Fruit-a-tives" has entirely cured me when every other treatment failed, and I reverently say 'Thank God for Fruit-a-tives' ! !"

EDWIN ORAM, Sr.

"Fruit-a-tives" sweetens the stomach, increases the flow of gastric juice, strengthens the stomach muscles, and insures sound digestion. The wonderful powers of this famous fruit medicine are never more clearly shown than in curing the apparently hopeless cases of Dyspepsia and Constipation. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c. Insurance Companies Lose About $125,000.00 by the Wreck at Spanish River

Double Liability for About Twenty-five Persons

A loss of somewhere in the neighbourhood of $125,000 is what the Accident Insurance Companies estimate the wreck at Spanish River bridge means to them.

They figure that about 25 of those who met death carried Accident Insurance, and the average insurance, according to the tables, is $5,000. In case of death in a railway disaster there is a double liability, making the figure $10,000, or $5,000 to be more conservative.

Their loss may total more than that, for the commercial travellers, a number of whom were killed, usually carry very heavy insurance. In addition, some of the companies make the policies payable on the death of the wife while travelling, though the policy is taken out in the husband's name. In such cases they pay the husband the same amount as they would have paid the wife were the husband killed.

The above goes to show the necessity of carrying Accident Insurance, as similar disasters happen almost daily.

We issue the BEST Accident and Sickness policy offered to the public.

LITTLE KNOWN BRITONS

KACHINS OF UPPER BURMA ARE SUBJECTS OF THE KING.

Secluded Race Who Live in the Hills Are a Highland Tribe With Peculiar Customs—They Are 5 Feet 4 Inches Tall as an Average—They Attribute Everything to Nats or Spirits.

All travelers have remarked that while on level stretches of particular areas of the world's surface the people are of the same race and speak a similar language, there are in mountainous regions many races in close proximity who are startlingly dissimilar and who speak quite different languages.

The hills have done much to lock people up in particular districts and to prevent them from communicating with their neighbors. But many of the hill tribes, like those in the wild land of Upper Burma, which cuts off China from the rest of the world, are not aborigines, but come from lands in the west.

It looks as though, over a long stretch of prehistoric time, the nomadic people on the plains of Central Asia went wandering and wandering until at last they got into a tangle of mountains, which barred them—and there they have stuck ever since.

Just as in the Caucasus Mountains, and mostly on the southeastern side, are many races, speaking more than sixty languages, so in the Burman-China mountain ranges, and generally on the western side, are many quaint peoples.

Now, in all my vagabondings in strange lands I have never come across a place which is so captivating a story-book of the human race as the little-known patch of the British Empire in Upper Burmah, says John Foster Fraser. The Burmese are a delightful people, kindly, easy-going, picturesque; but it is when you get on the eastern fringe of Burmah that you run into a hotch-potch of tribes which have got nothing in common with the Burmese except the browness of their skins.

I remember once falling in with a party of Kachins who had been down to the plains getting rid of pigs and fowls and honey, and receiving in exchange gaudy cotton goods. I walked with them—all of us trudging zigzag, Indian file, up the jungled mountainside to their temporary village.

I knew when I was approaching the village, because curious bamboo devices, hung with tufts of colored wool, had been erected to keep away the evil spirits. My casual friends were will disposed, and I got sleeping accommodation in the house of the head man, an oblong, low-built house, rather like a Noah's ark, raised from the ground, without windows and divided into various apartments.

The Kachins are divided into many sub-tribes, or minor clans. The chieftain is called the sawbwa. The various tribes are distinguished by their customs, some shaving the head, except for a topknot, and other allowing the hair to grow tangled.

The Kachin, as a rule, is a short man, averaging 5 feet 4 inches, while the women, short, podgy and unlovable, are rarely taller than five feet. The man is slim and weedy, and though apparently lacking in muscle is capable of much endurance.

The variety of types of countenance among the people is most marked. Some are curly-haired and, thick-lipped and others are fairish skinned and have straight hair. Then you come across oblique eyes and aquiline noses, while in an adjoining village the eyes are round and the nose is a misshapen dump in the middle of the face. Mostly, however, the eye is oblique, telling of descent from the Tartars.

As might be expected, the Kachins are soaked in superstition. Illness always indicates that some nat or devil is displeased. Accordingly, presents of eggs or fish or fowl, or even a buffalo, have to be made in proportion to the danger and stringency of the pain.

The funeral ceremony is singular. When death occurs there is much clatter, and if anybody has a gun it is fired. The coffin is usually the scooped-out trunk of a tree, and just when the tree is being felled a fowl is beaten to death against the stem.

Money is always put into the mouth of the deceased, for a long journey is to be taken and tolls will have to be paid in crossing the rivers by ferry. At dawn next day some of the relatives return to the grave and place by it a piece of pork and some sheroo—a native drink.

The Kachins have no religion except the worship of nats, or spirits. Yet, through the terror and fog of superstition, there is to be found a kind of belief in a Supreme Being. This is a nat called Chinun Way Shun who existed long before there was any world. He created the other nats.

That the dead go "somewhere" most Kachins believe, but they do not know and do not care about the place. There does not appear to be any separation of the good or the bad, or any thought of "heaven" or "hell." This applies to most of the tribes, though one or two of them think there are places for the good and other places of the wicked.

The prevailing thought, however, is that everything that happens is due to spirits. When a Kachin's liver is out of order, and he feels seedy, he is fairly sure that the spirit of some wicked uncle or aunt or jealous brother is causing all the trouble. Therefore, first of all, he consults the Tumsa. The Tumsa indulges in a lot of hocus-pocus, and at last announces which nat is offended. Then the Tumsa delivers a long sing-song exposition to the spirit, and a buffalo or pig or chicken is sacrificed. The only warfare in which the Kachins engage is raids on peaceful villages in the valleys. The head of an enemy is cut off, and usually brought along with the spoil, so that the Kachin may be accepted by his friends as a first-class warrior.

Points For Mothers.

Every mother dreads the "awkward age," especially for her girls. Its harm lies more in the fact of its moral effect than its physical, for a child who knows she is gawky and ungainly loses all self confidence in both work and play.

Gymnastic exercises are the obvious remedy, but unless they unconsciously influence the child to perform better the everyday acts of sitting, standing and walking they fail of their purpose, for of what use are five minutes of chest expansion if the girl goes about the rest of the day with slumping shoulders?

More important than this is to make the exercise a pleasure—play instead of work. The child will then turn to them without urging and forget to be self conscious in her enjoyment of them. Music for even the simplest movements will give this pleasure, and "natural dancing" will combine sufficient exercise for every part of the body, for a "natural dancer" sways the arms, head and trunk in addition to the footwork.

To really deserve the name this kind of dancing should be spontaneous, with the spontaneity of the little street children who dance around the hurdy gurdy. But really all it amounts to is a rhythmic combination of the less strenuous of the gymnastic exercises.

If there is no school of dancing to send the daughters to, do exercises yourself with her. Twenty minutes a day will be a good frolic for you both. Compose the dances yourself, for there is an indefinite number of combinations.

Plain skipping about as though waltzing or running very slightly on the tips of the toes will be sufficient for the feet while swaying with arms and trunk. The only rule is that the arms flow back gently in the direction from which you are running just as though you had left them behind. Backward bending, side bending, whirling, leaping and bowing are some of the motions that will occur to you.

A rotary swaying motion with the arms above the head may be taken while kneeling on one knee. This allows for chest expansion and a strengthening of the waist muscles. The arms should generally be slightly curved in that palm downward position that best conceals a bony elbow. The head should be held erect by seeming to stretch the muscles of the back of the neck rather than by lifting the chin.

Sentiments For a Mother.

The following lines are exquisite when done in illuminated lettering and simply framed and may be given at a stork shower:

THE MOTHER TO HER FIRSTBORN.

God keep thee, soft warm thing,
Now nestled to my breast.
A prayer o'er thee I sing,
That God will bless thy rest.

I kiss thine eyes so dear,
Closed in slumber deep.
I kiss thy lips so near.
God kiss thee in thy sleep.

—Crawford.

A partnership with God is motherhood.
What strength, what purity, what self control,
What love, what wisdom, should belong to her
Who helps God fashion an immortal soul!

—Mary Wood Allen.

Pins in the Nursery.

If you do not want your child's beauty marred with scratches, not to speak of his life endangered, see that safety pins are provided in quantity for the nursery. If there are plenty of all sizes ever at hand there will be less danger of substituting the common pin in a hurry.

One of the favorite and most sensible gifts for the new baby is a series of rings suspended by a ribbon and hung with safety pins of all sizes. For a somewhat handsomer gift are gold and silver safety pins. These are useful not only on baby, but are just the thing to pin the corner of mother's apron bib that there may be no possibility of a brass safety pin being mouthed by the prying youngster.

Keep Spectacles Bright.

If the little ones are obliged to wear glasses see that they are taken off two or three times a day and polished.

Dust and perspiration soon accumulate, the glasses become dim and the eyes get strained trying to look through them in this condition. If the glasses look greasy and will not polish rub them with a little methylated spirit and then polish them with a chamois leather.

GERMANY'S NORTH SEA NAVAL BASES ALARMING TO BRITONS

FAVORS FLIRTING AFTER MARRIAGE

Lady McLaren Calls Home Flirtation the Secret of Happiness.

SHOULD BE IN PRIVATE

West End London Club Cynic Declares It Would Bore Both Husband and Wife.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, Saturday.

LADY M'LAREN asserts that wives should flirt—with their husbands. And as Lady McLaren is the author of the "Women's Charter," as they term the nine bills bearing on the liberties and rights of women which Sir Charles McLaren sponsored in the House of Commons, her affirmation that this home flirtation proposition is the secret of domestic bliss has attracted more than passing attention and discussion.

"Every man," said she, "wants a wife who is never too overburdened to hook her frock straight and wear a clean collar and laugh and flirt with her husband."

"Many husbands and wives, after a few years of matrimony, settle down into a sort of dull, colorless respectability," said Lady Troubridge, a well known novelist,

LADY McLAREN
AUTHOR OF "THE WOMEN'S CHARTER"

in approving Lady McLaren's contention. "Frankly, they lose interest in each other; they need waking up. A clever wife could prevent just such a catastrophe by judiciously flirting with her husband. But by flirting I do not mean the reviving of the kittenish airs and graces of 'sweet seventeen.' An attempt of that kind might have exactly an opposite effect.

"I mean she should flatter him occasionally, tell him that he is a very good fellow, show him plainly that her love and affection for him are even stronger than in their courtship days. It is a well known fact, that to love is much better than to be in love. The former is a full grown tree, the latter a little sapling planted in the earth. Happy husbands and wives realise this truism more and more as they go through life, and flirtation keeps them young hearted and gay. Indeed, I believe in wives flirting with their husbands."

"Flirting between husband and wife would bore them both to death," insisted a prominent bon vivant, one of the cynics of a West End club, but who objected a pledge that his name would not appear in print. "I don't think it is fair to expect the roses and raptures of love to outlive the first few years of married life. After a few years of matrimony no woman's heart beats quickly when she hears her husband's foot upon the stair. And I don't see what good is going to be got by her pretending that it does. Thus flirting would bore both husband and wife. It would be an empty, hollow farce. It would be lamb without mint sauce."

"I certainly believe with Lady McLaren that wives should flirt with their husbands," said a well known authoress. "But there should be a stipulation that such flirtations should be held in private. Husbands and wives who persist in carrying out flirtations at 'at homes' and at dinners should be tabooed from society. Such people sit and talk with each other, dance together and generally ignore every one else. There are many ways of flirting. For instance a man may bring his wife a bunch of flowers and thus do more good toward restoring domestic happiness than hours of conversation. I do not advocate the silly, 'kissing and cuddling' of courtship days, but an occasional caress between husband and wife banishes the worries and and discontents of life."

THE UMBRIA'S LAST TRIP NOW NEAR

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, Saturday.

FOLLOWING her sister ship, the Etruria, which was disposed of last year for breaking up purposes, the steamship Umbria is scheduled shortly to bid farewell to the Mersey and make her final voyage to a ship breaker's yard.

Two Liverpool will lose a steamship which has been widely known for more than a quarter of a century not only among transatlantic travellers but by all who have taken an interest in Liverpool's liners. Built in 1884, the Umbria was a great improvement in speed and general equipment upon her predecessors, and with her twin craft, the Etruria, she maintained a rapid service between England and America. She was a record breaker and developed twenty knots.

Compared in size with the Mauretania and Lusitania she is, of course, very small, her gross tonnage being only 8,128. In speed, however, the development has not been so abnormal, the twenty-five knots of the crack liners meaning only five knots higher than that of the Umbria.

TO PORTRAY FAMOUS FIGURES OF THE PAST

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, Saturday.

JULIUS CAESAR and Queen Elizabeth, the Duke of Wellington and Joan of Arc, Oliver Cromwell, King Alfred (of Cake fame), and the Black Prince—these are a few of the famous figures of the past who will seem to have stepped out of the pages of the history books to appear at the forthcoming army pageant at Fulham Palace.

The scheme of the pageant, which will be held in aid of the Incorporated Soldiers and Sailors' Help Society, from June 30 to July 2, is an ambitious one. It is intended to show, in many picturesque episodes, the evolution of the British army and its methods of warfare from the days of the primitive Briton, who did most of his fighting with hands, teeth and a jagged lump of rock, down through the ages to the coming of the skilled fighting machine of the present day.

Ancient Britons, clad in skins and woad, will perform a sort of prelude to the pageant proper. They will be seen engaged in warlike pursuits, and practising the best methods of slaying their enemies, with stone axe, javelin or club. Rather more civilised methods and weapons will be introduced with the coming of the Gaels, Scots and Belgae. The last named were really quite skilled in warfare. They used some sort of military formation, instead of every man choosing an opponent and biting him in the neck, and they even went so far as to use cavalry scouts. How his skill availed against the Roman invasion will be seen in the second part of the prelude, when only the arrival of the great Caesar himself with the Tenth Legion prevents the driving back of the first Roman invaders into the sea.

FROM 510 A. D. TO MODERNITY.

After this preliminary clearing of the historical grounds comes the pageant proper. It will be divided into two parts. The first will deal with striking military episodes and battles between 510 A. D. and 1645 A. D., and the second will show living pictures of famous regiments in modern fights.

A peep at King Arthur, he of the Round Table, in one of his battles will make a beginning of the first part. The next episode will show how King Alfred and his warriors repelled a Danish host with fearful losses, including most of the royal family, on the part of the latter. From this history moves on until the time of the battle of Hastings, where William the Conqueror will be seen victorious, and King Harold succumbs from the effect of a Norman arrow in his eye. Then, after some Scottish fighting at Dupplin Muir, the scene changes to France and the battle of Crecy. Here will be depicted the famous incident of the Prince of Wales donning the helmet of the dead King of Bohemia, and thus acquiring the three feathers.

More episodes will show the battles of Mount Auray and Agincourt. In the following scenes two of the most popular figures in the pageant, Joan of Arc and Queen Elizabeth, will play their parts. Joan, most beautifully clad in a white satin surcoat, powdered with fleurs de lis, scarlet jerkin and bright armor, will be seen at the battle of Patay, riding a white horse decked out in blue and gold trappings. Queen Elizabeth, in equally gorgeous raiment, will appear at a reproduction of her review of London volunteers at Greenwich. Cromwell and his Ironsides, performing great feats of valor at the battle of Naseby, will make an end of the first half of the pageant.

There are more dramatic possibilities about the second part of the pageant. Men drawn from famous regiments will play the parts of their forerunners and show history in the making in the Peninsula campaign. Minden, Dettingen, Badajos and Corunna will be among the battles represented, and men from one regiment in particular, the Welsh Fusiliers, who went right through the campaign, will bear no small part in the pageant. Men from other regiments which share in these traditions have shown great eagerness to take part in the pageant, and those concerned in one particular scene have gone so far as to ask permission to grow side whiskers in preparation so that they may more exactly resemble the soldiers of a hundred years ago, and that without the help of "make-up."

One of these battles, that of Dettingen, which was fought on June 27, 1743, is noteworthy because it was the last at which a British sovereign was present in person; and in the pageant version of this engagement the monarch in question, George II., will be a prominent figure. Another episode that should lend itself to fine effects is that of the battle of Corunna and the death of Sir John Moore. The Welsh Fusiliers aforementioned still have the original keys of Coruna in their possession, and these will be brought to London to play their part in the pageant. Probably the most impressive scene of all will come at the end of this episode, with the carrying off of the body of Sir John Moore to the accompaniment of the bugle sounding the "last post."

In the battle of Barossa men from the Royal Irish Fusiliers will take part with fine effect. The storming of Badajos is the last engagement represented, and as a spectacle it should prove the most striking of all. The incident of Lieutenant Macpherson, of the Forty-fifth, pulling down the tricolor from the topmost tower of the fortress and replacing it with his own red jacket will make a fine finish to the dramatic storming of the dame-lit city. A grand finale, entitled "Service Is Power," in which all the performers will appear, will bring the pageant to an end.

GREAT UNDERTAKING.

To put together such a pageant as this is no light undertaking. The preparations have been going on steadily since last November, and since then there has been little rest for Lord Cheylesmore, the organiser and leader; Mr. Benson, the master of the pageant; Miss Burn Murdoch, the mistress of the robes, or indeed for any of those concerned. All the five thousand performers have had to be fitted with costumes, many of them have had to be measured for armor as well, and the crippled soldiers in whose aid the pageant is being held have long been busy in their workshops making little else but shields, swords, spears and other fearsome weapons in great quantities. All the civilian performers are volunteers, and all have to pay the cost of their own costumes, but despite this there has been no lack of persons anxious to take part. So far as possible performers are given some choice as to the part they will represent, and many have bought a costume already made and taken up the part pertaining to it. Of course, for one or two characters there has been quite a rush. Joan of Arc seemed quite the most popular of all, and it was some time before the pageant master could get the applicants sorted out.

Finally, however, the choice fell on Mrs. Henry Hohler, of York, the second daughter of Sir George Wombwell, who is himself a Crimean veteran and a survivor of the "Charge of the Light Brigade." Mrs. Hohler is a fine horsewoman and took the part of Queen Isabella in the York pageant last year. As there is a certain amount of risk attached to Joan's part one or two understudies will be in readiness to take her place if anything should go wrong. The Duke of Wellington and the Duke of Marlborough are also parts much sought after, and one claimant for the latter stated that he was the very image of the Duke and had the same mental characteristics. It is hoped, however, that some members of these two families will consent to represent their ancestors, and it is even said that a member of the royal family may perhaps take up a part in the pageant.

If only the weather will be kind success for the spectacle should be assured. So far as the spectators are concerned, even the weather may be disregarded. A grand stand, covering an acre of ground and large enough to accommodate seven thousand people, is being erected, and every seat in it, from the cheapest to the most expensive, will be protected from the wind or rain.

No fewer than two hundred and fifty women offered to impersonate Joan of Arc in the forthcoming army pageant in England despite the fact that the one playing the part will not only have to ride astride while wearing a suit of armor, but lead a charge of knights. Eventually, Mrs. Henry Hohler was chosen. Mrs. Hohler will have to lead the French knights against the English. She is to be understudied by Mrs. Reginald Glossop, of Halsthorpe. There will be at least one other understudy.

"WIND JAMMER" FAST DISAPPEARING

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, Saturday.

How rapidly the mercantile "wind jammer" is disappearing from the ocean is illustrated by the returns, just issued, by Lloyds' Register of Shipping of the vessels being built in Great Britain at the end of March. From this return it appears that, excluding war ships, there were 386 vessels, of 1,067,636 tons gross under construction at that time. This was made up of 249 steamships of a gross tonnage of 1,052,897, as against 338 of a gross tonnage of 902,968, on March 31, 1909, and 37 sailing ships of a gross tonnage of 4,749, as against 61, of a gross tonnage of 4,749 at the corresponding date a year ago.

"BIG BEN" LACKING IN TONE, LONDON HEARS IN ALARM

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, Saturday.

"BIG BEN" is in disgrace. Every one in London knows "Big Ben," and no stranger who comes to London can be long in town before he knows "Big Ben," too, the big bell which, with his four little brothers, strikes the hours, quarters and half hours away up in the tower at the Houses of Parliament. When "Big Ben" and his four little brothers are having their periodical clean-up their deep toned chimes are very much missed and the watches of Londoners get all out of time.

It is Mr. Wooding Starmer who has sounded the alarm about "Big Ben." Lecturing at the Royal Institution the other evening, he said that the tone the bell gave out was not so good as it should be. "Nothing but serious injury," he said, "could result from the cutting of holes in the sound bowls, although it is said that the holes were cut to ascertain the extent of a crack. However, it is certain that the holes and the crack seriously mar the tone."

This came as a great surprise to many, for no one had ever heard that either Big Ben or any one of his four little brothers had a crack or holes punched in him. Messrs. F. Dent & Co., of the Strand, who have charge of the Westminster clock, confess that all is not well.

"We quite agree," said the manager of the firm, "with what Mr. Starmer has said regarding the hour bell, and we certainly think a new one should be cast in its place, but it would be a great job to take the bell down.

"The history of 'Big Ben' is a curious one," he continued. "'Big Ben' and the four quarters were cast about 1856. The first 'Big Ben' weighed about sixteen tons and was not a success and it was recast. The new one was not so heavy, weighing only thirteen and one-half tons. Within a year a crack or flaw developed near the mouth of the bell. The result was that the striking hammer could only be about half the weight necessary to bring out its full tone, no doubt on account of the risk of the crack going further.

"The question of the bells was considered by an influential committee at the time, assisted by Mr. Turle, the eminent organist of Westminster Abbey, and they approved the quality of the tone, so nothing has been done since."

The chimes of 'Big Ben' are set at the following tunes:—

"All through this hour, Lord, be my guide,
And by Thy power no foot shall slide."

NO KING LUD IN LONDON PAGEANT

Legendary Founder of City Found Wanting by the Advocates of Historic Fact.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, Saturday.

ANOTHER old historic, or one might rather say legendary, illusion has gone the way of many others. The claims of King Lud, who, according to ancient chronicles and present tradition, gave his name to London, have been weighed and found wanting by the committee of experts who are responsible for the historical accuracy of the pageant of London.

All arrangements had been made for King Lud's inclusion in the pageant. Accompanied by his queen he was to have been the leading character in the opening episode, a picturesque scene showing the ancient Britons in their settlement on the River Fleet before Roman foot had trodden British soil. King Lud, in the person of Sir Melville Beachcroft, erstwhile chairman of the London County Council, who is an indefatigable worker on behalf of the pageant, was to have been presented in the very act of laying the foundation stone of the gate which is still popularly supposed to bear his name—Ludgate.

The very date had been fixed, June 21, the day of the great druidical festival of the summer solstice, the White Holy Suntide, when, according to a Welsh tradition, the Gorsedd circle was by means of a metal mirror flooded with the beams of the Life Giver. The archdruid and druids were to have been seen blessing the site, while King Lud commanded that the gate of London be erected thereon and known by his own name of "Caer Liud."

From the first, however, the historians of the pageant committee were dubious as to the wisdom of giving official countenance to King Lud:—

"That mighty Lud, in whose eternal name Great London still shall live," and to satisfy their scruples a note was printed in the programme stating that King Lud was the only character in the pageant for whose authenticity the historians would not be responsible. Ludgate, according to them, was not even opened until the twelfth century, while, as to the name "Ludgate" some etymologists claim that it is good old English for a postern, and others that it comes from "leode," which is Saxon for people.

Many letters pointing out the flaws in Lud's claim reached the committee, and King Lud, picturesque personality though he might be, began to weigh heavily on the collective conscience of the historians. There was a struggle—a peaceful one—between the forces of historical fact and the influence of romance and tradition. Victory fell to the former, and the historians passed a half reluctant and wholly friendly sentence of banishment against London's legendary founder. He was only a river god, they explained to the impersonator, and had no existence except in the imagination. And so, although the opening scene will be retained, there will be no King Lud and no foundation laid at the London pageant.

SOUTH AFRICA MAY BE SOCIAL MECCA

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, Saturday.

There is a prospect that this summer South Africa will receive a large share of the patronage of aristocratic and other well to do families who are in the position to take an extended vacation. As in the world of commerce trade is said to "follow the flag," so in the social world there are scores ever eager to follow in the footsteps of the royal family. The fact that the Prince and Princess of Wales are to visit South Africa, when His Royal Highness is to open the first Parliament of the Union, and afterward make a prolonged tour through the country has invested South Africa with an additional glamour in the eyes of many personages in society.

Although their Royal Highnesses' visit will not take place till near the end of the summer, social leaders are already canvassing the possibility of forming parties

KING WILL VISIT MRS. JOHN WARD

Plans Have Been Made for a Sojourn at Chilton Lodge, Residence of Mr. Whitelaw Reid's Daughter.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, Saturday.

It has been arranged that when King Edward returns to England from Biarritz he will pay a visit for a few days to Mr. and Mrs. John Ward, the latter being a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, at Chilton Lodge, Hungerford. Mrs. Ward is now stopping with her mother at the Château St. Michal, Cannes, while Mr. Ward is at Biarritz as gentleman in waiting to the King.

Chilton is the beautiful residence in Berkshire which the American Ambassador purchased as a wedding gift for his daughter from Sir Alexander Henderson. Since then the whole house has been renovated and altered, and it contains quantities of valuable old furniture, pictures and carvings, as well as a good collection of early English glass and china.

BIG NAVAL CRUISE IN THE NRTH SEA

British Admiralty Will Have Hundred War Gft Meet for General Mateuvres.

WORRIED BY GRMANY

Kaiser's Powerful Defence nd Bases at Wilhelmshaven Cause Caustic and Sarcastic Press Con ent.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, Saturday.

WILHELMSHAVEN! If you want to make an Englishman glance involuntarily in the direction of the North Sea, no matter if he be standing on the docks at Liverpool, just breathe that word once, and you can pronounce it as rightly as you like, too. After all the war scare features that were paraded during the late Parliamentary election there was finally a storm of popular discussion when the word came that the first Dreadnought squadron of Germany had steamed from Kiel, in the Baltic, to take up its base at Wilhelmshaven, in the North Sea.

This fact was interpreted in Great Britain as the formal announcement that Germany's great North Sea quadrilateral of defences and naval bases had been sufficiently completed to afford the requisite shelter to the inaugural division of the high sea Dreadnought fleet. Experts in affairs of war contend that Wilhelmshaven, Emden, Borkum and Heligoland form the greatest quadrilateral of naval fortresses which the world ever has known. The fortified island of Borkum is held to combine with the gaping guns of Emden to accentuate the importance of the Ems estuary in the new scheme for the future. Borkum connects with Heligoland, where important engineering efforts are being made to prevent erosion of the island by the sea, through the almost impassable chain of the East Frisian Islands. Heligoland, in its turn, often called the Gibraltar of the North, closes with its fortifications the estuaries of the Weser and the Elbe, completing with the mighty fortress harbor of Wilhelmshaven the vast quadrilateral of defences which enclose, with a bastion configuration that approximates one hundred miles in length each face and sixty miles on each flank, about a score of islands that bristle with sunken fortifications massed with innumerable monster guns, together with ositions of huge strength that form links o the mainland.

OTHER ADVANTAGES.

This arrangement allows to great waterways of the Elbe, Weser and he Ems in case of need to carry the resources of the country direct to the wharves ringing these fortified centres. Mighty docks have been constructed at Emden, to which hundreds of thousands of soldiers might be quickly transported by a network of railways strategically arranged. Why England talks much about this new arrangement of German defences across the North Sea is shown by an editorial article which has appeared in the Pall Mall Gazette.

"Within two-thirds of a day's steaming of the British coasts, within half a day's reach of the entrance of the Baltic," asserts this naval expert, whose pen produced the article with its ironical confessions, "these naval fortresses afford a guarantee of absolute seclusion and repose to the inland sea of the North, which should fill with confidence and calm every believer in that millennium shortly to be chanted by disarming soldiers and sailors, sobbing for peaceful joy, as arranged for the crowning scene of the next military tournament.

"When in a few years the sixty battle ships and cruiser battle ships of the Dreadnought fleet of Germany are ranged in readiness behind those tremendous defences every Englishman ought to feel that the prosperity and free trade of his ancient country can now flourish unalarmed beneath the sheltering wing of the new Sea Eagles of the Kaiser.

ELECTRIC NEEDLES MAY CURE CANCER

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, Saturday.

DR. G. BETTON MASSEY, of the Chicago Oncological Hospital, is the first surgeon who has performed an operation for cancer in England by what is known as the new ionic surgery, and so far as observations go at the present time the operation looks like being successful. It was a serious case, too, which had been baffling the staff at the London Cancer Hospital.

Very soon after the cancerous growth was pierced by the three needles coated with mercury the cancer became blanched and shrivelled up under the electric current. The growth was eventually killed and a zone of reaction was formed round the seat of the disease. The entire absence of bleeding was a notable feature of the operation, and Dr. Massey considers that recurrence is prevented.

Before Dr. Massey was permitted to operate he had to appear before the authorities at the hospital and explain to them fully the aim and scope of his work, which he has been studying for many years.

SECTION NO. 4.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Trent Canal," will be received until 16 o'clock on Thursday, the 5th May, 1910, for the works connected with the construction of Section No. 4, Ontario-Rice Lake Division of the Canal.

Plans, specifications and the form of the contract to be entered into, can be seen on and after this date at the office of the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, and at the office of the Superintending Engineer, Trent Canal, Peterborough, Ont., at which places forms of tender may be obtained.

Parties tendering will be required to accept the fair wages schedule prepared or to be prepared by the Department of Labour, which schedule will form part of the contract.

Contractors are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and in the case of firms, unless there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation and the place of residence of each member of the firm.

An accepted bank cheque for the sum of $30,000.00 made payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Railways and Canals must accompany each tender, which sum will be forfeited, if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work, at the rates stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent will be returned to the respective contractors whose tenders are not accepted.

The cheque of the successful tenderer will be held as security or part security for the due fulfilment of the contract to be entered into.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

Planning the Home Grounds

How to Lay Out the Flower Beds and Secure Attractive Landscape Gardening Effects by Good and Bad Planting

By A. T. Erwin

Associate Professor Department of Horticulture and Forestry, Iowa State College

THERE are two important problems which confront one who is interested in the improvement of the home grounds, the one being what to plant and the other where to plant. Of the two the second should be considered first, since the most commonplace things if properly placed will give a good effect, and, on the other hand, no matter how choice or rare a shrub may be, unless it is rightly located and given a proper setting the result is only discord.

The most common mistake made by the amateur is at this point. The one who builds wisely must first develop a plan to work by. Similarly the improvement of the home grounds demands a well developed scheme, and the smaller the lawn the more important it is to have a plan in order that the limited space may be profitably utilized.

Lawn planting may serve a threefold purpose. It may be used as a screen to hide unsightly sheds and outbuildings from the front; second, to assist in the development of a landscape picture of the home as a whole, and, third, to provide a supply of cut flowers. All planting should be done with the ultimate purpose of forming a picture. The home itself should stand out as the distinctive and fundamental feature of this picture, and the trees, shrubbery and grass should serve as the framework and background to set it off.

To secure this effect there are certain simple suggestions which may be followed. First of all, we should have an open front. For the area immediately in front of the buildings there is nothing so appropriate as a well kept piece of lawn, and this area should be kept entirely free of flower beds, shrubbery or other planting.

The major portion of the planting of either trees or shrubbery should be along the sides or what is termed "flank planting." The nooks and corners about the base of the buildings serve as excellent places for low growing shrubs such as the bridal wreath. The shrubbery and plants along the border should be set about two and one-half feet apart so as to form a thick, compact mass. In this way the effect is much better than where they are scattered so that each one stands out as a distinct individual and, on the other hand, is much more convenient at mowing time, being grouped into a solid clump. In the planting of shrubbery avoid any stiff geometrical arrangement. Place some of the shrubs farther out than others, so that the front line is prominent at certain points and recedes at others. You can also secure variation by giving some regard to the height of the different kinds, arranging so that the bed will be low in some places and higher at others, thus giving a wavy sky line.

In selecting a list of flowering shrubbery one must be guided largely by local conditions, as the varieties which are perfectly hardy in one section may prove worthless in another. There are two points, however, which should be observed for all sections. Select only hardy, vigorous varieties. Tender and half sickly plants always detract from the appearance of a place and are not worth worrying with. The second point to observe is to select varieties which will provide successive bloom periods. Some shrubs, such as the Siberian almond and the June berry, blossom before the snows are scarcely past, so that one may have a continuation of bloom or floral calendar from then to the first frosts of autumn. Even for the winter period there are certain kinds which are especially desirable for their winter effects. The bright red bark of the Siberian dogwood or red hips or berries of the Japanese rose and the fruit of the wahobs are excellent examples of this class.

On the small lawn there is not room for many trees. It is usually desirable to have shade from the hot afternoon sun in summer, so that one or two trees located at the southwest side of the house will add shade and comfort. If possible, a few trees should also be planted to the rear of the house to serve as a background, as the effect is much better in this case than where the buildings stand out against the bare sky line. It is a mistake to plant many evergreens on a small lawn, as they are broad at the base and narrow upward; hence they naturally obstruct the view. The beauty of an evergreen lies in its symmetry, and every branch, from the one next to the grass to the youngest at the top, should be in place. The oldest and largest branches are those nearest the ground, and the pruning off of the lower branches, which is frequently done to open up the view, seriously mars the specimen. In the majority of such cases the mistake was made in selecting an evergreen for this location. Some deciduous tree which is rather open beneath, such as the white elm, should have been planted instead.

The location of the walk is also an important feature of the landscape. Walks are to be considered purely as a matter of necessity and convenience. They do not in any way add to the attractiveness of the landscape. Since they exist for the convenience of the public they should lead primarily in the direction that people wish to travel. If the house is less than fifty feet from the street it is generally best to run the walk straight out from the building, as any curve introduced in this short distance is apt to appear forced and unnatural. On the other hand, if the house is set farther back a more satisfactory effect can often be secured by introducing a curve and leading the walk in more along one side. This also has the effect of keeping the front lawn in one piece, whereas a walk through the center bisects it, making it appear smaller than it would otherwise. If a curve is introduced the inside of the curve is a very logical place for a clump of low growing shrubbery or for a flower bed. By grouping the shrubbery along the border there is provided an excellent background for a flower border. This is a strip two and one-half or three feet in width along the front of the shrubbery. Here may be located early spring flowering tulips, with geraniums and scarlet sage. In fact, this is a very appropriate place for all kinds of bedding plants.

The philosophy of the spring flowering bulb is that of "making hay while the sun shines." The preceding year the new flower is formed, and for its nourishment there is stored up a liberal supply of food; consequently with the first warm days of spring the blossoms are ready to expand to their full grandeur and beauty.

This fact also conveys a suggestion to the planter. The time to prepare for spring bulbs is in the fall. The latter half of October is a good time for the planting, the idea being to get them in sufficiently early to secure root development before winter sets in.

The next step is that of mulching. The essential idea of a mulch is not to keep plants warm, but rather to keep them cold. Frequent variations in temperature are destructive to plant life. The cover is applied after the ground has frozen, its purpose being to keep it frozen until danger from late frosts is past. The removal of the mulch should be delayed until growth begins under it. Pine needles make an ideal mulch. Straw may be used.

In arranging the varieties care should be exercised to secure color harmony on the one hand and contrast on the other. Color combinations are largely a matter of individual taste. Some prefer the entire bed of one color.

Early in June the tops turn yellow and die down. This indicates that the plant has completed its cycle and that the new bulb for next year's crop has been formed. The bed may now be given over to summer bedding plants, the bulbs being stored in layers of sand in a cool cellar until fall.

Managing Director Maple Leaf Milling Company, Limited.

NEW COMPANY A GOING CONCERN.

Maple Leaf Milling Company, Limited, is a new company which has taken over the whole undertaking as a going concern of the Maple Leaf Flour Mills Company, Limited, including therein that of the Hedley Shaw Milling Company Limited. The company has mills at Kenora, Thorold, St. Catharines, Welland, and Port Colborne (the last named in course of construction) in the Province of Ontario and at Brandon in the Province of Manitoba. When the construction at present under way at Port Colborne is completed the company will have a total milling capacity of 12,800 barrels per day. The company has at present thirty-five elevators situated throughout the Western Wheat Belt, and fifteen additional ones are being added at the present time. A million bushel elevator is being constructed next to the new mill at Port Colborne. The company has also warehouses and offices at Toronto, Winnipeg, Kingston, Ottawa, and Montreal.

MARKET FOR OUTPUT.

The rapid growth of the business of the two companies taken over has long made apparent the necessity of additional milling capacity. Further, the tremendous increase in the total output from the Western wheat belt makes it absolutely necessary to have more mills in Canada to handle it. Last year the output of the Western wheat belt amounted to about 125,000,000 bushels, and men who have made a close study of the development that the Western country is likely to see, estimate that by the end of the year 1920 Canada will be producing at the rate of fully 500,000,000 bushels annually. As in the past, a great proportion of this large production will of necessity find its way into Canadian mills. Larger demands are bound to come as the population of the country increases, and the enquiry for the Canadian product, both from Great Britain and from the foreign markets of the world, will increase. The chain of mills that is now controlled by the new company will enable it to go ahead and secure its full share of the trade of every section of Canada, as well as to obtain even a very much larger proportion of the export business to Great Britain and to foreign markets than it has up to the present time.

SECURITY AND EARNING POWER: The assets of the old Companies taken over as above stand in excess of all liabilities and without any allowance for good-will, trade marks, etc., at $3,770,524.11, this amount being ascertained on the basis of an appraisal by the Canadian-American Appraisal Company, Limited, as of March 17th, 1910, of the capital assets taken over, and the certificate of Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Company, as of February 28th, 1910, as to current assets and current liabilities, with a liberal allowance for all contingencies. There has also been placed in the Treasury $1,000,000 of additional cash, which, besides permitting of the completion of a 6,000 barrel mill and a million bushel elevator and storage warehouse at Port Colborne, and of fifteen additional elevators in the West, will provide the new Company with further working capital.

As per certificate of Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Company, of London, quoted below, the earnings of the old Company on the present plant amounted from September 25th, 1908, to August 20th, 1909, to $218,843.38
And from August 21st, 1909, to February 28th, 1910, to $166,793.29
being for the latter period at a rate equal to over 13 per cent. on the preferred stock of the Company.

The following is the certificate of Price, Waterhouse & Company:—

"Commercial Union Building,
"Montreal, April 4, 1910.

"Messrs. Cawthra Mulock & Company, Toronto,

"Gentlemen:—

"We have examined the books of the Maple Leaf Flour Mills Company, Limited, which include the transactions carried on under the name of The Hedley Shaw Milling Company, Limited, at Toronto and Branches, from September 25th, 1908 (prior to which date the Company's principal mills were not completed nor in operation) to February 28th, 1910, and we certify that the profits for the period, after making provision for depreciation, but before charging interest on loans, were as follows:—

From September 25th, 1908, to August 20th, 1909 ..... $218,843.38
From August 21st, 1909, to February 28th, 1910 ..... $166,793.29

"Yours very truly,
"PRICE, WATERHOUSE & CO."

MANAGEMENT.

The properties of the old companies have been constructed and developed under the direction of Mr. Hedley Shaw, late General Manager of The Hedley-Shaw Milling Company, Limited, and of The Maple Leaf Flour Mills Company, Limited, and Mr. D. C. Cameron, late President of The Maple Leaf Flour Mills Company, Limited. Both these gentlemen will retain large interests in the new Company, besides being actively identified with it. Mr. Hedley Shaw will occupy the position of Managing Director of the new Company, thus giving to it the full benefit of his long practical experience.

FAVORABLE LOCATION OF NEW LARGE MILLS.

The location of the new large mill at Port Colborne is without exception the best there is in Canada. This mill when completed, in addition to having the large capacity mentioned, will have one of the most modern equipments in the world. The Company at all times will be able to keep it well supplied with wheat. In addition to its own 1,000,000 bushel elevator, which will be situated just alongside of the mill, the Company will be able to make arrangements to have the last steamers, coming down from the West at the end of the season of navigation, tie up for the winter months at the elevator and in this way afford additional storage capacity without any necessity of any capital outlay for it. Should at any time the Company find it advisable to do so, it will also be able to draw from the Government elevator, which will be situated on the same pier as its Port Colborne mill.

The location of the Company's mills is such as to provide a ready market for the bye-products of each. The greater part of the milling capacity will be in Ontario, where, as Government statistics show, a smaller amount of wheat is being grown each year as the farmers go in more and more for stock-raising. This means a brisk demand for the bye-products of the mills for feed.

A complete report on the advantages of the Port Colborne site, prepared by Mr. Hedley Shaw, will be found in the prospectus.

Prospectuses and forms of application may be obtained at any branch of the Imperial Bank of Canada or The Royal Bank of Canada, from Guardian Trust Company, Limited, Toronto, and from Cawthra Mulock and Company, Toronto.

THE CHEAPER CUTS OF MEAT

From Farm and Dairy.

The wide-spread agitation in regard to prices of food, and especially of meat, which has existed during the last few months, should lead to reforms in many directions. There are so many sides to the matter of food economy that it is small wonder if some important points are lost sight of in the rush of every-day living. For instance, the market price is not the final price of the food. The amount of waste that is paid for before meat is delivered to the cook increases its cost and there is an appalling waste in the trimmings and bones of the more expensive cuts of meat. This is not alone a question of loss of weight, but of nutriment, too. There is a choice in so simple a matter as buying stew meats, although one does not expect waste in cheaper cuts. A bit of fat does not harm, but pieces of meat containing much white skin are largely waste and this means something, even at 8 cents a lb.

The question of how much is thrown away in the kitchen also regulates the final cost. If food is attractively cooked it will be eaten without waste. The size of the portions or the frequency with which certain foods are served are also factors in the final cost. As a rule, people eat more than they need. An expensive nutritive food can be furnished in proper amount for a moderate sum, provided, the palate is satisfied with a good soup for instance, which is nicely flavored and made from the bones and scraps. The soup has no nutritive value but satisfies the appetite in a degree and prevents overeating.

Aside from these questions is the one of actual first cost of various cuts of meat. Pound for pound, the cheaper cuts contain more nutriment than the dearer ones. By skilful cooking they can be made as acceptable to the palate. Generally speaking, we like the taste of meat that is browned by roasting or frying better than boiled or stewed meat. It is possible to prepare the cheaper cuts with this browned taste.

A roast quite good enough for any table can be prepared from what is known as the "plate piece." It is a strip cut from the end of the ribs and contains their cartilaginous ends with a small amount of fat. This piece may be boiled until almost done and then put into a pan for roasting. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, dredge with flour and pour some of the liquid used in boiling into the pan. Baste carefully and brown nicely. Pare some white potatoes and put into the pan with the meat. They will brown nicely. If any of the meat is left, it can be cut in thin slices when cold and served with horse radish or other sauce.

Another cheap cut is the flank steak. The steak has absolutely no waste and in cold weather can be kept a week without harm. The thick end can be baked. Working from the cut end of the thick portion split the steak in such a way as to make a pocket, keeping the end and sides uncut. Fill this pocket with a good dressing. Put into a pan, season with salt, pepper, dredge with flour and drop a bit of beef drippings here and there. Baste frequently and brown nicely. Any part of this that is left can be cut in neat pieces and used as a stew with a nice brown gravy and a few carrots, an onion and the flavoring used for stews. A few pieces cut from the thin end of the steak can be put in without browning or after being browned. If preferred the thin end can be cut into strips as wide as the steak is thick. Put into the frying pan. When almost done take from the pan, season with salt and pepper, dredge with flour and return to the pan in which the drippings have been heated. Finish cooking. Make a nice brown gravy to serve with this.

Another way of serving this same cut is as a stew. Brown the slices as before an when almost done roll each slice around mixed vegetables which have been cut into strips and partly cooked in salted water. Carrots, celery and onions are a good combination.

The cuts referred to are tender, but even so, they should have slow cooking. After the surface is seared the heat should be reduced in all meat cooking. It is absolutely impossible to cook any of the cheaper cuts and have them good, if there is a fierce fire. On the other hand, it is possible to have them delicious if cooked slowly.

The neck and round are two other cuts furnishing much nutriment, there is no waste and they cost but little. Stews are usually made of the poorer cuts of meat, and hamburger steak is another familiar form of serving.

A round beef is good spiced. Rub the meat first with sugar and let stand three to twelve hours according to the size. Then rub with a mixture of all seasonings used for meat, including the various spices and a bit of saltpetre. Allow to stand as before and then rub well several days. Soak for a short time in cold water then simmer slowly till tender. Put in the cooking water the usual onion, carrot, parsley, etc.

At certain seasons of the year veal is cheap. Cutlets are most indigestible as usually prepared. Trim and season and put into a pan containing quite a good deal of fat. Cook till almost done, then dredge with flour or dip in egg and crumbs and finish cooking.

CARE AND SHIPPING OF CREAM

From Farm and Dairy.

The Birch Hills Creamery Co., which operates one of the most successful creameries in Saskatchewan sends out the following circular to its patrons. Many points contained in it are of particular interest at this season.

Remember your ice supply, as no dairyman can afford to be without ice in summer time.

Secure at least 10 good cows, and have them well looked after by giving them good clean water to drink, and see that they have good ventilation while in the stable.

If you have not a separator, get a good one, as the extra cost will soon pay for itself.

Separate your milk at 90 degrees, or higher, as it will give a better separation, and have your cream screw set to deliver a cream testing from 30 to 35 per cent. butter fat.

Cool the cream down to 50 degrees, or lower, and stir while cooling. Keep morning's and night's cream separate, until thoroughly cooled, before mixing.

Keep milk and cream away from anything causing odor, as they will take in a bad odor very rapidly.

When shipping by rail provide yourself with at least two cans. These can be secured from a hardware store, or from the Creamery Co., at a reasonable price.

Before putting cream in cans rinse them out with clean cold water, and keep the can in a clean, cold place, until ready to deliver to creamery.

Remember at all times to use your thermometer, and not judge the temperature by the touch of your finger.

Deliver your cream in hot weather, and do not hold it until it gets off flavor, and then have it rejected. This will not pay you.

PRICE DEPENDS ON QUALITY.

The market depends on the quality of the butter. The quality depends on the farmer. If he sends an old or off flavored cream, he cannot expect it to bring a high price.

When shipping cream by rail see that your cans are marked with your name and address, so it will not go astray.

And be sure to have your lid secure, so as to prevent the cream spilling out in case of an upset. The railroad will not be responsible where the lids are not fastened to can.

When taking cream to the creamery, or station, in summer time, be sure to cover the can, to prevent the hot sun striking it. A good plan is to soak a blanket in cold water and put this around the can.

When the cream arrives at the factory, it is examined in regard to flavor. If found all right it is weighed, sampled and emptied, and the can washed and scalded, and returned to owner as quickly as possible.

A very convenient washroom is fitted up for the farmers drawing their own cream, where they can wash and scald their cans in a few minutes, and it is the request of the Superintendent that each one use it.

A careful account is kept of each can of cream, an account sent in to the Superintendent at Regina every two weeks, and a cheque and statement is sent back to each person. The statement bears the number of pounds delivered, also the number of pounds of butter fat and the advance price on even pounds only.

If at any time you happen to be in Birch Hills, be sure and visit the creamery, and we will be pleased to show you through the creamery and how the testing is done.

Any information that you may want regarding the handling or shipping of cream will be gladly furnished by the Manager J. W. Gibson.

HOW TO PRUNE AND WHY

From Farm and Dairy.

H. Stabler, Bruce Co., Ont.

Aside from shaping the tree in the nursery, which is done before the trees are received for planting, pruning should begin at the time the trees are being set in the orchard. No systematic method of pruning can be recommended which will apply with equal success for all varieties of apples and for all localities. Varieties differ in shape and in habit. Different soils and climatic conditions necessitate different methods in different places. Even under similar conditions and with the same variety one man succeeds with one method, while another succeeds perhaps equally as well by adopting a different plan. There are, however, certain principles which should be borne in mind in determining how to prune.

THE PROPER HEAD.

Pruning as a whole should be regarded as a means of adapting the tree, or its individual branches, to environment or surroundings. In considering the environments, the climatic condition of the region is important. Apple trees should be pruned so as to give the maximum amount of sunlight to every limb. This is necessary to give sufficient sunlight for the proper development and the proper coloring of the fruit. The head may be formed of five or six leading limbs, which spread out equi-distant from each other as scaffold limbs. This arrangement of the branches affords an open centre to admit sun and air. On hill or ridge land trees should be headed much lower than in the valley. This is to prevent the wind from blowing the tops about and destroying the fruit. Trees that are headed low protect the bodies from sunscald, the fruit is gathered and spraying is done with much less effort.

WHEN AND HOW.

It is generally best to remove surplus limbs while they are young, rather than to leave them until they are large. The removal of very large limbs should not be practised where it can be avoided. It exposes parts of the tree to the sun which have been accustomed to semi-shade, and also makes large wounds on the trunk. Disease may get into these large wounds before they heal over. It should be borne in mind, however, that a limb may serve a very useful purpose for a year or two, and then it may be removed if no longer needed.

In removing limbs it is best to cut them very close, so as to leave no suggestion of a knot. The closer the cut the larger the wound will be, but a large wound made by cutting close will heal quicker than a small wound, which leaves the base of the removed branch.

One must depend upon the cambium of the trunk to grow over the wound where a limb is removed from the trunk. If a short knot is left it will die, and the growing layer of the trunk cannot close over it until the tree increases sufficiently in diameter to grow over the knot.

The most of our pruning is done during March, April and May. One can see better what limbs to remove while the trees have no leaves, though diseased and dead parts should be removed whenever they occur. They can be more readily observed when the tree is in leaf. Not that every tree in the orchard will need pruning. If a tree needs no pruning, do not cut simply for the sake of pruning. Some trees, however, will need attention every year. A little pruning each year is better than much pruning at long intervals.

Five Roses Appeals to You, Madam, as Final Judge

Do you know what they're saying about you, Mistress Housewife?

That you don't know good stuff from poor.

That price is your only guide; that because "Pigs is Pigs" you think flour is flour—"only that and nothing more."

Even say you wouldn't know good flour if you saw it, and wouldn't take it except it were cheap!

In short, anything labelled "FLOUR" is good enough for you.

We deny this libel on your discrimination.

And appeal to you, Madam, to nail the impeachment.

Nothing short of the very best is good enough for YOU.

If you have been getting miserably bad flour, it wasn't your fault—we know that.

Just because you didn't know about FIVE ROSES.

When "baking accidents" vex your soul, and hubby across the breakfast table mutters darkly about "bread and projectiles, concrete rolls, the vileness of some (?) baking, lunch downtown——"

Don't scold the cook: maybe she didn't know about FIVE ROSES either.

• • • •

But all this is over now.

We're going to tell you about good flour, so that you may be self-reliant, using your own actual knowledge and discretion.

Trusting no longer to the tender (?) mercies of cheap brands, whose sole claim on existence is mere cheapness married to the average home-maker's ignorance of flour values.

Isn't that so, Madam?

• • • •

Just think, Mistress Housewife, it has taken all of twenty-one years to perfect FIVE ROSES—to attain our majority in quality milling.

You surely admit we must know how to make good flour, don't you?

And we make it as good as we know how.

FIVE ROSES, Madam, is the flour you should try, and all the other busy housewives who want their money's worth.

You get it when you buy FIVE ROSES—and keep on getting it.

Because it is "standard value," the same to-day as yesterday.

• • • •

You can prove them wrong, Madam, woefully wrong, who say you don't appreciate good flour.

If you see your grocer to-day and he should show you, at your request, a neat cotton bag of FIVE ROSES—

Will you tell him "send it up"—for the sake of a better table?

Madam, we know your answer already.

EXAMINE SEED POTATOES

From Farm and Dairy.

Potatoes in Ohio, both early and late varieties, suffered severely in 1909 from premature dying, due to Fusarium blight, which causes dry-rot in the tubers.

The Botanical Department of the Ohio Experiment Station warns growers so they may avoid the losses which might otherwise come from planting diseased seed potatoes. Aside from reduced yield or premature dying last year, everyone needs to examine his seed tubers before cutting for planting. If potatoes for cooking are being used from similar stock, then the women of the household will find the disease wherever present.

The disease shows as dark or black spots running through the potato from the stem end. Usually the stem end of the potato, when diseased, will show a sunken appearance around the stem. In any case the dark spots show in the tubers when cut across near the stem end with a knife; in case of bad infection the black spots may run half way through the tubers. Where the infection is slight, it may occur only near the stem end. Of course, some of the tubers may be free from spots, and these are safe for planting on new land, but the disease lives over in the soil as well as in the tubers.

Where the disease has not penetrated more than one-third of the length of the potato, the half of the potato toward the bud end may be used for seed with better promise. In such cases, the knife used for cutting should be dipped in a solution of corrosive sublimate, formaldehyde or carbolic acid after cutting diseased tubers, and before cutting others.

The point of this warning is to enable growers who have potatoes on hand to examine at once and note whether their own seed is safe to plant. The usual seed treatment for scab, etc., will be very useful to kill dry-rot spores which may adhere to tubers, and may be applied to the healthy portions after separation from the diseased parts of potatoes.

THE SECRET WAR PLAN

COCHRANE THE DAUNTLESS WAS THE INVENTOR OF IT.

Intrepid Tenth Earl of Dundonald Presented the British Government With an Invincible Attack Nearly a Century Ago, and It Has Lain In the Archives Ever Since—Gist of It Has Never Been Published.

The security of the Empire is a subject of ever-increasing interest, and at the present juncture its adequacy has taken a foremost place in the arena of topical discussion. It may not, therefore, putting on one side the merits and demerits of the present controversy, be out of place to draw attention once more to that famous "secret war plan" to which slight reference has been made from time to time, and which should now be reposing in the official archives of Great Britain. Very little is known regarding it, although whether or not it is now as "secret" as it was when its inventor submitted it to the consideration of the Prince Regent is an open matter.

Its inventor, as no doubt most people know, was the brilliant tenth Earl of Dundonald, better known, perhaps, as Admiral Lord Cochrane. He entered the naval service at the age of eighteen, and soon distinguished himself by his bravery, being almost continually engaged in the most difficult and daring enterprises. He was only twenty-five years of age when appointed to the command of a sloop-of-war, and in less than twelve months he had captured thirty-three vessels and assisted in the capture of many others. It is not, however, necessary to follow his brilliant career in detail. It need only be mentioned that his sturdy Whiggism brought him into disfavor with the Liverpool-Castlereagh Administration, and led to the temporary annihilation—if the phrase may be used—of his prospects of advancement in the service of his country. He sought and gained employment in the service of Chili, Brazil, and the Greeks, and on the return of the Whigs to power in 1830 he was reinstated in his command in the English navy, and, dying in 1860, was buried in Westminster Abbey. As a daring, brilliant, and successful naval commander he has been ranked with Nelson.

Soon after his return from the Mediterranean in 1811 he laid before the Prince Regent plans of a "new and most formidable method of attacking and destroying an enemy's fleet, and of performing other warlike operations on a large scale." The prince was greatly interested in these plans, and they were referred to a secret committee, consisting of the Duke of York, Lord Keith, Lord Exmouth, and the two Congreves. This committee gave it as their opinion that the mode of attack proposed would be irresistible, and the effect of the power and means outlined infallible. They added, however, that if the plans were divulged the result might be fraught with peril to our colonial possessions; "an observation," comments Lord Dundonald, "marked by no little foresight, for had the same plan been known to the rebels in the Indian Mutiny not a European in India would have escaped." The investigation being secret, no official report was made, but the opinions of the committee were conveyed to Lord Dundonald by Lord Keith. The inventor was commanded to secrecy, and it speaks well for his patriotic character that throughout all the trials he underwent, and in spite of the fact that he entered the service of foreign countries, no indication of the nature of his terrible invention escaped him.

Soon after the accession of William IV., who was a practical seaman himself, Dundonald submitted his plans to him, and "His Majesty at once admitted their importance." In 1846 when the suspicion of the British Government was excited as to the motives and intentions of the French Government another investigation was made into the value of the plans. The report of the commission mentioned three plans, the first for concealing and making offensive warlike operations, the second "one of which experiments would be required before a satisfactory conclusion would be arrived at," and the third a combination of the first and second "for the purpose of hostile operations." It was not desirable, the commission added, that any experiments should be made—they could not be carried out without divulging the secret.

The commission considered in the next place how far the adoption of the proposed secret plans would "accord with the feelings and principles of civilized warfare. We are of unanimous opinion that Nos. 2 and 3 would not do so." That is why the plans were never put into operation. Their inhumanity was too great. Lord Dundonald's own opinions of his plans were downright and confident. They would, he said, totally change the aspect of war and supersede every known system of warlike operations. After their disclosure no a man would be found to engage in war except for defence of his country. To use them in defence of order and civilization would be praise worthy, but to let the world know that we are at all times prepared to use them against aggression would be a protection of the best interests of mankind, no less than of her own. Such knowledge can only be dangerous to those who have cause to fear it, but "to those possessing it it is power, strength, and safety." He was not entirely convinced that disclosure would be altogether harmful. It would, he maintained, show the insecureity of coast defences and other "stationary asylums," and it would have the effect of "binding over nations to keep the peace."

A French journal of "high authority" remarked that "should a war arise between England and France the latter Power would bring warlike engines into play to which rifled cannon were a trifle."

Alphabet Game.

Here is a good game for a rainy day. Each person must write a story in twenty-six words, every word to begin with a different letter of the alphabet in regular order. For example:

A beautiful creature discoursed every Friday, giving her impressions joyously. Kind, lovable man now objected, propounding quite rudely several timely unbeliefs, varied with xylophone yearnings. Zounds!

The game may be varied by using the letters backward, from Z to A. For the best story a prize should be given.

A Kind Hearted Dog.

A lady writes from Cleveden: "I was told a few evenings ago by a gentleman that he had a favorite pointer who on several occasions refused to let him rake out the straw in the kennel, which my friend did in order to make it more comfortable. The dog was watched, and a large mouse, with her little ones, was seen to feed out of the trough with him. The kennel being examined, it was found that the mouse and her little ones had their nest in the kennel."—London Chatterbox.

Bedroom Conundrums.

If thirsty in the night, what could you do? Find a spring under the bed.

What would you do for a light? Take a feather from the pillow. That is light enough.

In case of fire what would you do? Go to the window and watch the fire escape.

If you felt sad, what would you do? Look on the bed for a comforter.

If hungry in the night, what could you do? Take a nail.

THE DELIGHT OF THE ARTIST

An Aeroplane Elopement

A Story of 1935

By JASON JUDSON

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

It was the old story with a variation only to occur in these days when our wealthier classes have money. Miss Anita Beriton loved a poor man, and her father desired that she should wed a rich one. Young Van Damm Follansbee had but a beggarly ten million, while the old widower Plankinham Porkenpaker possessed a cool billion. Follansbee should have seen the impropriety of asking for a girl he could not support in the style to which she had been accustomed, but he came of an old Dutch family on his mother's side, and the Dutchmen who settled New York were proverbially obstinate and stupid.

One would suppose that the Beritons, who owned a railroad starting from New York, running to New Orleans and thence around the Pacific coast and back through Canada, might afford to let their daughter marry a poor man. But a panic at the time of the courtship had reduced their dividends to 20 per cent, and they felt unusually poor. Mrs. Beriton, who had married her husband when he was a brakeman on one of the railroads which he afterward united in the circular coast line system and became that system's owner, sympathized with her daughter, but Beriton swore a round oath that he would have no beggars in his family.

On the morning of June 10, 1935, Miss Anita Beriton was sitting with her mother and a younger sister in the spacious roof garden of her father's residence occupying the four blocks between Five Hundred and Tenth and Five Hundred and Fourteenth streets and avenues D and H, New York, when Mrs. Beriton proposed a ride. One of the family aeroplanes was called and in a few minutes lit upon the roof garden. Mr. Beriton, fearing that his daughter Anita might in some of these rides elope with Follansbee, had given orders that August Spindleton, a driver of his own choosing, should at all times conduct the machine, and on this occasion Spindleton was in his accustomed seat.

Mrs. Beriton and her two daughters entered the machine, which rose, lightly circling upward for a thousand feet, when Spindleton was directed to proceed southward along the coast for a brief trip to Annapolis. They were moving at a moderate pace of some sixty miles an hour, when Spindleton cast a glance to the right and, seeing a machine coming toward the party, clapped on double speed.

Mr. Beriton's fears had proved to be well grounded. Mr. Van Damm Follansbee was out in a machine of a new pattern and was bearing down upon them. It was evident that Follansbee was intending to get into communication with Mrs. Anita Beriton.

Spindleton was true to his employer. He drove his machine at its best speed, passing over cities, bays and rivers, but his aeroplane was gradually gained upon by Follansbee. Hovering over Philadelphia, Spindleton endeavored to descend, but Follansbee glanced down like a bird and reached a plane beneath him. Spindleton then rose and made a bee line for Baltimore. But Follansbee, evidently with the determination to drive him out to sea, got to the west of him and forced him over Chesapeake bay. In a few minutes more the pursuer had the party over Fortress Monroe, flying due east.

The race was won. Spindleton was not prepared to cross the ocean, and there was no way for him to get back except by encountering Follansbee. Spindleton slowed down, and Follansbee glided up beside the Beriton aeroplane. A conference took place, after which Mrs. Beriton and her two daughters stepped from their own aeroplane into that of Mr. Follansbee.

Meanwhile Mr. Beriton had left the roof of his office building downtown in One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, intending to go home. Soon after rising he saw in the direction of his mansion an aeroplane starting, and, seizing a glass he always carried in the smoking room of his capacious bird-car, brought it to bear on the one just setting out. Discovering that its occupants were his wife and daughters with his own aviator in control, he was about to lay aside his glass when he saw another aeroplane hovering near his home. Bringing his glass to bear on this machine, he saw Follansbee alone in it and just starting for the one occupied by the Beritons.

Mr. Beriton noticed that Follansbee's aeroplane was of a kind he had not seen before. It was of the bird type, and on its prow was a sharp ram. The merchant was at once filled with apprehension. It was plain that Follansbee was bent on some course connected with the Beriton family, but it was impossible to imagine what that course would be. It was not to be expected that he would run down the Beriton car and thereby precipitate the girl he loved to a distance of some 500 feet. Nevertheless he was soon in full chase. Mr. Beriton directed his aviator to follow the two aeroplanes.

Unfortunately for Mr. Beriton's success in overtaking the others, his car was equipped with several apartments fitted up luxuriously and carrying a large supply of food and drinkables. Though furnished with the latest pattern of engines, it was not to be expected that this machine could compete for speed with the lighter machines. However, he followed close on their heels, getting near them at Trenton, losing them over Wilmington, again coming in sight of them at Baltimore. While passing over Virginia his aviator slowed up to tighten a loose nut, and after this the fugitives were lost to him entirely.

After Spindleton's surrender he was permitted to go where he liked. Making a bee line for Richmond, he met his employer over the peninsula. The two drew up side by side, and while hovering the aviator gave Mr. Beriton an account of what had happened.

"What are the best points of your machine?" asked the latter.

"Quick rising and an ability to fly in thin air."

"Good! To fight this pauper we must get above him. To bring him to terms we must have bombs to drop on him."

"But the bombs will annihilate your own wife and daughter as well as Mr. Follansbee."

"He cannot sacrifice them to his own covetousness. Our success depends on our obtaining a commanding position."

Stepping into the Spindleton machine, he permitted the one he left to go where it liked—to the moon if it chose—and he and Spindleton started for the nearest city, Richmond. There they procured bombs and, rising, started in the direction Spindleton had left Follansbee and the Beritons.

There was a hubbub in Follansbee's aeroplane as soon as Spindleton left. Mrs. Beriton, sympathizing with Miss Anita, would have been glad to give her consent that the party should swoop down for a clergyman that the lovers might be married, but she feared her husband's displeasure. The younger Miss Beriton was indifferent. The lovers finally prevailed over the elder lady's caution, and it was decided that the marriage should take place.

Being a couple of hundred miles out at sea, not a likely place to find a clergyman, Follansbee turned his machine toward the land. But time had been spent in coming to a decision, and he was too late. When fifty miles off Norfolk the machine bearing Mr. Beriton, driven by Spindleton, appeared over Virginia beach, like a seagull, standing northeast.

Follansbee considered.

A great deal of power had been used in his machine since starting, and he knew it had not the capacity for a long quick run with the coming aeroplane. It was to supply this very defect—in other words, to be ready to turn and flee—that he had provided his bird with a ram. If the worst came he would smash the pursuing flier and drop its owner into the waves below. But he hoped this would not be necessary. However, in order that the contest should take place over water he made a pretense of flight.

When Mr. Beriton reached a point some two miles distant from Follansbee the latter saw his machine suddenly rise in a spiral. He divined the upshot of the maneuver in a moment. Bombs had been so long used that it was evident the enemy had procured them and, getting on a higher plane, would command the situation. The Beriton car climbed a thousand feet; then Spindleton, who was a splendid aviator, made for a point directly over Follansbee.

The lover knew his enemy's determined nature and that he would place him in a position to be bombed or to yield. Of course he would have to yield. He therefore put on all speed, but, of course, moved slowly, losing ground because it was essential that he move on a rising incline.

Notwithstanding the power of Follansbee's aeroplane to rise in this gradual fashion, Mr. Beriton maintained a position above him. Mrs. Beriton begged Follansbee to give up the flight, but the young man was contending for a half billion dollar bride and was not to be discouraged. When Mr. Beriton was a mile away and 500 feet above him Follansbee lighted a fuse, threw the end over the car and waited. The other end of the fuse was attached to a rocket-like firework, fixed to the bottom of the car, which in a few moment was ignited, and, blowing off a great quantity of burning powder, the aeroplane shot rapidly upward.

When this sudden ascent ceased Follansbee was on a level with his enemy and but fifty yards away.

"I'm about to ram you, sir!" cried Follansbee.

"Don't!" pleaded Mrs. Beriton.

There was a pause. Mr. Beriton saw that the game was lost.

"What's your terms?" he asked.

"Consent to my marriage with your daughter."

"Very well," replied the merchant. "I will consent, but positively refuse to give her a dowry of more than a hundred millions."

The terms were accepted, and both aeroplanes started for the Beriton residence, where the past was forgotten and Beriton expressed his admiration of his future son-in-law's ability to beat him in the game of aerial ships. The wedding took place with great brilliancy, another $100,000,000 being added to the settlement in order to enable the young couple to maintain their position in the highest circles.

It was determined to celebrate the nuptials by an aeroplane cruise consisting of the vast concourse of machines owned by the first circles of New York society. On a bright afternoon a thousand aeroplanes rose from various points in the city, hovered for awhile, then, led by the motor of the bridal couple, started westward across the continent. After a trip of a week, during which all the principal points of interest in the United States, Canada and Mexico were visited, the wedding party returned to New York.

A Curious Eating Custom.

The Dyaks divide in pairs when the hour arrives for taking food, the father and mother at one platter, two sisters at one and still two brothers at another. When the family is not equally divided as to sex a brother and sister may eat together, but this must always be the youngest and oldest of the family.

No More Wrinkles

BEAUTIFUL BUST

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR VANISHES LIKE MAGIC BY A NEW DISCOVERY

Let this woman send you free, full particulars, follow her instructions, then if you are pleased, recommend her wonderful methods to your friends.

SHE LOOKS LIKE A GIRL OF 18

This clever woman has not a wrinkle upon her face; she has discovered a marvelous, simple method which brought a wonderful change in her face in a single night. For removing wrinkles and developing the bust, her method is truly wonderfully rapid.

She made herself the woman she is today and brought about the wonderful change in her appearance in a secret and pleasant manner. Her complexion is as clear and fair as that of a child. She turned her scrawny figure into a beautiful bust and well-developed form. She had thin, scrawny eyelashes and eyebrows, which could scarcely be seen, and she made them long, thick and beautiful by her own methods.

You can imagine her joy, when by her own simple discovery she removed every wrinkle from her face and developed her thin neck and form to beautiful proportions.

Nothing is taken into the stomach, no masks or common massage, no harmful plasters, no rollers, no worthless creams.

By her new process, she removes wrinkles and develops the whole figure plump and fat.

It is simply astonishing the hundreds of women who write in regarding the wonderful results from this new beauty treatment, which is beautifying their face and form after beauty doctors and other methods failed.

Mary Merritt, of Wis., writes, her wrinkles have entirely disappeared. Miss Hanson writes, her bust is beautifully developed and wrinkle-free. Mrs. Markham writes, she has not a wrinkle left.

The valuable new beauty book which Madame Cunningham is sending free to thousands of women is certainly a blessing to womankind, as it makes known her remarkable methods of beautifying the face and figure of unattractive women.

All our readers should write her at once and she will send you absolutely free, her various new beauty treatments and will show our readers:

How to quickly remove wrinkles;
How to develop the bust;
How to make long, thick eyelashes and eyebrows;
How to instantly remove superfluous hair;
How to remove blackheads, pimples and freckles;
How to remove dark circles under the eyes;
How to quickly remove double chin;
How to build up sunken cheeks and add flesh to the body;
How to darken gray hair and stop hair falling.

Simply address your letter to Evelyn Cuningham, Suite 288, 1 Randolph St., Chicago, Ill., and don't send any money, because particulars are free, as this charming woman is doing her utmost to benefit girls or women in need of secret information, which will add to their beauty and make life sweeter and lovelier in every way.

Now is the time to write and learn her beauty secrets, lest your beauty passes, even as the petals of a rose withers into the drift of yesterday's flower.

The world would be better off if there were a few more kind women like this in it.

The Editor and Manager of the Burk's Falls "Arrow," is only human. This being so it is not surprising that he should feel and suffer as other men. Mr. Alex. Fawcett says: "I had a very severe attack of La Grippe which left me very weak, spiritless and run down. I seemed to have lost all ambition. "At this point I realized that my condition was likely to become more serious unless I took myself in hand. One day while in this 'Half dead and alive condition' I was listlessly looking over recent issues of my paper, The Burk's Falls Arrow' (of which I am Editor and Manager), when my eyes rested on an advertisement of PSYCHINE. This clearly and explicitly set forth a case so exactly resembling my own that I at once purchased a bottle at the Medical Hall. After taking two or three doses I felt like a new man, and before half the second bottle had been used, every trace of the bad effects of La Grippe had left me. "PSYCHINE is a marvel and I have strongly recommended it to some of my friends [illegible] have used it with equally beneficial results."

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unparalleled"

MR W. A. STUBBS WINNER OF THE EXAMINER SLOGAN CONTEST HIS EFFORT WAS SELECTED OUT OF OVER 1000 AS THE BEST

The Committee Composed of the Mayor, President of the Board of Trade and Chairman of the Board of Education Unanimously Selected "Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unparalleled" as the Most Suitable Motto for the City.

SOME OF THE SLOGANS SUBMITTED WERE VERY FUNNY

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unparalleled."

Of the 1,000 or more attempts sent in to the Examiner in answer to the request from this paper for a slogan that would best advertise Peterborough, the above was selected by the judges last night as the most suitable.

Mr. W. J. Stubbs, 659 Water St., is the lucky competitor, and will receive the diamond ring donated by Mr. C. R. Elliott, of the International College of Ophthalmology.

Next in order of merit the judges decided upon "Popular Peterborough for Progressive People," submitted by Miss Mamie Menzies, 279 Sherbrooke street.

The judges who kindly consented to act as the awarding committee were His Worship Mayor Morrow, Ald. Geo. A. Gillespie, President of the Board of Trade, and Mr. Louis M. Hayes, K.C., Chairman of the Board of Education.

The contest proved a most successful one and the interest in the result was widespread. Two hundred and fifty people were competitors, and over one thousand coupons were sent in during the five days of the contest.

A study of the different attempts is very interesting. Most of the competitors made use of alliteration in securing a musical slogan, and hence there were dozens reading "Peterborough for Prosperity," Peterborough for Progress," "Peterborough for Power," "Popular Peterborough," "Prosperous Peterborough," and similar mottos.

Some contestants evidently thought that an advertisement for the Examiner was what was wanted. One competitor submitted "Examiner Want Ads. Always Produce Results," and another wrote that the best slogan to advertise Peterborough would be the Evening Examiner. The Examiner appreciates these compliments, but, of course, they could not be considered as having a chance to win the prize. Others again imagined that the Ophthalmology College wanted an ad. for their business and several of the coupons contained references to the sale being conducted by them.

Dozens of competitors, as might be exepected, used the lift-lock in their attempts, and as many more referred to the Quaker Oats Company and the Canadian General Electric Company. Hence "Peterborough for Porridge" was common.

One pessimistic individual sent in "Hard Times in Front of Peterborough," and another "Trust in God and Come to Peterborough". Slangy writers submitted "Oh You Industrious Peterborough," and "O You Peterborough," and "Peterborough is Going Some." Some gallant writers sent in "Peterborough for Pretty Girls."

It is unfortunate that the Examiner decided not to publish the names of the competitors, or else some young men might find themselves on the marcelled wave of feminine popularity.

It is not known to whom the writer who sent in "Peterborough for Pin-Heads" was referring.

"Peterborough, the Farmers' City" was a quaint attempt.

It is not possible to publish anything like a complete list of the slogans, but the following were selected for publication either for their merit or their humour, unconscious as it may be in some cases.

You cannot afford to grow old.

In these days of strenuous competition it is necessary to maintain, as long as possible, one's youthful appearance.

It is impossible to do this without retaining a luxurious growth of hair.

The presence of Dandruff indicates the presence of a burrowing germ which lives and thrives on the roots of the hair until it causes total baldness.

Newbro's Herpicide is the only known destroyer of this pest, and it is as effective as it is delightful to use.

Herpicide makes an elegant hair dressing as well as Dandruff cure.

COMET WILL BE VISIBLE TO NAKED EYE HERE TO-MORROW

"If the morning is clear, Halley's Comet will be visible to the naked eye in Peterborough between 3.45 and 4.15 o'clock to-morrow morning."

Dr. Marsh, of Springville, the well known head of the Peterborough centre of the Royal Astronomical Society is the authority for the above statement, made to The Examiner this morning. Prospective comet seekers are advised to look for the comet in the east between the point where the sun rises and Venus. They are also warned not to mistake the latter for the comet. The visitor, about which so much is heard, is hazy in appearance with a tail from one to four degrees in length, while Venus is sharp and cleanly cut in a star shape. While it will be distinctly visible to the naked eye, much better results may be obtained with a field glass.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS OF ONTARIO TO HOLD CONVENTION HERE IN JULY

Deputation From the Local Lodge Waited on Reception Committee and Asked for Grant From City to Assist in Entertainment—350 Delegates Will be Here.

TO BE ON JULY 11th AND 12th

The Knights of Pythias of the Province of Ontario will hold a convention here on July 11th and 12th, when it is expected that from three hundred to three hundred and fifty delegates will be in attendance. A deputation from the local lodge, consisting of Messrs. J. I. Allin, M. Blewett, and T. Savigny waited upon the Reception Committee last evening in regard to the city making them a grant of fifty dollars and the free use of a hall for meeting purposes. It is intended to entertain the visitors with a trip down the river and a drive around the city, and in order to do this, the city was asked to assist to the extent of fifty dollars. One fact pointed out by the deputation was that the report of the convention here would be read at a general convention to be held in Milwaukee. In this way the city would be well advertised. The comimttee assured the deputation that the request would be given consideration.

WARRANT FOR ARREST

New York, April 30.—A warrant was issued yesterday by Elmer Freeland, clerk of the First Criminal Court, for the arrest of George Forman, the missing City Auditor of Newark. In the warrant Forman is accused of the embezzlement of $12,500. The complainant is David H. Wickham, who sold land at Echo Lake to the city for water right purposes for $20,000. He says he gave the check he received to Forman and asked him to invest the money in water bonds of the city. After Forman's disappearance $7,500 worth of water bonds in Wickersham's name were found in the vault in the City Auditor's office, but Wickham alleges that $12,500 remains unaccounted for.

The warrant was sent to Captain Carroll at Police Headquarters, and he at once began to prepare to send throughout the United States and Canada circulars with a picture of the missing man and his full description and arequest that he be arrested wherever found.

MUST NOT TREAT

Hotel Clerk in "Dry" County Must Not Even Give Away a Drink.

Special to The Examiner.

Lansing, Mich., April 30.—The conviction of L. C. Meyer, a hotel clerk, who was found guilty in the Circuit Court of Eaton county of violating the Warner-Cramton liquor law by giving away liquor in a dry county, was confirmed by the Supreme Court and Meyer was remanded to the Circuit Judge for further proceedings.

It was proved in the trial that Meyer, who was a clerk in one of the hotels at Eaton Rapids, gave beer to a couple of dining room girls in one of the rooms of the hotel, and it was his contention that his hotel was his home and such an act was not a violation of the Warner-Cramton law.

In its review of the case the Court holds in part:

"The Michigan act under consideration included within its title a prohibition of the giving away of intoxicating liquors in local option counties; the first section makes it unlawful for any person to give away such liquors and the act has been repeatedly held constitutional in every respect.

"The general liquor law deals with the regulation of a legitimate business; the local option law was intended not only to wipe the business out of existence in this county, but to prohibit the inhabitants of the county from obtaining liquor within the county. For the latter purposes the act prohibits any person giving away liquors, and thereby heads off the numerous subterfuges which would interfere with the enforcement of the law."

OBITUARY

MRS. RICHARD WARREN.

Mr. John Nugent has received word of the death in Tisdale, Sask., of his sister Mrs. Richard Warren at the age of sixty-three years. The deceased is survived by her husband and four sons, residing in Saskatchewan, and two sons living in Lindsay, Ont. Four brothers and two sisters are also left to mourn her loss. They are John, of Peterborough, Robert of Lindsay, Theodore of Winnipeg, and George of California, Mrs. W. J. McNevan of Reaboro, and Mrs. Silas Smith, a missionary in India. No arrangements have as yet been made for the funeral.

TO GET DOG CATCHER

The Legal Committee Recommends That Dog Catcher and Dog Pound be Advertised For—More Discussion on the Dog By-law "25 to 1 in Favour of It," Says Ald. Turner.

GET THE LEASHES

The Dog by-law came up for more discussion at a meeting of the Legal Committee last evening. There were present Ald. Duffus, chairman; Mayor Morrow, Ald. Turner, Phelan, and Gillespie.

The Committee recomended, on motion of Ald. Turner and Gillespie that a dog catcher and a dog pound be advertised for. "I have letters and post cards from hundreds of citizens, to show that twenty-five to one are in favour of the by-law," Ald. Turner remarked. "The fact that a man paid a tax did not give him the right to allow it to run over people's flower beds." City Solicitor Hall thought the by-law was alright. He was a little doubtful about the leash clause, but thought it might be tested.

Ald. Phelan did not think a man could be compelled to pay a tax and keep it under the control of the leash, too.

Ald. Duffus thought that the Council was weak in passing a by-law and not providing for its enforcement.

The motion was opposed by Mayor Morrow and Ald. Phelan, and the chairman cast the deciding vote.

Government statistics furnish ample evidence that local option and reduction of licenses does not curtail drunkenness. Why not advocate the drinking of Regal Lager and promote true temperance.

IN NEW QUARTERS

Novel-Ti Company Have Moved Into Their New Premises.

The "Novel Ti" Co. several days ago took possession of their new premises, 366 Water street, two doors north of Simcoe street, where the building offers ample room for their new equipments. Besides the large amount of ties turned out for home use many large orders are being filled and shipped to all parts of North America.

FOR BABY'S SKIN TROUBLES

There are times in the life of nearly every child when Dr. Chase's Ointment proves itself a blessing. The tender skin chafes and is irritated by the clothing. Oftentimes baby eczema developes from this very cause. In a dozen ways Dr. Chase's Ointment can be used to sooth and heal the skin and prevent suffering of the little one. No treatment is so well suited for this purpose and none is so entirely satisfactory.

BY-LAW TO PROVIDE $3,0000 FOR SEWAGE SYSTEM IN SOUTH SECTION

Will be Submitted to the Ratepayers at an Early Date---City Engineer's Estimate on Cost of Work Endorsed by Mr. Chipman---Board of Works Will Recommend the Council to Submit By-law.

ONLY POSSIBLE WAY SEWAGE CAN BE CONTINUED

The Board of Works at their meeting last evening recommended that a by-law to provide $30,000 for the construction of a sewage and drainage plant for the southwest part of the city be submitted to the people at an early date. The above is the estimated amount as outlined in the report of City Engineer Hay, which is given below, and which has been endorsed by Engineer Chipman, who reported on the Romaine street sewer. There were present at the meeting last night Ald. Hicks, chairman; Ald. Metheral Duncan, Gillespie, Duffus, and Mayor Morrow. The chairman read over the report of Engineer Hay. He stated, and it was the general opinion of those present, that it was urgent that something should be done to provide sewage in this section of the city, and that the plan submitted was the only feasible way to carry it out. Ald. Duncan moved, seconded by Ald. Duffus, and carried, that the by-law be submitted.

City Engineer's Estimate.

The following is City Engineer Hay's report:

Peterborough, April 29, 1910.

Alderman Hicks, Chairman of the Board of Works.

Dear Sir,—I beg to report as follows, regarding sewerage and drainage for the south western section of the city, as recommended after inspection on April 18th, based on the former report of Mr. Chipman, dated 21st January, 1910, and for construction of which it is proposed to submit a by-law.

A draft of the following estimate was submitted to Mr. Chipman and his approval is given in enclosed letter, dated 26th April. Services as shown on plan.

BROKEN IN HEALTH ENDS LIFE IN PARK

Special to The Examiner.

New York, April 30.—Despondent because of illness, Henry F. Fancher, fifty years old, of No. 3,415 Broadway, committed suicide yesterday in front of the St. Regis Convent in Riverside Drive between 139th and 140th streets. Fancher had been sitting on a bench facing the river for several hours before he killed himself. He left six letters, addressed to his wife. They were sealed and are now in the possession of the police. Mr. Fancher, it is said, is out of town.

A number of persons walking along the drive noticed Fancher sitting on the bench opposite the convent. His head rested on his hands and he appeared to have a general air of dejection about him. A number of the girls were walking about on the lawn of the convent when Fancher suddenly drew a revolver from his pocket and fired a bullet into his brain.

Some one living nearby sent in a call to police headquarters. An ambulance was sent from the J. Hood Wright hospital, but the man had been instantly killed. The body was taken to the West 125th street station.

In the inside pocket of Fancher's coat were found the letters, addressed "Mrs. H. F. Fancher, care of Whittaker, No. 3,415 Broadway." At this address it was said that Mrs. Fancher would not be at home for several days.

Fancher was formerly the advertising manager of a sporting publication. According to friends, he had been ill for more than two years and there was little chance of his ever regaining his health.

MAY DAY IN PETERBOROUGH FINDS LABOUR CONDITIONS GENERALLY GOOD AND BRIGHT HERE

To-morrow being May Day, when people's minds turn to conditions of labour in this city and in the Province of Ontario generally, it is interesting to note some very significant facts. An Examiner reporter called on Mr. John A. Flett, Organizer for the American Federation of Labour for Canada, at the Hotel National, yesterday afternoon. Mr. Flett is an enthusiast in the interests of the workingman, and is very convincing in his arguments. He talked interestingly to the Examiner representative, of various phases of his work. "I am that horrible 'Yankee' agitator that you most likely have heard of," he remarked to the reporter. "However, that is a mistaken idea on the part of some capitalists. I am a citizen of Canada, born in Canada, and at present residing in the Dominion, my home being in Hamilton. This organization is not a 'Yankee' one. It is continental in its movement. There are one hundred and nineteen International unions, twenty-seven thousand local unions and a membership of two millions in this federation."

Referring to the recent miners' strike at Sydney, N.S., Mr. Flett stated that the men joined the United Miners of America because the Provincial Miners' Association could not give them protection. There was no disloyalty on the part of the miners, as had been reported. This federation was steadily improving the conditions of the working class. New Zealand was the most progressive country in the world, and there the labour element predominated. Capitalists treated labour as a commodity. If they would deal fairly with the working man, the suspicion in the latter's mind, that the capitalists were trying to "do" them, would be removed. The statistics of the department of labour show that the working man's wages had not advanced with the increasing price of living, and on this account it was a wonder there were not more strikes.

"How are labour conditions in Canada at the present time?" the reporter asked.

"Very fair," was the reply. "The lack of strikes is attributed to the intelligence of the native labourer as against the cheap Foreigner. When capitalists dispense with native labour for the foreign, they will usher in the dawn of industrial unrest, and disturbances, as witnessed in Pennsylvania, when they displaced intelligent American workmen in some plants for foreigners to the extent of eighty-five per cent."

Speaking of conditions in Peterborough, Mr. Flett stated that there were fifteen unions, representing the same number of trades. "The indications for great activity in the building line were of the brightest," he remarked. "The large additions to the C. G. E. works and the Quaker Oats Co. will mean a big boom. What struck me very forcibly in this city was the great number of terraces. He did not know of any place where there were so many. Peterborough has every mark of a prosperous and progressive city."

Trade Unions of The City Will Resolve Into One Central Body

A combined meeting of the trade and labour unions of the city was held last evening in the Foresters' hall over the Crystal. A large representation of the members was present. The meeting was called for the purpose of reorganizing the Trades and Labour Council in this city. Mr. Hugh Robertson of the Iron Moulders' Union presided and introduced Mr. John Tweed, of Toronto, the organizer for the carpenters and joiners. In the course of the latter's remarks. In pointed out what had been accomplished by trades and labour councils in advocating technical education, and the necessity of local unions being represented in one central body. Mr. John A. Flett, general organizer for the Federation of Labour, also addressed the gathering at some length on the progress the working classes had made up to the present time. Following the addresses Mr. Hugh Robertson was appointed provisional president and Mr. Fred C. Dobbin provisional secretary. The unions will appoint delegates to attend a general meeting to be held on May 16th, when permanent officers will be elected for the Trades and Labour Council.

A SERIOUS SUBJECT OF JEST.

Dr. Helen McMurchy, of Toronto, says there are 1,000 feeble minded women at large in Ontario and that 100 of these give birth to a child every year. This is serious; for these children must also be feeble-minded. Would or would not the world be better if some state control of marriage? The law places an age limit on marriages, why not a sense limit. A couple, under age, and of sound sense, marrying won't become the parents of children of unsound mind, but the offspring of parents of weak minds would themselves be weak-minded. A week or two ago in the House of Commons, the question of pure food, especially the food suitable for infants, was under discussion and one member suggested that the Minister of Agriculture should take official cognizance of the matter; whereupon another member in a jocular vein remarked that the Minister of Agriculture (who by the way is a bachelor) would look well "going about the country teaching mothers how to take care of their babies." This of course created a great deal of laughter as almost any jocular reference to manage and maternity is sure to do. But it is no laughing matter. Marriage at any time is to the parties concerned a more serious matter than their funeral would be. In the latter case all their earthly troubles and earthly responsibilities are ended; while in the case of matrimony their troubles and responsibilities are only beginning. The marriage bond is the bond of society and the safety and surety of the state; and the more nearly this bond is kept intact and indissoluble the higher the moral, and the more prosperous the material, condition of the state. That is the reason that in Canada where the marriage bond is held in the highest regard perhaps of any country on the continent, the safety and moral health of the state as well as general prosperity are the greatest.

Thus the highest importance is to be attached to the natural growth and maintenance of population, through marriage. It needs no argument to show that from the best mated men and women, the best fitted physically and morally for the responsibilities of marriage—to become parents of healthy, sound minded children and to rear and train them to the best advantage in the interests of society and the state, the best results are to be expected. Why should not a standard in the way of sound bodies and sound minds and good morals, be set up as the permissible condition of marriage? Political economists assert that every citizen of adult age is worth a thousand dollars to the state. Yet of the multitudes of children born a startling number die before the age of one year. A good deal of this infant mortality is attributed to improper food, impure milk, etc; but doctors tell us that a very serious proportion of infant mortality is due to the ignorance and lack of fitness of mothers to care for their infants. The state assumes responsibility for the removal of one cause of infant mortality—impure milk and other impure foods. But maternal ignorance may make the improper use and administration of perfectly pure foods a source of disease and death. Ignorance of proper clothing, proper air and general care conducive of healthy conditions, superadded to other causes mentioned gives the unfortunate child a slight chance of health or life. We have schools and societies to teach girls cooking, sewing, starching, mending and general household lore, but never a systematic attempt to teach girls in the slightest way a knowledge of the highest, holiest and most important duties that any girl can, as all sound bodied and sound-minded girls should, look forward to, the duties appertaining to marriage and motherhood. The unthinking will jeer and joke at such an idea, but the philanthropist, the true altruist, the social economist, the moral and social reformer should find in it an outlet for a very profitable activity, and a field for the exercise of very practical and profitable benevolence.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

H. Field Marshall Lord Kitchener had pursued the path of glory as diligently as he has followed the path of duty, he would perhaps have seemed to be a greater man than he is, but he would not have been, as he is, the greatest living military general.

Congratulations to the Lethbridge Herald and "Billy" Buchanan, M. P.P., its managing director and leading spirit. The Examiner has been favoured with a picture of the new home of the Lethbridge Herald, a fine modern structure occupied wholly by the Herald. The Daily Herald was established in 1907, when the population of Lethbridge was slightly over 2,000. Now the Herald has 4,000 subscribers, twice the population of the town when it was established, while the population has grown to 11,357. With such a record it seems superfluous to wish the Herald, its energetic proprietor and its business and civic home success. They are all a type of the tremendous growth of the west.

MORE ENTERPRISE NEEDED.

(Brockville Recorder.)

The Ontario Government is not doing enough to encourage British settlers to locate on farms in Ontario. It is true that efforts are being made in a tenative manner to secure settlers for New Ontario and that an attempt has been made to advertise in Great Britain, farms in older Ontario that are offered for sale. Still, no earnest effort has been made to push this matter in the aggressive manner that conditions require.

There are some 63,000 less farmers in Ontario to-day than there were 10 years ago. The situation is serious. This tide of emigration from our farms must be stopped or the farms thus vacated, be settled fresh. The government must do it and now is the time.

Two hundred British settlers, having between $500,000 and $750,000 in hard cash, passed through Ontario recently on their way to settle on farms in the western provinces. For the most part these farmers had bought western farms and had them cultivated and sown before they left England to take control of them. Among these farmers were expert breeders of sheep, dairy cattle and horses. Most of them went west with the intention of continuing this line of work. Why should these men have passed Ontario. We have in Ontario land equally as good as the best in the west. We have better postal facilities, better schools, better roads, better markets. In spite of this there are a number of sections in the older parts of Ontario where good land can be purchased almost as cheaply as in the better portions of the western provinces. Ontario is glad to see the west settled with a good class of immigrants. It would like to and should secure its share of these settlers. It never will obtain them to any large extent until our Ontario Government arouses from its lethargy and adopts an immigration policy such as is being followed by the western provinces.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON QUESTIONS

May 1st, 1910.

Two Sabbath Incidents.—Matt. xii: 1-14.

Golden Text.—I will have mercy and not sacrifice.—Matt. xii:7.

Verses 1, 2.—Why is it either right or wrong to walk or drive, for pleasure, on the Sabbath day?

Was there any Jewish law which would justify the disciples in plucking the ears of another man's wheat on the Sabbath day? (See Deut. xxiii: 25.)

See Ex. xx:10, and say whether the law for the Sabbath there given, forbids, absolutely, all manner of work or whether under it, works of necessity and of mercy would be allowable?

How do you account for the fact that the Pharisees, the religious teachers of that day, had such narrow views of the Sabbath and were so critical with Jesus?

If Jesus were to come to this country incognito, and preach and teach in our towns and cities, without any church authority, how would he be received by the clergy and the churches? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Verses 3-5.—What defence did Jesus make when they accused him of allowing his disciples to break the Sabbath?

Look up 1 Sam. xxi:6; also Lev. xxiv:5-9, and say what bearing this reference of Jesus had upon the case in dispute?

What reason is there to believe that God never intended the Sabbath to be kept, in such a narrow way, as the Pharisees in those days taught? (See Mark ii:2 3to iii:6.)

Give an example of how it is possible to keep the letter of the Sabbath law and violate its spirit, and to break the letter and preserve its spirit?

Verses 6-8.—What is the only law of God that must be kept, without any exception, by all men and angels?

What attitude should we always take, toward those who do things of which we cannot approve?

Did Jesus have any rights in regard to Sabbath observance, not possessed by other good men.

What did Jesus mean by saying he was the Lord of the Sabbath?

Is every good man lord of the Sabbath in the sense that he has a right to keep it, in anyway that God may direct him?

Verses 9-10.—Is it legitimate to do all kinds of good on the Sabbath day, or is there a limit?

We say that these Pharisees were jealous of Jesus and therefore sought occasion to accuse him. Now what is jealousy? What prompts it? What are its effects?

Verses 11-12.—What reason can you give as to whether persons who are compelled to work on the Sabbath, on the rule Jesus here suggests, are under obligation to rest some other day.

"How much is a man better than a sheep?"

Jesus says "it is lawful to do well on the Sabbath day," but what reason is there to believe that every man is under obligation to actually do some specific good on each Sabbath day?

Verse 13,—How can you demonstrate that obedience to God always results in a supply of our needs?

Does God propose in these days that our bodily diseases should be cured miraculously, as in this case?

Verse 14.—Was it the goodness, or the popularity of Jesus, or both, which inspired the hatred of these Jews and does the same law operate to-day?

"The Queens"

Toronto, the Queen City of Canada, has much of the beautiful. It is found in many handsome churches, artistic public buildings, imposing offices, public drives, parks and gardens. Its Government Buildings are fine. Of hotels there are many; none, however, approaching the Queen's for perfect service, quiet comfort, and homelike surroundings and the peculiar excellence of its cuisine. Its fame is far-reaching, and many remember with pleasure the hours spent within its hospitable walls. The charges are based on the American and European plan, and are as follows:

Rooms without bath (American plan), $3 per day up; Rooms with bath (American plan), $3.50 per day up; Rooms (European plan), $1.50 per day up.

12 Tumors Removed Without An Operation

Silver Lake, Ont., Sept. 20, 1909.

Dear Mrs. Currah.—I am enjoying better health than I have for eight years, and I think I am entirely cured. I have none of the old symptoms. I am very grateful for my present health, and think Orange Lily is the greatest treatment for women the world knows. Its use in my case caused 12 tumors or growths of some sort to be expelled. Some were as large as a hen's egg, and others smaller, down to the size of a walnut. You may use my case in your advertisement, for it is the solid truth, and pen cannot describe all the good it has done for me. Mrs. Louise E. Boltenridge.

This letter gives an indication of the positive benefits that always follow the use of Orange Lily. It is an applied treatment and comes in direct contact with the suffering organs. It produces results from the start in all cases of women's disorders, including painful periods, falling of womb, irregularities, leucorrhoea, etc.

I will send a sample box containing 10 days' treatment absolutely free to any suffering woman who has not yet tried it if she will send me her address. Enclose 3 stamps and address MRS. FRANCES E. CURRAH, Windsor, Ont. 4

GENERALLY SPEAKING

Communications.

Two communications have been received this week by the editor of this column, which are herewith appended:

"Are the gentlemen who sit around our Council Board and conduct the business of the city aware of the fact that on scores of street intersections there are no signs enabling a stranger to tell where he is? I live on a street corner myself and am frequently questioned as to where such and such a street is. Our Council spends the citizens' money at times without giving them any return. A few hundred dollars would purchase sufficient enamelled street signs to supply every street corner in town and be a benefit to every ratepayer and an accommodation to the stranger. Let us have them this summer."

In connection with the above, the further point may be submitted that on many streets where signs have been placed, the spelling of the names is sadly at fault. To mention only a few: Rubidge is misspelt "Rubridge"; Edinburgh, "Edinborough"; Aylmer, "Alymer"; Chamberlen, "Chamberlain." The conferring of a person's name on a street is supposed to be more or less in affectionate remembrance of the person, but such a slipshod way of doing things as is here depicted reflects no honour, either on the owner of the name or on those responsible for perpetuating such a counterfeit presentment of it in cement.

The second letter is as follows:

Sir,—Are Canadians lacking in good breeding? Are we discouraged? Do we lack the essential traits that characterize the gentleman or lady? One of our school teachers the other day was heard to speak in terms of admiration of the general conduct of the newly arrived English people—especially of their polite bearing and good manners and respect for elders and those in authority.

Last Sunday, as the funeral of our late respected Chief of Police was passing down George street, the Salvation Army was holding a service on a street corner. As the cortege passed the Englishmen in the ring (of whom there is a majority) removed their hats and stood with bared heads. Their example was contagious and the remainder followed suit. But what of the hundreds of others on the street? No doubt their sorrow was as real and their sympathy as genuine as those who stood with bared heads, but they lacked that courteous consideration which characterizes the Englishman wherever he may be.

This is too delicate a matter to touch on at any length. If one were to give his ideas full vent he might end by offending both parties. Canadian "independence" when it gets out of hand, and English insolence when the veneer of politeness is scratched off are neither of them very agreeable to experience. But there certainly does seem to be a lamentable lack of reverence for their elders in the Canadian youth of to-day. This is directly traceable to lack of proper culture in our homes. If home associations were good, school associations would certainly be good also.

Which is the Lamb?

The Toronto World, in one of its issues, last week, had a paragraph headed "The Lion and the Lamb" in which it gave an account of an unpremeditated meeting at the Legislative Buildings between Premier Whitney and the editor of the Globe. It would be interesting to know which of these two gentlemen the World would designate as a "lamb."

April in England.

Those of us who look back with affectionate longing at the remembered glories of an English April, can find a good deal to laugh at in the constant gibes that are levelled at the English climate. Atmospheric and other conditions at certain seasons may not always be redolent of an earthly Paradise, but at any rate, the English springtide can challenge the world to produce its peer. Browning has an exquisite little poem which illustrates this point. The first few lines are gem-like in their beauty. Who has not heard them?

Oh, to be in England,
Now that April's there,
And whoever wakes in England
Sees some morning unaware,
That the lowest boughs and the brushwood sheaf,
Round the elm-tree bole are in tiny leaf,
While the chaffinch sings on the orchard bough
In England—now!

It isn't the height of hospitality or good manners to speed the parting guest with a kick, but really the month that is just leaving us has proven so churlish in behaviour that doubtless we shall all of us be glad to see it give way to the incoming visitor.

Mrs. Craik's apostrophe to a long vanished April would suit the one that is now passing away very admirably:

"Sweet April time, O cruel April time!
Year after year returning, with a brow
Of promise, and red lips with longing paled
And backward-hidden hands that clutch the joys
Of vanished spring, like flowers."

Typographical Errors.

There would be very few papers in existence if typographical errors carried with them such a penalty as was imposed on the unfortunate printer of what is known amongst bibliophiles as "The Wicked Bible." This extraordinary name was given to an edition of the authorized Bible printed in London by Robert Barker and Martin Lucas in 1631. The negative was left out of one of the commandments and the publisher in consequence was fined between £2,000 and £3,000. The same name has been given to the "Pearl" Bible, because amongst other errata it had the following:

"Know ye not that the unrighteous shall inherit the kingdom of God."—I. Cor. vi.9

There have been many curious names given to Bibles. There was the "Breeches Bible" and they sewed fige tree leaves together and made themselves breeches."—Gen. iii.7, printed in 1560.

The Bug Bible, "So that thou shalt not nede to be afraid for any bugges by night nor for the arrow that flyeth by day, Ps. 91.5." Printed in 1561.

The Place-makers Bible, "Blessed are the place-makers; for they shall be called the children of God," Matthew, 5.9 (1561.)

The Treacle Bible, "Is there not treacle at Gilead? Is there no physicinn there." Jer. viii.22. 1568.

The Rosin Bible, "Is there no rosin Gilead? Is there no physician there?" 1609.

The Vinegar Bible, "The Parable of the Vinegar," instead of "The Parable of the Vineyard," appeared in a chapter heading for an edition published in 1717.

The Murderers' Bible. In 1810 appeared an edition in which in the 16th verse of Jude the word "murmurers" was rendered "murderers."

The Standing-fishes Bible, "And it shall come to pass that the fishes shall stand upon it." Ezek. xlvii.10. (1806.)

The Ears-to-ear Bible, "Who hath ears-to-ear, let him hear." Matt. xiii. 43. (1810.)

The Wife-hater Bible, "If any man come to me and hate not his father. . . . Yea, and his own wife also." Luke, xiv.29. (1810.)

Rebekah's Camels Bible, "And Rebekah arose, and her camels." Gen xxiv.61. (1823.)

Best Spring Tonic

Doctors of All Schools Agree That the Best Tonic-Stimulant to Build Up the System That is Run Down and Weakened by the Long Strain of Winter and to Drive Out Spring Fever and Malaria is Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, the World's Greatest Medicine.

By springtime everyone is in a more or less played out condition—just right to catch any disease. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey aids in destroying the disease germs, and by its building and healing properties restores tissues in a gradual healthy and natural manner. As a tonic and stimulant it is the greatest strength-giver known to science. It is a wonderful specific for use at this time of the year to enrich the blood and strengthen the system which has been weakened by the long siege of winter and which needs building up from the attacks of coughs, colds, pneumonia, grippe, asthma, bronchitis and other winter ills which everyone is subject to. It aids digestion, quickens the heart action and restores health and vigour.

Tonic and Stimulant

"I am very well acquainted with Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey and consider it equal to the best in the market for medicinal purposes whenever a stimulant and tonic is needed. It is pure, palatable and a very beneficial stimulant, and I have prescribed it for years."—Dr. Edw. C. Tinsley, 1117 E. 10th St., Indianapolis, Ind.

Ministers of the gospel, doctors of medicine, nurses and people everywhere unite in commending Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey---the only perfect tonic stimulant, the one true medicinal whiskey.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

has to its credit fifty years of success, without a question as to its merits as a remedial agent. It is an absolutely pure, gentle and invigorating stimulant and tonic. During this time it has brought the blessing of health to overworked men, delicate women and sickly children who find in it the strength-giving properties that are so necessary to them. It makes the old feel young and keeps the young strong and vigorous.

It is prescribed by doctors and is recognized as a family medicine everywhere.

When you ask your druggist, grocer or dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, be sure you get the genuine. It is an absolutely pure medicinal malt whiskey and is sold in SEALED BOTTLES ONLY, never in bulk. Look for the trade mark, the "Old Chemist" on the label, and make sure the seal over the cork is unbroken. Price $1.25 a large bottle. Write Medical Department, The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N.Y., for an illustrated medical booklet, containing testimonials and rare common sense rules for health, and doctor's advice, both sent free.

EXCURSION JUNE 11TH

C. G. E. Mutual Benefit Society Will go to Cobourg.

The Canadian General Electric Mutual Benefit Society has decided to run an excursion on Saturday, Jan. 11 to Cobourg. This will take the place of an annual concert and promises to be a most enjoyable and popular outing. Cobourg is an attractive objective point for an excursion, as its pretty residences and parks and splendid bathing facilities make it a most enjoyable town to visit in the summer. The excursion will no doubt be largely patronized.

Bilious Headache

COMES FROM LIVER DERANGEMENTS WHICH ARE THOROUGHLY OVERCOME BY

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Headache is said to be the most useful pain in the world. It is a sort of fire alarm that warns you of something wrong with some organ of the body.

Most frequently the trouble is indigestion and torpid liver and the pain arises from the poisoned blood passing through the arteries of the brain and head.

There is no cure for bilious headache, torpid liver and indigestion that can be compared to Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills for prompt and certain results. This has been proven by so many thousands of letters published from time to time that everybody should know it by this time.

Mr. Fred Hinz, Bradhagen, Perth Co., Ont., writes: "I don't like to have my name in the papers, but feel out of justice to suffering humanity I should tell others of the good I obtained from Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills and Ointment.

"For years I was troubled a great deal with sick headaches and was often so bad that I could not work. Being advised to try Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills I did so and can say they have brought about a complete cure. From the first I found that one pill cured my headache quickly every time. I was also a victim of itching piles and found Dr. Chase's Ointment the most satisfactory treatment I ever used. It brought relief almost instantly."

You won't be satisfied with mere temporary relief when you know your headache can be completely cured by using Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. One pill a dose, 25 cts. a box, all dealers; or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

THE CLOSING EXERCISES OF Y. W. C. A. A GREAT SUCCESS

Enjoyable Programme Given by the Pupils in the Collegiate Institute Last Evening.

ATTENDANCE LARGE

Last evening the Young Women's Christian Association held their closing exhibition, in the Collegiate Institute Assembly Hall and the event proved to be a huge success. The manner of its presentation betokened natural gifts which have been carefully and artistically developed by a very competent instructress, Miss Ivy Coventry. During the evening Miss Coventry was presented by the classes with no less than five bouquets, while the accompanist, Miss Sutton, received the same number, proving the high esteem in which the two ladies are held by the classes. In the course of the programme Mr. Charles Perkins rendered several vocal selections which received a great amount of applause. The classes are to be congratulated for the manner in which they carried out their parts. The deep interest taken in the class work was reflected in the performance given last evening.

The motley dresses and peculiar shaped hats used in the different "Folk" dances, gained much applause. The feature of the evening was the Japanese fan drill, in which sixteen senior girls dressed in Japanese costumes and carrying large coloured fans went through many delightful and pleasing gestures.

At the conclusion of the programme a vote of thanks to Miss Coventry for her excellent work, was extended by Rev. J. C. Davidson.

The following programme was rendered in a most acceptable manner:

Part One.

Fancy March—Intermediate Class.
Wand Exercises—Senior Class.
Folk Dances—Junior Class.
Club Swinging—Seniors.
Dumb-Bell Drill—Juniors.
Jumping Jacks—Intermediates.
Vocal—(Selected)—Mr. Chas. Perkins.
Parasol Song and Promenade—Juniors.

Part Two.

Japanese Fan Drill—Seniors.
Dumb-Bell Exercises — Intermediates.
Classic Dances—Four juniors.
Club Movements—Intermediates.
Vocal (Selected)—Mr. Chas. Perkins.
Swedish Folk Dances—Seniors
Marching and Wand Exercises — Juniors
Spanish Drill—Intermediates.

The evening was brought to a close by the singing of the national anthem.

Will Purchase Cement For City At $1.65 A Barrel

Nineteen thousand dollars, the estimated cost of local improvements to be carried on by the Board of Works this year, as outlined by City Engineer Hay, in a report to the committee, exceeded the appropriation by three thousand dollars, all the Board having at their disposal being $16,000. The Board met last evening, with Ald. Hicks in the chair, and there being present Mayor Morrow and Ald. Metheral, Duncan, Gillespie and Duffus. The chairman went over the list and cut out certain items which could be left over for another time. These were read by the chairman and approved by the members.

Ald. Gillespie moved, seconded by Ald. Duffus, that a new plank floor be placed on the bridge over the creek on Smith street, that Benson street be graded and that the Downie street creek be diverted if the satisfactory grant of the right of way is obtained, and that the other appropriations, as outlined by the chairman, be approved.

The estimated cost of the first of the above is $100; the second $440; and the third, $375. Other improvements approved of were as follows:

Surface drain on Simcoe street, $625.
Protection wall, Stewart and Murray streets.
Street naming boards, $150.
Grading and Water tabling $650.
Road grader, $60.
Repairs to roller engine $250.
Watering and extra labour, $625.
Snow and ice removal, $725.

Mr. T. Q. Quartermaine wrote the board asking for an increase of salary. Upon motion the matter was left over until a later meeting.

Sufficiently signed petitions for sidewalks on Stewart street, from Reid to the boundary, and on the north side of Bolivar street, were received, and ordered to be built.

It was decided by the Board of Works to purchase the city's supply of cement from the Peterborough Hardware Co. They offered to supply it in carload lots at $1.65 per barrel, with ten cents for sacks and three cents a barrel for storage. Ald. Metheral moved, seconded by Ald. Phelan that the cement be purchased at $1.65 per barrel, and that the chairman and Street Commissioner Evans look after the matter of storage.

THIS HINT MIGHT SAVE YOU MONEY

Very often the cheapest and poorest production yields most profit. Some dealers with their own profit in view try to "push" inferior preparations when Zam-Buk is asked for. They talk about "just as good," or "practically the same," etc.

Not one dealer knows what is in Zam-Buk! If any dealer tells you that something else is "just as good," ask him how he knows!

Besides, the imitation is never as good as the genuine article. When buying Zam-Buk, therefore, be sure and see the name on the packet. The name is protected by law, and therein lies your safety.

WOMAN ROBBERS

Spokane Police Says Members Admit Five Years of Country Wide Crimes by Female Marauders

ARE UNDER ARREST

Examiner Special.

Spokane, Wash., Saturday, April 30.—One of the biggest captures of criminals ever made on the Pacific coast was accomplished last night by the police when they rounded up three women and six men who admitted being members of an organized band which has operated East and West for the last five years, perpetrating hundreds of robberies. The women acted as "stalls" while the men robbed.

The gang is wanted, it is alleged, in Seattle, where they admit committing forty burglaries and holdups, and in Tacoma, Vancouver, B.C., Portland, San Francisco and Chicago for daring robberies. The arrests were made by Captain of Detectives Burns, Detectives Edward Bush and McDonald and Officer Millane.

Diamonds and other jewels worth $16,000 were recovered.

The members of the gang are: Eddie Bush, alias Thomas Howard, alias Eddie Johnson, alleged leader, wanted in Seattle for the robbery of a Green Lake grocery last November; Eddie Walters, pal of Bush and alleged accomplice in the Green Lake robbery, wanted by the Seattle police for a score of daylight burglaries; H. S. Baxter, sixty-five years old, with half a dozen aliases, wanted in Seattle and Tacoma, and in Vancouver, B.C.; Claudie Bush, alias Curtis, nineteen years old, used as a lookout, according to his own admission; Alice Bush, fifteen years old, said by the police to have been known to sell stolen jewelry and alleged to be a pickpockets' "stall"; Mary Bush, who claims to be the mother of Eddie, Claudie and Alice Bush; Alfred Melrose, Alias Ankrose, alleged pickpocket and "stall"; Thomas Brinkley, alias Guy Kingston, alleged perpetrator of several British Columbia holdups, and Emiline Payne, alias Thomas, alias Howard, alleged mistress of Eddie Bush.

In the possession of Eddie Bush, Walter and Ankrose were found diamonds and jewelry worth $8,000, and admissions from the gang indicate that much more is in their trunks in their rooms.

The first clue was obtained by trailing the "old man" of the gang to a Main avenue house. It is alleged the gang worked the residence districts by the women, well dressed, selling combs at the front door, while their accomplices entered at the rear and looted the residence.

Hold Policeman On Wife's Charge

Member of New York Traffic Squad Said to Have Attempted Suicide —A Domestic Tiff.

Examiner Special.

New York, April 30.—On the floor of the bathroom of his home, at No. 404 West 158th street, yesterday, Policeman James Tobin, of Traffic Squad C., was found by his wife in a semi-conscious condition from gas poisoning. Subsequently she had him arrested on a charge of attempted suicide. He was attended by a physician and locked up in the West 152d street station.

According to the story that his wife, Etta, is said to have told the police, Tobin and she had run into a domestic hurricane Friday evening. The couple have always been greatly attached. She usually meets him at the 157th street station of the subway every evening. Friday evening, it was said, she saw him coming up from the underground railroad with a woman. They finally went home together.

Early Saturday Mrs. Tobin discovered that her apartment was filled with gas. She investigated and found her husband on the bathroom floor. The gas was turned on. She opened all the windows, turned off the gas and summoned a physician. When she returned the gas was on again. Dr. Freedman arrived from the Washington Heights Hospital. He said Tobin was suffering from alcoholism more than gas.

Mrs. Tobin insisted at the West 152d street police station that Tobin be arrested and at her request he was held on the charge of attempted suicide. Dr. Wilson, a police surgeon, was called to examine him. He said that Tobin was not suffering from alcoholism.

Tobin will be arraigned in the Harlem Court.

SMALL MARKET

Threatening Skies Affected the Attendance —Rhubarb is Plentiful.

The threatening clouds must have caused a great many farmers to hold their produce over till some finer day as the assemblage at the market this morning was small. The feature of the market was the large quantity of rhubarb, which departed from the farmers at five cents a bunch.

The following quotations were placed before the buyers:

Rhubarb, 5c a bunch.
Asparagus, 10c a bunch.
Parsnips, 15c a peck.
Beets, 15c a peck.
Ben Davis apples, 25c a peck.
Potatoes, 45c a bag.
Chickens, $1.40 a pair.
Turkeys, $3.00 to $3.50 each.
Eggs, 19-21 cents a doz.
Butter, 28-30 cents a lb.

Miller's Compound Iron Pills, only 25 cents for 50 doses.—Wm. Madill, druggist.

DO YOU KNOW THAT THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL PATTERNS ARE THE ONLY DRAFTED PATTERNS ON THE MARKET ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ?

It's worth your while to know this. Every pattern and every size of every pattern is made from an original, drafted from the average lines and measurements of thousands of people, they're not made from a model 36 and graded up and down, the principle of which is decidedly wrong, as no woman size 40 is proportionately the same figure as a smaller woman. Therefore —— LADIES HOME JOURNAL PATTERNS are made on scientific principles and from practical measurements. Do not ask for the same size of —— LADIES HOME JOURNAL PATTERNS that you do of any others —ask our saleslady to take your bust measure. The —— LADIES HOME JOURNAL PATTERNS go by BUST not chest measure. WAS KILLED AND EATEN

Rev. H. Hopkins and Rev. H. McPherson, With a Band of Christian Natives Were Surrounded and Carried Off by Cannibal Savages —Natives Escape But Missionaries Were at Once Devoured.

Seattle, Wash., April 30.—Details of the eating by cannibals on Feb. 5 of Rev. Horatio Hopkins and his assistant, Rev. Hector Laurie McPherson, missionaries of the Presbyterian Church on Savage Island, were brought by the barkentine Mary E. Winkleman, which arrived yesterday at Mukilteo, Wash., from the Tonga Islands in the South Seas.

While the barkentine lay at Tangatabuin, the Tonga Islands, a canoe load of mission natives from Savage Island arrived at Fau, bringing news of the butchery.

The natives said that Hopkins and McPherson were teaching in the mission building, which stands on the beach in the little harbor of Savage Islands, when 200 unconverted savages, howling war cries and brandishing clubs and spears, descended on them and took thirteen prisoners. The missionaries had 20 converts in training at the time, and only nine of them escaped.

Both missionaries were bound with thongs and left lying on the beach in the tropical sun for several hours, while the savages took the native captives inland.

The cannibals then returned to the beach and carried the missionaries on a litter to the crater of the extinct volcano Van lue, in the centre of the island. There for two days and nights they held a corroboree.

At times their dancing and revelry could be seen plainly by the fugitive Christian natives.

While most of the cannibals were sleeping the captive natives escaped. Their going was hastened by the sight of two of the cannibal chiefs donning the missionaries' clothes. The clergymen had already been eaten.

The Winklemen brought news of a general revival of the old-time religious customs in the Tonga, the Society, the Solomon and the Cook groups. The natives are holding dances and feasting on human flesh as they did in the days before the white men interfered.

SALVATION ARMY DOINGS

The meetings at the Salvation Army Temple during the week end should be interesting. The band will be in charge of the meetings and hence there will be an extra amount of music and song.

The open air services will be a special attraction during the day. Sunday morning the open air service will be held on Bolivar St. from 10 a.m. till 11 a.m.. Sunday afternoon on George St. from 2 to 3. Sunday night the open air service will be held on Charlotte St. near the National hotel.

The services in the Temple will be at the usual hour. The meeting Sunday afternoon will have several special features.

The boys' band recently started will be commissioned and probably treat the audience with a short selection.

The senior band, these who have served over 5 years as Army bandsmen, will receive long service badges. Many of the men have served 15 and up and 25 years as bandsmen.

Now to those who do not attend a place of worship Sunday, we would especially invite you to these services, which should prove helpful and interesting. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

On their return they will reside in North Bay.

The Examiner's New Serial Story Will Be a 'Thriller'

The Examiner is pleased to be able to announce that it has made arrangements for the publishing, in serial form of a splendid detective and mystery story, "The House of the Whispering Pines," from the pen of Anna Katharine Green, author of "The Filigree Ball." For the first time in the history of journalism in Peterborough a local paper has purchased the manuscript rights to a serial story; that is the story will be set up on the Examiner machines and not published in plate form as formerly. "The House of the Whispering Pines" is a thrilling story, and one that will be found of great interest to everyone.

Canada Should Meet U. S.

London, April 30.—The Morning Post discusses Sir Richard Cartwright's speech at Ottawa, which it thinks interesting in view of the circumstances. Reciprocity between Canada and the United States is again to the fore, and it says that on Cartwright's hypothesis, that a policy of alliance with the United States only means safeguarding the heart of the empire. Canada's immediate imperial duty would then logically appear to be to meet the United States' overtures.

Montreal Girl Shot.

Burliington, Vt., April 30.—Jealous because Jessie Lebar, the girl to whom he was to be married, was receiving attentions from his companions-in-arms, Wm. West, first sergeant of Troop K, Tenth United States Cavalry, a colored regiment stationed at Fort Ethan Allen, shot and killed her at her boarding-house in Winooskie yesterday, and then rode back to the fort and gave himself up. The Lebar girl was of such light complexion as to pass for a white woman. She was 22 years old, and came from Montreal about three months ago.

THERE WAS A MOTIVE.

Inquest on Death of Stoney Creek Farmer Opened.

Stoney Creek, April 30.—A motive and much circumstantial evidence were brought to light at the inquest, opened at Stoney Creek last night into the death of Elijah J. Finton, who was murdered in his barnyard last Tuesday.

It was shown that there had been trouble between the son, Thomas, and deceased for some time previous to the murder. The father had complained often to George Millen that neither his son nor his son's wife were treating him right.

Blood stains were found on a pair of overalls worn by the son on the morning of the murder. He could not account for the blood and has made several contradictory statements.

Medical evidence showed that deceased came to his death by being struck on the head.

Thomas Finton did not appear at the inquest, which will be continued Thursday evening next. Thomas is aged 22, is married and has one child. Dr. B. E. Thompson was the coroner. S. F. Washington appeared for the crown, and George Lynch-Staunton for Finton.

Smallpox From Clothes.

Toronto, April 30.—Four cases of smallpox have been discovered by the Health Department, all of which are traced to a new suit of clothes purchased and worn by a young man on St. Helen's avenue.

Fish Saved Boy's Life.

Kingston, April 30.—While playing on the edge of Delta Creek, Alson Whitmore, the four-year-old son of Samuel Whitmore, fell off the bank into seven feet of water. He had gone down the second time when Mary Jane Watson, a 15-year-old girl, fishing near by, ran to his assistance. Just as she started, a fish caught her hook, and her scream for help and the swimming of the fish around the boy's submerged arm, saved his life. The line became entangled around his hand and arm and she dragged him against the swift current, to safety. It was some hours before he was brought around again.

Spend Millions In Montreal.

Montreal, April 30.—According to D. B. Hanna, third vice-president of the Canadian Northern Railway, the company contemplates an expenditure of between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 in Montreal in connection with the establishment of suitable passenger terminals in that city. It is also intended to have a fleet of at least three fast steel freight boats connect with the vessels of their Atlantic service on the arrival of these at Montreal, so as to have import package freight from the big liners rushed to given points on the great lakes.

Attractions For the "Ex."

Toronto, April 30.—Mr. G. H. Gooderham, president of the Canadian National Exhibition, has written to the Exhibition offices from England, enclosing the agreement between the British Government and the Exhibition whereby the band of the Grenadie Guards will play at this year's Industrial Exhibition. Mr. Gooderham also states that Vickers, Sons, & Maxim will have an exhibition of every type of projectile and models of every gunboat in the British navy.

Tried to Poison Ten Men.

Vienna, April 30.—The mystery of the origin of the wholesale poisoning plot directed against recently promoted officers of the Austrain army is cleared by the confession of Lieut. Adorf Hofrichter. He sent capsules containing prussic acid to ten members of the general staff, accompanied by a circular recommending their use for ill-health. One of the officers addressed took the preparation and died almost immediately.

Fire at Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, April 30.—Fire which broke out at 2.30 last night in the six-storey warehouse of Foley Bros & Larson, wholesale grocers and manufacturers of biscuits and confectionery, on Market street east, completely gutted the west half of the building and caused a loss of $125,000. The building is separated by a fire wall in the centre.

She Broke Out In Song.

Fresno, Cal., April 30.—Ethel Boylin, aged 16 years, detained in the county jail for alleged incorrigibility, Thursday sang herself to freedom. Her voice so appealed to the assistant district attorney that he made a plea to release her on parole, saying, that he believed the girl would win fame as a prima donna if her voice was trained.

Cobalt Beer Over Strength.

Cobalt, April 30.—Cobalt is still having trouble with its local option beer. Some samples recently secured by Inspector Morrison and tested by the general analyst, show a percentage of alcohol as high as 7 per cent. It is likely that prosecutions will follow.

Cobourg Licenses.

Cobourg, April 30.—The West Northumberland License Board yesterday renewed all the Cobourg licenses.

NOW SOLD IN CANADA

In Less Than Three Years Parisian Sage, the Splendid Hair Tonic, is Sold All Over Canada.

There is a reason for the phenomenal sale of Parisian Sage in Canada during the past three years.

And the reason is plain to all. Parisian Sage does just what it is advertised to do.

Ask Wm. Madill about it, he will tell you that they rigidly guarantee it to cure dandruff, stop falling hair or itching scalp in two weeks or money back.

There is no reason whatever why any man or woman should fail to take advantage of the above generous offer.

But one thing that has made Parisian Sage so famous is its peculiar power to turn the harsh, unattractive hair that many women possess into luxuriant and radiant hair in a short time. Women of refinement the country over are using it and it never disappoints.

Sold everywhere, and in Peterborough by Wm. Madill, for 50 cents a large bottle.

ASKED FOR OVERDRAFT.

To Finance A. & G. W. Ry., Says G. D. Minty on Examination.

Winnipeg, April 30.—The way in which the A. & G. W. Railways was financed at incorporation was divulged yesterday by G. D. Minty, under examination by W. A. Walsh. It was in effect that W. R. Clarke, on Oct. 2, 1909, went to Mr. Fraser, manager of the Merchants' Bank at Edmonton, verbally arranged for an overdraft of $50,000, and then paid in marked checks into this same bank the $50,000 capital subscribed stock of the company. Then the shareholders held a meeting on that same day and voted to W. A. Clarke $50,000, payment for expenses incurred while organizing the company. Consequently the A. & G. W. had no money.

Minty explained that Attorney-General Cross' connection with the project was simply as an officer of the Provincial Government, interested for the Government in the railway project. He declared that, to his knowledge, no member of the Alberta Legislature, or of the Government, was financially, directly or indirectly interested in the A. & G. W.

R. B. Bennett took the witness in hand. Minty declined to answer, claiming privilege as a solicitor for the Canada West Construction Co. He told Bennett that W. R. Clarke was waiting for his brother, B. R. Clarke, to get all financial benefit possible from the construction company, as W. R. was expecting to get great results for himself when the vast north country was opened by the railroad. He said he knew Clarke had spent more than $50,000 in furthering the railroad project, and had never spoken of any political contributions having been made.

CORNWALL CATASTROPHE

Inmates Have Little Chance or Escape—One Family Wiped Out—Cause Is Unknown, But Flames Spread With Awful Speed—Other Buildings Burn and Loss Will Total a Quarter of a Million.

Cornwall, April 30.—Twelve human lives blotted out and a property loss that $250,000 will scarcely cover is the record of a fire which broke out at 3 o'clock yesterday morning in the Rossmore Hotel, destroyed that structure and damaged a number of leading business establishments.

It is Cornwall's second fatal hotel fire within 13 months and one of the worst holocausts of its kind in recent years in the Dominion.

The Dead.

Charles Gray, manager Ives Bedding Co.; his wife and two children, aged 6 and 8.

Ben Fielding, accountant, Sterling Bank.

Charles Gagne, teller Bank of Montreal.

Mrs. Taylor W. Archibald, aged 70, an invalid.

Wm. Hume, waiter, of Montreal.

Ernest Buller, bellboy, of Montreal.

Marie and Jennie Oliver, waitresses at the hotel for twelve years.

Mrs. Goeller of Philadelphia, a kitchen employe.

Breaking out in the Rossmore Hotel the fire spread with great rapidity, baulking for hours the efforts of the fire brigade and hundreds of citizens.

Three score persons, 30 being commercial men, and the others permanent guests and employes of the hotel, clad only in their nightrobes, reached the ground by means of sliding down ropes, with lacerated and bleeding hands.

One entire family was wiped out in the catastrophe, the remains of C. C. Gray, managing director of the Ives Modern Bedsteads Co., with his wife and two children, having been found in the smoldering runs. Mrs. Gray was in delicate health, and, while the facts will never be known, it is believed that it was in a desperate effort to save Mrs. Gray and the children that Gray himself perished. Of the six bodies found last night, four are thought to be those of the Grays. Judge O'Reilly saw him and held the door open for him until he himself was driven forth by the blinding smoke and rolling flames, and the last seen of Gray he was turning into the room where his wife and family were.

Pitiful, too, was the death of Mrs. Taylor W. Archibald, an aged invalid, who had for years resided at the Rossmore, and who through her weakness and infirmity, was unable to escape when the warning was given.

Cool heroism on the part of William Fitzgibbon, president of the Cornwall Lacrosse Club, resulted in the saving of several lives. Aroused by the watchman's outcry, he woke up young Fielding and showed him how he might escape. Fielding, however, became confused and trying to get out by the regular exit, was suffocated.

Fitzgibbon then broke a skylight above the servants' quarters and by means of a ladder managed to bring three of the dining-room girls to the roof when all fled to safety in their nightclothes.

Judge O'Reilly and his wife had a narrow escape in their plucky rescue of young Harry, their son, who has been ill with pneumonia. They were able to drag the boy from his room and then over the roof of Larmour's dry goods store beyond the reach of the flames.

Charles C. Gray was a former Torontonian, and two brothers, F. M. Gray, barrister, and R. A. L. Gray, electrical supplies, live there.

Strangely coincident with the fire is a judgment given yesterday morning by the Court of Appeal in a case arising from the death of George Hagle of Philadelphia. Hagle was burned to death in the fire which destroyed the Windsor Hotel at Cornwall early on March 23, 1909. In that fire three perished and four were badly injured. The money loss was about $25,000.

Benj. Fielding, aged 32, accountant in the Sterling Bank, one of the victims, belonged to Liverpool, Eng., and came here about a year ago, from the Toronto branch of the bank.

Charles Gagne, teller of the Bank of Montreal, belonged to Levis, P.Q., and came to Cornwall from Danville, P.Q., about four or five months ago.

Mrs. W. Taylor Archibald was a daughter of the late John Backus of Santa Cruz, Osnabruck, and sister of Mrs. Harrison, mother of Dr. H. J. Harrison, of Sherbrooke street, Montreal. She has one son, Frank Archibald, of New York City.

Among those who had a close call was Major Beatty, M.P., of London. He was in a room on the second floor. There was, luckily, a rope in the room, which he secured, and throwing his clothing out the window, he slid down the rope in his pyjamas.

Among those who escaped were A. R. McLennan, Toronto, brother of the late Col. R. R. McLennan, ex-M.P. for Glengarry, with his wife and child. A. Findlay, traveler for J. C. Wilson & Co., paper bag manufacturers; Capt. Harold Lump, representative of Ewings Co., spices, Montreal.

Just how it was that the fire obtained such a hold on the building before it was discovered, Coroner Hamilton will endeavor to find out in the inquest which opens this afternoon. The night clerk claims to have found fire while on his hourly rounds, when, as he stepped from the kitchen to the rotunda, he was met with a burst of fire that swept up the main stairway. He at once ran up through corridors awakening the inmates, one of whom, A. F. Hirchard, of the high school staff, rushed in his night clothes to the nearest alarm box. The hotel, of four storeys, was splendidly equipped with fire escapes, fire ropes, night watch and a watchman's clock.

Fraternal Association Meets.

Toronto, April 30.—The Canadian Fraternal Associaton, representing a membership in Canada of over 360,000, was in session Thursday and Friday, in the I.O.F. Temple Building, about sixty representatives being present.

Papers were read on "The Best Means of Forwarding the Interests of our Fraternal Societies," by W. F. Campbell, jr., grand organizer C.O.O.F.; "Adequate Rates—a Practical Experience," by Col. D. M. Robertson, grand secretary of the Sons of Scotland; and one by John Ferguson, M.A., M.D., on "The Seven Lamps of Fraternity."

The election of officers resulted: President, E. Ryan, M.D., Kingston; vice-president, John Donogh, Toronto; secretary-treasurer, Wm. F. Montague, Hamilton; counsellor, Lyman Lee, B.A., Hamilton; representative on executive committee, John Aldridge, Toronto; chairman of medical section, H. S. Bingham, M.D., Toronto.

Praises Finance Minister.

London, April 30.—An article on Fielding by "M" appears in The National Review. It says that if Laurier is the grand seigneur of Canadian politics Fielding is the essential business man. The article deals mainly with the financial career of the "Minister of Surpluses," and gives him credit for taking the first practical step toward the policy of preference, one of the greatest strokes of Imperial statesmanship in the world yet. When seen "M" concludes that there is ample ground for confidence in the reflection that Fielding is not to be bullied by Germany, the United States, or any other country. He has not hitherto forgotten while furthering Canadian interests that he is also a statesman of the whole British Empire.

NERVOUS DISEASES IN THE SPRING

Can Only be Removed by Toning Up the Blood and Strengthening the Nerves.

Nervous diseases become more common and more serious in the spring than at any other time of the year. This is the opinion of the best medical authorities after long observation. Vital changes in the system after long winter months may cause much more than "spring weakness," and the familiar weariness and achings. Official records prove that in April and May neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy and various forms of nervous disturbances are at their worst, especially among those who have not reached middle age.

The antiquated custom of taking purgatives in the spring is useless, for the system really needs strengthening—purgatives make you weaker. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have a special action on the blood and nerves, for they give strength and have cured not only many forms of nervous disorders, but also other spring troubles, such as headaches, weakness in the limbs, loss of appetite, trembling of the hands, melancholy and mental and bodily weariness as well as unsightly pimples and skin troubles.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure these nervous disorders and spring ailments because they actually make new, rich, red blood. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Eighty Years Married.

Montreal, April 30.—Pierre Forget, the oldest man in Montreal, and probably in the province, died yesterday at the age of 105 years. His wife, whom he married 80 years ago, is still living, and is 94 years old. He leaves 181 descendants. Up to a short time ago he maintained all his faculties and was able to walk around the park near his home.

Four Drown In Surf.

Victoria, B.C., April 30.—A canoe overturning in the surf between Escalante Reefs and Sunday Rocks caused the drowning of its four occupants, Maurice McArdle, his eldest son, Mr. Bond, and Mr. Luckovitch. The spot is off the west coast of Vancouver Island.

The men have been missing nineteen days.

I'M FURNACEMAN IN TWENTY DIFFERENT HOMES

That's why I claim to know something about furnaces. It's my business—to get the best possible results from the different heaters. See how I put the word "possible" before results. There's a reason. With some furnaces satisfactory heating is about impossible. So complicated is their construction they fool even an expert furnaceman. Complicated construction means furnace trouble. The house is always cold, no matter how much fuel you burn. Now, the Pease is different. It is simplicity itself because it's built right. The "Economy" Furnace is so simple that you, or the boy, or the girl can attend to it. Whether it is thirty above or thirty below zero, you can have an even, summery temperature in every room in the house. I have noticed that folks who own Pease Furnaces are a happy, contented lot, because the "Economy" certainly does cut out furnace fuss and bother. It's the perfect construction of the Pease "Economy" Furnace that counts. You want to know more about the "Economy" before investing a dollar in any heating system. Look for my talks. They will interest you.

"ECONOMY" FURNACE

City Baseball League Season To Open On Victoria Day This Year

Schedule Revised and Passed by the League at a Meeting Held at the Y. M. C. A. Last Night—Appropriate Ceremonies.

A HARMONIOUS MEETING

The City Baseball League will open on May 24th with a double-header, between the West Ends and T. A. S., and the Strathconas and Park St. A. C.

A meeting of the League Executive was held last night at the Y. M. C. A., when the schedule drawn up by the Schedule Committee was taken up and disposed of.

With the exception of changing the date of the opening game from May 21st to May 24th, and the switching around of the game on July 2nd so as to give the West Ends the home game on that date, the schedule was approved of.

The list of games will therefore be as follows:

May 24—West Ends vs. T. A. S.; P. A. C. vs. Strathconas.

May 28—Strathconas vs. West Ends. T. A. S. vs. P. A. C.

June 4—P. A. C. vs. West Ends; T. A. S. vs. Strathconas.

ARE MAKING GOOD TIME

Postmaster-General's Cable Bills Become Law—Hon. Frank Oliver's Immigration and Land Bills, Too—Railway Board's Authority Will Be Considerably Extended—Escheats Act Is Passed.

Ottawa, April 30.—The Commons did a heavy day's work yesterday and put through a number of bills.

Hon. A. B. Aylesworth's bill respecting escheats was passed. In regard to this the Minister of Justice once more referred to the inferior statutes of the prairie provinces as a result of the retention of their lands by the Dominion.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux's two bills to bring cable companies and their rates under the control of the Railway Commission were passed.

Hon. Frank Oliver's amendment to the volunteer bounty act before it was finally disposed of, involved some discussion. The bill had stood over until Mr. Oliver had time to consider several amendments proposed. He rejected all except one of small importance.

The amendments rejected were: By J. G. Turriff—To provide for the exchange of lands which prove worthless; by C. J. Doherty—to limit extension to the veterans and exclude purchasers of scrip; by Samuel Barker—To allow veterans to hire persons to perform their settlement duties; by Major Sharpe—To include civil surgeons; by Col. S. Hughes—To include Canadians who served in the war without being formerly enlisted; by John Herron—To include men who enlisted but were prevented by illness, etc., from landing in South Africa.

Mr. Oliver's immigration and land bills were passed, as well as Mr. Graham's bill regarding the taking over of branch lines for the Intercolonial, with the Senate amendment rejected.

Mr. Graham had a bill to amend the railway act put through which included bills by Messrs. Lancaster, Mr. Gehen and Mr. Papineau. The terms are to extend the authority of railway board, to include works already begun, to simplify procedure regarding stringing wires across a railway, to shorten time limit of appeal from decisions of the railway board, to widen liability of railways regarding the fencing of their property, and to limit liability of railways for loss by fire from locomotives to $5,000 over the insurance.

Yesterday morning in the House, referring to a published statement to the effect that, as Minister of Justice, he had been giving too much legal work to Mr. Shepley and to the firm with which he was formerly connected, Hon. Mr. Aylesworth said that, with regard to Mr. Shepley, he had been actuated by purely business reasons. Legal work had been sent freely to him because he had thought it would be better attended to by him than by any other legal gentleman in Ontario.

With regard to the charge that he had favored his own former firm, he had had no financial interest in that firm since he had become Minister of Justice; he had a natural interest in it because of old associations, and because his son was a member of it.

However, there was not one word of truth in the story that he was giving business to it. Before he entered public life it got much public business, but since he became a member of the House, not one dollar's worth of business had been sent to it by himself, or by any Department of the Government, so far as he knew.

Uproar characterized the meeting of the public accounts committee in the afternoon, and when Chairman Warburton left the chair at six o'clock, he terminated the stormiest meeting of the session of this usually unruly body.

The case before the committee was that of the excessive rental by the Government of the Canadian and Woods Building on Slater street, Ottawa. Major Sam Sharpe was probing into the cost of lighting the buildings. The auditor-general's report for 1908-9 shows that the Department of Public Works paid to the Woods' estate for the lighting, $9,465. The cost to the estate for the light from the local light company is less than $3,000.

The manager of the Imperial Realty Co., which manages the estate, Mr. Linton, stubbornly refused to produce the contract with the company, and was supported by Mr. Pugsley. Major Sharp accused Mr. Pugsley of acting as defendant for the witness in the box.

Mr. Pugsley said he had a perfect right to object to wrong procedure. The chairman ruled that the contract need not be produced.

The naval debate was continued in the Senate yesterday morning, when Senator Choquette opposed the bill. He is the third Liberal in the Senate to do so.

Senator David, who spoke first, strongly favored the bill and a Canadian navy.

Senator Choquette opposed the whole naval project and argued for a referendum on the question at the next general elections. He said that the policy was contrary to Liberal principles and, had Sir Wilfrid Laurier made it an issue at the elections of 1908, not five Liberals would have been elected in the district of Quebec. In 1895, he said, Mr. Brodeur was an anti-militarist and in 1902 the Premier was against the idea of a navy. Mr. Lemieux had written to Mr. Bourassa in that year against participation by Canada in the wars of the Empire, saying it was a dangerous principle.

Monorail Railway For Alaska.

London, April 30.—The first practicable application of Louis Brennan's monorail invention is to be made in Alaska, where a system of monorail railroads will be built connecting several camps.

Budget Is Now Law.

London, April 30.—The budget received the royal assent yesterday morning, becoming a law on the anniversary of its introduction.

Not more than a dozen members were present to hear the royal assent read. Both Houses adjourned until May 26.

Skyscraper Love.

On the thirtieth floor I sit,
Thinking, Nellie, dear, of you,
Who are pounding at the keys so far away;
You are on the seventh floor,
Where you still can hear the roar
Of the traffic that is surging all the day.

Once a year or so we meet
In the morning or at night
When the elevator's crowded, Nellie, dear.
If between us rolled the sea
Just as near to you I'd be
As I am while toiling far above you here.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

MOST NOVEL POST OFFICE IN THE WORLD

Is on the Boundary Between Canada and the United States and Mailing of a Letter is a Complicated Matter.

SOME RED TAPE

Examiner Special.

Beebe Plain, Vt., Saturday, April 30.—The queerest post office in North America is probably located here, where a simple wooden building shelters the offices of two countries. The structure is cut diagonally by the Canada line, being almost equally divided by the imaginary boundary. The northern half contains the post office of Beebe Plain, Quebec, and the southern half the office of Beebe Plain, Vt. They are separated only by a ten foot corridor, using this passageway and the same door in common. George H. House, postmaster, looks after the mail of the two offices. As a result of red tape in the postal regulations regarding the transfer of mails, a letter mailed at the Vermont office for the Canadian office across the hall travels 200 miles before delivery.

Previous to 1889 the United States post office was located in a dwelling house and the Canadian office in a store. In neither case was the service wholly satisfactory, but it seemed to be the best arrangement that could be made. However, in 1899 the idea was conceived of utilizing the old store, located right in the line, for both offices, and finally the present arrangement was perfected so that a most satisfatcory service has been provided.

Patrons of this double post office can do their post office business by making the call. Two doors, one on each side of the line, open into the lobby. The distance between the post office boxes of the two countries is ten feet, the international boundary line running through the space between the two sets of boxes. If a letter is by mistake dropped into the wrong box it is passed to the right office and sent on its way.

A letter posted at Beebe Plain, Vt., for Beebe Plain, Canada, will go south on the Boston and Maine Railroad from Beebe Junction, Vt., to White River Junction, 111 miles on the same route, and this continues its way to Sherbrooke, P. Q., thirty-four miles further. There it is again transferred and returns to Beebe Plain, P.Q.

That is, after having a ride of twenty-four hours and going 290 miles it arrives at its destination ten feet from where it started.

Or perhaps it goes on another train south on the Boston and Maine to Wells River, Vt., eighty miles. There it is transferred and goes back via Beebe Junction to Sherbrooke, P.Q., 114 miles, to be transferred again, and returns to the building it started from thirty-two hours before. It has travelled 228 miles.

The village has a population of about a hundred on the Vermont side and about six hundred on the Canada side. All of the places of business are on the Canada side so most of the patrons of the office are Canadians, but they are very willing to avail themselves of the unique arrangement and use either office that will give the best results.

The "line" itself is quite narrow here—in fact, it is so narrow that it cannot be seen, except where the iron posts appear. Some persons have stood in one country and written their post cards or letters in the other.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Tenders for Power House Equipment

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and marked on the envelope, "Tender for Power House Equipment," will be received at the office of the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway, at Ottawa, Ont, until 12 o'clock noon of the 25th day of May, 1910, for the equipment necessary for power house in connection with the shops east of Winnipeg, including water tube boilers, mechanical stokers, feed water heaters, engines, generators, compressors, pumps.

Plans and specifications may be seen in the office of the Chief Engineer of the Commissioners, Mr. Gordon Grant, at Ottawa, and in the office of the District Engineer of the Commissioners at St. Boniface, Manitoba.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed form supplied by the Commissioners, which may be had on application to the Chief Engineer at Ottawa, or to the District Engineer at St. Boniface, Man.

Each tender must be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed, and be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque on a chartered bank of the Dominion of Canada, payable to the order of the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway, for a sum equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender.

Any person whose tender is accepted shall within ten days after the acceptance thereof sign the contract, specifications, and other documents required to be signed, and in any case of refusal or failure on the part of the party whose tender is accepted to complete and execute the contract with the Commissioners, the said cheque shall be forfeited to the Commissioners as liquidated damages for such refusal or failure, and all contract rights acquired by the acceptance of the tender shall be forfeited.

The cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver-General of Canada, as security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms.

The cheque deposited by the parties whose tenders are rejected will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

By order,
P. E. BYAN,
Secretary.

Over $2,000 Has Already Been Subscribed For St. John's Chimes

A meeting of the Chimes Committee was held last evening, and was marked by much enthusiasm. There was a representative number present, and the project was interestingly discussed Rev. Canon Davidson acted as chairman, and Mr. Howard Hopwood acted as secretary pro tem. The following resolutions were passed:

1.—That this meeting warmly approves of the proposition to purchase a set of chimes to be placed in St. John's Tower, Peterborough, no debt to be incurred in the purchase.

2.—That we are convinced after hearing reports verbally and by letter, that Tubular bells would not meet with general approval, and that a greatly-increased subscription be raised forthwith in order to purchase a thoroughly good chime of ordinary bells, ten or eleven in number, the said chimes to cost from $4,000 to $4,500. account to subscription received.

3.—That we are thankful for the wide interest already manifested, and feel confident that this project should appeal to all citizens of Peterborough as being for the public advantage, and we hope that some of our generous citizens may enable the very best possible chimes to be purchased.

4.—That our thanks are due and are hereby tendered to Hon. Geo. A. Cox and other out-of-town subscribers for this evidence of their kind feelings for Peterborough, which are warmly reciprocated.

5.—That a committee be appointed to solicit subscriptions and carry into effect these resolutions, and that we hereby pledge our hearty support and co-operation.

The total amount subscribed is $2,070, $354 of which has been paid in cash. Rev. E. V. Stevenson of Plainfield, N.J., is among the recent subscribers.

WIFE WAS THROTTLED

Horrible Murder at Smith's Falls Early This Morning in Which Drunken Husband Took Life of His Wife.

CHILDREN SAW IT

Special Wire to The Examiner.

Smith's Falls, April 30.—Mrs. Rufus Weedmerk was strangled to death by her drunken husband about 3 o'clock this morning in the presence of her five daughters, ranging in age from nine to eighteen years. Weedmerk came home drunk during the night and started to raise a disturbance. His wife remonstrated with him and he sprang at her and throttled her. One of the children ran for help to McMillan's livery and Chief Edwards hurried to the house. They found Weedmerk sitting near the prostrate body of his wife, while the four daughters were weeping piteously over their mother. Weedmerk was born and brought up here and has been a shiftless fellow. His wife was thirty-five of age, was born in Scotland and was married to Weedmerk when very young. She has always tried to give her children a good home. The eldest daughter, eighteen years of age, is married.

License Commissioners Held Meeting Last Evening.

Last night the License Commissioners met in Inspector Stewart's office and transacted business. Considerable interest was manifested in the outcome of the meeting as it was thought that the extension of the time limit to those hotels cut off might be extended; however, there will be no further extension.

At the meeting of the License Commissioners last night, it was decided that in future all license fees from the hotels of this city, shall be paid into the Bank of Nova Scotia.

Hear Slezak

sing "Celeste Aida" in the

Edison Phonograph

The New York Tribune says:

"Mr. Slezak dominated every scene, and his clarion voice rang out superbly in the climaxes. He sang the Celeste Aida with effectiveness, and the Nile scene with fire and passion, yet always with regard for phrase."

The New York American says:

"It is but a trifling with words, of course, to say that he was the greatest Rhadames that ever appeared on the American Stage. The house was crowded and the standees out in force; yet it was Slezak, not Caruso, who sang the principal tenor role."

These comments represent the consensus of opinion of all who heard Slezak at the Metropolitan in the role of Rhadames. Could you ask for better evidence of the fact that Slezak is the greatest lyric tenor since the days of Tamagno?

He sings the "Celeste Aida" and the great arias from Verdi's "Otello" exclusively for the Edison Phonograph. The Slezak Records are Edison Grand Opera Amberols—playing longer than any other Records made.

The AMBEROLA, the newest and highest type of Edison Phonograph combines the musical beauty of the Edison Phonograph with a cabinet masterpiece of craftmanship. It is charmingly designed and finished and comes in either Mahogany or Oak to harmonize with surroundings in any home. It plays both Standard and Amberol Records. It has drawers for holding 100 Records. The price is $240. Other types of Edison Phonographs, $16.50 to $162.50.

See and hear the Amberola at your dealer's—and be sure to hear Slezak sing "Celeste Aida."
